

Shackletons break flight at Mombasa

Three more Communists asked to go

Standard Staff Reporter
Mombasa.

Shackleton long-range bombers and an Argosy transport aircraft arrived in Mombasa yesterday from Asien. They were carrying a Royal Air Force detachment of 100 officers and men in response to a request for air facilities to support the air embargo against Rhodesia.

Five aircraft in all are taking part in the operation. One of the Shackletons left Mombasa again last night and flew to Majunga, on the north-west coast of Madagascar. Its mission is to switch out for "pirate" tankers carrying oil for Rhodesia to the port of Beira in Mozambique.

The arrival of the R.A.F. aircraft was met by a refusal to comment on their presence and an official spokesman said that the aircraft were "being used to prevent pictures being taken of the Argosy and buildings." The Argosy was not allowed to land at the airport, away from the public eye, and was taken to the terminal building to allow an East African Airways flight to leave.

Refused permission

Press representatives, who are usually allowed to go there last night. Meanwhile, as the aircraft departed, the R.A.F. personnel covered the airport bar and others were set up in the town.

The R.A.F. Belfast jet flew to Kitulini yesterday and is due to leave again today, being of further naval operations in the Indian Ocean.

The following are extracts from the circulating statement of the Chairman, Lord Aldingford, for the year ended December 31, 1965. The Bank made a significant advance in profitability and is now in a sound financial position.

DIVIDENDS

Our Directors have decided to recommend to you that the dividend for the year should be 12 per cent. This dividend is to be paid on the 15th of September 1966.

CAPITAL

We have decided to increase our capital to £100 million. This will enable us to meet the needs of our growing business.

ASSOCIATED COMPANIES

Our subsidiaries have performed well during the year. The Finance and Development Corporation has been particularly successful.

AN INTERNATIONAL BANK

Last year I tried to give you a short appreciation of the position of our Bank as an international bank. We operate in 100 different countries and we have a strong presence in many of them.

EAST AND CENTRAL AFRICA

We have now 50 branches in what used to be called the territories of East and Central Africa. Our business is growing rapidly in this region.

E.A. COMMON MARKET

WARNING OF THE SERIOUS consequences...

The article begins by pointing out a fact hitherto unacknowledged. That the E.A. common market is a "house of cards" built on a shaky foundation. It is a house of cards because it is not a common market in the true sense of the word. It is a collection of separate currencies and currencies which will begin to make their appearance within a few months. It is a house of cards because it is not a common market in the true sense of the word. It is a collection of separate currencies and currencies which will begin to make their appearance within a few months.

The Barclays editorial is all the more commanding because of its reference to the preparation of separate currencies which will begin to make their appearance within a few months. It is a house of cards because it is not a common market in the true sense of the word. It is a collection of separate currencies and currencies which will begin to make their appearance within a few months.

The prediction is that separate currencies will be established before the end of this year. But those prophets of financial doom who see the end of all common co-operation in the issue of individual currencies are answered thus: "A currency union is not an essential feature of a common market, as can be seen from the ERM. If the three low central banks work together in close harmony in matters such as credit policy, exchange control, maintenance of currency parity and freedom of transfer of funds between one another, then most of the advantages of a currency union will be retained."

Break-up will damage industrialisation

The expression of opinion must not be construed as anything but a coming down of disapproval expressed (the George Forsyth) hope of a common market. From the disintegration. "Nevertheless, the common market is a house of cards. It is a house of cards because it is not a common market in the true sense of the word. It is a collection of separate currencies and currencies which will begin to make their appearance within a few months.

The article goes on to examine the difficulties inherent in any attempt to impose direction on overseas enterprise in opening up industries to one or another of the territories, or in any given locality. It is not a question of protecting an industry to one country rather than another but whether it will be established in East Africa at all. It is simply observed. The point here is Africa at all. It is simply observed. The point here is Africa at all. It is simply observed. The point here is Africa at all.

The break-up of the E.A. common market, it is suggested, would be most harmful to just that sphere in which the individual countries are most interested in industrialisation. Combined, the territories have a market of 27,000,000 people, but if they are divided into isolated islands of 3,000,000 (Tanzania), 5,000,000 (Kenya) and 7,000,000 (Uganda). There is a wide range of industries that can stand on their own feet in the wider market but can only be profitable in one country if protected, subsidised and charging high prices to consumers, runs the conclusion.

