I first saw Mr. Webster on the 8th of Jan 1907 on which day I travelled from Nairobi in order to Mombasa with him.
He was then looking thin, worn and very ill
On the way to the Coast he spoke very little and eat practically nothing. When it was time to talk he did so in very sparse, like any other sane person.

I first saw Mr. Webster on the 8th of Jan 1907 on which day
I travelled from Harwich to Paris to Montrose but him He was then in a thin, worn and very old to the way to the Coast. He spoke very little and eat
practically nothing. When he had a talk he did so in my opinion, like any

We left Montecce on Feb 2nd '07 in S.S. President and occupied the same Cabin Before we had been at sea forty eight hours Mr. Webster began to pick up and this improvement was maintained the whole voyage home but other fellow passengers we both went on shore at Port Said, Genoa, Algiers & Lerbon. He thoroughly enjoyed these things but being weak got tired very easily.

Mr. Webster played a very good game of Bridge and from Port Said played regularly every morning, afternoon & evening

I necessarily saw a great deal of him between Jan 31st '07 & March 2nd '07 and never once during that period saw or heard of anything which lead me to think Mr. Webster was ill as loud as any man or woman on board the S.S. Ship
