AGRICULTURAL VOTE.

Opposition to New Staff for the Department.

One of the most important sections of the report of the Select Committee on the 1911 Estimates of the Department that drew the attention of the Department of Agriculture, The first of the Department has been framed on lines giving effect to the proposals of the Agricultural Commission for the establishment of a Deputy Director and a division of manual labour to be in charge of machinery. The Committee was informed that a Deputy Director of Plant Industry had been appointed at £2,000 per annum, replacing a provision post of Deputy Director of Plant Industry. The second post of Deputy Director (Agricultural) appeared, however, in the Estimates at £1,500. The Select Committee criticised the method in which the appointment was presented in the Estimates. The Committee recommended that it be made clear that there was no intention of appointing a member of senior rank to the post of Deputy Director of Plant Industry. The Committee also recommended that the appointment be deleted. The differences between the two views are:

A Fencing Post. The Director of Agriculture informed the Committee that he was in favour of giving an estimate that the Fencing Estimate could be properly administered under the appointment of a new official post to be attached to headquarters. The estimate for the year 1912-13 begins at £600, ranging to £750 and £900 respectively, was estimated at £800. The Director explained that the services of a competent land resident is being sought. Discussion continued in regard to the provision of funds for the purchase of fencing material and money appears for this purpose in the estimate of Budget. It was proposed that £2,000 of fencing material should be carried in the next year. Works Department stocks for the purchase of fencing material were also discussed and informed the Committee that the proposal would require Colonial Office sanction.

An Economist. The Committee was informed that an Agricultural Board was a new official included in the 1912-13 estimate had been made. The Board would be composed of the Director of Agriculture, the Director of Plant Industry, the Director of Veterinary Services, and the Director of Forests. The Committee expressed a number of objections to the proposal and recommended that the appointment be cancelled.

that there was an enormous amount of work to be done both in European areas and in the African Reserve. The Committee recommended, however, that in the present financial position the new appointments should be deferred. The Director also placed before the Committee a proposal to increase the salary of instructors in agriculture on the qualifications and training required were higher than those of ordinary stock inspectors. The Committee, however, was opposed to any proposal to increase the salary of the staff of 5000 which the Estimates propose. The Committee also placed before the House a resolution that the Manual workers should be paid on the basis of the Agricultural Commission for the Mass holder, the Provisional Commission, and the Manual workers. The Committee recommended that the Manual workers should be paid on the basis of the Agricultural Commission for the Mass holder, the Provisional Commission, and the Manual workers.

SIR E. GRIGGS' CAREER AS GOVERNOR.

Critical Review by Lord Lytton.

The Kenya Board of Agriculture has made a timely motion in the quiet of a Butler day in the brief statement published today. An important sentence in the additional memorandum is the assurance to be prepared to give should no increase in the price of butter will take place. The importance of this statement is that it is the first of its kind in the history of the Kenya Board of Agriculture.

In the morning up of a distinct critical review, comprising three pages of the career of Sir E. Griggs as Governor of Kenya, the "Standard" has published an important article in addressing the Legislative Council by a number of members of the Legislative Council. The last time you took your car to be de-carbonised was the garage man horrified at the heavy, hard crystalline carbon! It can change your lubricating Oil to B.P.

You can positively avoid hard carbon by using B.P. Oils, which produce the very minimum of carbon and of a soft and lively nature, easily removed.

The lubrication requirements of the modern engine are more efficiently met with B.P. Oils.

WIRELESS IN EAST AFRICA.

THE NAIROBI STATION.

Reception Conditions.

The "E. A. Standard" has arranged for the regular publication of wireless page. These details, written by Mr. Laurel A. Hooper, a well-known Kenya radio authority, will appear weekly.

It is reported that TLO Wireless has now increased his power on the short wave length, and as already mentioned in these columns is now being used with a power of 20 Kwatts on 20 metres. Reception conditions are quite good in Mombasa, he being at a point where there does not appear to be a local interference. During the speech especially there is a humorous which, at times, makes the speech unintelligible; as if there was a spurious oscillation taking place on the transmitter lead.

On the first night most listeners, including the writer suspected their own receivers, but comparison results showed that it was genuine. The day transmissions are coming in quite well now. The three day one being received on one of the new MacCallister Dime Three sets, and was capable of loudspeaker strength on the wireless core receiver. Through some disturbance on the speech was not so great during the day time.

The relay of the Calcutta Diwan was successful, most of the cases intended to be broadcast by means of a speaker, and it is not intended to be broadcast. What is the idea about "The Wireless Cross"? After mentioning of the program the microphone might have explained it for the benefit of the interested.

TLO is coming over at times quite well on the 20 metre transmission these nights in spite of heavy QRM (interference). The receiver in use was not in any way superior to the native one. It is possible that it is somewhat of a light weight. It is an all-metal set and every length must be about approximately one and half times the length as much as two or three times the wave length of 30 to 375 metres. It is a set most between 800 and 1500 feet long.

It is in the direction of the

It can be obtained to A.C. mains of any tension, fittings being provided for this purpose. It is also used as a converter. Failure of power will however the generator can be replaced by the one supplied. The lead system can be checked outside the set in the most favourable position.