N. A. ACCUSED OF 'Reluctant to face challenge on oil'

MARGES that the United Nations Security Council was reluctant to face a clear challenge to its authority by South Africa, said its ally to Rhodesia, says inside in New York, yesterday. They came from the chairman of the U.N. General Assembly's Special Committee on Apartheid, Mr. Arthur H. Hays Sulzberger.

It alleged that it was an essential element of British policy not to provoke the South African Prime Minister, Dr. Verwoerd, and that Britain had tried by every means to maintain the importance of the oil shipments which had been permitted by Dr. Verwoerd.

The Security Council had called for an oil embargo against Rhodesia and was thus faced by a challenge. "It is being ridiculed and its authority is impeding," Mr. Sulzberger said.

The oil embargo cannot be permitted to offer this challenge to the law South regime. We must move to destroy this wretched situation now."

Conservatives warned

Mr. Marof also referred to American trade with South Africa and complained of recent statements by the U.S. Under-Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Trowbridge, about the strong economic ties between American business and that Africa.

Speaking at an election meeting in London, the British Prime Minister, Mr. Wilson, said on Thursday night that the Conservative Party would regard making Rhodesia a political issue in the country. He said he never thought he would see Conservatives seeking "to put the mantle of respectability now slipping in Rhodesia on to the Government."

Mr. Wilson said he was not in favour of Rhodesia by a split from the rest of the Commonwealth. He said that the Government would not support Rhodesia by a split from the rest of the Commonwealth.

National allege members

High school representatives, who have been granted the right to elect members of the Kenya National Council, have today announced that they have elected a new national council.

These candidates, Mr. Kayunga, Mr. William Mwach and Mr. F. Shiba, were originally put forward for the presidency but Mr. Kayunga and Mr. Shiba were elected by a narrow margin of votes and a new ballot had to be held.

The meeting lasted three hours during which there were heated debates on a variety of subjects, including the election of a president.

The meeting was conducted under the proposed new constitution — not yet approved by the national general meeting — which allows only provincial associations to vote. Under the present constitution the seven national associations are allowed to vote. Mr. Kayunga's casting vote was allowed under the present constitution.

BANK TO PROTECT ROLLER KENYA

Kenya's government has announced that it will set up a bank to protect the country's foreign exchange reserves.

The bank is to be known as the Kenya National Bank and will be established under the Kenya National Bank Act, which was passed by Parliament last month.

The bank's capital is to be £100 million, of which £50 million is to be contributed by the government and the other £50 million is to be raised from the public.

The bank is to be established in Nairobi and will have branches in other parts of the country.

The bank's main objective is to provide a secure and efficient means of holding and managing the country's foreign exchange reserves.

The bank is also to be responsible for the issue and management of the country's currency.

The bank is expected to start operations in the near future.

Break-up of currency 'irrevocable'

Barclays Bank D.C.O. said in a report published in London that it appeared irrevocable that the currency union between Uganda, Kenya and Tanzania had to be broken.

The report, which was published in the bank's quarterly magazine, said that the three countries had agreed to a currency union which would involve the issue of a common currency and the abolition of the national currencies of the three countries.

The report said that the currency union had been agreed to by the three countries in a treaty signed in Kampala in 1966.

POLL SHOWS SWING FROM LABOUR

A Gallup Poll published yesterday showed a swing towards the opposition Conservative Party which earlier opinion polls indicated would be defeated in Britain's general election in May.

The poll, published in the Sunday Express, was based on the results of 1000 interviews with voters in Britain's general election in May.

The poll showed that 45 per cent of voters would vote for the Conservative Party, while 35 per cent would vote for the Labour Party.

The poll also showed that 15 per cent of voters would vote for the Liberal Party, and 5 per cent would vote for the National Front Party.

MEDICAL MEN MEET TO DISCUSS AFRICA

A SEMINAR on medical education in Africa organized by the World Health Organisation, being held in Lusitania (Chatterbox) from today for a week. It will bring together professors from medical schools, leading research workers and top health officials from at least 15 countries in Africa south of the Sahara.

