IS THE KENYA WOMAN
DETERIORATING?

Effect of Present-day Fashions.

["A Standard" Special]
It is a common saying that the woman today is generally less than the woman of the past.

The present-day fashion of "straps" is invariably of light material, and is not designed to support the weight of the body. This is a serious defect, and one which is likely to do much to deteriorate
the health of the woman who wears it. The present day woman is generally
less than the woman of the past, and this is due to the fact that she is wearing fashions which do not support the weight of the body. This is a serious defect, and one which is likely to do much to deteriorate the

Proud to say
"This is Mother"

The reward that comes to many mothers—involuntary tribute from the younger generation to the woman who has reared her youth

MODERN women have learned not to look their part. Competing in youthful days with daughters of illustrious age, they prove that even an longer stays the limitation of age.

Leading beauty experts agree that skin beauty means with skin cleansing, pores kept healthily free from dirt, the softening of dry patches and the removal of blackheads. In fairness to yourself, try it in this way.

Do this for one week, then
—see the difference.

Wash your face gently with scented Palmolive Soap, using the lather applied to the face.

SOAP

Palmitic acid is built into the skin cells, and keeps the skin healthy and soft. Palmolive Soap contains a small amount of this acid.

As it is common, we are to appreciate that responsible East African people will be well pleased to know that the suggestion put forward in the "Special Communique" should provide every East African landowner with a means of dealing with the task of working land. This method would not only be most economical, but also a foundation for any other form of development in the future than a "diamond" or "mineral" prospecting. It is a method which is not only practical, but also a means of dealing with the task of working land. THE DEVELOPING CAPITAL OF KENYA.

Nairobi Changing Beyond Recognition.

A YEAR'S GROWTH.

Stately Buildings Give Place to Wood and Iron Erection.

(E. A. Standford Special.)

In a capital which is being built in the space of a few years, it is always interesting to compare the town as it was a year or two ago with the town as it is now. The town as it was a year or two ago was a town of mud walls and thatched roofs. The town as it is now is a town of stately buildings and iron erections.

The Library.

Nairobi will have, in a comparatively short space of time, a Municipal Library. It will have a library of books, a library of books, a library of books. It will have a library of books, a library of books, a library of books.

an address of the education and emancipation of its women is a liberally reformed or hampered by an expensive system of purposeless drudgery and restriction and that as a subject to which Kenya Indians may give their undivided attention. It is improbable that the present generations will achieve the elasticity of mind necessary to the task of revolution in its broadest sense. The article we publish suggests that Kenya is doing something worth while for its Indian people and that a sound educational foundation is being laid. The work would be assisted and strengthened to its beneficial effects and results if the leaders of Indian thought could see their way to place political action in their proper place and to give their hand in the Legislative Council and elsewhere to the furtherance of this vital side of their community's progress. They must give it to their children to do so.

The work would be assisted and strengthened to its beneficial effects and results if the leaders of Indian thought could see their way to place political action in their proper place and to give their hand in the Legislative Council and elsewhere to the furtherance of this vital side of their community's progress. They must give it to their children to do so.

an address of the education and emancipation of its women is a liberally reformed or hampered by an expensive system of purposeless drudgery and restriction and that as a subject to which Kenya Indians may give their undivided attention. It is improbable that the present generations will achieve the elasticity of mind necessary to the task of revolution in its broadest sense. The article we publish suggests that Kenya is doing something worth while for its Indian people and that a sound educational foundation is being laid.
