HANDLING A MACHINE

Use of the clutch control is fairly well understood, but they are still too many riders who slip the clutch instead of changing down. The purpose of a clutch in the transmission system is essentially that of a cushion between the engine and rear wheel when starting from rest or changing gear. It is not designed as a clutch for the purpose, but to assist in the work of the latter unit. When slipping it in the clutch there is a rapid wear on the friction surfaces concerned, which, of course, is not desirable, as replacement of the parts will have to be made much earlier than if such manipulations were not indulged in. This, however, is not the most serious objection. As a rule, the bearing which takes the thrust—that is, the endwise head of the clutch when disengaged—is so designed that it will withstand all reasonable use for starting or gear-changing purposes, but the continuous strain imposed upon it by keeping the clutch surface partially out of contact is much more than it is intended to bear.

The rapid engagement of the clutch, when starting a machine from rest, is not nearly so common as it used to be, but riders will do well to observe, that the adjustment of the clutch control is such that the amount of lost movement is very slight. Only too often can the hand-lever be moved over 10, or even with-out any corresponding motion on the part of the clutch-operating mechanism, of course, does not give a definite degree of contact in handling the clutch lever.

Changing gear is, and always has been, to some people a difficult operation. This average motorcycle is infinitely superior to the motorcar in respect of its gear-changing mechanism, as there is nothing like the same chance of missing a gear so there is with the four-wheeled type of vehicle. It is desirable to consider the motions which have to be performed in relation to each other. Clutch and gear levers obviously have to be moved in the correct times, but the clutch lever also enters into the question, and it will not suffice for one only the clutch and gear levers to obtain a silent run through change. Although as a rule there are only two main members to control, three levers, as difficulty should be found after

TICKETS OF CHANGING

When changing up—that is, from a low to a higher gear—the clutch lever should be closed to reduce the speed of the engine to the point which will take up, when the change of speed has been effected and the gear lever moved quickly into the new position. The second common error consists in leaving the throttle in a fairly open position when changing up, with the result that immediately the clutch is released the engine races instead of slowing down slightly and a jerk occurs when the clutch is engaged.

Changing down, however, there is not the same need for throttle manipulation as exists in the reverse instance. The error which is generally sufficient to leave the throttle alone or close it very slightly and merely puts the gear lever into the lower speed position after deaccelerating. If so done, the clutch should be released slowly on deaccelerating and gear up the purchase in a such a manner that the meshing of the second or first-speed drive of forward will be accomplished in a ready and with a minimum of shock.

Use of the brakes seems to call for little comment. The rider who rides apparently do not realize that the greatest braking effort occurs immediately prior to, the taking of the wheel. Braking control between the two, and the road surface, provides a much greater degree of grip than is what which is looked when the friction is merely of a sliding nature. Particularly in the case of road wheels, it is desirable that the absolute maximum power which the driver can exert will lock the wheels.

Ability to lock the wheels by the ordinary amount of force exerted upon the pedal or lever is highly dangerous and inefficient, in that the braking effect is low and sliding is very probable. In the case of pedal brake it is preferable to rest either the foot or toe of the pedal on the wheel, so as to prevent upon the footrest or footrest, if the design of the machine permits, in order that the foot may be steady. In the vibration, or the noise caused by the rider's leg and foot to be jerked, a jumpy motion will be imparted to the pedal, and smooth braking often becomes impossible in consequence.

THE IMPORTANCE OF CONTROLS

One of the chief troubles which is at the root of much poor riding or driving of any motor-cycle is poor control, failure to take up work in the carbonator, clutch and gear cables is the principal point. Lost motion means uncertainty, and a fraction of an inch one way or the other can make a great deal of difference in the setting of, say, the throttle lever. The difference is responsible for a number of "near shaves" racing engines when in neutral and jerky starts, all of which are due to the control.

It is well worth the while of every motorcyclist to give regular attention to the state of the controls of his machine, and a few minutes a month will pay more than the effects of wear and tear are corrected. No simple set of adjusting one cable instrument, but there is really no excuse for neglecting one's controls in only plain demanding situations, the whole machine must be in sound working order if its owner is to get the best from it, 1926.

THE NEW BUICK

Up a 12% Grade in high

Faced by a steep hill presenting a 12 per cent grade, you would decide immediately that no car on earth could climb such a height to high gear. Railroad engineering limits its grades to 4 per cent.

But the new 1926 model Buick, with its superpowered Valve-in-Head engine, can stop dead still in front of a 12 per cent grade—then start in high gear (without touching low or second)—and then lift itself to the top—gaining speed all the way.

The 1926 Buick is a remarkable motor car, not only in power, but in detail of refinement and advanced engineering excellence. All carbon and foreign matter is removed from the oil by microscopic filtration. While the engine is running to the bearings and cylinder walls. All dust is removed from the air before it enters the carburetor. Even the petrol is filtered as it enters the carburetor, preventing all water and grit from lowering efficiency. Four-wheel brakes and tipping head lights are among the improvements that place Buick definitely in advance of all motor car values.

