 Before any scheme can be considered we shall want to know area of land, what is proposed regarding its development and what is the position of the British Government regarding it. It is true that we shall require capital & be anxious for an apparently desirable solution of the matter. I think that the matter should stand over until after the meeting at Addis that (2) if they wish to purchase the land make themselves acquainted with local conditions & the price of land seems to be making them so wide, but they might
