Let these young sources; anti-drought measures; | South Africans help to develop sources, anti-drought measures; and, emphasised as an imperative necessity, the solution of the Native problem along the lines of political and territorial segregation advocated by General Herstog at Smithfield four years ago, and aince submitted to Parliament. This solution must be adopted, we are told, if South Africa is to reare told, if South Africa is to re-main a white man's land Yinally, and suggestively, the last item is the rejection of General Smula's Ermelo policy of Locking to the North. Here, I think, the Prime Minister got into troubled waters. He said General Smula's Ermelo He said General Smutts Primade speech must have come as a tre-mendoms shock to the same of South Africa who feel towards a South Africa who feel towards at the contract of t

Now this is, I think, where the nalist Premier comes to He carefully explains that his protest against Sgust's Ermel, policy does not include in its purview either Southern or Northern Rhodesis. He does not except Kenya! Yet only three or four weeks ago the Governor of Southern Rhodesis. Sir Ceell Rodwell, packaing at Bulawayo, emphasised that Native policy, both in the Union and in Rhodesis, should be built up on Buropean and Native co-operation.

General Smutr's calm states-manilia ulterances during his pre-sent four in the north eastern sistricts of the Cape Province, have been in marked contrast to those of the Premier.
