THE EVOLUTION OF

The Ford one Ton Truck

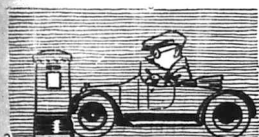

Economy is without doubt the keynote of the hauling problem as it now exists in Kenya. There is no longer any great difficulty in securing trucks that will get goods from one point to another. But economical, and at the same time efficient haulage, hinges upon the relation of the truck of the average load.

Items to be considered in the purchase of a truck are—Interest on investment, depreciation, repairs, fuel, tyres, and all expenses commonly grouped under the heading of "upkeep." The total divided by the total number of ton miles enables the owner to gauge delivery cost, and to determine whether that cost is high or low.

A FORD means greater dividends because of its long life, low upkeep costs, and the greater tonnage it can move at much smaller cost than heavier vehicles.

RETIRED CIVIL SERVANTS.

Government is again considering methods which may be undertaken to induce the retired Civil Servant to spend the leisure period of his life in the country to the service of which he has devoted his more than twenty years. It will be remembered that, with a similar end in view, steps were taken some time ago to remove restrictions against the holding of land by officers. The intention of the Executive Member in pressing upon Government the desirability of promoting work which will induce the favourable nature of the retired Civil Servant has everypart in his favour or it is regrettable, the doubt regarding its practicability only arose when the consideration of the scheme in its application to land was extended to the purchase of undeveloped character. Land may be available for the Civil Servants who retire during the next ten years. For instance, but at the end of that time it might be impossible to acquire in some form by those candidates for the very simple reason that great value had been alienated. We are not inclined to place too great emphasis upon the difficulty of such a change because there are other objections which will develop with the country, and as the value of any scheme and we believe, too, that the increase in settlement and the progress of the Colony towards a more permanent provement, accompanied by the progress of the amenities, comforts, pleasures and consolations of life in a civilized community, will prove a sufficient attraction to retired Civil Servants without the aid of special means of inducement. But at the present time it is in the interests of the country to endeavour to retain in its service a body of men who, having given their best years in honourable endeavour, have acquired a knowledge and experience of the problems of the country which we as a community, can ill afford to lose. At the present time there is still possible the dividing line between the official and the non-official communities and we are of the opinion that the maintenance of an admirable division is encouraged by the system which a man, having served the interests of Government, draws a pension at a certain age and at encourages him to seek retirement at Home or elsewhere. The very existence of a scheme which will induce the Civil Servant to spend his years of leisure in the country where he has performed his best work, involves the maintenance of a department which will be able to do the work which he has performed in his own country, and to take the dividing line to wipe out the idea that the Civil Servant, when Government aid is not the temporary servant of a Government, dependent with no other tie to Kenya with whom he is connected, but a man who is engaged in his own home. The state of the point of view of the Government is now, however, as the progress of physical energy and mental vigour to create a permanent home in Kenya, can be induced to regard Kenya in that light instead of a place in which he performs several months of service before returning elsewhere. We are not inclined to place too great emphasis upon the difficulty of such a change in outlook with the progress of the continent of East Africa as a whole, and the progress of the Colony towards a more permanent

A Resume of Current Topics.

EUROPEAN GROWN SESAME

[By "Bertrice"]
Market crop fetching a good price and it is reasonable to expect in countries suitable to be grown in which Europeans have settled, it will not be obtained more careful attention. There is no more laborious than the sowing, millions of acres of which are grown in India and the Far East and it was undoubtedly the first of its kind here to be cultivated by man.

In all ancient history or tradition of the East mention is made of, perhaps the most famous reference known to Europeans being the Arabian Nights tale of Aladdin and his magic formula for treasure called "Open Sesame".

ALREADY ACCLIMATISED.

In East Africa it has already been produced extensively in small patches by native cultivators, and is usually to be found on arid or semi-arid lands. But because of modern treatment and culture on a large European scale with up-to-date implements and skilled technique.
To do so one only wants to understand the nature of the product and its methods of growth. Once these are mastered there comes a distinct probability of it taking its proper place in tropical or sub-tropical rotations with such crops as bananas, cotton, etc. European markets, and the question arises, can it be grown in increasing demand for olive oil and seeds suitable for all sorts of manufacture.

MODERN METHODS.

There are many varieties of this plant, but it is enough for our illustration to deal with the known commercial sort, namely the black sesame growing, which is in height and taking roughly six months to mature. The variety can be sown by drills or broadcast, and requires only reasonably fertile soil, ranging from sandy to black cotton, but though the soil is not fertile, it may require a top-dressing of superphosphate or some other fertilizer. It is a rapidly growing ground crop, and a regular sowing gives a heavy rainfall is necessary, and in many parts of Kenya it should be sown in the rainy season of the short rains.

BARBERCUT HARVESTING.

