The best value in East Africa

ASK FOR "W. L. 100"

The best value in East Africa

UNDERWEAR FOR MEN

'W. L. 100'

perfect substitute for all wool. This Vest is made from pure wool with an admixture of cotton. It has absorbent and non-chilling properties of Pure Wool with the additional advantages of low price and unshrinkability. The present high price of Wool has made this underwear more popular than ever.

Our Lowest Price
Rs. 4-50.

A COMPROMISE

The majority of medical men recommend wool—the majority of ordinary men in a hot climate prefer cotton. In 'W.L. 100' you get the compromise combining the good qualities of both. It has enough wool in its texture to avoid the chilling effect of cotton while the proportion of the two materials give it the added virtue of being Unshrinkable. It scores still further by being Inexpensive.

Our Lowest Price
Rs. 4-50.

GOLD FOR THE RUPEE.
Dual Currency the Only Way Out of Exchange Rate Ruin.

B.E.A. GOVERNMENT MUST ACT
HOW LEGISLATION MAY RESCUE TRADE
AND COMMERCE

It is quite evident from the volume of correspondence already published that the question that presents rate of exchange is causing serious uneasiness to many, and it is clear that all those who give thought, not only to their own but also to the general welfare, are greatly disquieted by the existing state of affairs. It would serve no useful purpose to reiterate at length the disastrous results that we feel are certain to follow in its train if the high rate of exchange continues without some method being adopted to combat the evils which are attendant upon it. It is sufficient here merely to lay stress on the fact that with the exodus of capital encouraged and its importation discouraged, with the spending capacity of the European seriously contracted and the export's margin of profit reduced almost to vanishing point, the country is faced with a situation so critical as to render urgent and drastic action imperative, if a large number of people are not to be forced to quit or faced with bankruptcy as a pleasant alternative. That is what a continuation on present lines means, and sooner or later it is realized by all and sundry, the better.

Of all the suggestions that have been put forward as a remedy, that of a dual currency—the one Sterling, the other that which we have at present—seems to us the best way out of the difficulty yet devised. Were this system brought into being, it would be necessary to legislate so that it should be supported by the law, and that the legal tender equally with the Rupee, and banking accounts could then be conducted in one or both denominations.

DANGER OF DELAY.
 In this connection it would, of course, be necessary to amend the law under which the Sovereign is only legal tender to the rate of Rs. 10 to the Pound, so that both could be interchanged at the price of the day, and make it illegal to do otherwise. The passing of such a law, however, presents no difficulties if the overwhelming need for a change in the currency as an alternative to disaster is once realised, and the public is united in its determination to see it carried out. Any delay in this respect, however, would result in stagnation, which will prove to be of a most costly nature.

One of the many advantages to the proposal for a dual currency, is that the owner of Rupees will not be obliged to exchange them at the date of its issue. If Sterling was suddenly made a legal tender, it is clear that the Indian, and those who deal with India, cannot be placed in a position where they would be forced to exchange their Rupees at current rates out of their own volition. It is true that the Indian, who is not a resident in India, would be obliged to exchange his Rupees at current rates out of his own volition. It is true that the Indian, who is not a resident in India, would be obliged to exchange his Rupees at current rates out of his own volition.

On the other hand, shops and traders who are not in the habit of dealing in Rupees, would be obliged to exchange their Rupees at current rates out of their own volition. It is true that the Indian, who is not a resident in India, would be obliged to exchange his Rupees at current rates out of his own volition. by the more stable coins—and would not immediately give over the anomaly of native labour having to be paid in existing silver, but, after the most careful consideration, we have come to the conclusion that although it may entail some slight and probably quite temporary inconveniences, it is the most practical, while at the same time the quickest and least contentious method of escape from the financial crisis with which the Protectorate is now threatened. No one on a sinking ship would refuse to take the life boat, and no one would refuse to take the life boat, and no one would refuse to take the life boat.

It would be as well to anticipate criticism by examining the principal objections which may be urged against this proposal. These are:—(1) That the position is far from complete. (2) That the new coins would probably be valued by native labour with diffidence at first, but custom and a realisation of their value would certainly eliminate such an objection. (3) That the new coins would be valued by native labour with diffidence at first, but custom and a realisation of their value would certainly eliminate such an objection. Opponents of the dual currency will state, no doubt, that gold is unobtainable, and that as some reserve of this is essential, no useful purpose is served by the adoption of the dual currency. LOOK

You may know the other brands by the label, but when you get a pure whisky, there is no such necessity; be sure of the one you deal with or the Bar you patronise, and you will get the Real ten-year-old Sandy Macdonald Scotch Whisky.

From Rogge & Co., of Cognac, France, are the only Firm who have the right to make Medical Reserve Brandy, and it is a tonic for the Connoisseur.

Compoir Vinicole Gironclin, of Bordeaux, France, are the best Peeps for French wine.

Ross Heriot & Co., Manchester, are the most Reliable Cotton Goods Manufacturers.

The Armo Chemical Coy, Tonbridge, Kent, are the Firm for Aminals of Soda, Insecticides, etc.

The above are stocked by the best Stores throughout the East African Territories, and Samples of all the above specialities with full particulars are always obtainable from the Sole Agent, H. G. Gabriel, P. O. Box 150, or City House, Nairobi.

Tea

There is no waste in Brooke Bonds Tea. It is exclusively young tender leaves which are free from the wasteful stalks and tannic fibre—the good leaves without the bad.

Brooke Bonds Tea is thus rich in flavour, strong, but never coarse bitter. It is used and enjoyed by people who cannot take ordinary tea.

Two qualities are packed and for this market in pound and half pound, parchment-lined, damp-proof cartons. Red quality is really fine tea. Green quality is good strong tea economical in use.

COAST TIMBERS.
