Object lesson in democracy for the Federal Party

The Federal Party which has been the middle of the road since the time of the Reconstruction era is now being shown a lesson in democracy by the very party it has been opposing for so long.

The Federal Party has been shown a lesson in democracy by the very party it has been opposing for so long. The lesson is that democracy is not a mere slogan, but a way of life.

There are many who believe that democracy is a mere slogan, but the Federal Party has shown that it is a way of life. The party has shown that it is a way of life that is based on the principles of fairness and justice.

The Federal Party has shown that it is a way of life that is based on the principles of fairness and justice. The party has shown that it is a way of life that is based on the principles of fairness and justice.

Where we lead - prosperity follows

The history of East Africa begins with the building of the railways. It brought the continent to the prosperity followed. Today the railways and harbours are playing their part in one of the most dramatic economic revolutions in Commonwealth history, and restoring new and important developments.

The pioneer work of the Railways goes on. From Kampala westwards to Kasese in the Rwenzori Mountains a 210-mile extension is opening up new territory.

Between Mombasa and Tabora along the busy Kisumu branch, throughout the Tanganyika system, and wherever traffic is particularly heavy, hundreds of miles of existing line are being strengthened to carry more powerful locomotives and heavier loads.

£25 million worth of equipment still to be delivered includes 140 main line and 37 shunting engines and 5368 units of rolling stock.

All this is one end - the continued development of the Railways and Harbours in the service of East African progress.

STUDENT TEACHERS ENJOY THEIR 'GOLDEN DAYS'

For a student in a class, there is no time like the present to enjoy a "golden day" when the teacher is absent. The student is free to do as he pleases, and the teacher is free to do as he pleases.

The student is free to do as he pleases, and the teacher is free to do as he pleases. The student is free to do as he pleases, and the teacher is free to do as he pleases.

Africa's Finest

In the Highlands of Kenya where the tall maize grows . . . where you can 'see it grow' . . . and even, on a still night, 'hear it grow' . . . that's Kenya's bread basket area, where no one would dispute, the maize is Africa's finest!!

No one there any longer goes to the world's fairs. For the first time in a century, the world's fairs will be throughout the world, more people and more time have been given to Goodyear tires than any other make. In the heart of this fine Kenya farm of tall maize, Goodyears have been the preferred tire of transport operators. Where road conditions are bad . . . or where there are no roads at all . . . Goodyear tires on passenger cars, heavy trucks, buses, road graders and such vehicles keep providing themselves for superior in service and economy.

A NEW WOMAN LOOKS AT LATIN-AMERICA

By the author of "The New Woman Looks at Latin America" (Simon and Schuster, 1939, $2.50). Mrs. J. H. Williams, author of "The New Woman Looks at Latin America," is a well-known travel writer and lecturer. She has spent several years in Latin America, and her book is a collection of her observations and experiences.

Mrs. J. H. Williams concludes her series of articles on Latin America by describing her own long leave to Britain by the Atlantic way of South America. She writes in a style of vivacious and personal observation.

Another interesting feature of the book is the author's description of the various customs and traditions of the different countries. She provides a detailed and colorful account of the social life and the people of Latin America.

A WOMAN WHO DEVOTES HER LIFE TO AFRICAN WOMEN

As a self-styled propagandist, one of our country's greatest devotees to a cause—Miss Lesley Gay, who has spent the last 10 years of her life in Africa—has been marked every 10 years by the award of the Queen's Service Medal. She was awarded this honor in 1952 for her services to the African people.

She was born in London, England, and spent her early years in Africa. She was married to a man who was killed in the Second World War. She has since been widowed and has no children.

She has spent the last 10 years of her life in Africa, working for the welfare and education of African girls. She has founded a school for girls in Kenya, and has been instrumental in the founding of other schools in Africa.

She has also been instrumental in the founding of the African Women's League, which is a voluntary organization for the welfare and education of African women.

She has received many awards and honors for her services to Africa. She was awarded the Queen's Service Medal in 1952, and the African Women's League Award in 1953.

She has also been instrumental in the founding of the African Women's League, which is a voluntary organization for the welfare and education of African women.

No assistance

When she is asked whether she receives any assistance from the Government, she says that she does not receive any assistance from the Government.

Miss Lesley Gay, who has spent the last 10 years of her life in Africa, is seen here in her school in Kenya.

Kenyan girls who are training to be teachers have learned to read and write.

Meant to retire

"I wish to retire now," says Miss Lesley Gay, who has spent the last 10 years of her life in Africa. She has been instrumental in the founding of the African Women's League, which is a voluntary organization for the welfare and education of African women.

She has received many awards and honors for her services to Africa. She was awarded the Queen's Service Medal in 1952, and the African Women's League Award in 1953.

U.N. SIGNS ON THE ROAD

The United Nations has signed a declaration in Geneva today which calls for the elimination of racial discrimination in all forms. The declaration, known as the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination, was adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations on December 21, 1948.

The convention states that "in the name of the people of the United Nations, the General Assembly solemnly proclaims its firm conviction that the best way to secure peace and stability in the world is by the elimination of racial discrimination in all its forms and manifestations."

The convention defines racial discrimination as "any distinction, exclusion, restriction or preference based on race, colour or ethnic origin which has the purpose or effect of nullifying or impairing the equal dignity and rights of individuals or groups of individuals."

The convention also states that "racial discrimination leads to national tensions and is a major obstacle to peaceful relations between peoples."

The convention is a landmark document in the history of international law, as it is the first time that a treaty has been signed which specifically deals with racial discrimination. It is a commitment to the principle of equality and non-discrimination which is fundamental to the United Nations Charter.

Tana River not suitable

The Tana River is not suitable for navigation, according to a report by the United Nations. The report states that the river is too shallow and has too many rapids and falls to be navigated by large vessels.

The report also states that the river is not suitable for irrigation, as the water is too saline and contains too much silt. The report recommends that the river be dammed and the water used for irrigation and power generation.

Under the Standard Clock

The Standard Clock is a timepiece that is accurate to within one second in a million years. It is made of quartz and is used in many scientific and industrial applications.

The Standard Clock is also used in many everyday applications, such as in watches and clocks. It is a reliable and accurate timepiece that is essential for many modern activities.