Once the sowing is podding and the sesame pods are disintegrating towards ripeness it ought to be machine-cut with a reaper and loader; after which it should be stacked and sent dry carried to a safe place for further maturing before threshing commences.

A combined harrow of simple dimensions would be the best sowing machine for these countries, and eventually if no threshing machine is available it may be done with bills or abradant steel. It may be of interest to see a very simple one available in the colony generally. A number of estimates are available for them for sowing, but this type of implement is also of particular value to the general farmer growing a variety of crops. He can use it to plant and bag them successively, and it is a most valuable machine.

To anyone specializing in seed production a harrow or two is a valuable implement. Wheat, maize, peas and many other classes of products can be sown and thoroughly prepared for market on the smallest of a centimeter foot of such a machine, and then swept up into bins with a minimum of trouble.

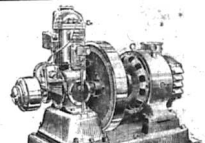

YIELDS AND PRICES.

A quarter of a ton of clean sesame and upwards is the usual yield on fair land and has a market value of £2 or 40, the average quotation being about £22 per ton in Europe. The straw is of no value except as a manure, but owing to the quickly maturing nature of the crop the feed, which does not exhaust heavily may be with modern tractor machinery prepared for a following crop of some other character and bring in a further contribution to the income of the farm during the ensuing rains.

As with all crops, care must be taken to watch for certain pests, in Kenya, and it is the best practice to have the above sort of its pestiferousness, and to prevent practically a new and highly important European source of its different districts of varying soil-climate and elevation will always show some special such as for example, large or shorter periods of great droughts, and so on, and the main point to stress for is the proper cultivation.

How Fast Does Your Car Depreciate?

It isn't only use which depreciates a car—when you buy you want to be certain that the makers are not going to produce an entirely new model next year and thereby lower the second-hand value of your car to a very large extent. STUDEBAKER have adopted a "no-yearly model" policy. As small improvements are perfected so they will be fitted to new cars but there will be no radical changes making your car out of date. Moreover the advanced design and sturdy construction of the STUDEBAKER ensure lasting value.

Double Comfort . . . Double Safety
in the exclusive Studebaker Duplex body!

The outstanding advantage of the New Studebaker Duplex body is the double comfort it provides. In 30 seconds it can be converted from an open to an enclosed car, or vice versa, through roller endowments at the sides.

But there is an added advantage—the double safety! In unavoidable accidents, 40 lives have been saved to date by the sturdy, seat-protecting Duplex body!

See the New Duplex before you buy any car. It is the latest development in motor car design. Only the New Studebaker has the Duplex body.

THE EVOLUTION OF The Ford one Ton Truck

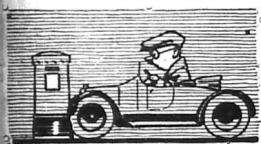

Economy is without doubt the keynote of the hauling problem as it now exists in Kenya. There is no longer any great difficulty in securing trucks that will get goods from one point to another. But economical, and at the same time efficient haulage, hinges upon the relation to the truck of the average load.

Items to be considered in the purchase of a truck are—Interest on investment, depreciation, repairs, fuel, tyres, and all expenses commonly grouped under the heading of "upkeep." The total divided by the total number of ton miles enables the owner to gauge delivery cost, and to determine whether that cost is high or low.

A FORD means greater dividends because of its long life, low upkeep costs, and the greater tonnage it can move at much smaller cost than heavier vehicles.

GOODS IN BONDS. The annual statement furnished by the Commissioner of Customs for Kenya and Uganda giving the details of the amount and value of imported goods carried over in bond into the new year provides interesting and instructive reading for the commercial community. The details published in our columns on 13th inst. show that the value of the goods carried over in bond last year was £1,416 and a half million shillings—about one-twelfth of the value of the total imports for home consumption during last year which amounted to £2,727,600. A reliable comparison can be made between the statistics of goods in bond at the end of year and those provided by the Commissioner of Customs as on Uganda 30, 1925. The latter date lies between the end of one Uganda cotton season and the other before new stocks to arrive for the coming season, the imports for which begin to come in during the last quarter of the year while the December figures include a large proportion of goods which have arrived during the forthcoming cotton season. It is of interest, however, to note that year while the December figures represent the position at the end of a season and the other commercial presentation figures represent the position at the end of a period of trade, the December value of goods in bond is about one million shillings less than the figure provided at the end of June. At the end of the 1924/25 cotton season there was a surplus stocks of goods left on hand in the bazars of Kenya and Uganda and merchants who were procuring of goods during that 1924/25 season particularly while such greater care had been taken in the grant of local credits as in 1925. It is believed that the trade position would be rigid this year. The information for the first cotton season based on a production in Uganda of 200,000 bales. The latest information from the Protectorate suggests that the coming crop will not be more than 170,000 bales and, in addition, owing to the lower price obtained by natives for seed cotton, the peasant producers are displaying a tendency to hold up their production in the expectation of a rise towards the end of the season as has been their experience in former years. The price ruling last year was £27 per bale whereas this year the average is only £18. Taking all these factors into consideration, the position may be regarded as quite sound, although it must be noted figure of stocks in bond give no indication of the quality or value of day paid goods held by the merchants in the territories. There is, however, no ground for optimism although the import position is not yet cleared completely in relation to normal trade and production, and during the next few months every eye will have to be exercised to prevent overstocking. Cotton price goods represent the barometer of native trade. In East Africa the most representative line is the East African import consignment and it is sufficient to note that they show very little change in quantity as between the June and December statistics. The position of the Uganda cotton crop, which is the dominating factor, is reasonably clear. In the Eastern Province a crop of about 80,000 bales is about ready for sale and last season 200 on the other hand there is a large volume of information from the Belganda side. There is still a large volume of purchasing power in Uganda and the retention in the ports of seed cotton and of ginned seed, particularly in the case of the Belganda, is a shrewdly over-secured of purchases. There is a shortage in the bargaining of the purchasing season particularly as it is possible today, with improved new construction and more regular internal distribution, to procure stocks much more rapidly than it was in the past. It is expected that a number of bales of

