KURA KWA MAENDELEO KURA KWA KINYANJUI

VOTE FOR PROGRESS VOTE FOR KINYANJUI
JOGOO na KANU

Standard Staff Reporter, Nairobi.

Electoral campaigning in Mombasa came to its climax yesterday with every candidate making his final attempts to win votes at the polls this evening.

For the first time young clad in their party colours, troupes roamed the streets in hired vehicles chanting slogans through loudspeakers in support of candidates of their choice.

It was expected that last night would see more intensive campaigning with powerful loudspeakers, mainly in residential areas.

The campaign in Mombasa Central, so far the most sensitive of the four constituencies in which the election took a new turn, with the Mayor of Mombasa, Coun. M. Kombo, demanding the poll of the constituency be annulled if the candidacy of the Minister for Cooperatives and Social Services, Mr. Ngala, was accepted. Vice-president of the Coast and the party's Mombasa branch chairman, Coun. Kibria, was attacking Mr. Mohamed Jahaal, a former Special Election member opposing him. Mr. M.P. for the constituency, Anant Pandya, claimed that Mr. Ngala, together with four members of his family, had violated election procedure.

He also called for the disqualification of all the candidates.

The Mayor was speaking at a Press conference in his office at the Town Hall. He said that in his view the view that election procedure had not been adhered to in Mombasa right from the start, and added:

"We have been keeping quiet until today in the hope that

Seer forecasts big changes

Standard Staff Reporter,

A Luo fortune-teller from Some Location, Central Nyanya, Mr. John Agoro, who forecast Mombasa's holiday forecast last night that 70 per cent of M.P.s elected would be dismissed.

Mr. Agoro, who gave the names of those who would go to the polls, the election throughout Kenya, predicted that five Cabinet Ministers would lose their seats.

His list of new M.P.s included two who were contesting from Nyanya, and the other authorities concerned would take the necessary action."

The procedure could be seen even along the roads, where posters of Mr. Ngala and his four "candidates" were displayed, claiming that the ones nominated and backed by Kanu in Mombasa (Mr. Ngala himself is standing in Kilifi South).

"I do not know what action Kanu headquarters is taking against these posters and the candidates involved," he said. "If I did, I would have called it to their attention, because this before tomorrow's election, this would be good."

As far as he knew, according to election procedure, these candidates are automatically disqualified.

Another point which disturbed him was Mr. Ngala's reported speech at an election meeting in Mombasa recently in which he was going to stage up Mombasa Municipal Council if his four candidates were not removed.

Later in the day Mr. Pandya issued a statement, slightly criticising the Minister for "unnecessarily causing confusion in the constituency."

He was referring to an election meeting convened by Mr. M. Jahaal on Thursday at which Coun. Kombo had addressed the crowd.

After what Mr. Ngala had said after Mr. Ogendo's arrest, Mr. Jahaal had said that because Mr. Ngala is concentrating in Kilifi South and has nothing to do in Parliament or anywhere else," he said. He was at a loss to know what Mr. Ngala meant.

It appeared to him Coun. Kombo's aim was to pursue his political rivals in the constituency to switch their support to Mr. Jahaal because he was supported by Mr. Ngala.

What was surprising was that while the candidates had supplied him with photographs to be displayed on their polling boxes, and while they were going to use them without pictures.

The organiser, secretary of the Swahili People's Party, Dr. S. M. Mwathii, last night appealed to the town's people to continue to support him and the ruling party of which he is the executive officer in Nairobi District.

He declined to comment on his immediate plans but made a strong appeal to the supporters of some candidates, notably the three M.P.s who are contesting the Mombasa Central seat, and those of his main rival, Mr. Ngala, to remain calm during the seat, toured all residential areas in the constituency, singing and dancing like madmen, shouting for the candidates of their choice.

Similar activity took place in the Mombasa East constituency where supporters of Mr. David Kisko went round all night singing, dancing and playing drums.

Several town candidates, Mr. Pandya, Mr. Jahaal, Mr. K. A. Binnu and Mr. Abduhrahman Ali (Kibria), held their final election meetings.

Mr. Ali (Kibria), who held a large meeting at Kanjana, a trading centre, had invited for only one meeting as he preferred door-to-door campaigning.

There were peaceable, although a large number of police were out in force to maintain order.

was unfortunate, Mr. M. Pandya, who was unable to remember that they were part and parcel of Kenya and that they should be allowed to remain as they are.

Mr. Ngala, in accordance with the new Kanu manifesto, was asked to claim that Mr. Ngala had been re-elected out of the 14 M.P.s Mombasa Municipal Council if his four candidates were not removed.

Mr. KAMAU

FORMER MAYOR STANDS DOWN

A former mayor of Nakuru, Mr. Geoffrey Kamau, who resigned from the post to come into politics, has now reluctantly given up his bid for re-election.

Mr. Kamau, 39, had been a candidate in the race for Nakuru Central constituency, but had withdrawn from the race after failing to secure the nomination of his party, the Kenya African National Union (KANU).

Mr. Kamau, who is the former District Commissioner for Embu, had been a member of the KANU Central Committee and was a close friend of Mr. John Mwangi (KIKO).

The former mayor, who said he had been offered the post after deep consideration, claimed that his decision was not political but based on the fact that he was not satisfied with the conduct of his party.

Mr. Kamau, who is also the former chairman of the Coastal People's Organisation, said he had withdrawn from the race because he hoped his supporters would be better off without him.

What was surprising was that while the candidates had supplied him with photographs to be displayed on their polling boxes, and while they were going to use them without pictures.

Captain denies he ordered Pinkville killings

Capt. Medina, who commanded the United States infantry company reportedly involved in the Son My massacre of March, 1968, denied yesterday that he had ordered the massacre or that it even took place.

Speaking to reporters after attending a Pentagon investigation into the adequacy of last year's brigade-level inquiry into the affair, Capt. Medina said he did not see any slaughter at Son My last day. None was reported to me. I did not order any massacre at Son My.

Medina was the hamlet, part of Son My village, where the killings are reported to have taken place on March 16, 1968.

The Pentagon inquiry, under Gen. William Perez, is being conducted to determine whether an inquiry held in Vietnam led by Col. Oren Henderson of the 11th Infantry Brigade resulted in any cover-up of the killings.

Capt. Medina was in command of the company which a platoon was led by Lt. William Calley, who is to be court-martialed over the killing of more than 100 Vietnamese civilians. Capt. Medina has not up to now been accused of being involved in the reported massacre.

He said that 20 to 30 civilians had been killed by artillery fire before his troops entered the village and he reported this information to his superiors. All these were women, children and old people in the villages when the operation started, he said. They were still there three days after the start of the operation.

Asked whether he had shot a four-year-old child as a former soldier in his company had reported, Capt. Medina said: "No sir, I did not shoot a child."

However, he admitted, he had shot a woman, who was on her way to him in the presence of an armed guerilla. "Apparatus," said Capt. Medina, who was wounded.

"As I turned round I caught in my eye a movement. I thought, 'Boy, yes, she's dead.' I instinctively from my military training turned around and engaged the enemy. But she was never proof that I had shot her."

He had been told that National Guardsmen had been shot while fleeing from the village as his men approached. The village had been under fire from the Viet Cong since the battalion for more than 20 years. Accordingly, he told his platoon commanders to go careful and to move slowly, to turn the fire and engage the enemy. But he said that he made sure that no civilians were shot.

On Wednesday the inquiry had questioned a helicopter pilot, Capt. William Robb, who had reported that there had been a "needless" massacre of civilians during the investigation, headed by Col. Henderson.

This investigation had concluded that Capt. Medina had been killed by a fire exchange and that no further action was necessary.

The Pentagon team, which includes four officers and two civilians, also questioned Col. Henderson and four other officers from the 11th Infantry, who had been asked to continue its hearings for several weeks and then go to Vietnam for an additional month.

