Consumption.

As a result of this, Dr. Malmström was advised to go to England. There to repeat, if possible, his experiments, and so convince the British medical profession of the importance of his discovery. He reached this country on Oct. 18, when his serum and its possibilities were discussed with our interested physicians. The clinical work by the doctor was certainly an amazing one, and was gathered that he held the view that his work was entirely non-poisonous and not injurious, and of such a character that it would mean health to fight and defeat any micro-organism which might be entering the system. It was not claimed that the serum or the treatment could reduce a lung which had gone long as the system had sufficient strength left to fight against injurious micro-organisms, this serum will enable it to conquer disease which these bacilli might have caused.

Obviously the thing to be done was to secure that the claim be thoroughly tested. A meeting was arranged at between Dr. Malmström and one of the leading London specialists in sleeping sickness and later, the German doctor maintaining that the serum was invaluable in the treatment of tuberculosis, with one of the chief physicians in salting in that complaint. The result of the meeting was negative, the doctors declaring that the results of the medical profession presented them, asking any part in experiments with a remedy which they did not know the exact composition. Dr. Malmström declined to give this precise information, pointing out that the premature publication of the results of certain other experiments had resulted in their improper manufacture and use, and the monetary discredit of what have since been proved to be valuable discoveries.

Subsequently Dr. Malmström wrote a short treatise setting out the theory of his discovery which treatise has since been greatly extended one of our leading bacteriologists. This, after leaving Dr. Koch, continued his researches into sleeping sickness and discovered a germ based on a theory entirely new to the medical profession. It was the discovery of this germ which he considered that saved his investigation into the cause of sleeping sickness in Africa. ### INTERESTING RESEARCHES.

EXPERIMENTS IN LONDON.

The following statement was published in the "Daily Telegraph" of March 1st.—

A series of interesting experiments in the treatment of tuberculosis is now being conducted in London at the St. Margaret Street Hospital, at the Kensington Hospital at Hammersmith, and in private practice. The result of these experiments is yet to be reached, but they have now arrived at a stage at which it is impossible to preserve the private nature of these investigations. Consequently we will be made by some of the leading men in the British medical profession with reference to this treatment for consumption. If the claim of the discoverer is substantiated, similar treatment to that which is now being applied to tuberculosis cases will be found to produce similarly beneficial results in the case of tropical diseases (including sleeping sickness and malaria) and a number of other ailments ever so pointed out at present, but which research has not reached the point at which it can be said that there is here out in complete scientific tests. These are still in progress and may or may not prove satisfactory.

The discoverer of the new treatment is Dr. Frederic Malmström, a young German bacteriologist who has spent his life in the study of tropical diseases, having travelled all over the world with regard to researches into the cause of sleeping sickness, which he has been working during some time associated with Dr. Koch during that savant's investigation into the cause of sleeping sickness in Africa. Dr. Malmström, after leaving Dr. Koch, continued his researches into sleeping sickness and discovered a germ based on a theory entirely new to the medical profession. It was the discovery of this germ which he considered that saved his investigation into the cause of sleeping sickness in Africa. It was the discovery of this germ which he considered that saved his investigation into the cause of sleeping sickness in Africa.

At all these patients were in the second or third stages of the disease, and all had been to have four times others had had injections of either tuberculin or "I.L." patients in such a condition that Dr. Williams himself said it was hardly a fair test. So that a record should be kept of the fact that the patients were really suffering from tuberculosis, samples of their sputum were taken, and sent to their local medical office of health for examination. The result being that the tubercle bacillus was found present in each sample.

The result even of the first inoculation was remarkable, the patients all gaining in weight, while cough and other distressing signs of the disease were less, and all, with one exception, who has subsequently greatly improved. It may be mentioned that the first Dr. Malmström expressed himself as willing that the inoculation should be made and the patients treated by Dr. Williams.