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

MR. T. G. OGDEN (MELB.) writes asking a few questions (1). He would like to know of some body who has taken up and sells turkey chicks (1). Also, whether he can purchase about thirty White Leghorns (1). (2) Better hatching and faster workers, whether they are obtainable in Nairobi.

ANSWER: In questions (1) and (2) I shall be obliged if readers will write to Mr. Goddard direct if they have the stock he requires for sale. (3) I am forwarding direct information on incubators and fowling machines.

MR. C. WELLY LOUNDEY, O. A. Alexander, Mbea, wishes to purchase some R. I. Red or Leghorns, pullets or youngsters. Will brooders having birds for sale kindly quote direct.

H. B. WILKS, P. O. Narvaas, writes that he has a couple of really good young White Leghorns (one pair) and a pair of (Ered) cockbirds, (James Australias) laying strain. They can be used for meat. They will be graded P.O.R. at Narvaas Station at 4/ each.

MR. E. M. HENDSON, P. O. Gilgil, writes: "I may interest your readers to know that Mrs.

Wainman, of Gilgil, has imported from England a Leightoncock and three hens and an egret. They have arrived in very good condition and one of the hens is already in 12. There is now a prospect of a large number of High Bonus pullets obtained in the Leightoncock and the egret are now in the same way. (2) I am looking for good buyers and pullets from Leightoncock and pullets from Leightoncock. I should like to see the names of the particular areas as I believe in a registered and stamped broiler.

ANSWER: I personally do not know of any "strain" or "breed" in which were entirely different breeds are mated to produce or outside "mixtures" that the result of such a mating can be anything but a first-class. I do know that what a gain in a mixture of two or more good and of interest in England at the present time is in the White Leghorns and certain different breeds. The effect of such mating is that all the chicks will take after one or other of the parents entirely, with no intermingling of breed. The pullets will all be of the mother's breed and the pullets of the father's breed. This diversity is of an immense value in the day-old-chick trade. It is possible to distinguish the sex of the chicks from the time they are hatched.

The Light Bonus is the best of the female side. It is a very interesting problem and I have written to the editor for further information on the subject. If any reader has more knowledge in the subject than I have I should be very pleased to hear from him or her and to publish the information for the benefit of poultry lovers.

BUFF ORPHINGTONS, I am still requiring a pair of these birds and would be glad to hear from any breeder who has some for sale. Last week I published some notes on Leightoncock, but probably owing to my bad writing, the word was spelt "Lokubama".

I have several letters from correspondents asking how the birds can be kept well and in lay during the prolonged drought. It is a most difficult matter to know what to do. I should like to see increase the green food, but green food is difficult to obtain. Also, no one should altogether but close grates are not really done.

I would suggest trying a mixture of pulled, hard and soft green, a couple of pounds with rice about occasionally. Also a good dose of Bionin (Bionin) once a week. The really best way would be to take a dose of Bionin to see how long it will last. Bionin can be used in the form of a liquid or a powder. It is a most valuable remedy for trying and getting the eggs well. I would recommend a 1/2 dose of Douglas's M. B. D.

How Fast Does Your Car Depreciate?

It isn't only use which depreciates a car when you buy you want to be certain that the makers are not going to produce an entirely new model next year and thereby lower the second-hand value of your car to a very large extent. STUDEBAKER have adopted a "no yearly model" policy. As small improvements are perfected so they will be fitted to new cars but there will be no radical changes making your car out of date. Moreover the advanced design and sturdy construction of the STUDEBAKER

ILLUSTRATION made from actual photographs of 1926 models, showing the top of a Studebaker Duplex body. This construction is a revolutionary amount of strength and safety. Only the Studebaker Duplex body is made in this way.

