THE WEEK'S LETTERS.

INDUSTRY vs. AGRICULTURE.

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard":

Since the cessation of industrial expansion is beginning to recur prominently in the present, has value actually in the agriculture industry may we well to consider the effect of industrial expansion upon the country previously partially agricultural.

It is evident at least now that being told by a farmer in England that the last period of his life of agriculture was during and after the Crimean war. The country was repeated during the last Great War and is now being visited by a similar period. In the intervals agriculture was making rapid strides in the rural population to the extent of industry and depriving the agriculturalist of a means to purchase the products of industry. Does this prospective agriculture in time of peace industrially can only maintain the production of agriculture? Or does it suggest that to control our own expansion we must prevent the death of agriculture?

Finally, I would call attention to the fact that in the future the industrial and agricultural products for the sale of its property and other products. It is not for the sake of industrial expansion without running a race with the industrial country. It is not for the sake of the African only. It is for the sake of the African and the industrial country. It is for the sake of the African and the industrial country. It is for the sake of the African and the industrial country.

Food Crops In Uganda

THE bulletin of agricultural production issued by the Uganda Department of Agriculture gives some interesting particulars of the progress of all crops in the Protectorate during the month of May 1943. Favourable planting conditions prevailed in all areas during the first half of the month, except in Acholi and West Nile where rains were inadequate and badly distributed. More rain was badly wanted in the second half of the month. Mango and Mbundu districts.

UPGANDA... The planting of food crops, especially of sugar potatoes, which are being planned on a larger scale than ever before, is well advanced. Large areas of cassava were also planted to make good the losses of the drain on which has been severe owing to the shortage of plantain from the drought. Food supplies are adequate with the exception of slight shortages in Mbundu and Northern Murch. The loss of famine relief food has been estimated.

WEST NILE... Two districts of the Eastern Province the acreage under ground millet, down and prospects are being raised by 25 per cent. The acreage under sweet potatoes, except Topo, is considerably higher and in Western Province the acreage under ground millet has been increased by 100 per cent. The planting of food crops in the Uganda Protectorate continued, although weather conditions in the West Nile and Acholi were not generally favourable. The planting of rice, where food reserves are practically exhausted, supplies of food are adequate.

ACHOLI... The general crop of various cereals continues to be promising. As regards beans the crop is now being harvested in Uganda and it seems reasonable to suppose that the production target for the nesting planting of about 1,400 tons for seed will be achieved. In Masaka 1,415 acres were planted and in the Western Province the small crop will be used for planting an increased acreage in the autumn rains.

Mbundu... The planting of groundnuts was 438 tons of native Boma and 59 tons of Native Avonlea. Crop prospects have improved in Mbundu and the total estimated 2,400 tons of clean coffee. The prospects in Mbundu have advanced. This makes satisfactory progress but the full implications of a fine factory are not yet known.

UPGANDA... The latest estimate of tonnage for sale is estimated to be 2,500 tons because, although the crop should far exceed that figure, that surplus quantity—how much will be taken by the Government and how much will be sold to the factory are not yet known.

WEST NILE... The latest estimate of tonnage for sale is estimated to be 2,500 tons because, although the crop should far exceed that figure, that surplus quantity—how much will be taken by the Government and how much will be sold to the factory are not yet known.

a farm pest

THEY are being the locusts in the light of his car.

An experiment was carried out to trap the beetles by putting out baited bottles of water in the area, but unfortunately only about one per cent of the beetles were caught.

EXPERIMENT: The Agricultural Officer, Kitale, has three fields of experimental plots at the moment. One is to find out the best time to spray for blackflies, another aims at finding the best time to spray for blackflies, and a third aims at finding the best time to spray for blackflies.

HAND DRESSING
How To Destroy "Hidden" Ticks.

Ticks are often found in situations which are not easily visible by the dipping solution when animals pass through the tank. The most common places are under the tail and around the anus, around the eyes at the root of the horns, in the tail brush and in the ears.

If no attention is paid to these sheltered ticks immediately after dipping, they may continue to feed and possibly to infect the animals with some deadly organisms. The purpose of dipping will thus not be fully achieved.

For hand-dressing as for dipping, a material should be used that will kill the ticks without burning the animal.

COOPERS' CATTLE TICKS GREASE is an excellent hand-dressing material. It is particularly useful for dairy cows, as it is non-poisonous and can be applied to the most tender parts such as the eyelids, without causing irritation.

Sold in 5-lb. tins and 15-lb. kegs.

The rain has made the plains and highlands areas again and the Forest Dept. has been advised to replant the trees in the area.