During the weeks that followed the patient continued to improve, while their numbers naturally increased. However, that the improvement shown in this stage is not an unusual phenomenon when tuberculous patients are subjected to a new treatment. Dr. Wilson, at first a hostile critic, changed his attitude and gave attention to his private patients getting all ways the same remarkable improvement, an improvement which was itself as quick as when the results were published by any other known treatment. At the end of eight weeks out of the patients, other doctors began to show signs that they were greatly interested in the experiment. It was felt now that it was highly necessary that other medical men should see that when the results were published there should be no possibility of their being questioned. It was remembrance of the sputum which had been used to provide evidence that the patients were really suffering from tuberculosis, were insufficiently been quite cured, for several of them had practically lost all sputum was generally agreed also the disease were more satisfactory. Amongst the discoverer Hewitt, one of our bacteriologists, Professor of Bacteriology, University of London, and Director of Public Health Department of London, was approached by Dr. Williams ready consented to meet him in his own meetings with other medical men and meetings, it was agreed that the patients were to be treated by the doctor, while the arrangements were made for the treatment of a certain number of patients at the Kensington Hospital. Dr. J. Campbell, M.C. expressed his interest in the matter, and the result of the first inoculation was remarkable, the patients all gaining in weight, while cough and other distressing signs of the disease were less, and all, with one exception, who has subsequently greatly improved. It would be a splendid thing to have a non-residential bazaar but there must be adequate police provision for the sanitary shops.

In improving the bazaar Mr. Allina Viaram suggested that the first consideration is the immediate relief of the crowded nature of the bazaar. The witness noted an instance wherein he had applied to the Government for a hundred plots that had nearly been allocated when the Indian association demurred at the plan pointing out that the witness was chiefly concerned with its monetary aspect and as a result he was obliged to hand over the scheme to the association. He questioned as to whether the Indian association would build if the land was available, the witness stated that the association had secured him of their own money to build houses of Rs. 1,000 collecting the average rental of Rs. 10 per house.

The witness being approached on the East Townships, questioned pronounced the scheme if good roads were to be built and a service of transport as well as proper police supervision of the shops.

There are many Indians in the bazaar who could afford to build one house, but they do not do so on a stone building, but on a mud building with insufficient control over the sanitary boys, who frequently spill the contents of their latrine buckets in the streets.

The witness stated that the bazaar is a insanitary place where people sleep and dwell is occupied by the present bazaar, but it is small and a dilapidated building should be erected, and the bazaar should also be altered to a modern one, with proper police supervision, and a council well equipped with a good staff of sanitary inspectors, and a council well equipped with a good staff of sanitary inspectors, and a council well equipped with a good staff of sanitary inspectors.

How the boards creaked under his feet, and the floor gave, as he pushed it to be...

But he was not alone in the room. There was someone stooping over the safe, which stood open and searching among its contents with the help of a little guttering candle...

It was only when he had recovered from his first surprise that Bruce recognized the figure. It was that of a girl attired in a loose, dark dressing-gown...

He took a step forward, and at that moment the girl turned and, with a low cry, started to run, grasping the handle of the door...

"Don't scream," whispered Bruce, in temptation but in fear she should disturb her father...

"I suppose you can guess why I'm here—you don't want any explanation?" Bruce still spoke in a half whisper...

"Hush," she said, "I don't want to be overheard. My father is in the next room, but—she flushed a little as she spoke—"he has been drinking heavily..."

almost importance, are they not? They are worth a great deal—to somebody. "They are worth everything," muttered...

"Quite so," returned the girl, "and it was for you, Bruce, that I proposed to marry them." "The young man's face lit up. He could hardly believe that he had been deceived...

Pure Milk for Babies

In the feeding of children a supply of pure milk is of the greatest importance. A young mother is likely to be overworked and to have the milk in her breasts made from naturally inferior material so to ensure the child receives pure milk and to have the milk made from the purest material available, it is necessary to use a thoroughly efficient substitute for the natural food connections with nature. A thoroughly efficient substitute for the natural food connections with nature is provided in the form of the "Allensbury's" Milk Food. of the child is obtained, and the child's health is promoted. No doubt, if the mother can feed her child with the "Allensbury's" Milk Food she will find it the most efficient and the most reliable of all the substitutes for the mother's milk.