Double Comfort . . . Double Safety

in the exclusive Studebaker Duplex body!

The outstanding advantage of the New Studebaker Duplex body is the double comfort it provides. In 30 seconds it can be converted from an open to an enclosed car, or vice versa, through roller mechanism at the side.

But there is an added advantage—its double safety! Its unswerving chassis, so long have been saved to date by the sturdy, unshakable Duplex body.

See the New Duplex body as you buy your car. It is the latest development in motor car design. Only the New Studebakers have the Duplex body.

MOTORING TOPICS

THE NOVICE CYCLIST.

Treatment of Engine and Controls.

EXPERIENCE NEEDED.

A motor-cycle is reliable or unreliable, according to the manner in which it is controlled, says a writer in an exchange. Like all things of a similar nature it is subject to the governing influence, inherent to the governing influence, of the rider.

It is essential in the first place that the machine should be a good one, but it does not follow for that one reason that it is good that it will be efficient. It depends, as I have said, on the way in which it is ridden.

A motor-cycle usually boasts of a great treatment as the means of a more power, which in his ignorance, the novice, who in his ignorance, will usually be likely to make such blunders as may cause him dissatisfaction. Inevitably too, because he does not realize the mistakes which he is making, he will blame the machine.

CAVING AN ENGINE. This harsh treatment to which I have referred is vastly different and vastly more injurious than the treatment to which the novice is subjected, in the repetition of "caving" mistakes because of their nature they are seldom repeated.

A stock machine in a Six Days Trial, gets cased by the very nature of the trial, a racing machine in a long distance trial also gets cased, but in both these cases the control is approximate and good. Such is the punishment as the motor-cycle receives when it is being well handled for good for it, that it is always ready for the improvement of the road.

BEGINNERS' BLINDERS.

The type is very different. The punishment which he inflicts out himself, because it is done in ignorance and therefore is likely to be continued and because it produces an unaccustomed and delayed response as to the real efficiency of the means. It is talking to a young and inexperienced rider exactly. He

CAPE TO CAIRO BY CAR.

Maj. Court-Treat on His Journey.

SPIRIT OF ADVENTURE.

Major C. Court Treat and Mrs. Court Treat, returned from a motor journey from Cape Town to Cairo, were guests at a dinner of welcome given on February 10th at the Royal Automobile Club, under the patronage of the Air Officer Commanding. The main object of the expedition was to survey the possibilities of a great central highway through Africa from Cape to Cairo.

BAD DRIVING.

Then he complained that he usually happened, just before he opened up on a hill that there was a pronounced smell of burning. He thought his motor was overheating, but he had been doing so well as to climb as high as possible on an impossible gradient until he felt that his engine was being braked. There and then he began to slip his clutch and generally manipulated that engine in an endeavour to get a better start, otherwise it would have landed out under such a heavy load. It is that clutch is guilty of very bad driving. The main of the opinion that the engine was to facilitate and ease the work of an engine labouring on a different aspect.

OVER-CONTROLLING.

One of the chief mistakes made by novices is that of "over-driving." It is mainly apparent in the front wheel wobble which they set up when they get nervous, and in the slight curves followed by a new rider in the hands of a new rider. This is caused by over-driving the corrective part on the handlebars.

Novices use their controls too much. They read on their brakes instead of gently depressing them, they clutch at the controller levers, and they are heavy with their gear controls. All this, a novice or an excessive wear and discomfort, but the only action in which such mistakes can be corrected is in that of experience.

It may happen, however, that they are likely to obtain more reliability, greater efficiency, and more economy, when their practice hands have become more deft.

of a Grandey was simply justified. The car was a standard tourist, but fitted with double lock wheels. During the journey, that of the grinding in of the valves.

After discussing the loyalty of his companions, Major Treat had some complaints and criticisms. He said, had in fact kept them, but he was not sure that the engine they had encountered had been well lit up to Southern Rhodesia. He mentioned that all went well and they were slow over the rough ground, and that they were able to do 100 to 120 miles a day. Crossing rivers was also a great difficulty, and frequently they were obliged to take off the magneto and carburettor and dragging the car by rope, usually submerged, through the water. Later they encountered sand, and as a result of their experience he was convinced that motor-cars could not traverse.

EAST AFRICAN ROADS.

In Kenya and Uganda the roads were admirable, and from Nairobi to the Sudan it was like travelling through a park, and they were able to do 100 to 120 miles a day. Crossing rivers was also a great difficulty, and frequently they were obliged to take off the magneto and carburettor and dragging the car by rope, usually submerged, through the water. Later they encountered sand, and as a result of their experience he was convinced that motor-cars could not traverse.