In another development, Maj. Charles Robb, a son-in-law of ex-President Lyndon Johnson, said that he had no knowledge of reported killing of civilians by his unit in the same area of command in Vietnam.

He said: "I was not aware of any orders, written or through rumour or innuendo, that such an event might have occurred. However, I am sure that no innocent civilian was ever killed by someone under my command."

The killing of Capt. Medina, by Marines under Maj. Robb's command, had been made in a letter from the commanding officer of the former newsmen, Mr. Anthony Martin-Trigona, to Senator Charles Percy (Rep., Illinois). — A.F.P.

Father turned hippie to solve Tate killing

Sharon Tate's father resigned his Army commission after her murder in Los Angeles, and that of four friends, and had since been trying to trace who was responsible, the Los Angeles Times reported.

In an interview with the newspaper, Captain Charles Atkinson, 46, let his beard grow, dressed himself in a hippie outfit and drifted around Los Angeles, San Francisco and Los Angeles, compiling in the process a detailed list of the drug stores in the area.

The youthful-looking man, who has served in the U.S. Army for nearly 20 years, told the newspaper: "I guess I've got to get involved with the hippie community." He said the arrests in connection with the Tate case had been "a real blow to my mind."

Mr. Tate refused to give any details of evidence he had himself gathered about the three murder suspects, as not to prejudice their case.

CANCER VIRUS FOUND

Two American scientists have isolated a human cancer virus for the first time.

Prof. Morton and Prof. Frederick Ellert of the National Health Institute of Bethesda, Maryland, on Thursday demonstrated their discovery to a group of experts at the Cancer and Immunogenetic Institute of Villejuif in the Paris suburbs. The virus had been discovered, in the serum of patients suffering from sarcoma tumors, and it was found that act as cancerous cells.

They then injected cells isolated from the culture and injected them into healthy cells. These cells were transformed into cancer cells, which led them to the conclusion that it was caused by the action of a virus. This virus was later determined by electron microscope.

Cancer viruses have been isolated in animals like the cat, but in man, this is the first cancer virus to be detected in humans.

This discovery, made a year ago by the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Maryland, was recently confirmed by Prof. Lloyd Old of New York, who took part in the Villejuif conference.

Prof. Ellert told the conference that he had been unable to get direct evidence that the isolated virus was that of sarcoma, as was suspected. He said that he believed that sarcoma has a direct antibody.

The agent he and Prof. Morton isolated, however, was found to contain characterized healthy cells, which had never yet been proved. — A.F.P.

Biafran arms come from France says journalist

A French journalist, M. Francois Detet, son of the French Defence Minister, M. Michel Detet, yesterday linked France with arms deliveries to Biafra.

In a front-page article in the evening paper Le Monde, M. Detet, who was recently returned from Biafra, said the breakaway State was being regularly supplied with arms through a friendly West African country.

Though the origin of the arms remained a mystery, France was frequently mentioned as the supplier. She was said to deliver arms to the Ivory Coast which then shipped them to Biafra, M. Detet said.

Biafran troops' dashes looked very much like those of French soldiers, he said, while resiliency was shown for it that either of its predecessors

ironically, the paper said in the same article.

"And whether this is justified or not, the Biafrans are very grateful to the French Government," he added.

M. Detet is the son of a monk and a former member of the French Foreign Legion. His father served under President de Gaulle as Prime Minister, Finance and Foreign Minister.

Commenting on the situation in Biafra, the British Observer wrote yesterday that what was apparently the third and most severe of the Nigerian army's "final assault" on Biafra had now been overtaken by events shown for it that either of

its predecessors

ironically, the paper said in the same article.

"A fresh peace initiative might have the same effect."

Previous peace conferences at Kampala, Addis Ababa and Nairobi, last month, had been disrupted by news of the conference room of a fresh and concrete Federal military victory, hastening Nigerian hand to the point that Biafra had to be finished in a few weeks.

With a complete military solution not only as far away as Christmas and the New Year might prove a more appropriate time than any so far for extensive negotiations, the Observer said for a ceasefire and for a less spectacular, but more realistic, solution by negotiation.

According to the Observer there are four reasons for the failure of the latest Nigerian offensive:

Firstly, the high level of Biafran firepower, particularly in newly-imported support weapons, heavy mortars, mortars, artillery and tanks.

Secondly, a new Biafran weapon, the "Bryne mine," a mine-throwing device, has been developed by a 15mm rocket, it explodes 50ft above the ground pointing downwards.

Thirdly, the Biafrans, which attacked Federal ammunition trucks just behind the front with rockets and destroyed them, so that the Nigerian infantry were dependent on Promiscuity, the Federal Air Force, which were in three days mistook Nigerian, for Biafrans and hampered them immensely.

U.K. awaits report from Nairobi on migration racket

Standard Staff Reporter, London.
British Home Office. In view awaiting a full report from the British High Commission in Kenya about the latest forged entry visa scandal.

Scandalary to the Home Office about forged entry visas and other documents was admitted by Mr. Wallace, who were genuine and were properly issued and were unauthorised signatures.

British Airways in London said yesterday that London had been tipped off about the racket, which had allowed the illegal migration of some hundred Asians.

But the source was unable to say whether the Home Office or the British or African authorities or Asians with a group against immigration.

But now on their guard at airports in London, officials spotted what had hitherto escaped them: incorrect numbers and wording of documents.

The outcome of all this is that Asians with genuine documents must now exert greater examination at points of entry in Britain during brief periods of detention while further checks are being made.

Having belatedly smashed one racket, Whitehall is determined not to encourage another one. It is also hoped that the treatment accorded to eight Asians who spent nearly a fortnight in prison in Kenya's capital, "will demonstrate that questioning and questioning, an intermediary claiming to obtain very certificates is simply not worth it."

On Friday night a number of Asians were released after long interrogations by immigration and police at Heathrow Airport, and they were given three months' conditional entry while further inquiries are made and those immediately charged under the Immigration Act and the Detention Act were remanded in custody.

The Asians later dispersed to Indian and London hotels. Birmingham and London police had given up hope of catching the ringleader after a vain appeal to Nairobi to do so.

Should Kenya deport the two again, however, London would have to accept them, from whom could do nothing about alleged offences committed in Nairobi.

Kenya's entry visa system, U.K. citizenship has strongly condemned Passport racket but at the same time has issued a warning to the Home Office "to have at ready the constitutional absurdity of creating U.K. citizens from entering Britain."

The Home Office is always alert to such comments and the men were charged under forgery, which is quite another matter.

As the car was driving away passers-by stopped to stare at it and smashed the windows.

Another gang chase just lost the Corina.

ABAKA: POLICE SEE UGANDA 'AGENT'

Standard Staff Reporter, London. Five men burnt into Kubaki on Friday and were beaten and with pieces of iron driven into the flesh by Mr. G. Kabuki, who had been commanding officer of the 1st Battalion, Mr. Wallace, who was eight people they had to be down on the spot. The men had been ordered to raise her.

Yard said yesterday they had been detained on which he had been of them, eliminated from the Matoke Sankayo, in connection with inquiries into the death of his son on November 21, another said he died of natural causes and the community believes he was murdered. Yard said yesterday he had been "very, very careful" and had been found with him and served drinks for his friends a couple of days before he was killed.

Feeling among the 200-strong Burundi community is running very high and Matoke Sankayo has been given police protection. The court heard that Uganda had been warned Buganda not to take the law into their own hands. She is now in prison.

For America was last around when the incident followed a photograph of the girl from a source in Birmingham.

Yard said some quarters of the Matoke Sankayo, who had been in London from Kampala, Uganda, had been informed of the murder of the Uganda intellectual.

He said she was really killed by the Uganda community and several acquirements had been made.

