NOTICE.

E.A. CASUALTIES.
To The Editor, E.A. Standard.
Sir,—I should like to correct a statement made by your correspondent "Pamper" which appeared in your issue of November 25th. He states that "fully 30,000 to 40,000 Kinyas, young men died during the war." I think you will agree with me that on the face of the following, which are extracts from returns, this statement can hardly be correct.
The total number of casualties from all sources, to the end of November, 1918, is 4,235, of whom 1,018 died from disease or accident, killed in action and missing, among all East African troops and followers (this, of course, includes Uganda) was 42,354. Young, etc., "Accuracy."

Visit to the Home of the Delphinium.

A LAND OF PICTURES.

(From One One Correspondent.) One day I went up the Selat range in the home of the delphinium...

I tried to paint a portrait of it, and regret my ignorance of botany. The colour is blue, some light blue, and some dark, some light blue, and each petal has some vivid green in it...

This morning a green and blue produced a colour unique and not common. From a distance it glows like the sea mist...

It is a RICKSHA DANGERS. The Editor, E.A. Standard. Rickshaws are everywhere...

If I owned a plot where this Rickshaw race would be held, I would build a road, and go and watch in safety at the bottom...

Queen's Company. With this Queen there are other beautiful flowers and I would gather in all I could find and let them grow wild...

Close Securing in Railway Institute Tournament

In the Married v. Single tournament being run by the Railway Institute, the score of 600 yards of 4 is a narrow one...

In the action bridge section, played a few nights ago, a total of 10,000 points were scored during the evening...

It had been raining hard, and coming back I saw my road, black and lumpy, stretching away for miles...

QUERY TO TRADERS.
Goods Cheaper Get Direct From Home.
WORKING THE EXCHANGE.
Sir - May I encroach upon your columns to ask the Nairobi trader, more especially the direct importer, just one or two simple questions?
(a) Can any of them explain the following facts:
I have just received an article from England which is sold there at £10.0-0. The cost to me, as returned at testimate was as follows:
50 per cent. exchange £7.10-0
Freight and Rail to Nairobi £1.2-0
Customs Duty 10 per cent. £1.0-0
Total Cost: £9.12-6
Therefore, the article cost me 7/6 less landed in Nairobi than the Home retail price. The same article is being sold in Nairobi today for Rs. 100, or £15; thereby showing a profit of almost 50 per cent on the retail price at Home. Naturally a still higher profit accrues to the merchant who purchases his goods at trade prices. And yet, if the word "profiteering" is even so much as intimated, hands fly up in holy horror.
Now Mr. Merchant, what about it?
(b) When the rate of exchange drops, which presumably it will do time, the merchant's goods will cost them more, and consequently the prices will again soar. Why in the name of heaven cannot the merchants play the game now and take the actual cost of goods landed in their stores, plus a reasonable profit, as their price to the customer. I believe a Mr. Jacobs once burst forth in your columns on finding the excessive in Nairobi. Perhaps he will again appear. Yours etc.

There are only five more weeks remaining in which prospective buyers can join the East African Motor Association without paying the entrance fee of Rs. 50. Up to December 31, 1919, the entrance fee is waived, so intending members should send in their names and address, accompanied by cheques for the 50 (the yearly subscription), to the Hon. Secy, East African Motor Association, P.O. Box 87, Nairobi, as soon as possible.

Strange Ordinance.
In the Official Gazette of November 26, the public is informed that no motor car can be left in Government Road, Sixth Avenue, or any other wide street, outside a shop, for even a minute without the written permission of the Town Clerk. Therefore, if any of us wish to go into any shop for even one minute we must find a bye lane less than 40 feet wide to leave our car in. Failing this we are guilty of an offence and I presume find ourselves in Con. T. The regulation reads as follows: "Bye-law 455 of the Principal By-law is hereby repealed and the following Bye-law is substituted therefor: "No person shall, except with the written permission of the Town Clerk, leave upon any street, or public passage, any motor car or hand cart or other vehicle as defined in Bye-law 354 of the Principal By-law, or any box, crate, dustbin or any article whatsoever; provided that a motor car, hand cart or other vehicle aforesaid may be left in a sanitary lane during the hours of daylight without permission, but so as to leave sufficient room for the free passage of vehicles. In the event of any motor car, hand cart, vehicle or article which shall be left in a street without permission in contravention of this Bye-law, and the person who shall have caused or left the same there shall be held to be guilty of an offence."