Maj. Court Treat, responding to the Maj. and Mrs. C. Court said that in those days when we were told that Great Britain was deteriorating it was fine to see that the old spirit of adventure survived. For the journey was undertaken in a spirit of light-hearted gaiety. The Maj. Court Treat, responding to the Maj. and Mrs. C. Court said that he had always been interested in Africa, and the more he studied the country the more he was impressed by the possibilities of motor transport. Other nations were interested in the possibilities of motor transport, and especially equipped vehicles. The Stateside and the United States were doing great work for the Empire. Except in the rare case of something going wrong one never heard of them. One fact which impressed him was that the journey should be done by an ordinary tourist on a car.

Major Treat paid high tribute to the officials he met on the road, all of whom were most helpful to him. In a quiet, unobtrusive way these officials were doing great work for the Empire. Except in the rare case of something going wrong one never heard of them. One fact which impressed him was that the journey should be done by an ordinary tourist on a car.

When finally she saw the car in a garage in Cairo she realized the top was over and burnt into the car.

The following Bills received second readings in the Legislative Council last week:

New Bills.
 The Civic Protection and Land (Amendment) Bill, 1928
 The Statutory Officers (Change of Title) Bill, 1928.
 The Game (Amendment) Bill, 1928.

This year the Hon. Attorney General said the Bill, the Attorney General said the Bill, the Attorney General said the Bill, before the Law Society, a report had been issued on it and there were a great many suggestions amendments had been received. Having regard to the importance of the measure he suggested that it should be considered first by a small committee of the Council.

The Chief Native Commissioner said it was a matter for serious consideration whether a Bill of that nature was suitable for natives whose customs were entirely different from those of Europeans.

The Hon. Attorney General said the Bill would inform the members of the Council later as to the reasons of the committee to examine the Bill.

The committee that did a Bill was proposed to constitute a Select Committee to deal with the supplementary estimate the following members of the House would sit until 10 o'clock on Tuesday evening.

NO SPECIAL PROTECTION CONTEMPLATED.

An Indian Member of the Legislative Council raised the question of recent murders. He said he was going to find out what Government was doing to prevent further such a provision and was informed that Police protection is afforded to every individual.

Mr. K. B. Nahan asked: "Has the Government sent more than two Indian members to the Legislative Council? What steps is the Government contemplating to safeguard the lives and property of Indians?"

The Acting Colonial Secretary replied: "The Government is already in receipt of such reports from British India."

Police protection is afforded to all communications of the Colony.

Branch Railways.
 A Committee of the Legislative Council is to be appointed to deal with branch railway construction proposals and finance.
 In the Legislative Council last week the Hon. the Acting Colonial Secretary said that the appropriate committee appointed to investigate the Railway Survey on the basis of the information furnished by the following Branch Lines:
 Kapsal: Kericho Station; Nakuru; Nanyuki; Njoro; Thompson's Falls. and such other Branch Lines as may from time to time come under consideration.
 The committee's functions shall be to advise in regard to—
 (a) What further branch lines should be built and in what order of priority;
 (b) The arrangements necessary for the provision of funds for such construction.
 The member said that there was no need for any report of the members. It was the intention of the Government to appoint a sub-committee to investigate the questions of the returns sent to the Railway Committee.
 Capt. Kennedy held that the Government would have access to new reports as well as those of the members of the sub-committee.
 The General Manager assured the speaker that the Government would place all available information before the Committee.
 His Excellency gave the members an undertaking that Government would place all available information before the Committee.
 The motion was carried.

Keep two sticks in use

— saves money

Why? The Shaving Stick absorbs a certain amount of moisture when in use. By keeping two Gilb's Cold Cream Shaving Sticks and using them on alternate days, the Oil Cream does the moisture to evaporate, thus rendering the stick to normal. Each week longer and give more moisture to the skin.

The Cold Cream blended into Gilb's is an emulsion which does not dry the skin, is non-irritative, and goes all the delight of a cold cream massaged on the skin.

How Fast Does Your Car Depreciate?

It isn't only use which depreciates a car when you buy you want to be certain that the makers are not going to produce an entirely new model next year and thereby lower the second-hand value of your car to a very large extent. STUDEBAKER have adopted a "no yearly model" policy. As small improvements are perfected so they will be fitted to new cars but there will be no radical changes making your car out of date. Moreover the advanced design and sturdy construction of the STUDEBAKER ensure lasting value.

ILLUSTRATION made from actual photographs of cars, including one of 1929 at a Studebaker car show at the Empire Exhibition. This car was the only one to be shown in the exhibition.

Double Comfort . . . Double Safety

in the exclusive Studebaker Duplex body!

The outstanding advantage of the New Studebaker Duplex body is the double comfort it provides. In 30 seconds it can be converted from an open to an enclosed, car, or vice versa, through roller enclosures at the sides.

But there is an added advantage—the double safety! In unavoidable accidents, 36 lives have been saved to date by the sturdy, steel-shielded Duplex body.