It was not known to the police, who were told by the Uganda authorities, that she was murdered by the Uganda community and several acquirements had been made.

While technically the file on "King Freddie" remains open, the coroner said the inquest into the circumstances of his death had therefore been proved.

The court heard that he was unlikely to lead to any arrests.

New church school will emphasise agriculture

Standard Staff Reporter, Arusha. The Lutheran Church, Northern Tanzania, is to build a $100,000 secondary school at Karatu, where it is to establish its first secondary school in the main town of the Arusha district.

The school will be established by a day at Salama. This office began operations in April and is to be established in Karatu in January.

The project is being financed by the Central Agency of Germany — a charitable organization of the German Government through Lüneburg Church headquarters in Bonn.

The Tanzanian Government is contributing a quarter of the capital expenses for the project and will also be responsible for the running expenses.

Announcing the project at the weekly meeting of the regional general for the Northern Diocese, Mr. M. A. Shadi, said plans have been finalised and the school is to start early next year.

The school will be built at Karatu along the Ngorongoro Road, about 10 miles from the town.

The project will be carried out in four phases, starting in 1972, with the school ready to accept students in 1973.

Mr. Shadi said the school would be specialised in agriculture and animal husbandry.

The project, which will be completed by the end of 1973, will have eight classrooms, dormitories, a canteen, a library and sports facilities.

There are about 20,000 fishermen — more than three-quarters from countries bordering Lake Victoria — along the shores of the 15-mile lake, which was formed by the Tanzanian Government.

Mr. Oduo said the Ministry of Fisheries and Game has been invited to live in Ujiji to improve the standard of living of the people in the area.

The Ministry especially urged the Tanzanian Government to contribute towards the construction of a new Tanzanian Government and to assist the Ministry of Fisheries and Game.

The charge stated that, with the exception of the court, he was not before the court, because of his wife's health and his wife's wish to be seen.

During the trial, he said, he was going to be held in the prison through his wife, two of his hand and two married sons, and his wife.

After his release, he said, he would be held in the prison and buy a new motor body for his wife.

former M.P.s in Mombasa

Standard Staff Reporter.

All Mombasa constituencies had changed hands, which came as a shock to some of the former M.P.s, especially when two of them, Mr. A. J. Pandya (Mombasa Central) and Mr. S. M. Mandano (Mombasa North), were heavily defeated.

Mr. Pandya was beaten by a former Specially Elected Member, Mr. Mohamed Jahan, and Mr. S. M. Mandano (Mombasa North), were heavily defeated.

In Mombasa West, the former holder, Mr. M. B. Nwamwea narrowly defeated by Mr. K. S. Nwamwea, who is a clerk with E.A. Cargo House.

In Mombasa West the former M.P., Mr. Sammy Omar, was disqualified and did not stand. His place is taken by Mr. D. M. Kioko.

There was a very close turn-out of voters, especially in the predominantly Muslim constituencies of Mombasa North and South.

There were about one-third of the registered voters in each of the two areas voted.

31,836 out of Mombasa's 86,249 voted to elect the four new men.

In Mombasa West only 10,647 went to the poll. Out of 19,644 registered voters in Mombasa Central, his constituency only 8,154 cast their votes. Mombasa Central sent to the poll 21,480 voters, while its registered 22,418 voters, while 5,435 out of 15,269 people in the Mombasa South constituency cast their votes.

The voting deadline was extended after the last Provincial Commissioner, Mr. D. M. Mathenge, had toured the polling stations and ordered that nobody be turned away from the polls.

As a result, polling stations closed at different times depending on the number of people who had voted. The last polling booth closed its doors at midnight, which was immediately followed by the counting of the votes.

The town's first result were announced at about 3 a.m. while the final ones did not come out until 5.30 a.m.

Results were announced the last results, the returning officer, Mr. Eliud Ngenga, praised policemen who had been most helpful to voters, presiding officers and their assistants, the girls of the Coast Secretarial College, who counted the votes. He also praised candidates for their peaceful and mature campaign.

Two former M.P.s who were defeated, Mr. Pandya and Mr. Mandano, said later that they would definitely lodge protest against some methods used during the voting process, particularly the killing of a snake and two dogs in which two babies died at Kaloleni and Rusinga. In the Kiliini District went off peacefully, the District Commissioner, Mr. Corrie Okello, said.

The Minister for Commerce and Social Services, Mr. Ngala, scored a remarkable victory over Mr. T. M. C. Chokwe, in a straight fight in Kilifi South constituency. His nearest rival, Mr. Emmanuel Malinge, received 3,411 votes, while the former M.P., Mr. Francis Tuvi, the former M.P. for Kilifi South who was unopposed, received 1,740 votes.

In Kilifi North constituency, his nearest rival, Mr. J. J. Malinge (Kilifi North) and Mr. H. J. Malinge (Malingi South) — were dropped

Mr. Mwasanya was defeated by a well-known teacher, Mr. Ngala, who scored 4,397 votes against him, 1,747.

Details of the Kilifi election showed great sympathy for the voters in the queue.

At Woodley School, for instance, where there was a mile-long queue from early morning, police took on a number of crippled and old people to the front.

"In two minutes the place looked like a casualty ward," one police officer said.

Elderly people and women with babies in arms were also allowed up front, and two police constables were passing their children out of the queue.

It was estimated that a baby went through the polling booth ten times with different women.

Women were blamed for the long queues, which reached 10 miles.

"They take time to make up their minds," was a typical polling official's comment.

Sixty of them get in there and they stand for three or four minutes staring at the boxes wondering which to put their card in."

The Minister for Commerce and Industry, Mr. Kibaki (centre), cheered by his supporters, was seen by the winner of the Kilifi seat in Nairobi. The Minister was a narrow victor, but he beat his main candidate, with a woman candidate, Mrs. Joel Mbogo.

carrying unauthorised signatures.

Diplomatic sources in London said yesterday that London had been tipped off about the racket, which had involved unauthorised migration of some hundred persons.

But the source was unable to say whether the tip came from the Foreign Office or from Asians or Asians with a grudge against immigration brokers.

Having believed that there was one racket, Whitehall is determined not to let it happen again. It is also hoped that the traders will be forced to eight Asians who spent nearly £100,000 in prison or hotel confinement, and who had been queue-jumping through an intermediary claiming to obtain entry visas. As such, the racket is simply not worth while.

On Friday night a number of Asians with forged documents were arrested at Heathrow Airport, held in immigration and police at Heathrow Airport for months conditional entry while further inquiries are made then they were immediately remanded under the Forgery Act and so remained.

Asians had largely succeeded to dependants in Leicestershire, Birmingham and London. It means deportation after having given up hope of deportation after failing to appeal to the Home Office to readmit them.

Should Kenya deport the two men, the accused would be forced to leave Britain.

The all-party committee on UK citizens' passport has strongly condemned the practice of issuing forged passports to enter Britain. The Home Office has at last recognized the seriousness of the abuse of preventing UK citizens from entering Britain.

The Office is always careful not to test actual entry in courts. These particular Asians were charged under forged documents which is quite another matter.

"After getting the telephone wires they grabbed the cash box and removed the money. They searched Mr. Kabuki hoping to find his share of the money and left off in a car after firing a gun at Mr. Mwangi said.

The gang removed £35 from his pockets and took a radio set in the middle of the road away in a Ford Cortina.

As the car was driving away it exploded twice at it smashed the windscreen.

be a member of the Uganda intelligence service.

As a Bugandan she was readily accepted by the Ugandans, community of the Kabaka. She told police she was not known to the Kabaka's advisers that she was with him and served drinks for him and a couple of hours before he left.

Feeding among the 700-strong Bugandan community is running very high and many of the Kabaka's supporters have been given police protection. The authorities have warned Bugandans not to take risks.

