

Pathological changes in calves that died from experimental water intoxication

Njoroge, E.M.; Maribei, J.M.; Mbugua, P.N.

Date: 1997

Abstract

The pathology of calves that died from experimental water Intoxication was investigated. Oedema of the brain and urinary bladder, and renal damage were significant pathological findings in these calves. The findings were attributed to positive water balance in calves suffering from water Intoxication.