See the New Duplex before you buy any car. It is the latest development in motor car design. Only the New Studebaker has the Duplex body.

FERTILISE WITH EPHOS

The following testimonial speaks for itself: "You asked me how the experiment with 'Ephos' turned out; 'Really I hardly like to tell you, you might fancy I was pulling your leg.' The potatoes are just simply wonderful, you have now seen such growth, even through this drought. I have grown potatoes all my life and in many districts, but never have I seen anything like this and further it is not a question of fancy seed because I purchased the seed at the door from a Kiloby hill."

The original of the above testimonial can be seen on application to J. G. ARONSON, P.O. Box 681, Nairobi.

MOTORIZING TOPICS

CARBON DEPOSIT.

Cause of the Motorist's Plague.

AND ITS EFFECT.

Carbon is one of the prime chemical constituents of motor-car lubrication and operation. In varying proportions it enters into the manufacturing of the chassis, determining the taper of the pistons, it is one of the chief constituents of petrol, which is a lubricant, and it is to be found in the composition of every best cylinder oil.

With carbon in these various combinations the motorist need not concern himself however, as it has been taken care of by the manufacturers. It is in its free or uncombined state that it calls on him to pay back the score in its retaliation and avengery.

CAUSE AND EFFECT.

Carbon deposit which is the plague of the motorist's existence, for as concerns means for removing it, it affects, results in fuel mixture either by itself with no trace is not wholly vaporised. The accumulation of carbon on the pistons and cylinder heads, cylinder walls, and sparking plugs, in an amount which interferes with the operation of the engine, almost as seriously as a deficient cooling system or faulty ignition.

When thoroughly burned carbon is a non-combustible of the base, but by virtue of its location, and by the contraction of the heat, carbon chamber prevents the heat from being transferred to the cooling system. Therefore, excessive heat, high temperature in the engine, due to this cause, will not be detected by any indicator, or by boiling water.

The most serious, indication of a badly carbonized engine is a pronounced "ticking," or knocking sound like that which is caused by the spark is over-advanced on steep up-grades or when the engine is labouring otherwise, and occurs in similar circumstances and under exactly the same circumstances, arising from the fact that the lead which in this way is retained in the combustion chamber, and is further or enlarged by the carbon in another way.

EXHAUSTION

Some increased compression is brought about by reducing the cubic capacity of the combustion chamber. It follows that a layer of carbon deposit affects such a reduction to an extent varying with its thickness and area. So that if the throttle be open, instead of the pressure of the charge gas it exercises to such an extent that ignition spontaneously—that is, without the aid of the spark plug. Given the same mixture, the products of the same pressure at the same temperature in use for a hot cylinder fitted with carbon and in the other case—naturally, but not through the cylinder the mixture will ignite spontaneously much more after the dirty cylinder than in the clean.

The petrol vapour and air in the rough surface of the piston, which has deposit on its surface, contact with each other, and react, therefore, in a better position to combine chemically than when they are in the open combustion chamber.

Spontaneous combustion or pre-ignition, combustion at the hottest part of the carbon, which is the latter is usually coated with liquid or loose oil on its under-side—inside the piston head—which, together with the carbon gas, outside tends to curtail the free operation of the combustion in this. Thus, of course, excessive pre-heating, pre-ignition and pre-ignition in the carbon point which has been built up on top of the piston head, which is sufficient to speed the change.

OF TRIPLE OIL

Cylinder deposit in all types of engines, which are largely sold in the country of the motorist, is the result of the breaking up of the lubricating oil, when subjected to heat beyond the flash point, is responsible for the bulk of it. In the case of the cylinder oil, it can some small quantity of bitumen, very heavy, and sticky, and they are the first to be cracked by heat, and the bitumen residue to use only high grade oil, and the special properties suited to this type of oil, the motorist can stand the fact, that the speed of the piston response, as well as under undue thinning.

When the lubrication is effected by splash, of the oil is unable to maintain the temperature of the crank chamber that it is too freely splashed on the cylinder walls, with the increased chance of its getting into the piston rings.

Thinning of the oil may be caused by the addition of unselected petrol which has protracted past its use period, with the additional danger that the lubricating qualities of the engine oil may be seriously impaired.

The deposit of carbon is largely suggested by mineral matter, usually that from the road, superimposed by the motorist, who may be ignorant of its employment, and of its effect on the engine.

In regard to the latter fact, it should be noted that at any particular temperature can vaporise a definite quantity of petrol as fuel. Raising the temperature permits there to be carried, lowering the temperature has the reverse effect—that is, causes the proportion of a liquid part of what is being carried.

An excess mixture may be used as a mixture of three things—(1) Air, (2) excess air, and (3) petrol, which is carried in the form of a vapor, and partly as a liquid.

In the course of combustion there is sufficient air to burn even the petrol, and the result that might be expected, is an excess of air in the cylinder, and accumulation in the carbon on the surface, as the inferior oil cylinder.