Yohab Kasekende, Yagonda and Tanyanya Migii jointly murdered Mr. Kabuki's son, John Kabuki.

On their day a boy belonging to the five accused was missing. The boy died in hospital and they later saw him skinning the stolen cow, when they approached the scene fell down and the boy accused jointly beat him to death.

Mr. Kasekende said that although the five had stated that there were many people at the scene, he did not remember beating the man to death. They were accused of killing him with common intent.

He said that the five had set out to catch cattle thieves and that the essential ingredients of murder had therefore been proved.

While technically the file on "King Kabuki" may be closed, the information contained in it is unlikely to lead to any arrests.

New church school will emphasise agriculture

Standard Staff Reporter,

The Lutheran Church, Northern Diocese, is building a school at Karatu, Mbulu, which will specialize in teaching agriculture.

The project is being financed with funds from the World Agency which has the support of the German Government.

The Tanzanian Government is contributing a quarter of the capital expense for the project and will also take responsibility for its running expenses.

Announcing the project at the weekend, the church secretary, Mr. M. A. Shadi, said plans have already been worked out and construction work is to start early next year.

The school will be built at Karatu along the Ngongoro Road, the southern entrance to the district. The project will be carried out in four phases and the school is expected to be ready in 1972.

Mr. Shadi said that it had been decided that the school would be taught in the vernacular and animal husbandry in line with the country's policy of education for the students to face the realities of life after leaving school.

When completed the school will have eight classrooms, dormitories, an assembly hall, an administration block, staff houses and sports facilities.

SAFE DRIVERS WIN AWARDS

The District Commissioner for Mombasa, Mr. Eliud Njenga, has presented driving diplomas and certificates of £2 to each of 10 drivers of Toyota lorries from Toyota Breweries on completion of one year's accident-free driving.

Presenting the diplomas, Mr. Njenga condemned careless driving, speeding and unnecessary overtaking as being bad for the economy.

He said that the driving run was very encouraging and follow this example as it acted as an incentive to better driving.

Two days for polling likely in next election

Standard Staff Reporter
high-calibre Patriotic placing less emphasis on cash-pump politics more importance on local and international was foreseen yesterday by Kenyatta's electorates Dr. Mungai, mentioning on the move to sweep away the vestiges of party membership. Dr. Mungai said: "This is the wish of our people."

The successful candidate in the Kibaki constituency, he said, adding in the new Parliament, he will have been carefully taken Kenyatta's call for a lot of Members, who lived life in the community and constituency duties. The other leading candidates in the constituencies when their Members were on duty in the constituency, he said, was for the people, and finally, private other things.

But Kibaki, who narrowly won over Mrs. Jael Mbogo in Bahati, said a number of candidates had succeeded in a minority of constituencies, about 20 per cent of the total. This was an element which could not be ignored in assessing the results.

In many instances, the number of people going to the polls had been lower than predicted. This was even so in areas where transport was not so much of a problem. Yet many voters had been in 1963 there had been polling over two days and he felt sure the new Parliament would change this.

Mr. Mungai said that in Nairobi the percentage was about 70 per cent.

Transport — and the weather — had kept the numbers down but there still been delays at the polling stations because officials were unprepared.

It was known voters had been "time-barred" in Nairobi, Mombasa and Kakamega.

He listed several reasons, surprisingly fresh, why he said, adding in the new Parliament, he will have been carefully taken Kenyatta's call for a lot of Members, who lived life in the community and constituency duties.

The other leading candidates in the constituencies when their Members were on duty in the constituency, he said, was for the people, and finally, private other things.

Mr. Mungai said: "I think that in Parliament there will be more vigour and more excitement than we have before. The debates will be more intense."

"Plenty of the new candidates are young and there will be many Members with their own original ideas. I would think the Government will be much more lively in its policies than in the old House."

Mr. Mungai also said that private Members, by being more intense and militant, should have more influence. He would think communism will be more accepted by many of the new people who have been here for a long time and are knowledgeable about these matters.

"Although the issues in this election will be different from the new Parliament will have more of a national outlook and it will be more interested in international affairs."

Asked if the K.P.U. leaders would be invited to speak in the new Parliament, Mr. Mungai said that Mr. Odinga's definition had not been caused by the elections but for other reasons. Mr. Kibaki and Dr. Mungai were speaking to the Foreign Press and to local journalists.

Mr. Kibaki was asked if there were any new candidates, and he replied: "Surprisingly few — but you always have some."

He added that unsuccessful candidates could appeal to the Supervisor of Elections, but he did not know if legal protection would result in constituencies where voters had been turned away.

Asked if there would be a change of mood in Kenyan politics now, the electorate said: "No. Not at all. We appointed 62 per cent of our Members."

The electorate said: "People's wishes followed — President

Standard Staff Reporter
writing on the behalf of the said: "This has been a truly remarkable election and I am sure the new man in the challenging task must build that still lies

President paid tribute to the Kenyans for turning up in numbers to give their verdict to the National Assembly.

He was pleased to note that despite rains which made voting difficult in many areas, the Kenyans had turned out determined to exercise their basic right — the basic right of self-government. Kenyatta commended all the Government officials, including members of the police force, for working hard to make the elections a great success.

from all over the country had demonstrated that Kenyans had great importance to freedom of choice and appreciated the value of their votes in the general election.

Dr. Mungai said: "The Kenyans had great importance to the Kenyans, who were thinking about his release but when he was released, he was welcomed by Mr. Odinga in Parliament."

At the same time it was only to be expected that all Kenyans would be disappointed. Some would want to the Right or the Left and others they were bound to happen. Mr. Kibaki thought there would be more "Kenyans" in the new House, which would have been very different.

A notable feature of the elections was that a large number of suitable candidates had been selected for the elections to give the electorate a wide range of choice.

The verdict of the wamani was that many more had been given and we must accept it," he said.

President Kenyatta thanked all the Kenyans for their support, including members of the police force, for working hard to make the elections a great success.

Women who queued

Women unnumbered voters in some constituencies at the time of the elections are seen here queuing up as women wait in bullock under a scorching sun to register their names in the rolls in Nairobi in Saturday's elections.

Below left: The elections brought a good deal of former M.P.s and Ministers down to earth with a bump, but this easterner was more than plumb in the clouds as she did a little last-minute campaigning in one of the Nairobi constituencies.

ABOVE: Sir G. C. Dallimore (center, left), director of Colas Ltd., and Mr. Tom Mbaya (right) and the Rev Tom Mbaya Memorial (Colas) Scholarships to ten girls from the Kenyatta Secondary school, Nairobi, where Mr. Mbaya was formerly chairman of the board. The scholarships will be awarded each year to the most outstanding students. Mr. Dallimore is seen with the chairman of the government, Mr. J. N. Nyeri, the headmaster, Mr. James Ndungu, and winning students.

LEFT: Mr. Isaac Omondi Okero, who was in Great Britain for three months, had an election-eye escape when his car was involved in a collision with a truck on the Nairobi-Maseno-Kisumu road. Mr. Okero escaped unharmed.

Kenya's top Scouts, the Rhino patrol of the 11th Mombasa troupe line up with the prizes they won in the Kenya section of the inter-troop competition at Rongai, Nairobi, on Sunday. The patrol leader, Mark Odour, holds the Rata Super Scout trophy.

Mombasa patrol are Kenya's top Scouts

The best Scout patrol in Kenya — the Rhino patrol — travels to Dar es Salaam this week to defend Kenya's title in the East African finals of the Rata Super to be held on Friday and Saturday.

The Mombasa patrol, which placed 14th out of a total of 200 points in the Kenya section, the competition was held at Rongai Camp, Nairobi, at the weekend.

The Lion patrol of the 11th troupe, which scored 140 points and the Flamingo patrol of the 57th Nairobi troupe came 13th and 139 points respectively.

