WILL THE COMMISSION BE OF ANY USE?

Grave Doubt Expressed by Manchester.

FAREWELL COMMENTS.

The departure of the Federation Commission to East Africa from London was the signal for an outpour of criticism (and in some cases of appreciation) on the part of sections of the Home Press.

The members of the Commission in a short time at their departure will be able to do little more than express their sincere official and personal wishes for the success of the Commission.

The members will be expected to give an opportunity for their views on the state of development in East Africa, both as regards the main problems which confront those engaged in the task of development.

The members will be expected to give an opportunity for their views on the state of development in East Africa, both as regards the main problems which confront those engaged in the task of development.