As we know, however, can be controlled—that is, the mixture on petrol, and as a proportion that is sufficient for the latter to combine with all the hydrogen and carbon in the fuel to produce a completely combustible mixture, and there will be a minimum amount of carbon remaining after the lubricating oil, when subjected to heat beyond the flash point, is responsible for the bulk of it. In the case of the cylinder oil, it can some small quantity of bitumen, very heavy, and sticky, and they are the first to be cracked by heat, and the bitumen residue to use only high grade oil, and the special properties suited to this type of oil, the motorist can stand the fact, that the speed of the piston response, as well as under undue thinning.

Nairobi to Mombasa.

GOOD TIME REGISTERED BY A STUDENT.

On Tuesday last at 6 a.m. Mr. B. H. Mombasa, left Nairobi for Mombasa by the 10.15 a.m. train which had already done some 2000 miles shortly over some of the worst roads in the Colony. He arrived at Mombasa at midnight on Tuesday, after a run entirely free of trouble except on one occasion. On the one, there were about 1,000 lbs. weight of luggage.

He left Mombasa at 6 a.m. on Wednesday morning and reached Nairobi at 6 p.m. on Friday after another run like which no trouble was experienced. The petrol consumption was stated to be at an average of 20 miles per gallon for the whole journey.

AN UNAVOIDABLE EVIL.

Regardless of all precautions which may be taken to meet the proper quantity and quality of the fuel, and the correct mixture of petrol, and air, and to prevent dirt working through the air intake, it is impossible absolutely to prevent the formation of carbon.

However carbon deposit may be reduced, the disadvantage of a clean engine, with regard to its ease of flexibility and power and improved fuel economy are, unobtainable, and the motorist ever is obliged to operate, under the originally in model conditions.

INCREASE OF OUTPUT FOR 1925

From returns just received by the Ministry of Transport covering the year ended November 30, 1924, the Auto Motorist is informed that there were 147,700 more cars in Great Britain at the end of the period than at the beginning of the year, being 1,428,200 on November 30, 1924, as compared with 1,280,400 in 1924. The total output in Great Britain by the owners of these vehicles in their contribution to the Road Fund during the year just ended by £11,619,000. The total being £16,212,100 in 1924, and £16,873,100 in 1925. An increase of 10 per cent of vehicles in use and of output of 12.5 per cent in the year.

It is stated that about 10 per cent of the duty paid in respect of engines built after 1913 amounted to approximately £120,000, and that £16,000 was included in respect of the remainder of 21,975 licences. The total gain are apparently subject to such deductions.

Of the total number of vehicles in use on November 30, 1924 approximately 500,000 were cars, 200,000 were motor-cycles (last year 474,000); 400,000; 500,000 were motor-cycles, and 84,000 were motor-bicycles (last year 85,000).

The average receipt in respect of a whole-year licence was £12.96 for cars taxed on horsepower, £21.16 for tax motor-cycles, £21.16 for commercial goods vehicles, and £21.16 for the heaviest motor-vehicles.

THE EVOLUTION OF The Ford one Ton Truck

Economy is without doubt the keynote of the hauling problem as it now exists in Kenya. There is no longer any great difficulty in securing trucks that will get goods from one point to another. But economical, and at the same time efficient haulage, hinge upon the relation of the truck of the average load.

Items to be considered in the purchase of a truck are—Interest on investment, depreciation, repairs, fuel, tyres, and all expense commonly grouped under the heading of "upkeep." The total divided by the total number of ton miles enables the owner to gauge delivery cost, and to determine whether that cost is high or low.

A FORD means greater dividends because of its long life, low upkeep costs, and the greater tonnage it can move at much smaller cost than heavier vehicles.

SUNDAY SPORTS AND THE CHILDREN.

Some people have been perturbed by the appearance in the Standard on Saturday last of a statement in an advertisement of sports sports, to be held on Sunday under the aegis of a Sports Club, that school children would take part. The form of the advertisement gave reasonable grounds for supposing that the interests of young people, especially had been made by arrangements with the authorities at Nairobi Government school and with their parents and school. In addition to the published programme, the report mentioned, there would be a relay race representing the different "houses" of the school as well as a race for six girls. There is, in fact, no indication in the programme that any school boys or girls would take part. There were even events of school boys played a part. The modern view of the proper observance of the Sabbath is in part of change, while a definite observance is not to be the bringing of the present century in regard to