Preserving Kenya's Rivers

A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT DESCRIBES THE APPOINTMENT OF HONORARY WATER WARDENS.

The name "river scout" has a pleasant, freshwater sound about it. It is the title to be bestowed on a hundred or so picked watermen who are to be charged with the duty of looking after the water courses of the various districts under the supervision of the local Agricultural Officers and the local Agricultural Officers under the Land and Conservation Commission.

The success of this scheme, which will be of great benefit to the country, depends on the quality of the men who are appointed to the post. It is essential that they should be men of high character and of high ability. They should be men who are willing to accept the responsibility of the post and who are capable of doing the work.

There are many reasons why the preservation of our rivers is so important. It is not only for the sake of the water itself, but for the sake of the land which it irrigates. It is also for the sake of the people who depend on the water for their livelihood. It is therefore essential that we should take steps to preserve our rivers and to prevent them from becoming polluted and choked with silt.

The Government has decided to appoint a number of honorary water wardens to look after the rivers in the various districts. These wardens will be men of high character and of high ability, and they will be given a certificate of appointment and a small allowance for their services.

COTTON TOPICS

The work of the Uganda Department of Agriculture continues to be of great importance in the cotton-growing areas. The Department has been working hard to improve the cotton crop and to increase the yield of the plant. It has been successful in many ways, and the cotton crop is now becoming more and more important to the country.

It has been determined that the best agricultural practice is to use the best seeds and to give the plants the best care. It is also essential to use the best fertilizers and to keep the plants free from pests and diseases.

The Government has decided to give a grant to the cotton growers to help them to buy the best seeds and to give them the best care. This grant will be a great help to the growers and will enable them to increase their yield and to improve the quality of their cotton.

Kennel Notes

By MARGARET COLLYER P.O. Gilgil.

I READ a book recently entitled "The Long Whip" which was all about the dogs and doghouses used in the numerous farms used in the various districts. It was a very interesting book and I have been reading it with great interest.

The book is written by a man who has been a dog breeder for many years. He has a great deal of experience and he has written the book in a very simple and easy-to-understand way. It is a very good book for anyone who is interested in dogs and doghouses.

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard"

Very many subscriptions for the "E.A. Standard" are being sent to the Christian Council of Kenya by the Archbishop of Canterbury and other Christian leaders in the East African region. It seems to me that it is not right that the "E.A. Standard" should be a purely secular paper. It should be a paper which is controlled by Christian leaders.

Closer Settlement

Three papers were recently read on this subject to the Progressive Club, Kitale. They have been condensed into the following article.

It was admitted to be arguable whether the present communal should be confined to strengthening its position by "deserted" parcels until such time as a practical form of dual policy had been hammered out or whether it should be asserted as a partner with "Close Settlement."

It seemed certain that after the war, as after the last war, there would be a many persons who would wish for a more outdoor life in the Colony and a considerable number of the Empire. Fewer had wanted the Colony and a proportion of these might decide to settle here so that, without any special effort, there would be a certain natural influx of new settlers.

Emphasis was made that before the war, here and elsewhere, the agricultural industry did not pay an adequate reward to the farmer. When it organized marketing became a reality it was recognized to support that a farmer would only get an adequate reward if he was so situated that he could produce and sell his commodities in the market on fair competition with another part of the world.

It was suggested that it would be a financial system which would ensure an adequate reward to the optimum growing rubber in the Empire. It was possible that Kenya, situated as she is in comparison with countries where the land is machinery are more likely to be able to compete in bulky crops than those that deal in staples were not, other than the fact that they would be able to grow even with labour in all the more advanced parts of the world. It was suggested that there was a great desire that the agricultural industry should be able to compete with the rest of the world in willing and competent men to be sent to govern it was necessary to have an open market. It was suggested that the aim should be to have a public enterprise in a general sense, but that the Government should extend private ownership to the extent that it would be possible to ensure the best use of the land.

The land to be made available for Government was to be Crown land and land already alienated but not yet disposed of. It was suggested that all farms, of any size, should be divided into small units, to be held and maintained for the Crown. It was suggested that the land to be acquired by Government is a vast area of land, and that an examination should be made, and a report made to the Government, as to the introduction of an unduly long tax on these farms in order to develop them.

DE-FLEAING THE DOG

Dogs suffer considerably in this country, from ticks and fleas, to say nothing of the danger to oneself. You can get rid of them quickly and without expense or trouble.

Stretch your dog out comfortably on a table or box (according to the size of the dog). Seat yourself next to him and have near you two saucers of oil. Dip your index finger in the first saucer and then place it on a flea or tick. The insect will give you no trouble, it will fall dead immediately and can then be easily removed and placed in the second saucer.

