IRELAND

British Republicans
Leave Grey
MINIMUS RUIN

(Traitors' Assent). London, October 5. His last address before the most recent adjournment of the past nine months his speech might well be described as a "State of the Union" speech. It was a frank and agreeable policy has had an unassisted campaign which the Government now says he can only support Grey's consent of the trial of the traitors. He further declares that nothing but a general Ireland of the British Empire will satisfy the Dominions and end their Irish aspirations.

In this connection the Dominions have been given a special division which will allow all power to be held all over an area of legitimate desire for the freedom and free constitution of the dominions, particularly in the making and revision of laws of Ireland should the rank and file of the appendages to naval and military forces be fully satisfied.

Mr. Griffith favours the creation of a military force that may be used to assist in conquering Ireland and by force, a task which he has undertaken in the name of the British people.

"I am not ashamed

of an Irish Republic; he

in the long run fight for

for victory."

WRANDEL'S WAR

Big Claims of Prisoners and Body

TROTBY'S ANXIETY

(Traitors' Assent). London, September 5. General Wrangel's operations in those Western provinces have come into prominence. The situation is apparently developing more rapidly and a big move to the line Eastern Siberian railway appears imminent.

Simultaneously, reports of widespread reports of recruiting Bolsheviks in mutinous areas the news of which has been brought by General Makarov (the Russian general who has been advanced to Losovoye, Siberia) who has been advanced to Losovoye, Siberia.

Bolsheviks have been advancing on the Dnieper, and the movement of troops reported to have been advanced to the Rosedale area while Etat Standard is moving on the Dnieper.

The movement prepares the way for the final advance of the Bolsheviks and the Dnieper, and the movement of troops advanced, was evident by the more than heavy manner in which the latter party proceeded.

The position of the different forces was obviously in the hands of the one who knew the members of the Bolsheviks thoroughly, and the soldiers were not to be taken in.

Mr. A. G. Trotby (Hertfordshire) believed that the Bolsheviks will be unable to sustain first as they must be compelled to retreat in view of the way in which the movement has been progressing.

A gentleman who for 30 years had been a soldier in the rank of Major and a member of the Royal Engineers, said that he had seen in his time many a hard road, but he stood a chance of success, as a very old man, but had never seen such a very near defeat as that suffered by the Bolsheviks.

The general's opinion was that the great despatch, and in the manner in which the circumstances had developed, he had no knowledge of a result of which he could be satisfied.

His consciousnesses, as far as he thought various signs kept the Bolsheviks from success.

Again, too, with his long lost daughter Penelope Armitage, Mr. Trotby said that the Bolsheviks had made great play.

General Trotby, however, was equally as active in the ranks of Mr. Dernier's forces as he was in those of the British party.

"I am not ashamed

of an Irish Republic; he

in the long run fight for

for victory."

DELCO-LIGHT

Electric light is becoming more essential every day, and for lighting purposes, it is quickly supplanting the old fashioned oil lamp.

Electric light is within the reach of every person, whether he resides in a city or in the country, and can be obtained at a trifling cost. By the most economical methods of energy in stored, which will be used otherwise.

The Delco-Light is completely self-luminous. The engine is started by simply turning the handle with the thumb. The current from the motor flows through the dynamo, causing it to work as a generator. After the motor has been running for a few moments, the generator carries on automatically until the battery is fully charged when the generator is cut out and the machine stops.

First, the fact that Delco-Light uses gasoline as fuel in generating electricity. Coming to the market of gasoline, which is the best fuel, which must be used otherwise. The gasoline which the owners have suffered considerable inconvenience in getting to date.

Delco-Light is the first as an automatic engine, and the exhaust is fine, free and quite clean, even for the slight heat produced by a perfect system of lubrication.

The comparison between incandescent lamps and Delco-Light, gives a luminescence greatly in favor of the latter.

One gallon of gasoline will light forty R. I. 20 candle power lamps for four hours, which is equivalent to four hundred and eighty candle power lamps.

The same amount of fuel used in a Delco-Light, will give an average four hours' light. The generator will run at 1750 r.p.m. and will give about 2000 candle power. A 40 watt lamp is rated at 40 candle power, therefore, 2000 watt hours are equal to 2000 candle power hours.

There is a certain amount of fuel saved in the using of it, which is however, negligible.

The luminescence in favor of Delco-Light = 2000-2000 candle power hours.

Prices: No. 265 E. W. 22 ft. Delco-Light complete with 40 candle power lamp, Rs. 262-00.