The 1st Kisumu troupe, which had won the Kenya title in the 1965, 1966 and 1967 competitions, finished fourth place. Seven winning patrols took part in the competition.

The prizes were presented by Sir Godfrey Rhodes, vice-president of the Kenya BSA Scout Council, who said the scouts were greatly indebted to Rata for sponsoring the competition. "It is about a great deal to raise the standard of scouting all over Kenya for five years."

Sir Godfrey added that the competition was an important contribution to nation-building because it helped citizens help to build a stronger nation.

U.S. deserters tell of systematic atrocity

American deserters gathered in Stockholm on Sunday told of systematic atrocities committed by United States forces in Vietnam.

"They don't know why there's a big blow-up in the papers now," one deserter said. "It's because they expected it to happen friendly to the Vietnamese. All the villages, including Ban Me Tuy, were massacred. The stock were slaughtered, the records were destroyed."

The seven ex-soldiers spent three hours giving detailed and they witnessed in Vietnam, including torture of prisoners, and the sheer savagery of their talk of sheer vengeance.

The group was brought together by Mr. George Lane, a New York lawyer and writer, who has been investigating the atrocities, purporting to be the account of an American deserter who had informed him of the entire population of the village of Bau Tru, in northern South Vietnam, in December 1966.

Mr. Lane identified the source to be Staff Sgt. Kent Stillwell. The voice of the United States forces in Vietnam, he said.

VIETCONG STEP UP ROCKET ATTACKS

Vietcong gunners attacked Cam Ranh base with Chinese-made rockets on Sunday, military sources said in Saigon yesterday.

Fifty rounds fell on the large American base on the next morning in South Vietnam, but caused neither damage nor casualties, a government spokesman said. Cam Ranh base is 200 miles north-east of Saigon.

American B-52 bombers made seven raids on positions laid along the Cambodian border, north and north-east of Saigon.

Communist shelling north-east of the capital indicated that despite increased American patrols and improved security the Communists have managed to infiltrate heavy rocket units into the area since the 1968 Saigon bombardments.

Also on Sunday Vietcong forces seized a bridge and a police post in the Cholon area of Saigon. Two rockets exploded injuring a soldier guarding the bridge, but there was no material damage.

The last terrorist attack on the capital was on November 23, when four large shells with 107 mm rockets hit the Binh Duong province north of Saigon.

Uganda may not play against M.C.C. next year

Standard Staff Reporter

The secretary-general of the National Council of Sports in Uganda, Mr. Hassan Mohamed, has written to the president of the M.C.C., who are due to play in Uganda next year, expressing his concern over its association with South Africa.

Mr. Mohamed's letter, dated January 2, says:

"The Secretary-General sent me a copy of your letter dated January 2, 1969, to the president of the M.C.C. of which you accuse us of 'double standards' in inviting a South African cricket team to tour East Africa next year while the M.C.C. is making arrangements to send a team to South Africa."

The text of the N.C.S.'s letter to the M.C.C. reads: "In 1970 we invite the South African cricket team consisting of white South Africans, and drawn from the districts of Transvaal which excludes non-white South Africans from members in the Schools to tour East Africa. We are in Uganda are very much concerned about the situation at present."

I do not need to elaborate here on the matter as it has received a lot of publicity.

It is important to remember that arrangements are being made next year for our M.C.C. cricket team.

Tanzania celebrates Republic Day today

Standard Staff Reporter, Dar es Salaam

Tanzania will celebrate her eighth birthday as a nation and a goodwill message has been sent by President Nyerere.

To mark the occasion, the People's Defence Force will hold a parade of the armed forces which will be inspected by President Nyerere and watched by foreign guests.

On the whole, the celebrations mark both the country's independence and its development. Dar es Salaam has developed quickly since they coincide with the month of Ramadan when Muslims are fasting.

Messages of congratulations have come from the capital, socialist countries.

In a message to President Nyerere, the Minister of Liberation Front (Tanzania) said Tanzania's experiences in her road towards a socialist state were an inspiration to Eritreans in their struggle for independence.

The minister said: "Our ideas of the independence and freedom of the people of Eritrea, representing the people of Misraq and their combatants, would be of great help to bring meaningful economic well-being to the workers and peasants of the world."

The foundation of the progressive workers of Africa, Asia and Latin America, the President, heartily congratulated the successive governments for the rapid political, economic and social development.

Meanwhile, our official of the National Festival and State Celebrations Organisation has said that Republic Day would be celebrated on January 12 together with Revolution Day.

to visit East Africa including one of the most prominent of your team's tour to East Africa to enable the two countries to maintain a true spirit of sportsmanship and to participate on behalf of our respective regiments of their colour, size or strength.

On the other hand, your M.C.C. cricket team comprises a purely white team and are not prepared to accept the fact that the fellow men being as equal because of the colour of their skin. This indeed amounts to discrimination."

I am instructed to inform you that the National Council of Sports of Uganda, in its desire to forestall difficulties arising from the tour, has decided to tour Uganda in January 1970.

Besides Uganda playing hosts in the first East African quadangular, Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda will be invited to the negotiations with you under the auspices of the Cricket Club of Kenya.

Kenya has been interested in the visit of the Indians because of the cost of the expense, but Tanzania has had discussions with you. Mr. Rathod and I was invited to meet you in London on October 10 and 11.

The Indian cricket officials would not comment. Mr. Rathod, the Uganda Cricket Association, said that if following the N.C.S.'s suggestion, he decided not to visit Uganda, then the Uganda Cricket Association would lose its re-scheduling programme.

In the first place, the local press has advised the tour to start this coming weekend and end until January 17-18 when the last matches will be played may be forwarded to East Africa.

The postscript was brought forward to the visit of Uganda cricket for the visit to Uganda and the possibility of the M.C.C. Another reason for the possible cancellation of the tour is the rains which have set in.

The U.C.A. is likely to insist in the next few days to consider what the M.C.C. call for the take should be.

It is possible that the semi-final and final of the Hashash knockout cup may be held in Nairobi to be completed before Christmas. The postscript can be played in Nairobi.

The chairman of the East Africa Cricket Conference, which arranged the tour to Uganda, Mr. C. O. Taita, said: "Our decision not to visit Uganda, then the Uganda Cricket Association would lose its re-scheduling programme."

In the first place, the local press has advised the tour to start this coming weekend and end until January 17-18 when the last match is to be played.

The invitation was extended by the Cricket Council of Great Britain which is an independent body consisting of leading cricket county teams.

The team is touring the world as a leading team, it has already stated that it will not be visiting South Africa on this tour because it is unable to be told what members it can or cannot include in a visit of that country.

The M.C.C. also refused to tour South Africa a year ago thus cancelling the tour of the Indian team in the planning because of the Indian's insistence that they would be allowed to bring their own team.

We know that all these successes achieved since independence were due to the leadership of the former Prime Minister, Dr. Jomo Kenyatta.

The touring M.C.C. team will be visiting Kenya in January for 14 days.

Their tour of Zambia has already started. They are staying at President Kaunda's home, the chairman of the Zambia Cricket Union.

The All African Trade Unions Congress, Dr. S. D. Salam, also convened to His Excellency President Nyerere, the President of Tanzania, a local rally was held to mark the occasion of the anniversary of the revolution.

Capt. Ernest L. Medina (right), commander of the infantry company that swept Song My village, 1968, tells a news conference at the Pentagon, in Washington, that "I did not see a slumbering American ordered by me or reported to me." His attorney, Mr. Lee Bailey, is seated beside him. Capt. Medina held the news conference after appearing at a closed Pentagon meeting.

U.S. deserters tell of systematic atrocities

American deserters gathered in Stockholm on Sunday told of systematic atrocities committed by United States forces in Vietnam.

They don't know why there's a big blow-up in the papers now," said deserter Jerry Williams, 21, of Memphis, Tennessee, said: "What happens every day, man, for four years every day, man, is that we're tortured to death."

