Dear Mr. Peterson,

I am enclosing a short aide-memoire concerning a recent Ordinance passed by the Governor of Kenya regarding the Registration of Architects and Quantity Surveyors, on which our Government has directed us to draw the attention of the Foreign Office.

According to the text of the Ordinance, the registration in Kenya of Architects and Quantity Surveyors, who are not British subjects, is left to the discretion of the Governor in Council. This does not appear to be in accordance with the provisions established by the Convention of St. Germain-en-Laye of 1919, in favour of the nationals of the signatory countries.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed: E. Prunas.

AIDE - MEMOIRE.

In the supplement to the "Official Gazette of the Colony and Protectorate of Kenya" (No. 57 of December 30th, 1935) was published an Ordinance (No. 60) "to provide for the registration of Architects and Quantity Surveyors", in which are contained some provisions which do not appear to be in harmony with the conditions laid down in the Convention of St. Germain, 1919, relating to the Conventional Basin of the Congo.

2. The application of the said ordinance would in fact appear capable of creating in Kenya a discrimination in favour of British architects and skilled assistants to the prejudice of architects and skilled assistants belonging to other States who are signatories of the said convention, though the latter has the intention of preventing discrimination of the kind, having regard to the provisions of article 3, which is conceived in the terms:-

"Sur les territoires visés à l'article 1er et soumis à l'autorité de l'une des Puissances signataires, les ressortissants de ces Puissances signataires ou des Etats, Membres de la Société des Nations, qui adhéreront à la présente Convention, jouiront indistinctement et sous la seule réserve des restrictions nécessaires au maintien de la sécurité de la l'ordre public tant pour la protection de leurs personnes et de leurs biens que pour l'acquisition et la transmission de leurs propriétés mobilières et immobilières et pour l'exercice de leur profession du même traitement et des mêmes droits que les ressortissants de la Puissance exerçant son autorité sur le territoire".

3. In order to avoid this condition of affairs it would perhaps be advisable if the competent British authorities could kindly study the possibility of introducing into the text of the above-mentioned ordinance some alterations which would permit architects and skilled assistants, who are nationals of States which are signatories of the Convention of St. Germain, to register their/their documents of professional qualification and thus be able to practice freely their profession under conditions similar to those required in the case of British architects and skilled assistants.

MINORITY REPORT

I have signed the Report subject to the reservation that I consider that the Bill would be materially improved by the adoption of the further amendments hereinafter mentioned and explained.

2. Clause 2 (new numbering) would appear to render it illegal for persons in salaried positions who are now entitled to designate themselves by such terms as Architectural Assistant, Architectural Draughtsman, Quantity Surveying Assistant, and so forth to continue to practice their skill under those designations and as they possess the qualifications required for admission to the register of Architects or Quantity Surveyors. It is to be noted that one of the objects of the Bill is desirable to obviate such difficulty. With this aim "practise" should be defined so as to be confined to the practise of those architects and quantity surveyors who receive fees from clients in payment for services rendered, or, alternatively, that salaried employes and pupils and apprentices be excluded from the provisions of Clause 2 (new numbering) by adoption of the following provision or a provision of similar import, in that Clause:

"Nothing in this Bill shall be deemed to prohibit any person who is employed by an architect or a quantity surveyor as a salaried assistant or as a pupil from using the title architectural or quantity surveying as the same may be to describe the position which he holds."

3. Clauses 7 and 8 (new numbering) would, in effect, admit all persons who are now practising as architects and quantity surveyors to the register whether they are qualified or not. In my view this would defeat one of the main objects of the Bill for many years. I consider that it would be preferable to admit only those who satisfy the Board that they are qualified or have had long experience, and to provide in Clause 2 (new numbering) for that Clause not to have effect until four years have elapsed from the date on which the Ordinance is brought into force. The period of four years would be adequate to enable all the younger men who are practising and who cannot satisfy the Board regarding their qualifications, to qualify if they have the capacity to do so. The older men who have been practising in the Colony for many years but who have not the requisite academic or other qualifications for admission to the register under Clauses 9 and 11 (new numbering) can be provided for by amendments to Clauses 8 and 10 as set forth below.

In my opinion, therefore, the Bill would be improved by the adoption of the following additional amendments or ones having a similar import:-

New Numbering.

Clause 2, line 2. Replace the words "six months" by the words "four years".

Clause 7. Delete.

Clauses 8 and 10, para (a), line 1. Replace the words "six months" by the words "six years".
