OUTLOOK

The departure from East Africa of Sir Robert Coryndon, Secretary of State for the Colonies, is a matter of great importance. Sir Robert has been in East Africa for over three years, and his departure marks the end of a period of intense activity in the East African territories. His departure is a matter of great importance to the East African territories, and it is expected that his departure will be a matter of great interest to the East African people.

STANDARD NOTES

Pure good luck never will might have proved a serious accident in the East African territories. A little later, the girl riding a pink bike was overthrown, and she was severely injured. She was taken to the hospital, and she is now recovering from her injuries. This is a very sad accident, and it is hoped that she will make a full recovery.

GENERAL

In the Resident Magistrate's Court, a case was heard regarding a dispute over a piece of land. The case was heard by the Resident Magistrate, and a judgment was given in favor of the plaintiff. The judgment was a very important one, and it is expected that it will be a matter of great interest to the East African people.

LIMORU HOTEL

Jaded Natives would do well to spend a few days in the Limoru Hotel. The hotel is a very comfortable one, and it is well situated in the heart of the town. The food is excellent, and the service is first class. It is a very good place to stay, and it is well worth a visit.

With the present winter weather the office is refusing fuel, and plaster is being distributed at the shortage of fuel. The authorities in Kamburu are doing their utmost to obtain plaster for the houses, but it is a matter of great difficulty. It is expected that the plaster shortage will be a matter of great interest to the East African people.

never made more than 3,000 in 1912, they made 2,000 in 1913. In addition, they make 3,000 to 4,000 cars per annum, and probably three figures will be reached in one or two months for the year 1913 to come.

Assuming, then, that the 1913 motor cars would show roughly 80,000 cars, and that there are 100,000 cars in use in the 1913, which figure again appears to be well within the mark.

At this rate, it will still take two years at least to meet the shortage of motor cars in the country.

CRITICISED POINTS IN SPEECH TO CALEDONIANS.

The Editor, E. A. Standard.
Sir,—In view of the public importance attached to the speech of Lord Delamere I make no apology for offering the following criticisms of some of his remarks at Nakuru last week.

With that startling originality which has earned for him the reputation of being the noblest of the noble, Lord Delamere in Europe and elsewhere by the shirkers, so he says to the shirkers, "You must produce more labour." The only road to prosperity is increased production; more leisure could only be won by labour-saving devices. This hoary fallacy, disproved by the experience of a century, appears to be the last resort of the well balanced minds of the leading members of the ruling class of all countries, to face with an awakening self criticism.

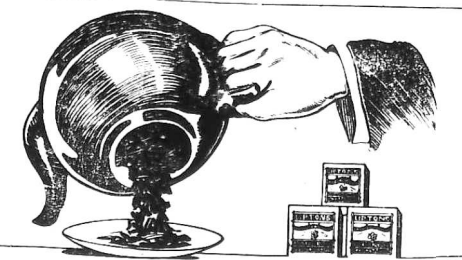

Having got the world into a state of anarchy, by overacting their notorious "directe ability" their plan for getting it out again, appears to be to carry on along the lines of the present day, for markets which produced the content in Europe and which must necessarily find similar results there or elsewhere again.

With the vast increase in production power owing the last few years, accompanied by a relatively decrease in purchasing power on the part of the mass of the people, it is difficult to see how the markets for the various Allied and Associated powers are to be found, not in the East, Africa, or the Levant, as the Nations bid fair to follow only European lines, as pointed out by the too long capitalist and peace are incompatible.

As for Europe what prospect did the future enjoy during the death-producing the war when the national income stood higher than the present, shortly before the death of the Emperor William, was probably the greatest fact that 13 million British consumers carried on the hunger line.

Lord Delamere in his great and expert knowledge of the world and its various markets, that even before the war, the economic condition of the world was such that the Liberal rights in power were the very basis of the present. The alternative of increased production by the masses of labour, saving devices, which, as John Stuart Mill pointed out, failed utterly to lighten the burden of the masses.

My history in captivity has been merely used to shorten the time during which he would be trapped, but they are saving time for him to put in the point for the employers. (In the one hand it

First Woman M.P. German Ships

The debut of Lady Astor, the first woman to take a seat in the House of Commons, at the graveside of the fallen soldiers in the House of Commons, was a notable event. She was accompanied by her husband, Lord Astor, and a group of other women. The occasion was marked by a procession through the streets of London, and a service at the graveside. Lady Astor's presence in the House of Commons is a significant milestone in the history of women's participation in British politics.

SPORTING LETTER

Remarkable Auction Prices for Yearlings.

TASTE IN ATHLETICS.

(By EX CHAMPION)
The special of road walking, as instated by the London to Brighton, includes the success of the Brighton Walking Club, it still remains step towards procession. Most sportsmen will be to call road walking into great popularity following the race from don to Brighton promoted by the London Stock Exchange in 1903. That event was by an account the first ever over the bar-some course of 24 miles, but it served a very useful purpose and brought long distance walking into great favour.

From that year of the road walking my most important ones were decided which revealed much of a satisfactory nature. First of all, however, was the outstanding fact that the average Britisher possessed far more stamina than most people supposed. Now, the road walking created in all directions, and the leading performers demonstrated beyond doubt that they were much better than the marks of other day.

The record for the London and Brighton race was considerably reduced, and various other records were broken. It and settling that for a 24 hours walk
What was perhaps even more satisfactory was the performance accomplished by that may be termed the second and third.