The American soldiers spent three hours giving detailed descriptions of atrocities they said they witnessed on many occasions, including torture of prisoners of both sexes to make them talk or, in sheer vengeance.

The group was brought together by Mr. Mark Lane, a British law clerk and writer who signed the warrant of a tape-recording purporting to be the account of an American deserter in Film of a massacre of Vietnamese civilians in the village of Bau Tru, in northern South Vietnam, in December 1967.

Mr. Lane identified the voice on the tape as belonging to Staff Sgt. Kent Strobel. The American had been received at a refugee camp at Bau Tru because the villagers were suspected of being friendly to the Vietnamese.

Women and children and all livestock were slaughtered, the record said.

The American village populations were also massacred, it said, and civilians wounded, without regard for age or sex, were treated like animals.

There is nothing like that in the northern combat zones,

Participants in the press conference of other Americans, including those who they described as brutal training methods, generally agreed with the account given by American Forces battalions.

VIETCONG STEP UP
ROCKET ATTACKS

Vietcong gunners attacked Cam Ranh base with Chinese-made rockets on Monday morning, sources said in Saigon yesterday.

Fifty rounds fell on the large American base in South Vietnam and caused "several" minor casualties, a Government spokesman said. Cam Ranh base is 200 miles north of Da Nang.

An invasion in Communist shelling, northeast of the capital indicated that despite increased American and Vietnamese patrols, the Communists have managed to infiltrate heavy rocket units of the sort used during the 1968 Spring Offensive.

Also on Sunday Vietcong fighters rocketed on a bridge and a police post in the Qui Nhon area of South Vietnam. Two rockets exploded, injuring a soldier guarding the bridge, but there was no material damage.

The last terrorist attack on the capital was in November and took place in the Cambodian border town of Shanhay, with Soviet 122mm and Chinese 100mm rockets having been made in Peking.

American B-52 bombers made their first appearance in both Da Nang and Huon Long provinces along the Cambodian border, north of the city.

Two of the raids were against targets near the Da Nang Special Forces camp. American and Vietnamese forces claimed to have shot down three times as many Communist forces.

Plot reports anger Greece

The Greek Government announced yesterday that it intended taking legal action against the London Sunday newspaper, The Observer, which printed an article on Sunday accusing the Greek Prime Minister, Mr. Papagos, of authorising a group of Italian extreme right-wing officers to stage a coup.

A Greek government communiqué denied the report.

It was understood that action would be taken against the Observer which had failed to publish a report on the alleged collusion.

The Greek army also denied The Observer's accusations.

The semi-official Athens news agency reported yesterday that the Greek Government considers that a "unanimous" decision would be required to expel Greece from the Council of Europe.

Brilliant start by Nairobi hockey side

Standard Staff Reporter

Nairobi University College made an impressive start to their bid to retain the men's hockey title by thrashing Dar es Salaam 6-0 in the first match of the series in the sixth University Games on the Kenya High School ground yesterday. In this game Nairobi College's International right wing, Jagjit Singh, scored twice in the first half and another two in the second session. His Kenya international compatriot, Roshan Singh, scored one goal in the first half while Amrit rounded off the scoring.

Makere University of Kampala, made a good start to the Games. They won the first two games in both cricket and women's hockey matches, shared the honours in the women's tennis and squash events but were surprisingly held to a 0-0 draw in their vital soccer match against Dar es Salaam.

Makere, with two Uganda internationals, Sembanwo and Ebalo, could make little impression on the strong Dar es Salaam side in their opening football match of the Games. Dar es Salaam had the territorial advantage and were far superior in midfield, but they were given chances of scoring from the penalty box. The guilty players were Ismail and Mpypyonyo.

Only one player, Mbogo, provided the class in Makere's side while their goalkeeper, Wacha, did a great job between the posts. The second was a draw even after the result preceding one and the result of the final reflected the game.

Makere beat Dar es Salaam 2-1 in the opening volleyball game of the week and collected fine 1-0 wins over the other Colleges in women's hockey encounter.

Makere's easiest win of the day was a 6-0 victory over Dar es Salaam at Parklands Sports Club, Nairobi. The men's team had the territorial advantage and were far superior in midfield, but they were given chances of scoring from the penalty box. The guilty players were Ismail and Mpypyonyo.

Eleven Zambians for Jamhuri tournament

Standard Staff Reporter

Zambia's international boxing team will arrive in Nairobi on Friday to compete in the Jamhuri tournament against Kenya. The team arrived on Tuesday and will be staying at the Jamhuri Hotel, bringing a full side of 11 boxers.

The boxers will be limited to the only eight members due to the insufficient amount of funds available for the tournament.

The Zambians, including John Olulu, David Aman, Stephen Tshimba and Saseko Sabu who would have otherwise been without a contest, will be boxing in all tournaments in Nairobi.

A Dar es Salaam boxer is to be disappointed following his failure to turn up for practice since the team reached Nairobi.

TABLE TENNIS

Doubles hat-trick for Kenya title-holders

Standard Correspondent

Hader Jamal of Kisumu, the No. 2 seed, won his third consecutive doubles titles when the Kenya open table tennis championships were held at the Kenya Institute, Nairobi, on Sunday. By defeating the eastern East Africa champion, Hader, and the Philo Pinto, in the final in straight sets, Jamal confirmed that his victory over Shabir Ghai, Sharad Ghai, and the semi-finalists, Gladys D'Souza, in the semi-finals was not a fluke.

Both Jamal and Pinto paired together to beat Ghai and S. Kothari in the men's doubles. Hader and the East African men's doubles, Jamal and Pinto, won the Kenya title for the third successive year.

Pinto played an attacking game, which was the secret of his invincible defence that carried the day. The final was not as one-sided as the scores, 21-16, 21-12, 21-12, suggests. There were some exciting rallies and the spectators were entertained by the fast tennis. The loser was perhaps a shade unlucky not to have taken a share of the spoils.

The men's doubles, too, provided an interesting duel with Sharad Ghai and S. Kothari against Hader.

His erratic shooting at crucial stages was the cause of his and Kothari's downfall.

Mrs. Jane Pinto retained the women's singles title by beating her old rival, Miss Gladys D'Souza, in the semi-finals.

election protests led Mrs. Jael Mbogo

Standard Staff Reporter
Jael Mbogo, who was in a fight for the Parliamentary Minister of Commerce and Industry, Mr. Kibaki, to appear before the High Court of Kenya as a constitutional institution which has the power to examine all the legal irregularities concerning irregularities.

Speaking at a Press conference in Nairobi yesterday, Mrs. Mbogo said that it would be difficult to accomplish simply because he or she had no right to do so, and to do so in a fair and just manner. She said what I am asking for, she said, is a fresh election in the constituency, and that they did not have such tactics.

She said: "Although the polling station was closed, the election was closed and more than 4,000 voters were turned away after 12 hours. We checked and counterchecked, of course, and the papers showed that we could not ensure that the election was outside the constituency." She added: "I think that the ink in marking thumbs was too strong to ensure that the voters were not marked. The ballot boxes were also damaged, and at the time the election was held, the ballot box was put to her constituency to determine the winner.

Mrs. Mbogo pointed out that the constitutional right of the people to choose their representatives should be upheld. "I would further say that the election of Dr. Aggrey was not valid, and both he and his colleagues had lied to the people," she said.

She said: "I want to see justice done and complaints pursued. Voting was rigged, and there is ample evidence of this."

Mrs. Mbogo produced a leaflet which she said had been circulated on Friday saying that the polling stations and voters could vote for whoever they liked. The leaflet had been distributed by the name of "This is a lie," she said. Kenya's former Minister for Constitutional Affairs, Mr. Mwai Kibaki, who came fifth in the Vihiga constituency in Saturday's elections, was present and spoke in support of his High Court application.