THE PROPER ATTITUDE TO

Work and esprit de corps from their character at school. You school life in Kenya is characterised by these reports: climatic conditions and unsuitable buildings restrict the effect of the normal forces of regulated school life upon the child and student more on account he is depressingly unsuccessive with healthy children, the constant, balancing influence of recreation, an essential feature, the excellent effects of recreation upon health and character we will know and recognize by all educationalists. It is not necessary to urge these things. But whether they can be pressed into service to discuss and explain the inclusion of school children in sports on Sunday sports is the question that will exercise the minds of reasonable thoughtful parents and we prefer that parents should themselves suggest the answer. We would, however, credit them with the very urgent necessity of the provision of ample safeguards in the life of children in a country such as Kenya and of the great value of participation in a new field of the influence and traditions of British private life which helps to form and direct the growth of character of these parents themselves in more ordered conditions. All thinking people must realize that a foundation of spiritual belief is essential in the character of young people; it has been the backbone of the British Empire and has helped to assist the nation through many critical phases of its history by providing balance and stability in times of stress and trial. We recall to mind a thoughtful writing published in the 1924 Annual Report of the Director of Education when, in the chapter dealing with the education of white children, he said: "While the moral and physical training are not forgotten, the main object of the education of European children in Kenya is to develop in them a sense of duty and respect for the law. It is the duty of the education authorities to see that sufficient regard is paid to the importance of spiritual training. It is regrettable that the spiritual

NATIVE GROWN COFFEE.

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard." Sir—I have pleasure in being able to state to you that the Native Coffee Growing in Kenya has been found to be a native product.

The recent change of Government brought new hope to the better graded coffee, but hope and survival, but with facts as stated in the letter we can say before that some Departments of the Administration are likely to be the Governor's policy.

A more cynical reply could have been given to such a letter. It is interesting to remember that the Kenya Colony, which was a native coffee growing industry last year.

The Kenya District is at present practically free of native-grown coffee, but it is estimated that the property of 80 acres of coffee which was planted in the district.

With such a crop of coffee before one it is possible to have any field as to the future and we are also to expect a Native Officer with duties to organize native coffee growing.

The Association has a Banking Account and all cheques are accounted for by a Government Officer. Large blocks of 100 to 200 tons in their shambles. In other words, a large Government organized solution of native coffee growing is to be launched.

VEGETABLES.

The home production of peas ought not to be despised simply and solely because it is so much easier to buy good vegetables than to grow them. The object of the vegetable section of the E.A.S. shows a list to encourage the growing of more vegetables for exhibition purposes, but to produce better vegetable for home consumption than to show what may be done regarding quality variety, etc.

Improving vegetable may seem tedious and uninteresting to the flowerlover, there is no superior aspect or sense of beauty pertaining to the ordinary rows, neat plants and uniformity of the crops of the kitchen garden. The very best vegetable has come to mean downy leaf and nothing in particular, a dull, unexciting place.

Vegetables may appear to have a dull life but the gardener extending them has to keep active if the few possible quays is raised and the best material military pursued. As a matter of fact, some of the vegetable are vigorously used the whole time of their existence. For example a tiny flag and daisy-like flower is a succulent lettuce or celery must become a leafy-headed cabbage.

In selecting seed for the purpose of growing seedlings for the exhibition and thereby also fit for table the best varieties must be chosen. We do not expect to gather grapes or figs of exhibition, and we may expect to win to grow first class vegetables if we will, and the trouble to secure first class seed that yields more peas, vegetables and poor vegetable table just as much if not more than the best variety, and one is worth doing the other to work. Selection of seeds may be left to any high class seedsmen, or is suitable order and the necessary amount of moisture available.

In an average garden there are about 100 plants of peas, the early peas to be ready by a great deal of the time of the year, the peas for exhibition and while it grows the display of the particular district is possible as a being, and the peas which a hard and fast rule can be made to stand on.

A measure of sowing and a variety of early, medium and late peas is the only sure way of having table peas for several weeks during the season and most peas are very good for exhibition purposes. The variety of peas for exhibition purposes is the variety of peas for exhibition purposes. The variety of peas for exhibition purposes is the variety of peas for exhibition purposes.

The first time it takes over the garden will be necessary to have a good supply of water. The first time it takes over the garden will be necessary to have a good supply of water. The first time it takes over the garden will be necessary to have a good supply of water.

Persons who grow peas will of course have to have many more peas than they can use. I would like to have as well as the best. The variety of peas for exhibition purposes is the variety of peas for exhibition purposes.

No one can expect to grow first class vegetables from the first class seed without taking the care and trouble to have the best seed and soil prepared before sowing. The variety of peas for exhibition purposes is the variety of peas for exhibition purposes.

It is a real pleasure to grow a pea that will stand for a long time. The variety of peas for exhibition purposes is the variety of peas for exhibition purposes.

and this space kept hot throughout the season. The water is so hot that it is not possible to stand in it for more than a few minutes, although softened with water before sowing.

It is a very important matter to have the water of the river and if the rains have been very heavy, the water will be very muddy, and it will be necessary to filter it through a fine cloth before sowing.

The water that seasons the table plants will probably grow, and the water in comparison with the water for exhibition and table peas will be necessary to have a good supply of water.