Stranger's Car.
A new vehicle as defined in Bye-law 354 reads as follows: "The purposes of all Sections of this part, excepting Section 2, of this vehicle shall not include a handcart, or any bicycle or cycle, or any motor car or motor vehicle as defined in the Motor Traffic Ordinance 1915, but shall include any other conveyance for the carriage of persons or goods, how drawn, propelled or left or set in motion."

Actual labour connected with this work is being carried out by convicts from the Nairobi Gaol. It is noted that the following letter was received on this subject in Thursday's issue of the E.A. Standard and contains some interesting information. As the distance from the Gaol to the bridge is roughly five miles, it would be impossible to walk the convicts there and back, and get anything like a day's work out of them, so they are transported to and from in motor cars as without this help it would be impossible to get the work done at all.

"On the subject of these letters it would be advisable if the native drivers were under better control, as I have heard several complaints from the residents on the Limon Road. The lorries appear to be somewhat carelessly driven, with the result that on Wednesday morning one of the lorries collided with a rickshaw on a bridge on the way out, breaking up the rickshaw and pushing the occupant into the river. Luckily no one was hurt as the rickshaw happened to be empty, still it appears to be quite negligence on the native drivers part.

Starting Head Lamps.
I noticed in an American motor accessory paper, the Stewart Lever, an interesting article on an American scheme for starting a head light differently, which I improve thus: "The lights are kept on during the night as usual, but during the day they are turned off by means of a lever which is operated by the driver's foot. This lever is connected with the headlights by means of a cable, and when the driver depresses the lever, the headlights are turned on. This system is claimed to be more reliable than the ordinary system of starting the headlights by means of a switch on the dashboard."

Rolling Wanted.
Personally I am not quite so readily satisfied over the Stewart V-Ray Searchlight as the writer of the above mentioned article, but I think the idea is really good. On my car I have had an electric side lamp which is attached, or turned, which projects a beam about 50 yards ahead. I have found it most convenient when turning corners at night or if by some reason or adjustment have to give a signal. It is a very simple and quite sure whether the regulations in this country would allow of its being used instead of head lamps. Perhaps the authorities would be kind enough to give a ruling on this point.

INTERNAL COMBUSTION ENGINES.
Finally in the internal combustion engine is far from being immune, as only twenty-five per cent of the fuel burned, is used in actual propulsion. The rest is lost in the form of heat, and is dissipated in round numbers that cookbook like 80 per cent goes straight out through the exhaust, 10 per cent is lost through the radiator, and 10 per cent is used in overcoming friction of the moving parts. Hence for every four gallons of petrol which are purchased and carried on the car, only one gallon is actually used in useful work. It appears therefore that the present type of internal combustion engine is only in its infancy.

Some feel the belief that this corresponding type of engine will be succeeded by the adoption of the turbine principle. One reason why engineers believe that the petrol engine is far from being perfect from coast to coast until today, if one is an observing person, no matter where located, you cannot help but have noticed these motorists on the road in ever-increasing numbers. The A new vogue was thus started—not a fad, because fads are only in the passing, and the Stewart V-Ray Searchlight method of night driving has come to stay. It is still in its ascendancy popularity, and this year will see a great many more of additional motorists adopting it. It is one of the best "safty first" many were the motorists to meet to feel they might as well close their eyes when passing other cars. Every one gave a shudder. It was a gamble, a chance. It made fine business for the hospital of the car.

But today, thanks to the Stewart V-Ray Searchlight, even with the greatly increased number of cars on the road, motorists are comfortably passing and repassing without the slightest difficulty or uncertainty.
