The Millage Test

The anti question, almost invariably, relates to the millage recorded on the speedometer. Many motorists are convinced that these two considerations are given exactly the same weight in fixing the value of the automobile that is to be bought. In the used car market, especially in the case of the motorist, the way of financial gain, the first point, it is true in the present of many used cars, is that the price of many used cars is often—often is better than the price of a new one—because the "bugs" have not yet set in.

Production Year.

Despite these facts, however, the prospective purchaser cannot afford to acquire a used car from any source unless he gives it a reasonably thorough and intelligent examination. This is especially necessary when one buys in mind that no two persons handle an automobile in precisely the same manner, and that no one or two general rules are sufficient to apply to all or over one case.

Now, then, is a prospective purchaser to know when a given used car is a "good" one? What should he looked for, and where to look for it? These are the questions should all those who have planned to go into the used car market for their next automobile equipment.

First of all, it should be pointed out that the almost universal approach to the problem of making a used car to be by way of learning in advance if the car was produced in a good era disclosed about the car later, even that it is an excellent mechanism, is colored by the fact that it came from the factory in this year or that.

points feature that have a vital relationship to a given used car.

What to Look for.

Drive it, or, if one cannot drive, watch closely while someone else operates the car. Drive it occasionally and presently? Does the car just "pull"? Are the brakes adequate to the task of bringing it quickly to a stop on all grades? Do the springs seem good and bony, or mislead and sive? Do they seem to "give" readily to reveal the full extent of the wear in various spots. The automobile merchant does not submit to a driving test of this character is impossible. Neither does he test down various parts of the car to show the prospective customer just how much play there is in the universal joints and the pinions, wear in the valves, loosening in bearings or ring gear and pinion. Before of these processes, it is necessary if the motorist will use his eyes, nose and hands.

Engine Condition.

First turn the motor over by engine. Does it turn freely without any "roughness" or "clunking" noise? Then the chances are that compression is good, with valves and piston rings in reasonably good condition.

Now start the motor. With the engine still warm, with the hottest road under a further test of the valves as to correct adjustment and wear. Is there a tapping or clicking noise on the side of the engine where the valve gear is located or is everything calm and quiet? The former indicates looseness which, when not excessive, is not to be condemned. If it is excessive, the same will be a bad sign, instead of a promise-making clicking.

LOCUST EXTERMINATION IN AUSTRALIA.

Problem One for Whole Community.

ANTI-HOPPER CAMPAIGN.

An Australian Government entomologist after investigating a plague of locusts in the Commonwealth has issued the following information and advice.

Though the hoppers which are now infesting the country are not locusts, they are very similar in appearance to the locusts which have been so common in the past.

Early Action Essential.

It is essential that these eggs should be treated and swept up, and that the young hoppers be destroyed immediately they hatch and before they spread.

of water, though even without the solution this spray is valuable for control. Dissolve the quantity of soda in warm water in one pint and add the solution in another vessel. Allow the two solutions to stand before mixing them together and diluting to the proper strength.

Spraying. The spray should first be applied to a strip of grass for about 20 feet in front of the advancing hopper swarms and then directed on to the swarms. The spray kills partly by contact action, but mainly by poisoning about to pasture. It is essential to spray at once of grass is to be used for grazing.

Mr. Gault, who represents the Cattle Raisers' Association of the district, says that he is in a position to give information on the matter. He says that he has been in contact with the Government and the local authorities.

ALIGNS TO THE CAPE EXPEDITION IN NAIROBI.

Official Survey for Future Belgo-Congo Air Service.

MOTORING OVER THE SAHARA.

Empire Officers Experience Amazing Contrasts in Road Conditions.

The Belgian official mission which set out from Brussels on May 14 with a surveying an aerial route from the Belgian capital to Elizabethville arrived in Nairobi on Monday evening after a truly amazing motor journey.

The two light cars which are the means of transport have taken the expedition across the trackless desert where the heat was so great that it was impossible to touch any metal work without being severely burned and where almost the sole drink was for water, through virgin bush country, and through flooded areas where in parts roads had to be made for the vehicles.

When the party reached Kenya they were for a short time beaten by the Colony's roads but after being held up in the Kakamega Forest for two days, they were able to proceed without further difficulty to Nairobi.

THE JOURNEY DESCRIBED.

The object of the expedition is to make possible the inauguration of a regular air service between Belgium and the Congo which is hoped will be a practical proposition in 1930, indefinitely the interests of Belgian independence.

