Sir: Mr. Fitzpatrick's reply to my Northrup McMillan's correspondence in your issue of 25th shows the plain man in that regard to the subject of the Standard Office. It is a pity that the paper is so often so slow in its response to the public. Mr. Fitzpatrick is perfectly correct in saying that the Standard Office is not in a position to take any action in the matter. Income over £1,200 a Year more

SPECIAL OFFER TO READERS.

A letter received recently at the Polina Institute gave pleasure even to a staff in whom reports of the income increase have become almost a commonplace. It was from a Managing Director. Here it was that he says: "My income is over £1,200 a year more—thirty per cent to the pound, practical teaching and the income tax is a witness of the income-bearing powers of Polina." This is the letter:

I would be surprised if you refer to the question which was put to me in the column under the heading of "The Standard" and which has been published in your issue of the 27th. The question was put to me by a correspondent who writes to me that he has seen a copy of the Standard of the 27th and that he is surprised to find that it contains a notice which is entirely untrue. The notice in question is that I have been elected to the office of Chairman of the Uganda Railway Committee. The fact is that I have not been elected to any office and that the notice in question is entirely untrue.

EAST AFRICA'S FUTURE
Col. Anony Very Hooped for the Future.
COTTON AND FLAX
[By "A. A. BARNES" Special.]
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

London, February 27.—Colonel Anony, Under-Secretary for the Colonies, speaking at the luncheon of the East Africa Association on Wednesday, on the great possibilities of East Africa, mentioned Uganda's exceptional possibilities as a British pro-ducer of cotton.

He suggested there would be 500,000 bales of cotton as an annual crop in the near future, and his progress would be more rapid later on. The East African colonies were now producing Uganda cotton, and he was sure that more would be forthcoming than that from America.

Story of a mysterious Crime on Christmas Eve

FACT - LOST FOR EVER

From our own correspondents

London, January 26
With the death of H. H. Morrison, the story of a mysterious crime on Christmas Eve, which has puzzled the public since it was first reported, has been lost for ever.

The story was first reported in the Daily Mail on January 1st, and since then it has been the subject of many articles and books. The story is that on Christmas Eve, Morrison was found dead in his room at the Hotel Cecil, London. The cause of death was a gunshot wound to the chest. The bullet was fired from a .38 Smith & Wesson revolver.

The story is a mystery because Morrison was found with a bullet wound to the chest, and the revolver was found in his room. The bullet was fired from a distance of about 100 yards. The only person who was in the room with Morrison on Christmas Eve was Morrison's maid, Miss Smith. She was found in the room with Morrison, but she was not hurt.
