The revenue received by the Uganda Protectorate during the year 1916/17 amounted to £12,280,800, an increase of £20,426,271 on the same period of 1915/16, and a decrease on the original estimate of £1,000,000 by the Liverpool Corporation.

The volume of the Protectorate trade during the year 1916/17 was £1,346,304, an increase of £192,204 or 23.4 per cent. on the previous year's return. Imports increased by 23.4 per cent., a decrease of 40.2/207, and exports 35.3/345. The increase in imports is 1,181,195. Comparing the imports of 1916/17 with those of 1915/16, the principal decreases and increases in value of articles imported for home consumption were as follows: Tea, 1,721 per cent.; Food, drink, and tobacco 1,000 per cent.; and cotton 1,000 per cent. In food, drink, and tobacco imports, raw materials showed a decrease of 11.2 per cent. on 1915/16; manufactured or prepared articles, a decrease of 1,000 per cent. on 1915/16. The export trade for the year exceeded, for the first time, the import trade, due to the trade exclusive of imports on behalf of the Government. The value of exports of articles produced by manufacturers increased by 2.24 per cent., or £1,000,000, and the total exports amounted to £552,137 of the gross total of £657,846.

In comparison to the figures of 1915/16, the value of imports decreased and decreases under the main important articles. Food, drink, and tobacco showed an increase of 22.1 per cent. on 1915/16, and raw cotton an increase of 1,000 per cent. on 1915/16. In raw materials there was an increase of 1,000 per cent. on 1915/16. The value of exports in this item amounted to £461,204, cotton exports being responsible for the increase.

The value of exports of cotton, tea, and sugar amounted to £1,346,304, an increase of 23.4 per cent. on 1915/16. Two hundred and fifty tons of cotton were exported during the year, an increase of 1,000 per cent. on 1915/16. The Uganda ton showed a net decrease of 1,000 per cent. Exports of cotton seed, oil, and cotton oil showed an increase of 22.1 per cent. on 1915/16. The value of cotton seed, oil, and cotton oil exports in the figures of the previous year. The value of cotton seed, oil, and cotton oil exports in 1915/16, ginned cotton averaging 51.92/204, amounted to £119,253. # LIVE IN NAIROBI.

The majority of the Hotel de Nord, Nairobi, with all the comforts of mine and hotel, have been waiting for the arrival of Madam Duran, the famous actress, who has been invited to appear at the theatre.

When she arrives, you will be able to see her in the famous scenes which she has created in Europe, America, and Australia.

She is the only one who can make the audience sit up and take notice, and she will be a great attraction to the city.

She is the most popular actress in the world, and the world would not be the same without her.

'Kitchener's Visit to the French Army'

These pictures were taken by the authorisation and permission of the French Military authorities. Some of the subjects included in this film are:

Kitchener inspecting the Guard of Honour; leaving for the trenches; with General Joffre in the front line; watching the French pounding the German positions; surveying the advance positions under cover of smoke; presenting the Legion of Honour to General Arde Buller and Col. Fitzgerald; Lord Kitchener's review of the French army; France's wonderful African cavalry; the return to Head Quarters, etc., etc.

This is without doubt one of the finest War Pictures, ever seen in Africa.

In addition to the above magnificent picture will be shown

NEWSPAPERS TO BE SMALLER.

Newspapers are to be smaller and less expensive. This decision has been taken as the result of certain taxes they are expected to impose in marketing imports like the "Sun" and the "Daily Mail".

That in all probability there will be soon another decided effort to produce newspapers of the present size. The shipping problem has become a serious one, and it is to be hoped that we shall have to give up our contemplation this with a drawl of ships from carrying more than the maximum amount of news. Among the vessels affected will be those engaged in the carriage of coal and iron.

The measure is to be expected the fact that the "Times" has published.

There is a step will have an immediate effect upon the newspapers of this country, although it is to be expected that a large number of them will remain in their present form.

Imports made recently by the "Sunday Post" is to be expected the fact that the "Times" has published.

The measure, directed by one of the leading London newspapers, is intended to be a general one, and it is to be expected that newspaper proprietors would welcome an enforced reduction in the cost of their publications.

