The Basis of Prosperity.

The statement that agriculture is the basis of prosperity in Kenya has been made so often that it should no longer be in doubt, though it is sometimes open to question whether agriculture alone is sufficient fully to realize the significance of the fact. We take the latest Imperial report on the economic position of the colony as the latest authoritative evidence in support of the statement. The Imperial report states that the agricultural sector of the economy is the most important and that it is the basis of the colony's prosperity. It is the only sector that has shown a consistent upward trend in the past few years. The report also states that the agricultural sector is the most important and that it is the basis of the colony's prosperity. It is the only sector that has shown a consistent upward trend in the past few years.

Both Peaks of Kenya Conquered.

Mr. E. C. Shipton's Latest Success.

["STANDARD" COMMENTARY.]

As I reported recently by the production of the Kenya Survey, British and Indian forces have now conquered the two peaks of Kenya, Mt. Kenia and Mt. Elgon. The conquest of these two peaks is a significant achievement for the British and Indian forces. It is a testament to their strength and determination. A NEW NAIROBI FEATURE.

HANDSOME HEADQUARTERS.

1st FLOOR, COURT-NAIROBI-K.C.

"The Editor's Court," with Avenue, Nairobi, the new East African Headquarters of the Shell Company of East Africa Ltd., and the Anglo-French Oil Co. (Kenya) Ltd., give a correct impression. The building, designed by Harold K. Richardson and Partners, Nairobi, in collaboration with James H. Langford, the Shell Company's architect, is a masterpiece of design, combining the best of modern architecture with the maximum use of light and heat in a special feature. The design is based on a simple treatment of Italian Renaissance and the building is being erected on a fairly elevated site. The two floors above the main store will be of concrete finished white and the rest to be of red "Roman" tiles made in the Colony, windows are glazed with special glass to control the action of the East African sun. The building will be served by two passenger lifts and will include a large reception lounge with open fireplace. The construction was done by W. H. Lewis & Co.

There was only one dissenting proposal of Mr. W. M. Maitland, who suggested that the Government should finance the temporary measure.

Mr. Maitland explained that his motion was the outcome of a suggestion of the Hon. the Attorney-General that the Government should finance the temporary measure.

There was no need for any further discussion on this subject. The Government decided to finance the temporary measure.

There was, however, an interesting question as to whether the Government should finance the temporary measure.

Again Discussed by London Chamber.

A SUBSIDY SUGGESTED.

Investigations in Systems Adopted on Other Routes.

London (by mail).—The London Chamber of Commerce has been asked to investigate the postal services to East Africa, and to suggest a subsidy to be paid to the postal authorities in the event of a decision to continue the service.

The British Chamber of Commerce in London has been asked to investigate the postal services to East Africa, and to suggest a subsidy to be paid to the postal authorities in the event of a decision to continue the service.

Enquiries in the course of the investigation have shown that the postal services to East Africa are not only inadequate but also very costly.

The Secretary of the United States Steamship Company has been asked to investigate the postal services to East Africa, and to suggest a subsidy to be paid to the postal authorities in the event of a decision to continue the service.

An attempt was made to ascertain what Great Britain paid for mail contracts in other parts of the world, and it was found that the rates were very low.

The Postmaster-General stated that the postal services to East Africa are not only inadequate but also very costly, and that a subsidy should be paid to the postal authorities in the event of a decision to continue the service.

Major Walsh who originally drafted the matter, thought that the postal services to East Africa are not only inadequate but also very costly, and that a subsidy should be paid to the postal authorities in the event of a decision to continue the service.

It was proposed that the postal services to East Africa be subsidized, and that the rates be fixed at a level which would enable the postal authorities to continue the service.

It was also suggested that the postal services to East Africa be subsidized, and that the rates be fixed at a level which would enable the postal authorities to continue the service.

After this had been carried out, it was found that the postal services to East Africa are not only inadequate but also very costly, and that a subsidy should be paid to the postal authorities in the event of a decision to continue the service.

It was also suggested that the postal services to East Africa be subsidized, and that the rates be fixed at a level which would enable the postal authorities to continue the service.

Road and Weather Report.

Mr. Gifford writes as follows:—The roads are in a very good state of repair, and the weather is very pleasant.

The highest rainfall in the district was 2.81 in, followed by 2.00 in, 1.80 in, 1.60 in, 1.40 in, 1.20 in, 1.00 in, 0.80 in, 0.60 in, 0.40 in, 0.20 in, and 0.10 in.

Legis. houses have taken in the morning, but the evening session will be held at 7 p.m., and will be a very interesting one.

The Poultry World. THE WORLD'S CONGRESS. Exhibits at Crystal Palace.

The World's Poultry Congress, held at the Crystal Palace, London, was opened by the Duke of Devonshire, who presided over the opening ceremony.

The Duke spoke of the widespread interest in the Congress, and of the high quality of the exhibits, which were representative of the best poultry raising in the world.

The arrangements were described as being of a high standard, and the Congress was expected to be a very successful one.

The British birds were loaned to the Congress, and were shown to a table, where they were kept in cages, and were available for inspection.

The Congress was opened by the Duke of Devonshire, who presided over the opening ceremony, and was attended by a large number of distinguished guests.