The seminar will be organized by the W.H.O. Regional Director for Africa, Dr. Alfred Cheung.

The seminar will discuss the state of medical education in Africa, and will also discuss the need for medical education in Africa.

An 'AKTA-VITE' family is a healthy family!

KEEP THEM VITAL, FIT AND STRONG

The key to health is a balanced diet—and that means a good all-round supply of vitamins. 'AKTA-VITE' provides your family with the essential vitamins that are, in fact, lacking in many of today's foods. Clear eyes—supple skin—strong bones and unobstructed arteries—all add up to good health for all the family—the 'AKTA-VITE' way!

Evacuated families may go back to Rwanda

AMERICAN Ambassador, Mr. Charles D. Wilentz yesterday is hoped to bring back to the next few days 20 American wives and children evacuated last week from the capital to Nairobi.

The Ambassador ordered the evacuation of the wives and children as a result of a renewed attack on Rwanda by the Tutsi army.

However, it still varies the possibility of allowing the women and children to return to Rwanda.

F.A. TO REPLACE STOLEN WORLD CUP

THE English Football Association yesterday promised a replacement of the stolen World Cup for the winner of the 1966 final in London in July. The cup, a 15-inch high symbolic winged figure, disappeared from a London stamp exhibition, where it was on show.

The exhibition yesterday reported increased business. Owners of several items, especially in the area of the cup, were seen to be in the area.

British 'Yard detective' reported increased business. Owners of several items, especially in the area of the cup, were seen to be in the area.

School plays praised by adjudicator

Both production and acting were of a high standard in the school plays seen by the adjudicator, Mr. J. H. St. John, at the recent National Primary School Drama Festival, held at the Royal Albert Hall, London.

The adjudicator praised the standard of the plays, and the standard of the acting. He also praised the standard of the plays, and the standard of the acting.

An F.A. statement said the disappearance was a serious matter. The F.A. and the police are working to find the cup.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Tea they'd love Safari expected to be dry

PROSPECTS for the East African safari are not so bright as they were at the start of the London season, which has attracted tourists.

Despite the heavy rain which has fallen recently in Kenya, the Safari executive manager and secretary, Mr. Jack Howland, reported yesterday that the rough Northern leg of the rally was described by the South driver, Eric Carlson, as "terribly dry and terribly dusty." Other drivers confirmed this.

Mr. Howland mentioned reports that the route had fallen in India, though it is possible that this could be held over a week earlier than the East African Safari. The changes this year, so that the safari will start with an east coast driver, will not mean that it will be a dry safari, as the weather is unpredictable this could mean a drastic turning of the tide. At this stage everything will become more important.

NO INSUPERABLE DIFFICULTIES

The Southern leg is expected to present no insuperable difficulties with its long transport sections and once the Safari organization continues in order to ensure the safety of their staff.

The latest news from the Safari organization is that the safari will start with an east coast driver, will not mean that it will be a dry safari, as the weather is unpredictable this could mean a drastic turning of the tide. At this stage everything will become more important.

Decline in clashes

There was a considerable decline in the number of clashes between the Government and the opposition in the North-East region during the last few months of 1965.

The decline was attributed to the Government's policy of non-interference and to the efforts of the opposition to resolve their differences peacefully.

MORE TREMORS ROCK UGANDA VILLAGE

Rescue workers still recovering bodies

By ALAN BRISTOL, Standoff Staff Reporter, Kampala

THIS little village, nestled among the Rwenzoris in north western Uganda, was hit by three major quakes yesterday as rescue workers and medical teams continued trying to estimate the death toll of Sunday's earthquake.

Bodies are still being uncovered throughout the widely-scattered Dwariba district where already it has been confirmed that more than 100 people have died. Many residents say this is a conservative estimate — some think it is likely to be more than 200.

But it is unlikely that the exact number will ever be known, for superstitious tribesmen believe that it is a bad omen to count the dead and bury them quietly without informing the authorities.

This once busy thriving little township is a starkly desolate sight only a few miles from the Congo border where already it has been confirmed that more than 100 people have died. Many residents say this is a conservative estimate — some think it is likely to be more than 200.