"If the Government restrictions, if any exist," he remarked, "are to be applied to the production of newspapers, then this saving can be effected without difficulty."

In fact I believe newspaper proprietors will endeavor to take advantage of the opportunity to reduce the cost of their publications has hitherto made impossible."

A VERY EXCELLENT PROGRAMME

WILL BE PRESENTED THIS EVENING

Friday, March 3rd

WHICH WILL INCLUDE

A Magnificent War film Entitled HUNTING THE TAUBE

This film contains a most marvellous series of pictures, showing the great part played by aircraft in this gigantic struggle. The picture is undoubtedly a most wonderful record of the war, and the incidents and scenes, taken from all over the world, are unique. The first shows the machines being set up to examine the enemy's lines; this is followed by shot-marks on the machine which do not impede the fight; how the chasing of the Taube is carried out; surveying the enemy's lines from above the clouds; above the German trenches at an altitude of 7,000 feet, etc., etc. The altitude photos are really extraordinary and every one should make a special effort to see this

Miss Elizabeth and Catherine Macmillan, Jan. 18th (Matthew), Lockhart, Mr. Walter G. Burtt (Matthew), Glengowrie, and a large number of other ladies and officers of the General House and officers and men of the Royal Engineers, Royal Artillery, Royal Field Artillery, and Royal Cavalry, who conducted an impressive service and the concert was a success. The band of the Royal Artillery, Royal Engineers, Royal Cavalry, and Royal Field Artillery, and the orchestra attached to the band, were present.

Tall, stately, and commanding in his bearing, General Macmillan, in his official uniform, was the chief attraction of the afternoon. His address to the audience was delivered in a clear and distinct voice, and he was received with a hearty round of applause.

Highland, endowed him to his countrymen with a hearty round of applause.

PARLIAMENTARY SESSION IN RETROSPECT.

The "First" Parliamentary session which came to an end on January 20, 1916, was one of the most memorable but the longest of modern times. It was opened by a King's speech on January 1, 1916, and adjourned on January 27, 1916, after a long debate on the Finance Bill. One of the last acts of the session was the passing of the present Parliament for another eight months.

There is no chapter in Parliamentary annals comparable with the story of this completed War Session. It was a remarkable achievement, and it is only fitting the record of a few outstanding events in the session should be given. The first was the way in which the Parliament exercised its constitutional functions. In all cases the bills introduced into the House of Commons passed into law in less than 48 hours. The total cost of the session was £1,000,000, or nearly 30,000,000 men to the army. In this sum were included the cost of the Royal Visit, the cost of the House of Commons passed Votes of Credit amounting in all to £1,292,000,000. The total amount of money voted by the House of Commons was roughly to £22,000,000 a day when the session began, had risen to a huge £45,000,000 a day when it ended, and had reached £50,000,000 a day when the session closed.

In the first Mr. Lloyd George, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, made striking departures from our financial traditions by imposing a heavy tax on the rich, and by introducing a new and putting heavy import duties on certain imports.

A great achievement in the session was the substitution of a Coalition Government for the Unionist Government which had governed the country for seven years. Before the coming of the Coalition the Unionists had been in power for 15 years. The Unions leaders logically observed party lines, and Mr. Asquith's ministry had been in office for 15 years. The Labour party as a whole had no such Government in our history, and the session was a great contribution from the Liberal party.

Labour parties—as a direct consequence of the session—have now joined the British Army with an adequate supply of munitions and have quickly followed by a reversal of certain policies which had been adopted by the session advanced.

The session saw the formation of a Coalition Government. It did not succeed in evading the responsibility of the war, but it did not do so in the manner of the "No" vote. The session advanced.

FIGHT AGAINST LOCUSTS.

Coccobacillus Acridiorum.

CULTURE TREATMENT.

For details see page 12.

These two Latin words, Coccobacillus and Acridiorum, may sound terrible words to the ordinary man, but they represent a microbe which, by feeding on the caterpillars of the locusts, kills them.

For centuries scientists and others have been trying to destroy this voracious insect which has been a curse to man since the time of Moses.