CAR BRAKING.

Fallicies Concerning Stopping Distances.

CONTROLLING FACTORS.

Believe me or not, old man I can pull you in a foot or a length from a 100-yard hour.

A SLIGHT EXAGGERATION.

Taking that common unit of measurement—a hundred feet—then assuming that 5 ft. is the most which brakes in good order, the stopping distance would actually be 40 ft. at 30 m.p.h., the statement we have quoted amounts to an exaggeration of about six per cent.

Use of the dangers of such exaggerations is that the man who is deluded by them is apt to consider himself a much more cautious driver than is really the case. His margin for example, for in the halting of newly starting from 40 m.p.h. to 50 m.p.h. at dangerous road corners is to be lost. One who is a little deeper into the question of stopping distances, together with the factors which govern them, and some other causes, but common sense precautions may be made in the event.

For such as travel down road cars, and so on.

Many people suppose are held to be the maximum value of the coefficient of friction, such as 0.5, which is not the case. In fact, it might be as high as 0.7, and in some cases as high as 0.8.

Many of them are not only ignorant of the facts, but they are also ignorant of the facts. Many of them are not only ignorant of the facts, but they are also ignorant of the facts.

number of designers who are still somewhat afraid of describing too much of the braking effect to be had from such a short distance.

THE NEW BUICK

Up a 12% Grade in High

Faced by a steep hill presenting a 12 per cent grade, you would decide immediately that no car on earth engineering limits its grades to 4 per cent.

But the new 1926 model Buick, with its superpowered Valve-in-Head engine, can stop dead still in front of a 12 per cent grade and then start in high gear (without touching low or second) and then lift itself to the top—gaining speed all the way.

The 1926 Buick is a remarkable motor car, not only in power but in refinement and advanced engineering excellence. All carried out in high gear before it enters the bearings and from the air filter as it enters the carburetor. Even the petrol is water and grit from lowering efficiency. Four wheel servo brakes and slipping head lights are among the improvements that place Buick definitely in advance of all motor car values.

Hide and Skin Trade

OFFICIAL MEASURES TO IMPROVE QUALITY.

Government is taking action to improve the quality of hides and skins exported from Kenya...

The Director of Agriculture, Government, is aware that better hides and skins of better quality would be obtained from the large areas of country...

There is already evidence that the hides and skins of better quality are being produced and it is to be hoped that improvement in the organization of the trade in the native may share in the increased value of the properly prepared hides and skins.

A Letter from Paris (From FLORENCE COMBES)

Motoring Clothes.

Grey and green seem to be the favorite colors for motoring wraps just now and the made-to-order, custom-made, long length coat of green suede which can either be buttoned up to the throat or worn as a jacket with the collar turned back to display a grey or white shirt.
Thin there is a beautifully made fabric coat made in two colors of yellow and grey and which is very light and very comfortable. It has a long detachable neck which can be worn or not according to the climate, and large pockets to hold gloves, scarf, etc. and all the rest of one's motoring paraphernalia.

As suitable for walking as for motoring is a suit of grey and red light-weight material. It is attached to the blouse, a detachable sportswear shirt has a little waistcoat of buckram and double-breasted coat is made of yellow and grey checked fabric. A soft yellow felt hat has a peak in front and an irregular, wavy crown.

New Military Models.

The crown of our hats are getting higher and higher. Some of those military about the shape of a top-hat is Raquel for instance, and grey checked fabric, rather solid turned-up coat at the back and an almost short detachable neck. It is made of buckram and lined with a stiff piece of material, white and black ribbon points with a plain ribbon round the crown.

Another high hat is made of velveteen in two shades of their faded tulle. This is a color, incidentally, against which a word of warning must be issued. It is quite agreeable in small doses for hats of jumpers, but for whole dress it has rather a lingering effect and does not readily take on the bright light of day.
Wide-brimmed hats are trimmed with folds of tulle, with narrow ribbons passed through metal bands or with the stems of large velvet flowers. The brim is generally short at the back and bent into becoming waves edged with lace.

shoulder knot. The starts are fastened to the back of the plaid. If you are to have the Spanish skirt in all its beauty as an after-piece to the tulle evening coat, fasten these at the waist to become more and more attractive and there is no need for a waist. These worth possessing are certainly not cheap to buy in the first instance, but they are being seen in the long run, because of their ordinary little practicality. It has no conflicting attractions, can be glorified or lessened under a purposeful drapery.

Renovating Your Screen.

If you have a screen which is beginning to look shabby, it is an excellent plan to cover it with paper to tone with the color scheme of the room in which it is principally used. It is quite simple to do. All that is necessary is to stretch the material tightly across, securing it with furniture tacks and making a narrow plain strip above the new color.

Now get out the scrub log at intervals and scrub and find your pieces of damaged material and cut out small sections if necessary. If you do not possess any scrubbers, then it is worth while to buy one.

