absence of any other information from the League Secretariat, I am hopeful that fear of trouble under which some have been eliminated.

I have that certain persons through the good good opinion as myself of having not received any energy and capacity. If he remains here enough in this sense he should be able to effect something towards improvement and prevention under-works. According to my information, however, whatever may be the spirit of the League Secretariat, it has not yet been decided to be compelled to leave the premises in the course of the local committee work. Officially, they cannot be removed, but they have not been reported by the League Secretariat to the League.

His Highness Ras Tafari,
 Heir Apparent to the Throne of Ethiopia.

From Mr Cloud Russell,

His Britannic Majesty's Minister Plenipotentiary

After Greetings.

Your Highness,

I have received a telegram from the Governor of Kenya to inform us that Dejazmatch Assafau had a meeting with the British officers on the frontier on July 25th. The British Officers have confidence in Dejazmatch Assafau and believe he will restore order in the country. Therefore, in order to help him, the British troops have left the walls at Gaddaduma and have gone back to Moyale. This is in accordance with what I promised Your Highness in the name of the British Government. I am very glad the matter has been quickly settled. Now it is very important that Dejazmatch Assafau should remain in the country and restore order, and not come away before everything is well. Also he should put good soldiers at Gaddaduma, so that it may not be necessary for the British troops to return there in order to drive away the shiftas as happened before. I hope Your Highness will send orders to Dejazmatch Assafau to do this.

Salutations,

Signed Cloud Russell.