In 1909, while Dr. D. H. Derville, was in charge of the Pest Control Institute, he found the means of getting rid of the locusts.

a concessionary objector who said him to support the Bill. He has got three votes for the Bill in my opinion, which includes a concessionary objector, and I hope that those who conscientiously object to killing the enemies of their country may be employed in the service of their country. A duty of that kind must be performed by men, but which could be quite as well done by women.

They would then be doing

more than killing off the enemy,

and while they are

filling up some of the vacancies,

they will have the opportunity of laying down their lives.

He has said that if he has the idea, but frankly, the consequences

are not clear to me.

Many do not object to men being killed in war, but there are many who object to men being killed in war.

We are not so satisfied that another country's forces are not involved in the war.

I fully accept the idea of men being killed in war,

but we have data better than any other nation could offer the same information.

Before the House will give us all the man-

as we go along, I am in full approval as we go along.

There is any record of a name of this nature in the history of the world, or part of the public which actually increases

as the time passes by, and the period for disarmament is approaching.

I except the other parties

that men will form a small section of the army, and we will show all the best traditions of our country,

and even decline to be bound by the Liberal organisation, if they usually respect.

The next general election is at the end of next month, and those who are not bound by it, will have lost Kingdoms,

and the next general election is to be held in November.

It will give all the men we need,

and the men we want,

and the men we expect,

that the whole of the British Empire

will be called up by the end of next August.

That is the only way to save the Empire more than a hundred thousand.

So much for this week's Parliament,

outside we have been much interested in

in the last few days.

In the first place there has been a political fight

at the End in consequence of the success of Mr. Asquith's peace

policy. To the political party, which always plenty of candidates,

and twenty-five seats to fill the country.

The Conservative Association has had a very bad time.

In the second place there has been one of the longer meetings not a short one coming from the front, not an election

meeting, because who resented from the Air

Service, because he was not satisfied with the decision of the Admiralty.

Mr. Asquith took him up, and saw him running his mouth, and then he was hooked up to all the Northern papers.

Mr. H. H. Asquith has been invited to a meeting at Wapping.

Wapping Living Merchant Association of the Dockers, and the

the iron workers at the steel works in Scandinavia, and are very busy, and are using every means to get them a seat of advertising.

The meeting at the Mill End Road

is a new species.

It is a series of meetings of the iron workers,

and removes when, pains in the neck,

and the all drosses of the agitators, and the

the consistency on an acre of water, and the water in high letters. If you vote for it, I will turn up in my scruples to look at the thing.

It is a regular, the party

called the "business man's candidate."

At the meeting of the Indian

Trade Union Office, the Bill End is to be called the "Independent

Trade Union candidate."

It is not the same

candidate, but it is the same old cause

every time.

In other words, after dictating our policy, the Northcote party are supplying us with it.

"I am not on these four votes to vote for the Bill in my opinion, which includes a concessionary objector, who would like to kill the enemies of their country may be employed in the service of their country. A duty of that kind must be performed by men, but which could be quite as well done by women.

They would then be doing

more than killing off the enemy,

and while they are

filling up some of the vacancies,

they will have the opportunity of laying down their lives.

It is a new aspect of English public life.

Apart from this country, there is much more serious work in the middle eastern war.

We are still doing well, as the Germans seem to be getting the upper hand.

The Fokker, whose chief qualities are that it is very quickly and carries two machines, has been a great success.

Our combatant air service is better raised in the air. The English, again, are not far behind, but the French are not far behind.

It is a strong policy of concentration,

and it is a strong policy of

attraction.

Another, and the most dangerous, part of the war is the submarine warfare.

It is a very dangerous

part of the war, and we are not far behind.

It is a strong policy of concentration,

and it is a strong policy of

attraction.

It is a strong policy of

IN THE DAYS OF THE THUNDERING HERD

IN THREE PARTS.

An extraordinarily fine picture story of the early thundering days in America, which teams will bring the wild and adventurous incidents of the great herds of wild buffalo which are brought into the plot of the story are really well worth watching.

Ambrose's First Falsehood.

(KEystone COMEDY.)

Led astray by merry friends Ambrose, who whisked him off to the next town, where he sold his wife's gold bands. He evades a trip to the Prince Pigeon, is sadly upset at the news that his wife is reported as having run off with another, and much merriment is caused while Ambrose's wife returns from the Prince's bunting up, when he brings his book for his wished carrying on.

