A VISITOR'S NOTES.

The policy of secrecy which the owners of the merchant submarine "Deutschland" followed was broken recently in the case of the mariner artist, Mr. Henry Lewis, who has been permitted to make sketches of the vessel, which were worked up by the artist in a very interesting manner. The following article is based upon notes taken by Mr. Routledge during his visit to the vessel, which was in the "Scientific American".

The "Deutschland" is 200 feet in length and is built on the usual system of a hull and deck proper, with what might be called an enlarged false hull outside of this. The beam of the hull proper is 17 feet, but the beam of the ship, deck to deck, is about 20 feet. She is driven by Diesel engines, having 1,200 horse-power, the engines being 7-cylinder, two on each shaft. The speed on the surface is 14 knots, and submerged 11 knots, 100 tons on each shaft. TOW-PLANNING. The following fundamental principles of town-planning in Nairobi were suggested to me by an influential member of the Legislative Council.

To begin with, I was justified in considering as a fact, that things in this country always arise, and have arisen, among the people, in a haphazard way, and that the result is a town with no plan.

To begin with, I was justified in considering as a fact, that things in this country always arise, and have arisen, among the people, in a haphazard way, and that the result is a town with no plan.

The most important principle should be to build health in the country, rather than to build a city in the country.