Mr. Otiende, accompanied by Mr. M. M. Midavalo, who is the visiting chief officer of the Supervisor of Elections, Mr. Norman Montgomery, visited people wishing to register petitions would have to wait until after December 20 when the official list of new M.P.s will be announced and in which they will have 14 days to take court action.

Appeals will not be made to the attorney general but by the attorney general but by the law.

Mr. Otiende — one of five Ministers to fall in the elections — said: "I am not surprised and Mr. Midavalo and I are here to see what I am asking for, he said.

Several other candidates who were defeated in the primary election plan to seek redress from the law.

Two of them, Mr. W. C. Mungai, the treasurer of Catu who was defeated in the Embu constituency, and Mr. L. O. Odaga, who lost the Makadara seat to Dr. M. Waiyaki, also claimed that they had been a number of irregularities.

Mr. Mwai, who had spoken to the Kanu election committee, Dr. Mungai, and would also speak to the Supervisor of Elections.

He said he had expected a "rigging" and said that he had been surprised to find that three of his boxes were empty.

Mr. Odaga also complained of "rigging" and said that he would seek the election of Dr. Waikwa at the election of the High Court.

Mr. Peter Thande, who stood against Mr. James Gichuru in the constituency, also expected challenges to his defeat.

One of the four successful candidates in the Majengo constituency, Mr. Christopher M. Obure, yesterday made a complaint to the Supervisor of Elections alleging irregularities.

Mr. Obure, who lost the seat to Mr. M. M. Midavalo, said that certain polling stations in the area were closed with the result that many voters turned away. Other polling stations stayed open until 9 p.m. He also disclosed that some of the stations were opened before the official time of 8 a.m.

In view of the pressure under public pressure as voting was not secret, he said: "Open the stations earlier, and give the voters freedom to select the right person."

Mr. Obure said he had briefed his lawyer with a view to filing a petition in the High Court.

Mr. Otar-Ojwang, a prospective candidate who came second in the constituency, also lodged a complaint with Mr. Montgomery, alleging irregularities.

He said that some of his supporters had been beaten and that some people had used illegal voting cards.

Later yesterday, Mr. William Matano, a former member of Parliament, who was defeated in the constituency, registered a protest against irregularities in his constituency, particularly in his constituency.

He claimed that a number of his voters had not been allowed to vote and that some election rules had been breached.

Mr. Matano, who is a member of the party in question, was engaged some months ago as a police officer.

Civil servants urged to avoid corruption nations could not be inefficient, corrupt or Civil Servants without using their own political ability, the Administrative Secretary, Stephen T. Galimano, Mwanza, when he addressed the Civil Service Conference during the young country's first anniversary, last Saturday.

Mr. Galimano said that Civil Servants must be part and parcel of their society and recognise the problems of the masses.

On the role of the Civil Service in a Socialist State like Tanzania, he said, "It must be in such a form as to be readily acceptable by the people. It must be different from the Civil Service."

He added that in Tanzania, therefore, Civil Servants must identify themselves closely not only with the people but also with their problems, hence the participation of Civil Servants in Tanzanian.

The Minister of Finance, Mr. Kibwika, warned that pecuniary gain should not be looked upon as the sole objective of service careers but individual financial gain should be the result of his service to the people. Productivity should be the political, economic or cultural factors. Basically a good Civil Service must be based on the concept of integrity, honesty and dedication; he said.

Mr. Galimano said that Civil Servants must be part and parcel of their society and recognise the problems of the masses.

In order to play their role in a socialist society, Civil Servants must be efficient, dynamic and resolute, particularly in the use of the land and through the co-operation of intelligent and intellectually honest and patriotic men which have put many nations at the mercy of their enemies.

Fishermen told to form co-operative societies

Standard Staff Reporter, Kampala.

Cooperatives are the only weapon to fight exploitation by the middlemen in the East African Minster for Finance and Administration, Mr. Ouko, said yesterday. He was addressing about 500 fishermen at Lango, near the Mungu Dam in Same district.

Mr. Ouko said the Government was doing its best to improve their standards of living through the co-operative movement which depended on the fishing industry.

He added that if they stopped further exploitation by the middlemen, they would be able to sell their fish by forming a Co-operative Society.

He urged especially non-Tanzanian fishermen to accept the policy of the Government in forming co-operatives and to establish and strengthen these.

Mr. Ouko reminded the fishermen of the old suffering and the pain prepared to live in Usuma Villages since the policy of the Government was to help them to establish and strengthen these.

He stressed that the Government had decided to stop them by co-operating through the common market.

The Minister stressed that leaders were not tolerating that.

BUY LOCAL GOODS CAMPAIGN

Standard Staff Reporter, Dar es Salaam.

The policies of the Government of Tanzania Government were general to realising the country's economy and through the rural workers of the land and through the co-operation of people, the Minister for Information and Cultural Affairs, Mr. Makame, said yesterday in Dar es Salaam.

Mr. Makame, who was opening the exhibition of products manufactured by local industries at the Convention of Mosh at the Mombasa House in the National Development Council, said the purpose of the exhibition, which is to encourage Tanzanians to buy local products, was in line with Tanzania's policies.

The Minister said that the exhibition was organized by the Afro-Shari Party.

Mr. Kibwika urged teachers and students to work hard in implementing Government policies.

He suggested that when Local Councils and Town Councils invited for buying goods, they must give priority to the use of Tanzanian products.

Improved facilities pose a challenge

Standard Staff Reporter, Dar es Salaam.

One of the results of improved facilities which the improved districts will see more and more is surviving those posing a greater challenge to the society into which they are born.

This was stated by Prof. A. C. German, Principal of the Mulago Hospital, Kampala, at the weekend at the Save the Children Fund annual conference.

Treatment of the mentally disabled child and all mentally handicapped children, Prof. German said, was a developing feature of medical care in developing countries, said Prof. German.

But the problem was that the child could not be divorced from his environment.

More progress today believed in the right of every man to a position in society, although most societies had been forced to place priority on the treatment of physical.

But what classified as "normal" and "abnormal"? Contrary to popular belief the distinction was not clearly defined he said.

Three-year-old statement in court

Standard Staff Reporter, Nairobi.

A statement made five years ago by Uganda Television's General Manager, Mr. Robert Clarke, to the Uganda Police Commissioner, Mr. J. B. Odhiambo, had attended a meeting in which persons plotting to overthrow Uganda and overthrow the Government, was the subject yesterday before the Uganda High Court before Acting Justice V. V. Phulke.

He said the money would be used in building a dam and purchasing ships and planes to mount the action, was represented by Mr. Godfrey Binasa, Q.C., and Mr. Odhiambo, who was represented by Mr. Anil Clerk.

The statement was admitted by the defendant, who accepted the counsel's submission that the statement had not been slanderous nor malicious, and that the plaintiff which was now suing him could not prove it.

Mr. Binasa, on the other hand, claimed that the case for the plaintiff was that the statement made to Mr. Ottin Oryem, organiser of the Uganda People's Democratic Party, was defamatory and slanderous, with an imputation that the plaintiff was a criminal and that he was known to commit known to know that of treason.

Mr. Clark said the last distinguished between slander and criminal act and that which did not and it was neither true to the plaintiff nor obnoxious to the plaintiff himself intended such statements to be made to the plaintiff.

To support this, Mr. Clark contended, it was necessary that the plaintiff was a criminal, and in this particular case this was not so.

Judgment was reserved.

M.C.C. tour of East Africa

Test and county cricket boards meeting in London today and tomorrow are expected to decide whether or not the South Africans will tour England next year. One influential section of opinion is utterly opposed to the tour, on the grounds that South Africa practices racism in sport.

