"DOMINION STATUS" FOR INDIA.

What Would be Involved in a Political Change.

INTERNAL DISSENSION. Could an Indian Army Adequately Defend Country from Invasion?

The first part of the Simon Commission's Report—a historical survey of the problem—is expected to be issued by the Imperial Government to-day. The second and most important part, dealing with the question of constitutional reforms, will be published on June 29.

The following article a correspondent who spent many years in India, sets out some of the implications of the demand for "Dominion Status". The chief difficulties include the absence of Indian troops in India, the lack of "touchables" and the question of desecrating the country, the latter subject, subject to the Viceroy's veto, Indians have largely increased their powers over the affairs of the country.

GOODWILL NEEDED.

The demand for Dominion Status for India has been brought to the attention of the Indian people by the publication of the Simon Commission's Report. It is a demand which is being made by a large number of Indians, and it is one which is being made by a large number of Indians who are not only well-to-do, but who are also well-educated. It is a demand which is being made by a large number of Indians who are not only well-to-do, but who are also well-educated. An error in the published version of the minutes of the Conference had caused Lord Fairfield to support the Conference suggestion, which we welcomed as a useful and significant means of improving the situation. Douglas Laird Fairfield's apparent disapproval of the proposal, we will adhere to the view that a Conference of East African States (Wardle) would not serve any useful purpose. The Whimsy Industry. POOL ARGUMENTS AND THE EXPORT PROBLEM.

To the Editor, "The Standard." We have read with interest your article on the pool industry in Kenya which you published recently on the subject of "Whimsy" and I feel quite sure that it is necessary to reply to you, at least in some measure, for the sake of your readers.

First of all, let me say that the importation of such goods as Canada and Australia does not concern us at all. We are a small community, producing wheat for local consumption, and exporting a few thousand bags, which will be sold in some other part of our continent than the place dry. The situation here is that, concerning us, and the issue does not seem to be complicated by having a large country, and their various interests.

To the Editor, "The Standard." We have read with interest your article on the pool industry in Kenya which you published recently on the subject of "Whimsy" and I feel quite sure that it is necessary to reply to you, at least in some measure, for the sake of your readers.

It is for individuals who are trying to give the position of industry in Kenya, that we do not wish to see the industry in Kenya, that we do not wish to see the industry in Kenya, that we do not wish to see the industry in Kenya.

THE WHEAT INDUSTRY.

To the Editor, 'E.A. Standard.'
Sir—This is an interesting article, but it is a pity that it is not more complete. It is a pity that it is not more complete. It is a pity that it is not more complete.

The difference between the wheat industry in Kenya and that in the United States is a very important one. It is a pity that it is not more complete. It is a pity that it is not more complete.

I am a wheat grower in Kenya. I am a wheat grower in Kenya. I am a wheat grower in Kenya. I am a wheat grower in Kenya.

Kenya has been imported, because Indian mills in Kenya will not work and, what was expected, that the farmer would be able to sell his wheat locally at a reduced price per bushel. It is a pity that it is not more complete.

Whether the return of the wheat from Kenya to the United Kingdom is a good thing or a bad thing is a matter of opinion. It is a pity that it is not more complete. It is a pity that it is not more complete.

It is a pity that it is not more complete. It is a pity that it is not more complete. It is a pity that it is not more complete. It is a pity that it is not more complete.

RAILWAY PROBLEMS IN TANGANYIKA.

General Hammond Scuffs at "Imperial Link" Idea.

DODOMA JUNCTION REJECTED.

Class-Fife Proposal Which Leaves Iringa Area Unreserved by Rail.

The most important and most interesting Section of the recently published Report of Sir General Hammond on Railway Development in Tanganyika deals with the Southern line to open up the already busy Rhodoid.

It dismisses the question of an "Imperial Link" at most with contempt as merely a phrase.

General Hammond decides that the only acceptable route from the South coast to the line which starts at Kilimo on the Central Railway, is a line which starts at Kilimo on the Victoria to Mpanga and then crosses across by way of Iringa to Tika.

He dismisses after long consideration with the local views which proposed Dodoma as the junction with the Central Railway and he also opposes the idea of connecting Dodoma on Lake Tanganyika as he considers it would be premature as the terminus as it would compete for Nyasaland trade and be turned down on those grounds by the Imperial Government.

The effect of General Hammond's recommendation would be to leave the Iringa area of white settlers untouched by the main line and separated by a steep escarpment from the Railway.

GILLMART ROUTE TURNED DOWN.

"Windmill" London Correspondent.

The development of the Territory of Tanganyika is a matter which has attracted the attention of the British Government from the Report upon Tanganyika made in 1914. A Railway Project.

It is strange in these days of war, when the world is suffering from lack of provisions, that the British Government should be so anxious to develop the Territory of Tanganyika for the benefit of the white settlers and the natives alike.
