Official returning to UK by PVO Special Train from Marseilles

Expenses of official entitled to refund of difference between actual cost advanced him by C.A. and PVO Special or whether he did only receive the difference between actual and advanced and ordinary fare.

Mr. Latham

Have you any views on this please?
21/12/19

If they travel by the PVO Special, presumably they get home a day or two sooner & on the whole I would be in favour of letting them have the difference between the actual amount advanced & the PVO Special. If there is a PVO Special for officials going outwards via Bombay the converse rule should apply.

Mr. Butt

is proposed.

There have been one or two cases lately where officials East African Protectorates returning on leave via have traveled by the Peninsular & Oriental special 418 from Marseilles.

The present fare for an ordinary ticket is 29 0 3d.
The usual amount allowed by the East African Governments is 51; the cost by the Peninsular & Oriental special is 212 14 0d. We shall be glad to know whether an official is entitled to claim a refund of the difference between the actual amount advanced him in East Africa and the cost of the Peninsular & Oriental Special, or whether he should only receive the difference between the actual amount advanced and ordinary fare.

Gentlemen,

Direct

I am to ask the cost of the passage of the 1st Dec with regard to the cost of the railway fare from Marseilles to officials the E & P route who returned by the P & C special train & to inform you that in such cases they may be provided a refund of the difference of the actual cost of the special train fare the amount advanced to should be applied also to passage outward via Honolulu, where the official transfer of the ~~passage~~ ~~to~~ ~~the~~ ~~United~~ ~~States~~ by Marseilles to catch the steamer at that port.
