ARMISTICE DAY, 1929.

The wind goes whispering through the London street, Bearing upon its wings the sound of feet. The feet of those who heard the call of war, And, having fought their fight, shall march no more. Pitiful sound of feet, for these lads died E're the glad radiance of their youth was tried.

The wind comes whispering. As if some dim dream We hear their langiter, feel their hands that seem To grape towards us, holding for a space Our hurry back; till we recall some face That kindled with glad giving as he went Singing of 'Tippesary' and a leave will spent.

Singing or appears; and have the series, political, did a say? Now that is wrong, Ours are the hearts that failter through that song We learnet to night facilities. One was feet. That stumble as we grope along life's street. There was the crown of comparet; ours the pain of seeing that the sacrifice seems vain.

of seeing line use horizon between the con-ylet was it valle? A far more regal head Drooped on a Cross; and Blood Divine was shed to save mankade. Surely, through pain and strife, Our world comes struggling to a finer life. It must not be in vain. Pass by, dear triends, We hold the torch you held, till all war ends.

The appellant claims that these charges were included in the sum of £150/- per month which he al-lowed to the respondent as being lowed to the respondent as being the maximum to which to limit the outlay. Counsel for the appel-lant has argued that the respond-ent was bound by the contract to keep his outlay for all purposes within that limit.

This argument is weakened by This argument is weakened by the facts that the appellant sol-plied the additional sum of £200 for the expenses of picking the crop, supplied other funds for capi-al expenditure and has accepted the charges for occan freight on his coffee as not being within the limit of £100 per month.

The Joint East African Board at its meeting yesterday discussed at some length the question of the removal of the Uganda Department of Agriculture from Kampals to Entebbe.

The Board is very hostile to the removal, but is standing on the written assurance by the Colonial Office that the facts of the whole matter will, in any event, be re-viewed in the light of the recent debate in the Uganda Legislative Council.

A letter has been published by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services warning those who are nursing or visiting persons suffering from this complaint of the danger of carry-ing the disease from one person to another, and saking that, as for an possible, people should alsetain from visiting patients suffering from influenza. It also recom mends that a gargle of permang-nate of potash should be used after every exposure to infection.

The natives in Kidugallo and Turoani are reported to be suffer-ing from an epidemic of sickness. It is believed that influenza is the cause in both places
