I am however ready to concede that it is not the intention of the Government to take any steps to take over the management of the Tanganyika Railway.

Dear reader, I wish to thank all correspondents in connection with "Kennel Notes" for their interest in the matter, and for the information supplied by their correspondents. The "East African Standard" is the official organ of the East African Kennel Club.

Now I have something in hand that will be of great interest to many dog lovers. I write as I said I would, direct to Messrs. Milburns to try and get information as to the "Blue Liquid" as a cure for ticks. I have had a very lengthy report, and I am indeed grateful to Mr. Milburns for his civility in answering my letter so promptly.

To start with, Mr. Milburns assures me that the "Liquid" will not do away with the grip in the blood of both Biliary fever and distemper and I am quite sure of this.

I have never in the country by a tick-borne disease therefore will be clearly satisfied if not the same as tick fever termed by you. (I called it tick fever, I should have written Biliary).

I am not acquainted to any extent with the conditions in East Africa. However, we feel particularly anxious to assure you that you can use Blue Liquid in preference to Trypan Blue. In the first place there are no all effects as one needs after the infection.

Secondly the medicine is easy to administer and does not need a qualified veterinarian as a usually necessary when giving this in the early stages of the disease. That is one of the most important points and one of our best features that there is no need to give the disease to be advanced more cases have to be given, which means that the grip of the disease can be destroyed.

From actual experience, and we assure you we are not leading you up any new dog, but truly on these last few days I looked as if the case was beyond help and that nothing on earth would pull them through. Their bones were full of Biliary matter and insects forming the main part of the swelling and the face of Blue Liquid, improvement was seen, and with a continuation an essential cure.

We are sending you a lengthy letter in a few days to give you a few details in order that you may be assured in your mind of the results obtained, and we attach a few testimonials which have been written, and I am sure you are assured you certainly should be so far as your concern.

This reference to your illness of Amelias, you expect shortly we hope, should you get a case of distemper you will use this preparation, but we must tell you that it can be given as a preventive measure and a dose should be given every 4 days for the first six months, and after that once a month until the dog is 18 months old. We should not advise it being used after this time, but in case of sickness a dose, No. 1, will save our Sole Agents for East Africa for this and all our other preparations, and for your information we must tell you that their stock is fresh.

We do not think we can add further to this opportunity, but trust to have the pleasure of hearing further from you and also hope that if you get the results which we hope that you will, that for the sake of dog owners in East Africa, you will let our Little of the South, you will recognize the name of the "Blue Liquid" in the weekly "E. A. Standard" and in any other way you are able to do so.

I also received several letters from the north and south, and the liquid both in cases of dog fever and biliary fever. Well, there you are! I have had a very lengthy report, and I am indeed grateful to Messrs. Milburns for his civility in answering my letter so promptly.

To start with, Mr. Milburns assures me that the "Liquid" will not do away with the grip in the blood of both Biliary fever and distemper and I am quite sure of this.

Museum Scheme.
SIR ROBERT'S IDEAL.

Twelve months ago today, on Friday 10th 1925, Sir Robert Coryndon passed away, leaving behind him a record of services to his country and to the people of Kenya which will live for ever in the hearts of those who were fortunate enough to know him.

The memory of that great personality, his sterling character and his kindly but firm personality, his high sense of duty and his unflinching courage, will live for ever in the hearts of those who were fortunate enough to know him.

As will be gathered from the above, Sir Robert Coryndon has left behind him a record of services to his country and to the people of Kenya which will live for ever in the hearts of those who were fortunate enough to know him.

The Colony is growing, and we are a large number of children, growing up in this Colony and they are doing with us many of the things which we are proud to have done. It is our duty to do our best to give them a good education, and to give them a good character, and to give them a good health.

Using the least we can do to push the idea by giving away as many as we can afford to towards the proposed National History Museum.

The present intention is to erect on a suitable site in the Capital of the Colony a Museum building which will serve as the central feature of a Memorial Hall containing national trophies. It is intended to be a building of a high standard of architecture, and to be a fitting memorial to the services of Sir Robert Coryndon.

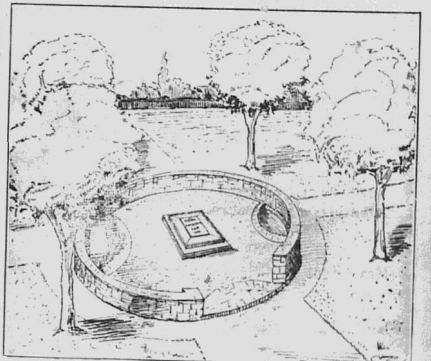

The Memorial scheme before the East African territories in general, and Kenya in particular, has a unique opportunity to create an educational centre which will not only show the economic and historical progress of the country, but will also be a fitting memorial to the services of Sir Robert Coryndon.

LONDON CONTRIBUTION.
Major Walsh informs us (page 24) that the late General Sir Robert Coryndon, G.C.B., and C.M.G. has been named in the obituary notice in the Standard of London, and that with East African interests, who have not yet contributed are invited to send their cheques to Major Walsh, Honorary London Secretary to the Fund, at 6, Grosvenor Gardens, W.1.