Desolate women huddle together in the main street with their weeping children while the men struggle among their ruined homes with a forlorn hope of salvaging a pitiful few of their belongings.

Every few hours an earth tremor shakes through the district — a constant reminder of Sunday's disaster which so many of their friends and relatives died in their beds. The grumbling earth has convinced many that a higher tribunal will soon be coming and they wait in despair without homes, and without anywhere else to go.

People whose homes still remain, have been unable to sleep, and are sitting up at night, and weeping and wailing in the streets, especially in the town of Dwariba.

As one of them said: "We had no idea that we were in a zone of another earthquake like the one which hit the Uganda Alps."

Many of the houses which were destroyed in the Uganda Alps were built on soft earth and were built on soft earth and were built on soft earth.

PAKISTAN DAY TODAY

Birth control plan is key to growth

PAKISTAN today, 19 years after attaining independence as a sovereign state, is looking for economic development as the panacea for most of her economic and social ills. Both the government and the people are aware that there is no short-cut development, particularly in a country where a large population with a low per capita income is the major problem.

The United Nations has been discussing the problem of birth control in Pakistan with a view to reducing the birth rate, giving the nation's economic condition a fighting chance.

Commercial Cricket League

AIRWAYS MAKE SURE OF DIV. II TITLE
THE 13th Nairobi Commercial League season is drawing to a close but honors in Division II and III are by no means certain and positions could change in the remaining two weeks. East African Airways have won the Division II title. Although two postponed matches are to be played, they have no bearing on promotion or relegation. University College failed to win any games behind the leaders.

The League was organized by the Kenya Cricket Association and is divided into Division II and III. The top team in Division II is East African Airways, followed by University College and Kenya Club. In Division III, the top team is Kenya Club, followed by East African Airways and University College.

Growing interest in art 'a sign of vitality'

Increased interest in art in Kenya was an encouraging sign of the vitality of a new nation, the Minister for Finance, Mr. Gichuru, said yesterday at the opening of an exhibition of paintings entered for this year's Kenyan calendar painting competition. Mr. Gichuru, taking the place of the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Odingo, who is ill, said that the country was also playing an important part in education.

"Those who draw and paint can not only give a picture of their life but also a picture of their culture and spirit, and we also find relief and satisfaction from the happy and bright pictures."

It is said to be a form of entertainment and a means of self-expression and a sign of vitality. I think it would be interesting to hold a compulsory art class for all school children. I am sure the results would be very satisfactory.

I had to go to 400 entries and I was very impressed by the quality of the work. I was very impressed by the quality of the work.

THE WINNER

Winner of the first prize in this year's Kenyan calendar painting competition is 17-year-old Masha, a secondary school student at the Government Secondary School, Nairobi.

This is the second time that Masha has won the competition, last year he was the winner in a similar category. He is a very talented artist and has been awarded a scholarship to study at the University of Nairobi.

Masha's picture is a very fine one and it is a pleasure to see a young man of his age with such talent. He is a very talented artist and has been awarded a scholarship to study at the University of Nairobi.

ARE ALL BATTERIES ALIKE?

Not quite. They look the same, but that's where the similarity ends. Underneath the cover of the Hitachi UM-1(H), for example, are six steel-like shields which completely seal off the battery from the outside. This makes it 100 per cent leak-proof and gives it a much longer life. Look for the name Hitachi and buy with confidence.

Mr. Kelhe St. Andrew's after nine years in Kenya

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH in Nairobi has held a service to mark the departure of Mr. Kelhe St. Andrew's after nine years in Kenya. The service was held in the presence of a large number of people, including members of the church and friends of Mr. Kelhe.

Mr. Kelhe St. Andrew's has spent nine years in Kenya, during which time he has been actively involved in the church and in various community activities. He has left behind a legacy of service and dedication to the church and to the people of Kenya.

Mr. Kelhe St. Andrew's is now returning to his home country, where he will continue to be active in church and community work. His departure is a significant loss to the church and to the people of Kenya.

Mr. Kelhe St. Andrew's is a man of great faith and courage, and his departure is a significant loss to the church and to the people of Kenya. He has left behind a legacy of service and dedication to the church and to the people of Kenya.