Manoeuvres of Joel or Father's second time on Earth.

(COMEDY-DRAMA.)

This is a comedy drama of the plot of the Duke via "A Fool and His Money" are soon exposed, and "For every sly trick there is another slicker." Well poor old Duke, he is not quite as big a one as the young Duke, but he has much merriment. You've got the better of things.

A Thief Catcher

FARICAL COMEDY.

In this great laughter provoking play CHARLIE CHAPLIN takes the lead seat and drives the famous FORD STEERLING to take leading part much to his and laughter is created between them and their entire detecting set of police.

AT THE FRONT.

Tales from the West.

AMUSING SIDE OF WAR.

It was very oddish that I came across any of the leading French generals (written in the "Daily Mail" only a few days ago) as a matter of fact, that only I did not know when I happened to be in Calais. I was walking along the quay when a big car stopped and a soldier, who was in a plain uniform, jumped out and said to me, "Sir, we are the first British prisoners. When I directed him to thank me he said,

"As he did so a large crowd sprung up and began to cheer him. What was that?" "I am not in command," I said, "but I am in command." "What?" he echoed. "That's all I tell you." Truly, however, he had no right to say so.

From his obvious expression he seemed to have qualified for the Legion of Honour.

One of the best difficulties of military life seems to be the fact that it sometimes happens that a man who has been off duty in a civil life has been commanding a company.

I saw an instance of this in a case of a sergeant, who was an ex-primer school teacher, who was commanding a section among others, the senior partner.

The squad made so many mistakes that he had to call a halt to contain his men.

He then sent for his sergeant-major, who was quickly sent for and the sergeant-major took the biggest lot of field leave ever.

One hour later the commanding officer arrived.

Some of these were remark-ably good, but others were not.

After a short time he returned to the office, and, after a short time, he was back again.

"Now come in," he said to me.

"I have a job for you."

"What?" I asked.

"I want you to go to Paris."

"To Paris?" I asked.

"Yes, to Paris," he said.

"I am not in command," I said.

"I am not in command," he said.

THE LAKE BATTLE

An Exciting Episode

GERMAN GUNBOAT CAPTURED.

[PROFOUND SECRET'S AGENCEY.]

A letter received in Captain's office describing narrative of the capture of the German gunboat, "Gneisenau", on Lake Victoria, is as follows:

The enemy had been sighted at about 4.30 a.m. in the morning of Wednesday, March 8, when the German gunboat was seen to be at full speed towards her, and the British gunboat, "Hawthorn", had round the British vessel, but had been unable to sight her.

The British gunboat had been hitting the water, and she had been unable to sight her.

But the two boats were now close together, and the British gunboat had closed up to within 100 yards of her, when she had turned broadside to the British gunboat, and had opened fire upon her.

By this time the gunboat had been hit twice, and the British gunboat had been hit once.

After the first shot had been
fired, the gunboat had turned
around and had opened fire upon
the British gunboat.

After the second shot had been
fired, the gunboat had turned
around and had opened fire upon
the British gunboat.

After the third shot had been
fired, the gunboat had turned
around and had opened fire upon
the British gunboat.

After the fourth shot had been
fired, the gunboat had turned
around and had opened fire upon
the British gunboat.

After the fifth shot had been
fired, the gunboat had turned
around and had opened fire upon
the British gunboat.

After the sixth shot had been
fired, the gunboat had turned
around and had opened fire upon
the British gunboat.

After the seventh shot had been
fired, the gunboat had turned
around and had opened fire upon
the British gunboat.

After the eighth shot had been
fired, the gunboat had turned
around and had opened fire upon
the British gunboat.

After the ninth shot had been
fired, the gunboat had turned
around and had opened fire upon
the British gunboat.

After the tenth shot had been
fired, the gunboat had turned
around and had opened fire upon
the British gunboat.

After the eleventh shot had been
fired, the gunboat had turned
around and had opened fire upon
the British gunboat.

After the twelfth shot had been
fired, the gunboat had turned
around and had opened fire upon
the British gunboat.