H. E. SIR EDWARD GRIGG'S APPEAL.

February 7th 1926.
I am happy to begin the printing of your appeal, and to feel that the first anniversary of Sir Robert Coryndon's death, is a fitting opportunity to begin the printing of your appeal, and to feel that the first anniversary of Sir Robert Coryndon's death, is a fitting opportunity to begin the printing of your appeal.

Conference Cable to Lady Coryndon.

HIS GREAT SERVICES.

Sir Robert Coryndon is buried in the New Cemetery, Nairobi, in the heart of the country to which he devoted the last years of his life. He was born and reared in New Zealand, and he spent his early years in the colonies, where he was fortunate to have the opportunity of serving his country in various capacities.

The members of the Governor's Council desire with me to send you a message of sympathy on this first anniversary of Sir Robert Coryndon's death. In the past we have been fortunate to have known him, and we are proud to have known him.

From the architectural point of view, Kenya is fortunate in being able to obtain a memorial in sympathy with the national features of the surrounding area, which will add to the simplicity and beauty of the Cemetery.

It is understood that the Municipal authorities are contemplating the acquisition of the Memorial Hall, and that the Government are prepared to contribute towards the cost of the building.

FESTS FOR LUBRICANTS.

The Condition of Oil in an Engine Sump.

SIMPLE METHODS

One of the jobs frequently made against any petrol engine was that the oil consumption was the best indication of its health...

Now, the importance of having an oil of suitable viscosity has been much discussed, and it is generally admitted that a suitable viscosity is not the only property called for in a lubricant...

It must be understood, in the first place, that oil may lose its power of lubrication through use or through age...

It may be partially sheared and carry particles of carbon and other impurities in suspension...

It may also be attacked by petrol which has entered the sump...

It may even be the bedding on the piston rings...

The likelihood to suggest a test for the presence of a certain quantity of water in a sample of motor oil...

It is a good plan to place one drop of oil in a compound of white blotting paper...

Another method is to place one drop of oil in a test tube...

The viscosity of an oil is a measure of its resistance to flow...

plied to some cars. In this appliance the oil before it drains to the sump...

These facts clearly reveal the importance of refilling, and it is to be hoped that refills will now make their appearance on small cars.

SIR ROBERT CORRYDON.

That dig foundation deep for roads in our up.
Any more than mountainous gain.
Batters fall by their own hand.
In a twelve months' period so full of misadventure and of history in the making that it does not seem as if any more could be added to the records of Times. Yet despite the proceeds of them we are open a moment to recall the man and his character the kindly spirit that made the beloved and trusted advertisement and the generous and unselfish interest in his work in East Africa. He was known and he was respected wherever he went. His love of the continent of the Continent, the people and their problems brought to him a profound appreciation of the value of stability in the change of aims and policies progress, in the maintenance of peace and in the maintenance of justice. Kenya. The power house of Eastern Africa, he was fond of regarding the country and along his line of thought and hope there are being evolved and applied to day. It will always be a tribute to the worth of Sir Robert as a man and to his merits as an administrator for that within the short space of three years he succeeded, unaided, in impressing his personality upon the minds not only of the immediate public whose interests he watched and served but the less immediate public at Home and overseas who followed the progress of Kenya with a critical eye. It may be true, as Royd King writes, that in this generation there is no real appreciation of the work of any man who dig foundations deep and that we may not always realize the bulk and majesty of the hills until we reach the plate, but in our case it is possible for those who came into contact with Robert Corrydon to associate with his simplicity, sincerity and consistent enthusiasm for good work and justice, that the present generation will not fail in this tribute to his memory.

A GOOD NAME

Wherever the two words—DODGE BROTHERS—appear, they stand as a symbol of exceptional motor-car value. They call up a picture of a particular kind of motor-car. Or, to be exact, a particular kind of motor-car—mechanism, which people have come to associate with DODGE BROTHERS.

The same has come to suggest integrity—integrity in the car and in the manufacturer and business methods of the builder.
 DODGE BROTHERS are keenly alive to this fact. They realize that the persistence of their "reputation" rests upon the continuation of this good name.
 They realize that such a name is a perpetual promise which must be perpetually fulfilled by a fine and fine product.
 As long as their name is attached to their motor-car, DODGE BROTHERS may be depended upon to safeguard its value.
 As long as they build motor-cars they will be the best motor-car DODGE BROTHERS can build.

A GOOD NAME

Whenever the two words—DODGE BROTHERS—are seen, they stand as a symbol of exceptional motor-car value.

They call for a picture of a particular kind of motor-car, which people have come to associate with DODGE BROTHERS.

The name has come to suggest integrity—integrity in the car, and in the manufacturing and business methods of the DODGE BROTHERS are keenly alive to that fact.

They realize that the permanence of their business rests upon the continuance of that good name.

They realize that such a name is a perpetual promise which must be perpetually fulfilled by their and their product as long as their name is attached to their motor-cars DODGE BROTHERS may be depended upon to safeguard and protect it.

As long as they build motor-cars they will be the best motor-cars DODGE BROTHERS can build.