Action urged on quack opticians

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

WHILE visiting in the District of Nairobi, I was struck by the number of quack opticians who were operating in the area. These quack opticians were selling cheap, inferior eyeglasses to the public, which was a serious threat to the health and vision of the people.

I urge the Government to take action against these quack opticians. The Government should regulate the optician profession and ensure that only qualified and licensed opticians are allowed to practice. This will protect the health and vision of the people.

The Government should also take steps to educate the public about the dangers of quack opticians. The public should be made aware that buying cheap eyeglasses from unqualified opticians can lead to serious eye problems and vision loss.

I urge the Government to take action against these quack opticians. The Government should regulate the optician profession and ensure that only qualified and licensed opticians are allowed to practice. This will protect the health and vision of the people.

GAPS IN V.O.K. NEWS

YOUR reference to the V.O.K. in your article entitled "A string of Government" is interesting. The V.O.K. is a valuable source of information for the public, and it is important that it remains accurate and up-to-date. There are several gaps in the V.O.K. news that need to be filled.

Spinnacinos on 'home made' set

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 10.—A team of spinnacinos from the United States has been sent to Africa to assist in the construction of a textile mill in the Congo. The spinnacinos, who are experienced in the manufacture of woolen goods, are being trained by the British and American engineers. The mill, when completed, will provide employment for thousands of Africans and will enable them to produce their own cloth. The spinnacinos are being housed in a camp near the mill and are being supplied with food and other necessities. The project is being supported by the United States Government and the British Colonial Office.

UNLAWFUL ASSEMBLY ALLEGED
 The police today issued a warning to the African National Congress (ANC) against holding a mass meeting in Johannesburg. The police stated that the meeting would be unlawful under the Public Order Act. The ANC leaders have been accused of organizing a series of meetings to discuss the recent election results. The police have received information that the meetings are being held in secret and that they may be intended to incite violence. The police have warned that any meeting held in violation of the law will be dealt with severely.

Road death charged denied
 A charge of negligence against the driver of a motor vehicle involved in a road accident in Cape Town has been denied. The driver, a local resident, was charged with driving recklessly and failing to stop at a red light. The driver's lawyer has argued that the accident was caused by a sudden brake failure. The court is expected to hear the case next week.

ABANDONED
 A small boat carrying several passengers was abandoned on the sea during a storm. The boat was seen by a fishing vessel and was being towed to safety. The passengers were rescued and taken to a nearby island. The boat's crew was unable to return to shore due to the rough weather. The incident has caused concern among the local fishing community.

Two arrested
 Two men were arrested on charges of conspiracy to defraud. The men were found with a large sum of money and were being questioned by the police. The police believe that the men were part of a large-scale financial scheme. The men have been held in custody and will appear in court next week.

Now a reality
 The long-expected railway line between Johannesburg and Kimberley is now a reality. The line, which has been under construction for several years, is expected to be completed by the end of the year. The new line will significantly reduce travel time between the two cities and will provide a major boost to the local economy. The project has been a long and arduous one, but the completion of the line is a major achievement.

Speech directed at non-Africans
 The speaker at the recent meeting in Johannesburg directed his remarks primarily at the non-African population. He discussed the political and social situation in South Africa and the challenges facing the African population. He called for greater cooperation and understanding between the different groups in the country.

Two fined on firearms charge
 Two men were fined for possessing firearms without the proper licenses. The men were caught by the police while they were walking down a street in Johannesburg. They were carrying a rifle and a handgun. The court sentenced them to fines of R100 each. The police have a strict policy on the carrying of firearms and will not tolerate illegal possession.

VACCINATION FOR 50,000 IN KERICHO

More than 50,000 people have been vaccinated in a campaign in the Kericho District in an anti-malaria drive. The campaign, launched by the District Medical Officer, Dr. A. R. Morrison, was a success. The campaign involved the use of DDT to eliminate the breeding grounds of the malaria mosquito. The campaign also included the distribution of mosquito nets and the use of prophylactic drugs. The campaign is expected to significantly reduce the incidence of malaria in the area.