The second set on the local mobile unit for public address work, on motor which part of the Colony Advertising purposes and with the addition of the well known Philips 2002 motor as a demonstrator for broadcasting, etc., etc.

through a receiving transformer. A small receiving valve makes up the set to a tone adjuster. This has been long for a city, close to the receiver. It is a simple set for the amateur. The set is designed to be used with a standard and it is not a short wave.

It may be mentioned that in describing a recent set on "The Standard" was mentioned. From the name of the Radio Design is shown that it is a tone adjuster. It is a P. transmission of the second kind. It is a simple set for the amateur. The set is designed to be used with a standard and it is not a short wave.

UGANDA BUDGET DEFICIT OF £200,000.

Another Raid To Be Made Upon Surplus Balances.

THE 1931 ESTIMATES.

Thorough Overhaul of Expenditure to be Undertaken.

The Government of Uganda has budgeted for a deficit during 1931 of £201,000.

Ordinary expenditure exceeds the estimated revenue by £202,000 but in addition there is a Public Works programme amounting to £117,000 which is considered the minimum required to keep the permanent staff of the P. W. D. busy.

It is proposed to meet the deficit by drawing upon Uganda's surplus balances which was done last year, but Government officials are in view of the improbability of an increase in cotton values...

At first sight it might appear from the figure of £200,000 that the deficit for 1931 is not so large as it is in fact.

Meanwhile to meet the costs of new public services the Government are asked to provide £1,000,000.

BUILDING A RESERVE.

To the extent of £240,000 and there would be left over £100,000 which would be available for other purposes.

The Uganda Budget for 1931, showing a deficit of £200,000 was recently made public by the Acting Governor.

What About YOURS? ... THE QUALITY SHE Polish MAKES SMART SHOES SMARTER with some confidence that a very of 100,000 halves will be realized in the coming season.

A small increase has been anticipated under native P. W. D. but the Government officials are in view of the improbability of an increase in cotton values...

Under all other heads of expenditure the Acting Governor has estimated an excess of £100,000 over the estimated revenue.

Turning now to the schedules of expenditure to be met from the Acting Treasurer's estimate...

It will be seen from the Acting Treasurer's estimate that after the deduction of the £201,000 deficit...

The present position is better than it was in 1930, but it is not in the absence of uniformity...

The special price for the best of the same quality is given by the same exhibitor...

I will now revert to the services to which I earlier made reference in my article on the 1931 ordinary expenditure schedule...

It is a task which reduces the expenditure in proportion to the increase in the number of persons employed...

One of the outstanding features of the show was the display of the Nairobian Horticultural Society...

It will be seen from the Acting Treasurer's estimate that after the deduction of the £201,000 deficit...

IS THE ETHER EXHAUSTED?

The "E. A. Standard" has arranged for the regular publication of a wireless page. These Articles, written by Mr. Lionel J. Hughes, a well-known Kenya radio authority, will appear weekly.

Not only in Kenya, but all over the world, reports are coming in from amateurs mostly, that reception conditions on the short waves are poor. Whereas in Kenya it was possible a few years ago to get good reception from such stations as W.C. GSW and the American group, now-a-days such reception would appear to be the exception, rather than the rule. A rather interesting theory is put forward in the latest T. and H. Bulletin (Journal of the Radio Society of Great Britain). In one case it is suggested that either is getting used up, and in a second theory that lack of reception is put down to meteorological conditions. It is remarked that an examination of meteorological data shows that the "sun-spots" follow a fairly definite cycle, approximately eleven years. The summer of 1923 corresponded with a period of low solar activity and it was just after this period that most of the records were low-power records were put up. The maxima of sunspot activity was 1929 and the minima should be 1934. So that apparently we shall not get good reception until 1934.

Reception Conditions in Mombasa

Reception conditions in general for the week ending 19th December in Mombasa have been fairly good, although a good strength on 50 metres, has suffered severely from distortion. This would appear to be a superior condition at times. At other times it appears as if there was a breakdown in the receiving arrangement, and a prominent 50 cycle hum has been superimposed on the broadcast. Whenever it occurs, the intelligibility of the broadcast falls to 75 per cent. of the entertainment and at times the speech has been unintelligible. During the latter part of the week, however, there has been some improvement. Reception conditions on the 200 to 300 metres have been hopeless owing to very bad atmosphere. No other stations of note have been picked up.

A Few Hints

A few hints have been given at times regarding the "best" conditions that better reliable tests can be made a minimum of 200 to 300 metres maximum and up to 150 volts for the H. T.—is a necessity. A rough sense of taste for a receiver will be that, at night time, there should be atmosphere and also increasing his reaction content until oscillation occurs should bring in something. The set should show a certain liveliness. Secondly the aerial and/or the earth lead may be disconnected. The asexual method will show this and the remedy is obvious. The same applies to the H. T. battery. A preliminary test will show us if a given H. T. is good. If a mains unit is being used make certain that the mains are not faulty. Again a voltmeter test of the tapings will show this.

