IS THE UNITED NATIONS WORTH KEEPING ALIVE?

By SIR ALEXANDER CADOGAN:
Permanent Representative of the United Kingdom
Government of the United Nations, 1946-50

Further, after collective action had been initiated, the United Nations was to be dissolved and guide it.

But there is of course a measure of truth in the remark that the situation is not what it once was. It may be said that the Charter is fundamentally right in its aim, but that the world has changed since it was drawn up.

Some other way
The Charter is a very important document. It is the only international agreement which has been signed by all the nations of the world.

GRAVE-TURN TO KOREAN WAR

Gen. MacArthur's statement

ALIEN FORCES' CROSS FROM MANCHURIA—MORE MASSING

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Supreme Commander of the United States Forces in Korea, yesterday accused the Communists of having called "alien troops" across the Manchurian border and of laying a trap aimed at destroying the Korean forces.

General MacArthur is in Tokyo, raised a stir among United States and officials at Lake Success.

General MacArthur's communications on Korea are authorized by the General Staff, on whose behalf he is speaking. It is expected that the Council will act on time in the near future.

The Security Council has the matter—this month's report of the General Assembly's new powers to give such assistance as it may deem appropriate.

FRENCH QUIT ALL POSTS WEST OF BLACK RIVER

New defence line in Indo-China

FRENCH troops west of the Black River in Indo-China have been withdrawn to a line on the river banks. The Black River, which runs roughly to a north-westerly direction from the Chinese border through the province of Tonkin, flows into the Gulf of Thailand, about 50 miles north of Hanoi.

A French military spokesman announced in Hanoi that all the posts west of the Black River were evacuated without incident. All equipment and material that could not be taken were destroyed.

The Farmer and the Cost of Living

The resolutions which will be discussed by the delegates to the annual conference of the National Farmers Union in Kintyre next week include a challenging exposition of the agricultural producer's view on the cost of living problem.

The farmer believes that the Government and the commercial community to do something more drastic more rapidly than they are doing so on the whole country to produce its food more cheaply.

The proposals should have the effect of encouraging the delegates to discuss this topical and important question, from the point of view of the producer, could be an interesting and valuable contribution. It is a sign of broadening interests in what is too often regarded as a Government's own view of the situation.

K.N.F.U. should include such a resolution in its conference agenda. For, of course, this is not simply or solely a domestic problem. It is a problem which affects the whole of the world.

It is clear that a satisfactory solution of the cost of living problem is not found, failure to do so will in the long run affect adversely the farmer. A producer who looked upon his land only from the angle of what he could get for it would be a fool.

It is to the advantage of both groups, and of the country as a whole, that there should be a joint attack on this common problem. It is certainly in the interests of the farmer in the long run that he should be able to pay a fair price for his produce.

Failure on the part of the Government to take steps to alleviate the strain imposed by the rising living cost, will leave it to an adequate extent, but the whole of the agricultural economy of the Colony to the risk of serious damage.

The resolutions for the conference have the merit of representing a practical view of the situation. It has not yet been done in seeking solutions to the cost of living problem. The chain includes a considerable number of twenty of cost of living, taxation, petrol, and so on. Many farmers are surprised by the difference between what they get to pay for the consumer's share and what the consumer has to pay for the same goods.

It is a fact that the Government has been unable to do so far. The Government has been unable to do so far. The Government has been unable to do so far.

MODERNISING LAW IN THE COLONIES

The new theory
The new theory of law is that law is not a set of rules imposed from above, but a system of principles that evolves from the needs of society.

The ancient remedy
The ancient remedy of law is that law is a set of rules that are imposed from above, and that are not subject to change.

Political folly
Political folly is the result of a failure to understand the needs of society, and the result of a failure to adapt the law to those needs.

Snivelling Guinea-Pigs
Snivelling Guinea-Pigs are those who are afraid to stand up for their principles, and who are willing to compromise for the sake of power.

Standard Diary
A Standard Diary is a record of the events of a day, and is a useful tool for keeping track of time and activities.

With changes in the Colonial Office
The changes in the Colonial Office have led to a new emphasis on the development of the colonies, and on the role of the law in that development.

Chief Justice in the Colonial Service
The Chief Justice in the Colonial Service is a key figure in the development of the law in the colonies, and is responsible for ensuring that the law is applied fairly and justly.

William Fitzgibbon, M.C.
William Fitzgibbon, M.C., is a prominent figure in the development of the law in the colonies, and is known for his work in modernising the legal system.