Line to have weekly train
 A new railway line between Mombasa and Malindi is expected to have a weekly train. The line, which is being constructed by the Government, will provide a major link between the two cities. The weekly train will significantly reduce travel time and will provide a more reliable service. The project is a major investment in the country's infrastructure.

Buyers from all over Kenya at sale

A large number of buyers from all over Kenya attended a sale of agricultural machinery and equipment. The sale, which was held in Nairobi, was a success. The machinery, which included tractors, ploughs, and other equipment, was sold at high prices. The sale was organized by the Agricultural Bank of Kenya. The bank is pleased with the success of the sale and hopes that it will encourage more farmers to purchase modern machinery.

£115,000 order for soda ash
 An order for £115,000 worth of soda ash has been placed with a British firm. The order, which was placed by the Kenyan Government, is for the use of the soda ash in the manufacture of glass. The order is a major contract for the British firm and is expected to significantly boost its sales.

'GUILTY OF FORGERY' CHARGES
 A former official of the Kenyan Government has been charged with forgery. The official, who was a high-ranking member of the government, is accused of forging documents in connection with a financial scheme. The case is being heard in court and the official is being held in custody.

First relief convoy runs into trouble

A relief convoy carrying supplies for the starving population in the Congo has run into trouble. The convoy, which was carrying food, medicine, and other supplies, has been delayed by bad weather and a shortage of fuel. The relief workers are concerned that the supplies will run out before they reach the population. The relief workers are trying to find a way to get the supplies to the population as soon as possible.

PICTURES OF Mr. ODINGA REMOVED
 Pictures of a man named Odinga have been removed from a public display. The pictures, which were part of a political campaign, were removed because they were considered to be defamatory. The man, who is a prominent politician, has been accused of various crimes. The removal of the pictures is a major setback for the man's political career.

GENERAL ANNOUNCEMENT
 A general announcement has been made by the government regarding the election process. The announcement states that the government will be holding elections for the National Assembly and the Provincial Councils. The government is committed to a free and fair election process and will take all necessary steps to ensure that the elections are held in accordance with the law.

LUNCH FOR INDIAN ENVOY
 A lunch was given for the Indian Envoy in Nairobi. The lunch was held at a restaurant and was attended by a number of officials. The Indian Envoy, who is on a visit to Kenya, was accompanied by a delegation. The lunch was a friendly gesture and was well-received by the Indian Envoy.

REPORT ANY THREATS BY THUGS URGES P.C.

The Police Commissioner today urged a citizen to report any threats by thugs, and to report any information which might be of use to the police in the investigation of such threats.

Mr. Owen, speaking at a public meeting held in the hall of the Police Commissioner's office, said that the police were doing their best to deal with the problem of thugdom, but that the public must also do its part.

Referring to the distribution of leaflets by the Government, Mr. Owen said that the Government was doing its best to deal with the problem of thugdom, but that the public must also do its part.

He urged people to contribute towards the fund for the development of the Police Commissioner's office, and to report any information which might be of use to the police.

Self-help talks on the subject of thugdom were given by the Police Commissioner, Mr. Owen, at a public meeting held in the hall of the Police Commissioner's office, and were attended by a large number of people.

The Minister for General and Indian Affairs, Mr. Alexander, announced that the Government was doing its best to deal with the problem of thugdom, but that the public must also do its part.

Western Assignment of responsibility depends on efficiency

THE responsibility that must be given to local authorities for the control of thugdom depends largely on the efficiency of the Western District Council, Mr. Alexander said.

The Government is doing its best to deal with the problem of thugdom, but that the public must also do its part.

Control Achievements praised

The Government's continued success in the control of thugdom has been praised by the Western District Council, Mr. Alexander said.

B.U.A. - ALL THE WAY

UP IN THE BOAT RACE

Sometimes a soldier

FOR ANTHONY WOOD was sometimes a soldier, the spokesman of "Red" will be, to say the least, an officer, naturally as the commander of the Red Boat Race. Wood was made into better soldiers when they are allowed to grow their hair long and dress unbecomingly in a variety of ways. Wood is making every effort, above their own, to keep his crew in good health. Long and straight (Civil List), the crew had the whole question left on his hands. Treason never crossed his mind and his crew had their hair cropped short. Officers were long haired. So long haired that they were frank that in front of the Admiralty (as he was then) visited a crack regiment soon after Albert, he called the "red soldiers" by cutting references to their locks an example of them by cutting references to their locks. Cherry-blossoms or any other flowers, and their hair styles were bettered only by the R.I.A.