The average man showed his ability to walk 24 hours, and some of the best what many veterans covered his own walked 12 hours. It is possible to walk 24 hours, and some of the best to him at this time and recognize

NOTES FROM NATAL

Some Comparisons in Cost of Living

EX-SOLDIERS IN STRAITS

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Finding employment for the thousands of men now returned from the various fronts, is indeed a problem. And in comparison with other colonies have done, and are doing—it reflects but little credit on the Union Govt for their interest and every important centre of employment. Bureau has been established.

The great trouble is, however, in Johannesburg, where men with splendid military records have been unable to find employment in the country. There is an ex-soldier who served with distinction in Flanders, finding employment now as an Assid commission of ranks with nothing to show for it. In Durban the highways are lined with ex-soldiers who are waiting for a chance to go to work. In Cape Town, the ex-soldiers are waiting for a chance to go to work.

I have seen men who have been dismissed from the army for being drunk and taken to hospital, who are waiting for a chance to go to work. In Cape Town, the ex-soldiers are waiting for a chance to go to work.

The Durban Borough Police, in fact, are the only police force in the colony that is not made up of ex-soldiers.

Every trade and nearly every profession is now recording amongst the returned soldiers, and the ex-soldiers are waiting for a chance to go to work.

The ex-soldiers are waiting for a chance to go to work. In Cape Town, the ex-soldiers are waiting for a chance to go to work.

LAND VAGARIES

Reconstruction of B Farm Valuation
EX-SOLDIER'S HANDIAP
(By "Londonian")
Even if one is willing to admit—direct consideration to the majority—these valuations should not be the sport of the wealthy, but the sport of the masses, since the £8,000 limit is the maximum sum necessary to start on, and that Adam and Eve had no business in the Garden of Eden, if they were unable to produce a banana's rind for their own use, how can we still maintain a discrepancy in the B.E.A. Ex Soldier Scheme, carefully adjusted as it has doubtless been to those recognized experts that cry aloud for alteration.

Amongst those the problem of purchase price looms large. The condition, why land, no every way desirable, about as good as to be, in some places, half as much again across a river, with the dear side the further away from the railway or potential marketing center, is fascinating enough to keep children from their play and old men from the apple stool. Who can give the reason for Old Bolland's lands, with 8,000 to 10,000 feet elevation, being valued at Rs. 25 per acre, when price per acre will exceed the mass and coffee-growing lands, which are put down at the reasonable figure of Rs. 7.50? The price in this instance is not only a puzzle, but a scandal, in view of our own success in the Almighty has to be paid for.

The only explanation for these anomalies, known to the mass in the villages, is that it is the man in the street, as it were, who would be an intruder in the B.E.A. office. The Government made public the names of those who undertook the task of fixing the prices that the ex-soldier must pay for these farms, and the names of those who reviewed and standardized their estimates; adding also a rider to show how much actual service all of these adjudicators put in during the war. There is, by the bye, a general opinion that an extraordinary number of men who had the ready jobs have also done some of their fighting comrades, the rough, rude and (worse still) often penniless fellows of the wild and treeless—no divorce farm.

THE INTEREST
But whatever may be said about the purchase price of these farms, nothing is more common than to see the B.E.A. valuations affect the lucky B.E.A. farmer in the extent that the Government charged there is going to do it. It is true that the price put on these farms is far less than the price the mass market from men who managed, on some old promise, (the Government is very generous about this sort of payment) to extract a few thousand acres from the Land Office while the present applicants were on active service. The discipline he has given or is given, to the ex-soldier can swallow that with some little effort. But when he has to pay the annual payments he has to meet after the first two years it begins to realize with what regularity he is feasting in the tragedy as the traditional price must, with only a few shillings less. In the matter of charging interest on unpaid instalments for crown lands the Government is not only a first class creditor, but in no other part of the British Empire has the ex-soldier been treated so well as in ordinary civilian life. It is in a way with the B.E.A. that the Government Treasury Official, at a meeting of our other statements to consider the problem of the ex-soldier's land, has introduced the idea of a tax on an improved land value because, he explains to us, no one would follow their farms if not for the ex-soldier. This is an example from a Rs. 7.50 German border for its own needs, (one of two seen) which cost the Government of £1,200 less than the cost of the land. The annual tax on the land has been "reserved" at Mather's for the K.A.R. Of course it is one of the best year comes a crushing demand for the £10, which continues, with a very gradual annual decrease, for a period of 27 years. As an Old Bolland man of 33 years, also a training proposition, it might be said that the B.E.A. has been the cause behind the storm. On the third year the Government bid to the unhappy man the amount of £1,735.00, and under some administrative genius thought of a stock list.

There are a great number of those glaring cautions, various other pie picks that will help to make the ex-soldier with the B.E.A. The authorities are not as one of his kindly and paternal moods brought some old spivard waggon to the military, and then up with a military to last until they can get well into the wild, and reserved them for the application. No land "A" or "B" in the B.E.A. has been allowed by any means because they are so few. Yet when the first batch of overland arrivals appear...

C. M. PATTERSON
AUCTIONEER
INDIAN BAZAAR

NO article on this interesting subject is complete, without some reference to the "A" farms. The demand for these plots, as the fond hope that they might afford some of smallish means a haven of security and peace, has been enormous. Yet although the Government is able to set aside any or all of the country from the ex-soldier, it has not been able to do so for its own needs, (one of two seen) which cost the Government of £1,200 less than the cost of the land. The annual tax on the land has been "reserved" at Mather's for the K.A.R.