Check the specific source of trouble in the valves which may be faulty. Before replacing them it would be as well to give the valve holder with a voltmeter. The two filament pins—the first and the second—should show approximately the voltage of the transformer. From the plate pin to negative of the H. T. battery—the plate pin is the stage pin—should show a definite stage the voltage of the first H. T. tap and on the L.F. stage the first tap.

The lead to the Pentode side terminal should show approximately the same voltage as the first tap—i.e. it is necessary to keep in the lead speaker during this test. The screen grid terminal should show a voltage of 20 and 80 volts—the screen grid terminal is the pin on the H. T. stage that normally would be the plate pin. The filament leads must not be touched.

the cap of the screen grid valve should show approximately 100 or 150 volts. Assuming there is no fault in any of these leads the valves will probably be faulty and should be replaced one by one. The best speaker or telephone may be used as a test and a convenient test is by plugging in another set. It is known that 2-volt valves require a two volt battery, 4-volt a four-volt battery etc. If the voltages are correct, the valves will, sooner or later, and probably sooner, burn out. If the voltage is not high enough, i.e., a two-volt battery to turn a four-volt valve there will be no reception.

The plug-in coils, or wave-changing coils of whatever type they may be frequently give trouble. The pins and sockets, or other device by which they are plugged in should be examined to see that the contact is good, i.e., in the plug-in type coils, they frequently, through continuous use, fail to make contact and should be carefully opened out until it does.

In general the fault is to look for any faulty valves and batteries that are not giving correct voltages. Use the correct coils for the wave band in use as recommended by the maker of the sets having two tuning controls—this does NOT include the variable condenser in step otherwises it may be possible to hear a weak station.

Wave lengths

Another point that still seems to be a bit in some readers' minds is the question of wave lengths. The conditions are—neglecting the question of power—that on the 300 to 500 metres band it is possible to get good reception up to 200 miles in daylight and 1000 miles at night. Bands greater than this can be obtained under exceptional conditions or with expensive sets. In tropical countries the night range is cut down considerably owing to atmospheric disturbances, so that a night range of 100 miles may be the limit. With wavelengths between 30 and 60 metres a day range of 400 miles with a night range up to 4,000 miles—more or less—the rule. Fifteen to 19 metres gives a day range up to 4,000 miles. On the other hand that is between 30 metres and the shortest wave in use skip effects occur, these are more prominent at night and, consequently, the shorter wave is may be impossible to hear a station 100 miles away although at 3,000 miles he is coming in at full loudspeaker strength. On the short wave atmospheric are practically negligible, and high powers are not necessary for good service.

Therefore sets for use in Kenya Colony, with the exception of Nairobi and the immediate surrounding districts, should be designed for above waves, that is 100 metres and upwards. This may be easily supplied with commercial sets for covering the normal broadcast band, that is 200 to 500 metres, but these are practically useless on here except for occasional work. For the experiment, yes, look at the wireless law.

The "Journal of the Institution of Electrical Engineers" contains in the November number a very enlightening "Developments in Mechanical Telegraph Systems and Methods of Operation," by Mr. H. H. H. D. It discusses the possibilities of most modern mechanical telegraphs following the "regenerative" system used by R.T.F. The following extract is interesting: "If a plant made up of many average telegraphs, the public telegraph would be an impossibility." "International telegraphy is a very difficult problem, and at least in Europe it is a bad very. Basically, inland telegraphy is successful in America, but in Europe it is a failure. The reason is that in Europe, is established by Government Administration. The effect is in the nature of central data."

not, however, account for the degree of success achieved in one case and the inevitable failure in the other. America is a land of long distances, and between the two centres with a community of the journey by train can be easily covered at least 24 hours.

Long distances operate in favour of the telegraph and against the wireless, and the long and importance of the communication determines which form shall lead. It is possible to tell that towards (assuming normal business hours) only between 1 and 5 p.m. being 10 hours, most proceed in the morning, and commencing at 6 a.m. cannot be carried out further east than China. Their side effect on telegraphy is to cause a change in the direction of traffic.

There is quite a long discussion on the above which makes interesting reading to a communications engineer or anybody interested in the art.

Series of Tests

A further series of tests are announced by amateurs on the 28 M.C. band and the date, as at present given, is—January 4th, 1934, and 28th. The test bands are invited to listen in on the 28 M.C. band (10 metres) these days, generally in daylight, and to report all signals heard. Quite a number of foreign countries it is believed will participate. These tests, which may prove quite interesting.

Kenya and Uganda amateurs appear to be coming in well in the Sudan and one sees reports of most of the active lists from Donagall and Khartoum. There is now practically a chain of amateurs from Cape to Cairo and some reply might really be in superlatives. Surely on either the 30 or 40 metres band it should be possible to hear a reliable data.

Fog forced a postponement in a Third Division, Northern section league match between Rochdale and Halifax. The southern section game between Luton and Clapton Orient had also to be abandoned, the Orient at the time of the abandonment leading by four goals to three.

Two games were completed, both in the northern section of the league. The results were:—Astonington Stanley 2, Darlington 1. Hestonham 2, Lincoln City 2.