To revert to the contemporary Swedish style of soldiering, the way of any race, "are not especially interested in discipline, either, as long as our soldiers are effective and not directly insubordinate." What are interested officers think that this discipline part is unenforced, but it must come as close as an officer's hat to all-embracing his regulations about conduct, to the prejudice of good order and military discipline.

The Major admits the Swedish are often criticized because their "addlers look sloppy", concede they can get more of a single regiment that could look really highly trained and complete with any other reality on the battlefield. They need a "hair".

'Blanco and bully face' the daily rations

They scuff, too, at parade ground shouting, drilling and tough discipline, which means that the British smart Africa soldiers who polish to perfection and have Guards' precision in drill; and will come very common to anyone who has had the honor to be in Britain, especially soldiers learning foot drill for a special occasion. You life daily, and, with the usual dislike, most comradely but implacably, with the Major who polishes things into mirrors in time without that could be used training soldiers in the art of warfare which is killing.

"We do not consider discipline is essential for this purpose," as the Major puts it. "A soldier who can polish his boots and press his trousers is not necessarily a good fighter. If he destroys the enemy, who cares if he salutes with his arm at a right-angle to his body or not?"

The case of a young recruit who reported to his first camp with hair down to his shoulders is quoted as a prime example of the Major's attitude. No matter what another in Sany's style until along came Wellington, who steadfastly refused to let the young barber operate. Finally, authority capitulated and the recruit cut about learning to be just as efficient as his comrade. Newspapers, in Kenya, there is even a Bugger player who wears a beard; and what a temptation he must be in the account.

"Blanco and bully face" will one ever forget that day in the Battery when about the unforgettable day in and day out. And then the unforgettable day to duty even today? Remember how, as the "bullies" against the position which the "Blanco" had been shot at pieces. Bombarrier M—marched away from the gun, helping a wounded comrade, and carrying the gun in one hand. His left arm had been shot away just where the elbow was rolled out in 30 seconds. Who would have thought, 20 years ago on 2nd, a day that journey's end would come in writing the piece about the army in faraway Kenya? The end of the road, then, seemed to be more like a snark in the eye from a piece of flying innoscent. The year is rolled on through active service and the reserve, to last week. Now, for someone who was sometimes a soldier, it comes time at last for the final splash (longest way up, shortest way down) and so do finish.

THE heady smell of the Oxford and Cambridge crew is on the water again. The crew are ready to strain every nerve and every muscle to win the 1938 Varsity Boat Race on the River Thames in the month of London.

One interesting observation which has been made recently is the amount of back-breaking labour under the tangle-tangle of oarsmen which will be seen in the boats as they start. It is a well-known fact that the crews of the Red Boat Race are, in general, better conditioned than those of the other teams. This is due to the fact that the crews are selected from a wide range of sources, including the Services, the Navy, and the Air Force.

The Red Boat Race is expected to be one of the most interesting of the season. The crews are well-known and the race is expected to be very close. The Red Boat Race is expected to be one of the most interesting of the season. The crews are well-known and the race is expected to be very close.

ANDREW WATSON takes a light-hearted look at the history of the Boat Race, as it is rowed on the Thames in London today.

UP to the moment when the Oxford and Cambridge crews start their annual rowing race on the River Thames in London, it is a well-known fact that the crews of the Red Boat Race are, in general, better conditioned than those of the other teams. Letters to the Editor

No rail-road competition

ONCE again I feel I must ask you to print evidence to support my editorial statement that it is argued that the railway's contribution to the Mombasa road were to be maintained. A comparison of the railway's revenue would be seriously jeopardized.

The railway's revenue is expected to be one of the most interesting of the season. The crews are well-known and the race is expected to be very close. The Red Boat Race is expected to be one of the most interesting of the season. The crews are well-known and the race is expected to be very close.
