The Uganda Cotton Crop.

It has been said that cotton, in its own conditions and when manured with good manure, is the staple crop of Uganda in all the larger bulk export the greatest individual contributor to railway revenue, the staple crop of the country, and in the manufacturing form by far the most important export from the East African States. The European community concerned in the development of native, steel, wheat and coffee, and having regard to the value and importance of these products in the export trade of the territories, are sometimes prone to minimize the great influence of the cotton traffic upon the whole life of the community. Our Kampala correspondent has well indicated the necessity of the different product which is being raised in Uganda. The climatic conditions are so favorable to proper development of the crop for the entire season and although the latest report issued by the Department of Agriculture is somewhat more optimistic in its tone than its predecessor, now there is still ground for uneasiness which will be felt throughout all the harvest in the zones from the distant parts of Uganda to Mombasa. In the Eastern Province alone the total acreage is 54,000 acres less than that planted in the same period of 1922 and in Eastern district followed, because which in its efforts to produce, it was wholly confined to 17,000 acres less than that cultivated in the revenue of the Financials last year, although the actual amount of cotton, is reported to be much below the preceding figure. In its disorganizing and too slow an order of the cotton crop, the immediate future will have the greatest influence upon the position and the unsatisfactory features of the present situation, while and open to exaggeration, should convey a warning to importing banks and to the retailers who are tempted by American reports and the speculative spirit to take unnecessary risks. It would be well to bear in mind if the importation of stocks was carried out on the more conservative basis than that there should be any risk of repetition of the state of affairs which brought East African traders some lessons only a few years ago.

It is in this connection that the fact that there should be any risk of repetition of the state of affairs which brought East African traders some lessons only a few years ago.

Although there was no sensational pronouncement in His Excellency's address to the Legislative Council yesterday, the lengthy report presented upon the results of his work in London will give a more thorough insight into the situation.

Pride of place was occupied by his references to the status of constitutional changes. He said there was one method in the community such as the native population in the Colony with its inherited characteristics and that was the school of political education. But if the continuing nature of the present official to an official majority certain other changes in the legislature were essential. Although there was a reduction on the Government side it was held to be essential that the King's Government should be enlarged and the country would have to consider early the special powers necessary to prevent deadlock.

Another problem which has continued was to give a legislature which would reflect fairly the interests of all races and communities. In order to avoid a undesirable alternative of withdrawing native members from the scope of the council. In this connection he expressed the opinion that the principle of communal representation was absolutely essential in East Africa and that the Imperial Government had no idea of departing from it.

His Excellency announced approval by the Colonial Office of the policy of permitting Kenya to raise a certain loan part of which would be devoted to paying existing liabilities and the remainder to railway and colonial requirements instead of participating in the proposed East African ten million loan.

He also informed the House that the Local Government Report proposals regarding Nairobi had been approved by the Secretary of State and that Government was prepared to consider reasonable criticism in respect of the proposals.

Further announcements included commencing legislation to secure the Native Reserves for ever for their own use under the guardianship of boards of trustees, approval of an active policy of closer settlement with definite assistance from the Home Office, and the intention of giving to the Dominions the opportunity to establish a Land Bank has also been reported.

His Excellency said that the financial position of the Colony was satisfactory and that the Government was in a position to meet its obligations. MOTURING TOPICS

'FREE WHEEL' DRIVE FOR CARS Points For and Against Its Adoption.

TYPE OF 'OVER RUNNING' TRANSMISSION.

For many years past it has been recognized that the transmission of a motor vehicle, and while much has been said in regard to its construction...

to be mounted on a shaft in front, while the engine remains in its normal position...

Another reason why it seems that a satisfactory motor vehicle may be constructed with a free-wheel drive...

A Useful Analogy.

If an overrunning clutch of this kind is connected in the transmission system, it works in much the same fashion as the free wheel of a bicycle...

also be noticed that if the handle is pushed backwards the pulley is forced to turn in the opposite direction...