The smell of oil will cause the insects to emerge when they can be easily caught and plunged into the jethal chamber. In the form of the second saucer. A little fit round the dog's neck will bring the pest down to the dog's head and dangerous spot. At the same time, you must be careful that no oil gets into the dog's eyes or ears, or, in the case of a short-haired dog, into its fur.

If this method is employed daily, you will find that the number of fleas and ticks decreases rapidly.

The method is both simple and quick and a good boy will not take long to pick it up. In addition, he will probably get quite a lot of amusement out of the job.

It was suggested that the Government should extend private ownership to the extent that it would be possible to ensure the best use of the land.

NATIVE CONSCRIPTION

"NATIVE" CONSCRIPTION.
The Manchester Guardian has published the following report on the Native and Aborigine Protection Society's views on the proposed introduction of native labour. The Society claims that forced labour is a violation of the spirit of the Preamble to the Constitution of the Union of South Africa. It is not contrary to the letter because the Constitution is interpreted as permitting (or not forbidding) conscription of labour. At the time of the introduction of conscription and more than a year ago, critics of the proposed native labour law, urged two objections: one the danger that private plantations might exploit the labourer; and the other that the food production of the native reserves might suffer.

UGANDA MAIZE SEASON

"NATIVE" CONSCRIPTION.
The opening of the maize season, which was originally advertised to open on the 21st July, has been put back to the 29th July in order to allow the grain to dry. A year of the maize-growing area last week showed that the crop would not be ready for marketing on the 21st July as was at first hoped. Early heavy rain in the early part of the month is probably the cause of this, although during the last few days the weather has been exceptionally high and plenty of sun, which is ideal weather for drying out maize. All reports indicate that the largest quantities of maize will be harvested by the middle of August, a crop which is usually ready by the end of the month.

The Week's Leaders

ing Japan, divided up the German Empire according to a 'Mandate' to administer the direct supervision of the League of Nations... Mr. A. L. Gibson, A Famous Cricketer

Today there is no League of Nations. The system of international relations which was represented has disintegrated. Logically, the League of Nations system either the ex-German territories in question were transferred to the League or there was no provision for transfer of the mandate without the consent of the League.

The status of Tanganyika today is unsatisfactory. It should be a free state, but the British, Rhodesians and South Africans are together fought two wars to get it. They are likely to stand aside and see its fate decided by the victors.

The second part of the question is the attitude of the Government to what is loosely called 'closer union', arising out of the fact that the territories to the East African Territories, and not least Tanganyika, are in a position of applying, in practice some of the main principles of the League of Nations advocates of a closer political association have so long urged.

Conscription of Women:

The PROS AND CONS ★

A REMARK was recently made in the Press—not without some irony perhaps—on the effect that "publicity had been given to the conscription of women in Kenya and that the case for the conscription as it were, had not been properly presented, writes a correspondent, who amplifies the case in this article. The suggestion has been made that Kenya's young girls, who up to date have been the only ones affected, have not shown the proper patriotic eagerness to serve their Empire. There has even been a hint that some have desisted of the offering of that loathsome symbol, the white feather.

This "hint" is little truth in this but the suggestion to have been proved by the fact that so very few of the conscripts of women in Kenya were actually drafted into the ranks of the C.F.C. as it is called. The conscription of women in Kenya is a matter of the Colony, in Nairobi, and it is not necessary to have them drafted into the ranks of the C.F.C. as it is called. AN ACE OF DISCRETION

Discipline is well and good for the young people, but when it comes to the matter of love, it is a different matter. A young man who is in love with a young woman should be allowed to express his feelings in a discreet manner. This is the only way to ensure that the relationship is based on mutual respect and understanding.

WAS IT A FAILURE?

met a deadly challenge in 1942 in the ever growing fleet of Goodyear-made Airships patrolling off-shore sea lanes of the western Atlantic.

Not only are these naval craft the result of Goodyear pioneering but many of them are commanded by former Goodyear men who gained their experience as members of the company's department of Airship Operations. For many years, Goodyear, almost lone-handed, kept the art of Airship design, construction and operation from becoming extinct, and the rewards for this piece of corporate foresight now accrue to the Allies in their critical hour of need.

Sir—Reading the correspondence in the Standard of the 20th July, I was surprised to find that the description of women in the Standard of the 20th July was so different from the description of women in the Standard of the 20th July. I am sure that the description of women in the Standard of the 20th July was more accurate and more realistic than the description of women in the Standard of the 20th July.

Yours faithfully,
