DETACHMENT OF INFANTRY ARRIVE ON SCENE WITHOUT CARTRIDGES.

An anti-Socialist demonstration at Geneva rapidly developed into a riot necessitating the calling out of troops. The mob was finally fired upon by machine guns resulting in numerous casualties. Part of the military sent to the scene were infantry recruits from the training school. They were not supplied unit cartilages, and were violently attacked by the crowd. Their ritles were selected and they were chased and ambushed. A further detachment, fully armed, was then rushed out.

Pigs Need Careful Feeding! Give Them Pollard.

The advantages of fresh pollard over maize, barley meal, etc., are:

- (1) It is sweeter and more palatable.
- (2) It is equally good as a fattening food, i.e., has the same starch equivalent and low fibre content, but has twice as much digestible protein as barley
- (3) It is free from husks, but is nevertheless excellent roughage.
- (4) It is the safest of all Pig foods.

Germany's Claim for Armament Equality.

BRITISH VIEW EXPLAINED BY SIR JOHN SIMON.

Conditional Agreement.

GOVERNMENT ANXIOUS TO FIND BASIS FOR DISCUSSION.

- The British view on Germany's claim for equality in armaments, was explained by Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary, during the debate in the House of Commons on the disarmament problem. He said that Britain desired to find a basis on which Germany could return to the Disarmament Con-ference with honour to herself and with advantage to all concerned.
- Britain, he said, was prepared to accept Germany's claim on the condition that a solemn agreement was entered into by all European States that force would not be used to settle any present or future
- Mr. Stanley Baldwin said the world had to consider whether civil aviation could be so controlled as to make the abolition of air forces feasible. Civil machines, he said, were potential bombers.