Austria Demands Drastic Action.

Offers to Drive Montenegro Out. FEAR OF A SPLIT IN THE POWERS

(Reuter's Special to "E. S. Standard.") London, April 24. The Austrian ambassador at Vienna, Baron Hottelmann, today declared to the press that Austria was prepared to take action against Montenegro. The official press of Berlin is of the opinion that the fall of Sarajevo will not affect the position of the Powers in the slightest, but the unofficial section looks upon the situation as one of the most critical and as threatening to revive the Austro-Russian antagonism. The abstract facts are expressed that Austria will take military action single-handedly. Reuter, as Vienna, further adds that the action of Austria is not to be construed as a declaration of war, but to be construed as Austria with the mandate. It is officially stated at Vienna that Austria has asked the Powers to take action to compel the Montenegro from Sarajevo to evacuate the territory or to extradite Austria with the mandate. It is stated at Cetinje that the Turks were also invited to march out with all the honours of war, taking with them their light arms. The news was received that the amputation was nearly all completed. Reuter at Constantinople reports that the amputation between Bulgaria and Turkey has been extended to the 5th of May. Mr. Asquith, speaking at the banquet of the Foreign Press Association in London, paid a tribute to the results of the European concert. Despite the difficulties that presented themselves such as the fall of Sarajevo, he believed that they would reach the goal which they had so long and laboriously sought after. London, April 25. Reuter learns that as a result of an informal exchange of views between the diplomats in London on Thursday, there is reason to believe that Montenegro has agreed to accede to the decision of the Powers in reference to Sarajevo in return for territorial compensation. It is stated in Vienna that Austria has proposed to the Powers the international military occupation of Antivari, Montenegro's chief seaport, and San Giovanni di Medua, which is the port to Scutari and which has been occupied by the Montenegrins. Failing this there will be military occupation by Austria and Italy or Austria alone. The proposal still remains unapproved. The Pan-Slavist demonstrations in St. Petersburg have been stopped by the Police, many arrests having been made. Reuter's agent in Constantinople reports that the fall of Sarajevo was due to the provisions being exhausted. The troops retained their arms, guns and ammunition. Reuter has been authorized to embark at San Giovanni.

PAN SLAVIST ENTHUSIASM

London, April 25. Reuter in St. Petersburg reports that the fall of Sarajevo has revived all the Pan-Slavist enthusiasms. Press of all shades of opinion urge that a new fact has arisen which Austria ought not to underestimate. A compromise must be sought. Isolated action by Austria would be tantamount to a European conflagration. Reuter's telegram regarding Austria's note in reference to the occupation of Antivari and San Giovanni is reported to have been authorized to embark at San Giovanni.

SWAZILAND HANDBOOK SCHEME.

Amongst the new ventures which are occupying the attention of a large scale, which is about to be undertaken in Swaziland, the matter has been the subject of negotiation with the Government for some time, and after some difficulty it is understood that a tract of land, 81,000 acres in extent, has been secured which excellent grazing can be obtained.

Operations are to commence shortly when the venture will come before the public for subscription.

A steady and increasing demand for land, and a somewhat eager competition was made for the past year...

Humorous subject!

This is a humorous subject. If you usually ride the worst you'll understand just what I mean. It is also a subject which matters to you if you are one of the jiggers who get too much of their own way.

I don't think I'll give you any details of the following. They are the jiggers who refused to budge. They had many of them on the cheap and meant to sell it. All the other jiggers who were not so stupid as to sell it at a low price...

My friend began a friend of mine who had a queer experience. He was fairly jiggered. About a thousand of the pests had commenced eating a sorghum in one of his most prominent places. That's the worst of jiggers. Well, he was saying his partner...

Well, my friend began to operate. The operation, as the doctors say, was successful, and the pest was all right. He was applying the usual extensive list of medicines, and he was saying his partner...

I might tell you many more jigger stories, but I don't see why I should say so to all my energy consuming jigger tales for the benefit of other people. I'm willing to be a martyr, though, if it would help you to get a better sleep for a considerable consideration...