The stupid ban against D'Oliveira visiting South Africa with the M.C.C. still rankles. Another, also composed of county cricket secretaries, takes a practical line that clubs could not afford to protest during matches against the South African team, either financially or psychologically. They fear the games would be interrupted by ugly scenes, such as the current Springbok Rugby football tour. Accordingly, they suggest that, if the South Africans are invited, the programme should be drastically curtailed, omitting county fixtures and concentrating on, possibly, three Tests.

This kind of ostracism, including the boycott against South Africa at the Olympic Games, is the voice paid for apartheid. The association between English and South African cricket dates back to 1888, and is something they hate having broken.

There is little doubt, however, that the violent demonstrations at Springbok matches have done more harm than good to the anti-apartheid cause. First, indignation has been aroused in South Africa over the harsh experiences to which the Springboks have been subjected, with a consequent hardening of the apartheid arteries.

When interviewed on B.B.C. television, the Springbok captain said he would play against anybody on the tour, meaning a team which included coloured players. By contrast, Mr. Volmer, interviewed at much the same time, created a very bad impression with his obstinacy, his diehard racial attitude and evasive answers to questions such as those about D'Oliveira.

Hot reaction has been whipped up by the demonstrators inside Britain. The Rugby clubs have many African and West Indian players and are interested only in the game, not in politics or racism. The British public is growing daily more irritated by the indifference in normal life of weirds who will demonstrate against anything, from Vietnam to "bars the bomb" provided they get a chance of hooliganism.

Uganda seems to be having second thoughts about the proposed M.C.C. cricket tour next February. The Secretary-General of the National Council of Sports has written to the M.C.C. expressing concern at its supposed association with South Africa. Mr. Sunderlan accuses the M.C.C. of "doubtful standards" in preparing to send a side to East Africa and Zambia while inviting a South African team comprising racists.

The allegation is based on a misconception. Even if it not turn aside and carry on, the M.C.C. will be under pressure to do so. Mr. Robson of the M.C.C. has been asked to argue the case.

Reactions to my decision have been very mixed. Some people have written in support, others are active in the voluntary bodies which provide general support for a larger aid programme, and many of my Parliamentary colleagues.

Others have written to me, mostly from the opponents of apartheid, to say that they are in favour of it, but that it is not right. What is it worth giving up a Ministerial job to campaign about it? Anyway, what did I expect to achieve as a back-bencher?

It is exactly this attitude of mind which must be avoided. A back-bencher is much about the opposition of aid. They are silly, prejudiced people, I am worried about the people of vague goodwill, who cannot understand the gravity of the situation.

It is necessary to campaign to get this issue accepted as one of the most important of our time. It must be seen as a marginal act of charity. It must be regarded as the essential parts of our overseas work.

There are four reasons for this. There is a similar concern over the fate of other countries than ourselves.

The late President Kennedy said in his inaugural address that we must do our best to help those in need.

It is the duty of every Member of Parliament to campaign for the welfare of the less fortunate.

More and more Members of Parliament are committed to such causes as O.X.F.A.M. and War on Want, are gauging recruits.

The volunteers are becoming more involved — there will shortly be a "Sign-in" at which all church organisations will be asked to support a larger aid programme. This activity represents a minority in the House, but it is a growing minority, especially among young people.

This upsurge of activity coincides with new international pressure.

I hope that the M.C.C. team will stay in Kenya for 14 days, not for the delight of cricket players and spectators, but for the sake of the people of Africa.

fulfilling a passage in Mr. Sunderlan's letter which read: "One of the most important purposes of your team's tour of East Africa is to enable cricketers from your country to come here in a true spirit of sportsmanship and brotherhood, to participate on an equal footing and mix with our sportsmen regardless of their colour, race or creed". The M.C.C. teams have been doing just this for decades in many parts of the world.

'WHY I RESIGNED'

Ex-Minister quit Cabinet to campaign for more aid

A few weeks ago Mr. Harold Wilson reshuffled his Government. He told me that I must leave the Ministry of Overseas Development where I had been in charge of Britain's programme of aid for developing countries.

He wanted me to become an assistant Minister — but still with Cabinet rank — in a large new Ministry handling relations with industry.

After a few days' consideration I turned down the new post and told the Prime Minister I preferred to return to the back benches.

It was a difficult decision to make. I had no wish to leave the Government, I support its policies and want it to win the next election.

The new post had provided an exciting challenge. But stronger reasons prevailed and having made my decision, I have no doubt since that it was the right one.

For over two years I had been pressing our Government to increase our aid programme. It had been impossible to make progress, but my political task had been to fight off Treasury attempts that the programme should be cut.

HARAMBEE EFFORTS CHANGING MASAILAND

Residents of Njandu District have started their Harambee Day annual celebrations with pomp, especially self-help group members, who had been preparing for the occasion for months.

The occasion, observed as a Labors' Day in Ngong townships, marked the day on which leaders and elders of the Massai came in the townships and districts to discuss ways of starting self-help schemes in the area.

Growth will heat a report from the District Community Development Officer, Mr. Mangu, on the progress already made by the Massai this year.

Traditionally, the Massai have always had one main problem - lack of education. They were left undeveloped by the Colonial Government, who wished to utilize their area as a tourist attraction.

Massai, under guidance of the Government, has been fighting hard to remedy this situation, and as a result, improvements have been made. In fact, two secondary schools have been established in the area, one in Njandu and another in Ngong.

There were no more than four intermediate schools in the district - two in Njandu and two in Ngong - before independence. Today there are 39 Massai primary schools and 20 harambee primary schools and 20 harambee schools in the area.

The Massai have worked hard to better their standard of living with the last ten years. They have achieved this by leaving cattle numbers down to 100,000, and by getting rid of their traditional way of life.

Mr. Khasabola, who was a participant in the Massai Farmers' rally at the Mombasa A.S.K. showground, where participants from all parts of the Massai land camping for nine days, said conditions such as Kenya with immense potential for agriculture, are producing their own food requirements.

Kenya would have the opportunity to produce large exportable surpluses for the densely populated and highly industrialised areas of the plains.

"This is an exciting and rewarding task for all of us and it is especially a challenge to all of us who will become the farmers of the future," he said.

the office in 1968, as part of the self-help campaign was concerned. This self-help campaign, first launched by the A.D.C. in 1965, has since spread to other areas of the district and helped to open up new opportunities. The areas involved include modest farm units, small-scale business ventures around Ngong Hill, Kikuyu, Kiambere, and Murang'a, where kerosene sales and distribution is under self-help organization.

This year an Assistant Minister for Agriculture, Mr. J. G. M. Mwangi, PA I.A. Massai Rural Development Center, The area surrounding Ngong Hill, Kikuyu, Kiambere, and Murang'a, where kerosene sales and distribution is under self-help organization.

The project has already made significant progress, including the Kerosene Fueling Center Camp on completion of the first stage of the project, and its private investors.

Recently, the Vice-Presidential Secretary, Mr. M. K. Githinji, convened a meeting at which the Board of Directors of the Massai Rural Development Center, PA I.A. Massai Rural Development Center, and the Massai Health Centre, to be held at a function room in Nairobi. The meeting was well-attended, and the Board of Directors will provide £20,000.

Some of the several local business associations have also awarded badges and certificates for their contributions to the self-help work in the area.

Mr. Samuel Kariuki Githinji, the newly-appointed chairman of Murang'a County Council, at a meeting at which the Board of Directors of the Massai Rural Development Center, PA I.A. Massai Rural Development Center, and the Massai Health Centre, to be held at a function room in Nairobi. The meeting was well-attended, and the Board of Directors will provide £20,000.

Cash inquiry call

A candidate for the Githinji constituency, Mr. W. Y. Dicks, urged the Government Commission of Enquiry after elections in an attempt to find out whether or not the £20,000 available for campaigning from the public.

He said that the £20,000 available for campaigning from the public.
