The Late Mr. T. O. W. Hope.

A TRIBUTE TO AN OLD COLLEAGUE

On September 19th, three passed away at King George's Hospital, Brookwood, John Owen Wesley Hope, an ex-Provincial Commissioner of Kenya Colony, and a pioneer of over 27 years' service in U.K.A.

Owen Hope arrived home in January, 1901, a sick man, and his state was supposed to be due to fever trouble. He consulted several doctors who agreed in this diagnosis of the man and nothing else wrong was suspected. Tubercular complications were diagnosed in July and from thence forward the man was a hopeless case. His frequent vomitings, to which he was sent, everything which medical science could effect was done for him, but it was too late. He died on the 19th of September, 1927, aged 67 years. He was a very capable and energetic public administrator, a broadminded worker, a tolerance and an unflinching worker, a man who was not afraid of the difficulties which stood in his way. He was a man of high character and a man of high integrity. He was a man of high character and a man of high integrity. He was a man of high character and a man of high integrity.

the end along the Coast, in Uganda, Kenya, and in the outposts of the Northern Frontier District. He joined the Provincial Administration in 1890 and served successively in the Provincial Administrations in P. O. C. D. C. and P. C. He was a member of the U.K.A. in the "German East Africa" mission at the end of the war. Subsequently he represented the U.K.A. at Kenia, and in the secretary of building down the British flag which ceremony he took part in, and the Somalia of Jubaland district in 1910.

Hope was not intellectually a heavy weight and himself had no claim to be a deep thinker, but he was a man of high character and a man of high integrity. He was a man of high character and a man of high integrity. He was a man of high character and a man of high integrity.

Mr. Wood said he was not aware that the Government appointing the Committee had had them to consider any particular site. All that the Committee had been asked to do was to make recommendations as to the most suitable site and he pointed out that they had selected the Spree Road but because they had assumed that there was room there for both the hospital and the Indian School adjacent.

Colonel Griffin said he did not think the question of site entered into the matter at all for as far as the Government was concerned, at the last session they had had no reason for them to change their opinion with regard to the site.

Captain Speer said that he personally was not in sympathy with the resolution which he was bringing to the meeting but he was bringing it forward as a representative of the view of his association. He then the association was asking that the question should be referred to the Government as the 'Mping' report made through the First Finance Committee at the suggestion that the site should be used for the joint hospital scheme.

Most of the members of the association considered that the alternative site was utterly unsuitable but as no one could suggest an alternative it was thought better to bring forward the resolution than to let the matter rest as it would be. He thought that the resolution he had proposed would be the best.

The Reservoir

After some further discussion it was agreed that the motion should be withdrawn. Accordingly this proposal was not put to a vote.

That this Convention is in fact one of the most important as a medical centre.

Mr. Tan Kikuyu in a speech of appreciation for the Government had been very complimentary about the Convention. He said that the Convention was a very important one and that it was a very important one.

POULTRY NOTES.

Choosing the Male.

Now that the rains are on over it is time to choose the breeding pens. Personally, I prefer now, to any other time of the year, for fixing up the pens.

There is time to get the birds settled down and in good trim during the rains, and to get a few settings hatched by the time the fine weather comes along. The birds will have more vitality as soon as the grass gets green, and fertility should be very good.

It does not matter how good your hens are if the cock is an inferior bird, for he will stamp his bad qualities on all the progeny.

The reason I would choose would be to order very young not very old. In light breeds, about seven months, in heavy breeds about twelve months. I find this the most satisfactory method when setting up. Of course, general breeders should not be discouraged, unless they are really old. These older birds will do for mating with the younger hens.

There must be "speaking" in the male. If the breed is a heavy one, but a good price one. The cock should be firm to the touch, especially on the breast and thighs, and he should not carry any extra fat.

The back must be broad and well-shaped, and tapering towards the tail. He must stand well, with strong straight legs, well apart, and good straight toes. Eyes, bright and keen, comb and beak bright, healthy red. The whole bird should give an impression of health and vitality.

The bird should give an impression of health and vitality. If the breed is supposed to carry black plumage with a tawny green above, avoid birds with brownish black plumage and a purple wash.

Never choose for your breeding cock a tawny bird. The bird you want for breeding is the one who is in "bess" in the cocked pen.

In the light breeds, in the cocker, especially Leghorns, I have noticed a great many cockerels with a bad leg carriage. The legs are inclined to slope inward towards the base. This is a very bad fault; the legs should come straight down from the body, with good width when they meet the body. I would rather, if the above were necessary, choose a slightly smaller bird with good firm feet settings to a larger bird with bad legs. It may seem that this is rather a small item, but apart from the general appearance of the bird, an old hand knows the great difference it will make in the breeding pen.

Of course, any malformation should immediately exclude a bird from the breeding pen. Wry tails, crooked legs, and imperfect combs are probably the most usual malformations. Next week we will consider the hens for the breeding pen.

OTANDA.

I have received a sample of the food from Mr. Theobald of Nature. The food should be added to the rate of 10 per cent. to the ordinary feed. It is a food made from whole meal and slightly concentrated. A small addition of a concentrated food should be of great benefit to birds after the long dry season they have been through. The concentrated foods are expensive in bulk, but such a small quantity is required that it makes little difference to the general outlay, and if Ovenson improves fertility and the production of eggs worth having, I am now trying it on my little and a little later on I'll be able to give results.