The members of the mission are: Lieutenant Estienne, the leader, an officer of the Belgian Air Force who was for himself a remarkable expedition as a flying ace during the War and who has since distinguished himself as an aviator in the Belgian Air Force;

Lieutenant Fayat, an instructor in the Belgian Army who became famous for his daring journey by motor cycle and airplane through the mountains of the Alps in 1910, and who served five years in the Belgian Army;

Lieutenant Gansse as the Belgian Consul Office. He is a cousin of General de Wavre, who was famous during the War.

Mr. Gansse, a former pilot, was one of the British newspapermen.

The cars are the well-known Belgian 10 h.p. F.N. and are equipped with the most modern apparatus. They have with them a complete set of tools and special radiators designed to cope with the high temperatures by carrying petrol and water overboard.

THE MENING. By Capt. C. G. Moor. 32s. P. I. C. O. (Published by Sir Isaac Pitman and Sons, Ltd., London. No. 9-6)

This book will be of service to the engineer or well-to-do "traveller" equipped as it forms a guide to the industry of the world in all the phases. It is written in simple language and contains letters are either avoided or explained.

Many mistakes have been made in the past in almost every field. Other mistakes have been made for water, attempts have been made to work on deposits where no water was available.

After a careful examination of this book we are satisfied that it will be of great value to the engineer and to the student who is considering all these matters.

The volume is successful where there are, the writer is to be congratulated for the great detail, whereas a volume of failures will show off the flow of money even before exhaustive prospecting is completed.

So far as it knows yet the deposits of countries in Uganda and Tanganyika are on the hills, and in the valleys. The deposits of Malawi (Kagera, Uganda and Malawi) are on the top of hills and consist of mica, mica, mica and mica.

In our opinion, however, extremely rich were said by mistake a depth of only a couple of feet. There can be very little doubt that these mines will permit good every mine in depth. The character is so rich in some places, that it is hardly necessary to work it.

An examination of the contents of Captain Moor's book will show that it is a book of value to the engineer and to the student who is considering all these matters. It will assist the man who is beginning prospecting on his first trip, as well as the experienced engineer.

A list of interesting countries (the same and well-kept) and the best way to work them is so well detailed that they could be easily followed by a man who had never used them before. These new books are absolutely complete and so on that give a positive result with them must be available and give the best.

The proprietor should remember that in looking for cashmere he may quite find out the general. If Capt. Moor is clearly bringing on a new edition of his "Book of Minerals" which was sold out some time back. This book gives clear directions for the identification of all minerals including the precious stones and other things as stones, sapphires, rubies, emeralds, etc.

A limited number of copies of THE MENING will shortly be on sale in East Africa. The reception of the book at home has been good. The "Times" Engineering Supplement has devoted nearly two columns to it, and that "The London, June 14. Everybody is making New Zealand the best of the British Empire. The British Empire is in which Hobbs and Locke have been recognized has selected the following players: England—A. F. C. Chapman, (Goal), (Captain), W. C. Joyce (Northern), Hobbs (Barry), Buckley (York), Hammond (Gloucester), Hallam (Leeds), Fowler (D), (Northern), Smith (Gloucester). Test (Sumner), Lamont (Nottingham), (Wales), The Ross—D. R. Jardine (Somerset), (Captain), (Wales), (Wicket-keeper), R. W. Dawson (Lancashire), Leyland (York), Nelson (Leeds), (Goal), (Wicket-keeper), Eames (Kent), Wilson (Essex), Mackay (Derby), Hughes (Nottingham), D'Onofrio (Essex), and Worthington (Derby). There are no surprises in the team. The selection committee, it will be seen, have chosen wide trial players for the England XI, most of our boys for the future being given a chance of proving their merits in the Test side. There would be no player in a Test match in this country for 1922 and he would not be left out of the England side. Freeman, who has played against Australia at Sydney in 1921-2, has well earned his place in the England team this season, while Smith's wide-keeping has been at least equal to that of his rivals for a "top". D. R. Jardine, who will lead the

"STANDARD" CORRESPONDENT.

It is a candidate for the captaincy of the next English team in Australia and other players are all "standing at the door" of our Test team. Their form in this match will be keenly watched. Mackay was not a success, as a bowler when tried at Leeds in 1920, which was rather a surprise, but he has distinct possibilities at the same time.

Of course there are plenty of others who have different views and many are inclined to look at the wisdom of the Selection Committee in putting aside the younger players. Still their task is very difficult because the present players have done nothing very exceptional, and there are not many younger lads which it is possible to select out of a very large initial list.