Having briefly explained the way in which a free-wheel drive can be provided in a motor vehicle...

Money Overrun: Another.

Another advantage is that the clutch and generally unpleasant noise which is often heard in a car when it is being driven at a high speed...

when maintaining the descent of a steep hill, a free-wheel drive is of great value...

Furthermore, the manufacturer would have to give much consideration to the operating gear as to its reduction pulley...

Slipping on Grass.

This is because a landing system with a freely distributed load and soft teeth in the rear...

Up hill on top!

Up hill on top on half throttle! For exhibition of speed, agility, a sense of confidence, class, the feeling of infinite power...

THE GOVERNOR'S SPEECH.

Although the main lines of the new developments in East African affairs were known to the Commissioner and that knowledge was being disseminated by the Hon. the Governor yesterday at the possibility of any announcement of a sensational or startling character, there is a great deal in the address which breaks new ground and lays upon the people in Kenya the duty of close and careful study. The first and main impression which will be conveyed to those who read the report of the speech this morning will be that while it was a full outline of the results of the mission in London, it was by no means a complete statement and is not yet clear how far the public will be expected to fill in the blanks which have been left. For their consideration. We have no intention in this column but to review the salient points of the speech in as simple and unambiguous a manner as possible, leaving until a later date the more important aspects of the programme as they appear to the Commissioner, leaving until a later date the more important aspects of the programme as they appear to the Commissioner, leaving until a later date the more important aspects of the programme as they appear to the Commissioner.

HOW THE COLONIES HELP BRITAIN.

Preference Contributions to Home Goods.

BUYING BRITISH

In view of the recent discussions with regard to the contributions imposed by the Chamber of Commerce in London to British goods in East Africa, it is interesting to note that the House of Commons are of the opinion that it shows the extent of the preference to British goods for London, (Cape, East E.) where the Secretary of State for the Colonies, (Produce and Manufactures) which have the amount of the rebate on imports from Great Britain for the least available.

Mr. Abery supplied the following summary of the telegraphic prices which had been received from the various Governments concerned—

- Amount of rebate in 1925:
- (1) Bahamas, 200/115
  - (2) Barbados, 433/000
  - (3) Bermuda, 41/450
  - (4) British Guiana, 430/500
  - (5) British Honduras, 407/150
  - (6) Ceylon, 413/425
  - (7) Fiji, 420/175
  - (8) Gibraltar, 41/04 1/4 1/4
  - (9) Jamaica, 403/750
  - (10) Leeward Islands, 422/114
  - (11) Mauritius, 18/1500
  - (12) Northern Rhodesia, 432/400
  - (13) St. Helena, 422/114
  - (14) Trinidad, 101/100
  - (15) Windward Islands:
  - Grenada, 46/303
  - St. Lucia, 45/043
  - St. Vincent, 44/000
  - Total, 437/008

The Bermuda figure given is in respect of the latter half of 1925. Imperial Preference is also given in Bermuda for the 12th July 1925.

The figure for British Colonies does not include receipts. The 7th figure represents the difference in amount of the duty levied on goods imported from the United Kingdom under the Imperial Preference and that actually paid under British preference in 1925. It should be noted that the present British preference rate was general tariff rate prevailing in January 1925. It will be seen that data of a higher general tariff rate applied to goods not produced or manufactured in the British Empire was imposed.

under the Customs Treaty (reference of 1921 to 1921 imports into Fiji from the United Kingdom amounted to £200,120, from foreign countries £200,000, and in 1920 the corresponding figures were £344,847 and £202,704 respectively).

Preferential duties on Empire produce are applicable in Gibraltar only to wheat, spirits, molasses and petroleum spirits. Figures given in the period 1st August to 31st December, 1925.

The Lowest Market figure for the year ending 31st March 1927 "The National Standard" takes no account of removal from Commonwealth Colonies to the Union of South Africa under the Customs Agreement.