The screens being best cut out, grease them thoroughly on the lower half of the screen and secure them in place. To be most effective, they should be laid on a clean surface, and when set, and secured with a few tacks at the top and bottom.

INTIMATE STORIES OF THE GREAT STRIKE.

The First Days.

HOW THE DEADLOCK HIT THE LONDONER.

An Isolated City.

Our London correspondent in a series of articles deals with the situation from day to day. The first of the series is given below.

[FROM OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENT.]

London, May 3. The General Strike has now become a reality. It is being gradually transferred into a political movement of vast scope. The miners, who are paid by many places very low wages—though not in all—were undoubtedly the first to strike, and it was they who first organized the strike to carry on a demonstration of the Government's attitude towards the miners. The Government's attitude towards the miners is a matter of course. The Government's attitude towards the miners is a matter of course. RHODESIA'S INCREASING PROSPERITY.

A Note of Warning on Loan Expenditure.

"ARTIFICIAL" STIMULUS.

The need for caution in the expenditure of loan money in Rhodesia is stressed in a leading article in the Standard, recently by the Rhodesia Herald.
A year ago we had occasion to comment upon the extraordinary recuperative powers of Rhodesia as evidenced by the financial speech of the Treasurer's Budget speech. This year that figure revealed another remarkable advance. Mr. Fynn's address, showed that the revenue has yielded practically a quarter of a million sterling more than in the previous year, and had provided him with a surplus of £79,000, which, added to the surplus of the two previous years, gives him a balance of £129,000. It is not only the fact that the Treasury estimates that the revenue for the coming year will be £1,000,000, without any increase of taxation, and after allowing for a return to the present position and shifting £182,000 within the territory. The revenue last year was £1,258,000 and the total expenditure £1,075,000. For the coming year the estimate is £1,298,000 and £1,484,000 respectively. And this is not all. Mr. Fynn pointed out the white population generally exceeds 400,000 more than will be absorbed by the general welfare that these figures represent. The Treasurer, however, reserves caution in his outlook. He re-rhodesia that trade is on a much more buoyant footing than it was a few years ago, and gives figures of its considerable industrial output which, to some extent, bear out his view, more particularly the pretty increased output of tobacco result. But, the "Herald" goes on to say that in order to support this buoyant prosperity, a substantial increase in modern factories and industries in the country is especially vital.

THE NEED FOR CAUTION.

In one respect, to which the Treasurer did not specifically refer, the need for caution is very apparent. Under the new regime expenditure of loan money has taken place to an extent which, if not checked, could be of a serious nature. Much of this was certainly devoted to the carrying of essential services that marked the latest years of the Chartered Company's governance through no fault of the company. Much money had to be made up, and large sums have been raised for the purpose. The total amount of loan money already expended is not given, but it is estimated that it will amount to £20,000,000, practically a round million, most of which will be repaid, but much of it will be repaid in instalments, such as hospitals and roads. The "Herald"

FERTILISE WITH EPHOS

The following testimonial speaks for itself. "Ephos" turned out. Really I hardly like to tell you, you might fancy I was pulling your leg.

"The potatoes are just simply wonderful, you never saw such a growth even through the drought. I have grown potatoes in my life and in many climates, but never have I seen anything like this lot and further it is not a question of better seed business, I purchased the seed all the flour from a Kinyua shop."

The original of the above testimonial can be seen on application to J. G. ARONSON, P.O. Box 681, Nairobi.

FARMING NOTES.

A Resume of Current Topics.

THE POTATO CROP.

[By "REVIEWS."] Quite a few years have elapsed since any real effort was made in Kenya to grow potatoes on a trade. The Colony was at that time in the infant stage of its development and the idea of growing potatoes was not a very popular one. Our strong cooperation in the matter up and up to the present time has not been sufficient to make it a profitable business. Many of our settlers, both Irish and English, are now engaged in potato growing and are making a good thing of it. It is not surprising that the potato crop in Kenya is now being raised on a large scale and is becoming a profitable business. It is not surprising that the potato crop in Kenya is now being raised on a large scale and is becoming a profitable business.

NOT A NATIVE CROP.

Today the growing of the crop in Kenya is not largely to the credit of the native. It is a mistake to carry with it all sorts of derogatory ideas which, although they are not entirely correct, might tend to discourage the native. The potato is a native crop of the highlands of the Andes and is not a native crop of the lowlands of the East African coast. It is not surprising that the potato crop in Kenya is now being raised on a large scale and is becoming a profitable business.

NOT A NATIVE CROP.

Remembering the superficial character of the African soil, it is not surprising that the potato crop in Kenya is now being raised on a large scale and is becoming a profitable business. It is not surprising that the potato crop in Kenya is now being raised on a large scale and is becoming a profitable business.

CULTIVATION HINTS.

Any good farming soil will grow the crop in good condition and a good yield. The soil should be well prepared and the seed should be planted in the best position.