Among the most interesting part performance of the week was Mr. Kemp who has been playing at the Oval where he scored 100 runs with the bat in 24 runs. His detailed career was his best. He had 24 runs 8 wickets. Pender's figure for his second spell of bowling was he went on at 87 over 2 overs, 2 maidens, 12 runs, 6 wickets.

The West Indies. The West Indian people have suffered from not having the best of wickets but they have put up a great performance at Leeds this week by beating Middlesex by some wickets. One member of the team has made an international reputation, "Jimmy" Conington, who scored 60 and 110 and also took 7 wickets for 71 in the second innings. At some time Conington's analysis read: O.A.B. M.I.I. W.B. He bowled 45 overs, bowled 110 runs of 183 added for the sixth wicket in 22 over. He hit 11 runs but got the 4's. The tourists had to make 100 to beat 110 runs but got the runs with 25 minutes to spare. After the match, Mr. Conington had about 3,000 people assembled in front of the pavilion and called the Constitution, which they were to sing and again. In his betting booklet Conington is very an expert and many have ascribed him a second "Gowd".

In the actual matches played this week there has been nothing very startling though Oldham got up to a good start at Wembley against Leamington's champions, though they would eventually lose 115 runs with 4 wickets to fall. Everybody is still anxious that the two good wickets but nobody has any suggestion as to making the position of the bowler any simpler.

ESTATE AGENTS DISPUTE OVER COMMISSION.

had had previous negotiations with the other firm, and they mentioned the fact that they had received his letter. They offered £20,000 for the estate, but he would not speak to them.

It was through Mr. Maitland's efforts that they did not bring off the sale. It was on Monday, February 11th, that Captain Pease had £20,000. He had no one offering to buy the estate. On the 17th of February 1928, Mr. Maitland presented to him a letter from Mr. Pease which was a correct one. It was £10,000 and was not to be taken into account. Mr. Pease had been accepted by Mr. Maitland Adams said it was untrue that Captain Pease had said that on 11th February he had a firm offer of £20,000. He had never had an offer of £20,000 made to him before that of Messrs. Tyson.

Mr. George Tyson said Messrs. Olden and Pease called on Saturday February 11th to discuss the real property. There was a general discussion about it and then they decided on the 11th property. They verbally offered £20,000 which was accepted by the real property. The offer was made on August, 1928, and was down for sale at £10,000. The beginning of February was put before Messrs. Olden and Maitland the real property.

The Problem. Now on the above facts the question arises who is entitled to paid commission for obtaining the purchase. The answer lies on all fours with the present one. It is to be that of Mr. Brown and Coy (1900) & T.L.R. 408. In this case the defendant who both carried on business as house agents were employed by Q. to find a purchaser for his land. Q. then introduced the house to T. who went over on a viewing on the 11th of February. T. then called T. received from defendant notice to view several houses including Q's house, which T. then inspected. T. then called on Q. through plaintiff, but did not leave it. T. then contacted with defendant regarding Q's house. Certain communications also took place between plaintiff and T. but these were not under which T. became the purchaser of Q's house were negotiated with defendant. On an intermediate issue between plaintiff and defendant, it was held that defendant was entitled to the commission, as plaintiff's introduction had resulted in a sale. In Murray vs. Curtis (1908), T. had an estate for G. T. had agents were awarded commission on an estate for G. T. had an estate. A. to inquire after another estate, and was told by A. that it was not to be sold. B. took from A. particulars of the estate and afterwards meeting B. the other agent, negotiated with him the terms of the purchase, which was afterwards completed. A. brought an action against C. for commission on the sale which was £2 per cent. and payable to the agent who found the purchaser. It was held—(1) that the agent for the very sale whether they thought that he had found the purchaser, and (2) that if they thought he had, and gave their verdict for him, they were not bound to give him the full amount of the commission, though the fact of that commission being actually paid was some evidence in favor of him in their decision. In Comins v. Michelson (1902), 2 F. and T. 200, Baron Martin said that if a broker introduces the name of the purchaser to the advertiser and he takes advantage of the information and concludes the charter himself without the further intervention of the broker, that does not deprive the broker of his right to commission.

The Sale of a Ship. In Whitson v. Martin (6 Car. & P. 11) it was held that to enable a broker to recover a commission the sale of a ship, the moment of his having introduced the purchaser of the ship will be sufficient, but if it appears that the transaction was concluded through other agents.
