Overland

Unlike Any Other Car

The individuality of the new Overland stands out in marked contrast to other cars of its size.

Bonnet and cowl form one sweeping line from the high attractive radiator to the slanting adjustable windscreen.

And in Overland alone you find the gracefully curved front apron telling you of the wonderful new Triple Springs beneath, which give this light car its supreme riding comfort.

E.P.D. OFF

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
London, February 4.
The Government is obviously making up its mind to make a big effort to handle our money.
Lord Curzon at Birmingham, the Chamberlain announced that the Finance Bill (as was called) is now to go and that in the few hours would be so new tax. It is to be a very good money-making tax. The Government already have the Chamberlain's Bill, which will although Mr. Chamberlain did not say so, be permanent.
A business establishment on the way mentioned will pay E.P.D. after income of 21 per cent. After business will pay for a period until the account period. Mr. Chamberlain has to be added to income tax or income tax, although there may be some doubts in respect of dumped goods for or imported exchange.
At the same time, there is no will be under the present conditions of any general reduction in taxation.

RELEASES OF CAPITAL.
I regretfully note the announcement made tonight (Friday) in respect of the release of capital. It is a very serious matter, and it is to be hoped that the Government will take steps to prevent it. It is a very serious matter, and it is to be hoped that the Government will take steps to prevent it.
Perhaps it has no direct connection with the financial release of income tax and another big step in the way of living in the future. It is to be hoped that the Government will take steps to prevent it.
The Bill in question will allow the issue of free capital. It is to be hoped that the Government will take steps to prevent it.
The Bill in question will allow the issue of free capital. It is to be hoped that the Government will take steps to prevent it.

At least there are indications all round that some new tax is being put on. It is a very serious matter, and it is to be hoped that the Government will take steps to prevent it.

Export Trade to be Passed by Germany
BRITISH BILL PASSED

London, March 27. Under leave from the House of Commons, the Minister of Economic Warfare, the Imperial Economic Council, said he had decided that it was the Allies' policy to allow the German trade must fresh channels. He hoped that Eastern Europe would be able to absorb all German goods and he had introduced in this connection an extension of the list of exportable articles, also the repeal of the prohibitive restriction of export duty. Lord Dunsborough said he was satisfied the resumption of negotiations with the Entente. He declared that the work of reconstruction must be placed in the front of Germany's counter-programs and the most comprehensive plan formulated for the reconstruction of the devastated regions. By which means German goods might find security for a time.

March 18. Roster learns from Berlin that in order to evade the commercial sanctions a large volume of German goods are being marketed in the open market. Following the announcement of the coalition Government, German firms agreed to a semi-official committee which is a Franco-German protocol for the purpose of facilitating free economic intercourse to be signed at Warsaw on Feb. 16 and is being considered in Berlin by the Department concerned.

The Central Committee of German Wholesale Traders has passed a resolution regarding the resumption of trading in goods to refrain from purchasing goods in countries concerned with the position of the sanctions.

BILL THROUGH COMMONS

In the House of Commons, on the 27th March, the Government Bill, Mr. J. M. Hogg, (Lancashire) moved an amendment providing that no payment should be made until such time as the Government had received from the Allies a telegram in reply to this motion. Mr. Chamberlain, in reply, said that so far only Portugal had refused to accept a reply from other countries in regard to such an important matter. Mr. Chamberlain emphasized that the Bill might operate as a penalty or as a means of the imposition of reparations according to the action of the German Government. He thought that the Bill was acting as the latter way. He thought that the Bill was so important to Germany that even if Great Britain should state it would be no satisfaction to the British nation but our own satisfaction would be satisfied.

Referring to the speech by Mr. Chamberlain, the speaker said that the Bill would be passed for parliamentary consideration, subject to the action of the House of Commons, and the statement by Mr. Chamberlain that Great Britain would not be satisfied until the Allies had agreed to accept a reply from other countries in regard to such an important matter.

Mr. Chamberlain emphasized that the Bill might operate as a penalty or as a means of the imposition of reparations according to the action of the German Government. RUSSIAN MONEY

A Friendly Action Against Burglar's Bank

"RED" DEBITORS

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

London, February 17. Mr. Vladimir de Mecklenko, Vice-President of the Private Bank of Commerce of Petrograd and Director of a large number of enterprises, has published some views on the reconstruction of industry in the Russian Republic. He has given in an interesting manner a full and accurate account of the position of the bank which, like many other Russian financial institutions, has deposits in Great Britain.

Prior to the Revolution the private Bank of Commerce of Petrograd of which I was the Vice-President had certain relations to the Moscow Banking House, whose interests in Russia are well known. It had deposited with that bank a sum of money—nominally very small—of which I am not sure we are entitled to ascertain the precise quantum until the completion of these deposits.

The Bank of Commerce was taken over by the Government of Russia I am sure. We held out, however, for 21 per cent. of the share of the bank which was held by the Government. The Government was not prepared to pay the 21 per cent. and the bank was liquidated. The Government was not prepared to pay the 21 per cent. and the bank was liquidated. The Government was not prepared to pay the 21 per cent. and the bank was liquidated.

BANKS BELIEVED

When the Debitors took over the Government of the country of their own accord they were not at all anxious to pay the 21 per cent. of the share of the bank which was held by the Government. The Government was not prepared to pay the 21 per cent. and the bank was liquidated. The Government was not prepared to pay the 21 per cent. and the bank was liquidated.

It is not possible to say whether the Government will pay the 21 per cent. of the share of the bank which was held by the Government. The Government was not prepared to pay the 21 per cent. and the bank was liquidated. The Government was not prepared to pay the 21 per cent. and the bank was liquidated.

RECONSTRUCTING

It is not possible to say whether the Government will pay the 21 per cent. of the share of the bank which was held by the Government. The Government was not prepared to pay the 21 per cent. and the bank was liquidated. The Government was not prepared to pay the 21 per cent. and the bank was liquidated.
