VW 1600 Traddack

(sensible, practical and economical)

Yes, we've been conventional. After all - five adults need a lot of room. And even more comfort. It's the standard model - but Volkswagen standard. Well above par. The 1600. The usual 15" wheels for a tighter grip. Self-adjusting disc brakes - dual circuit for extra safety. Lots of new comfort and safety features. Such as a special safety steering wheel and column. It's all to offer. It's a VW!

VW 1600 L Fastback

(optional automatic)

It's something special - it's here! The Volkswagen Fastback Automatic. No clutch. No gear change. Simple. Just accelerate and brake - And still 28 miles to the gallon. Yet another of the VW 1600 range. But do you know too of the Fastbacks' speed selector? Of the kick-down for extra acceleration? For instance. It's revolutionary. Luxury extras too? For instance. Wall to wall carpeting, streamlined door handles, padded floor pillars, and an electric clock to make sure you don't get there too early! It's still a VW!

VW 1600 Squareback

(a saloon until you open up the back)

The unconventional practical saloon. In 2 models - one standard and - the other costs less - 1600 Squareback Sedans. Kids, people, baggage. No problems with the Squareback. It's the only Station Wagon with a lockable luggage compartment in front. (The engine is still tucked away in the rear) 5 seconds conversion time from luxury, comfortable seating - to loading space in the rear - 4 cubic feet of it. That's the 1600 Squareback. Still a VW!

Standard Building by-laws prepared for local authorities

Standard Staff Reporter
Kenya's local authorities are to be asked to adopt two sets of model building by-laws designed to rationalize the first time the building through out the country.

Both were gazetted on Thursday and are contained in full in a special booklet on sale for 10/- from the Government Printer. The by-laws, contained in a 160-page booklet, are the result of five years of hard work and careful thought. They say special attention to health, safety and safety concerns, laying down standard minimum requirements in every aspect of building.

It is of particular note that this order makes provision for the control of differing standards of materials in the peri-urban areas and smaller towns in city centres and the rural areas. It also sets out the basis of control for county councils.

Mr. Praful Patel's expulsion supported

Standard Staff Reporter
All right-thinking people in Kenya should support the Vice-Chancellor's action in declaring the expulsion of Mr. Praful Patel, a prominent Indian student, from the University of Nairobi.

National Assembly and nobody should attempt to tamper with that body's decision. Non-Indian students have given two years in which to apply for Kenya citizenship but most had opted to remain British citizens.

It is not anticipated that local authorities will spend the bulk of their resources in providing their own special building by-laws. The Government will be expected to consider, also, if it is possible, the possibility of a common code of practice.

FAMILY PLANNING IS KENYA'S POLICY

Standard Staff Reporter
The policy of the Kenya Government to become more people involved in the services of the health department is being followed in the North-Western Province.

It was intended to increase mobile health clinics to reach remote areas, including the Northern areas of Kenya. Dr. Chaudhri said that the reason why the Government supported the concept of family planning was the fact of population explosion and shortage of food which would be a drawback to developing a healthy nation.

One of the dangers envisaged was that each local authority would have its own ideas on which procedures should be accepted, amended, or rejected. It was decided to set up a committee to advise the Government on the best way to proceed.

Cotu sends protest to Community

Standard Staff Reporter
Kenya's Central Organization of Trade Unions has written to the Secretary-General of the East African Community stating that disputes between the Community and three unions affiliated to Cotu, had become explosive because of the way in which proceedings in the East African Industrial Court.

Opening the seminar, the deputy Mayor of Thika, Coun. Alan Ndachi, said the concept of family planning was not new to Kenyan society, but it had become a more crucial problem than before. Family planning facilities were numerous in Kenya. Taking Thika as an example, Mr. Ndachi said that with the coming of research and the medical science new methods in family planning had been introduced as opposed to the old customary method where women used herbs to prevent pregnancies.

Tanzania crime figures up in 1968

Standard Staff Reporter
A total of 1,049 serious crimes were recorded by the police in mainland Tanzania last year, a rise of 17 per cent over 1967. The Director of the Criminal Investigation Department, Mr. N. G. M. Sawaya, said that since the coming into force of the new Rehabilitation of Habitual Criminals Law, there had been a remarkable decrease in crime, which had been committed by the same people.

Students demonstrate after meeting is cancelled

Standard Staff Reporter
Students at University College, Nairobi, yesterday demonstrated against the cancellation of a meeting which was to have been addressed by Mr. Odinga (Odinga in the evening).

The demonstration, held at the University grounds, started from the students' hall and ended at the main grounds where a meeting was held and a resolution composed. The demonstration was led by Mr. Odinga, Mr. Kiano, on Tuesday.

Students in their demands the students said academic freedom had been severely damaged by the East African University Charter. If the Government wished to make any changes to a proper expansion should have been given earlier.

Five years in rape case

Standard Staff Reporter
Two women said to have been members of a group of more than 20 men who were alleged to have raped in turn a young married woman for more than four hours on Jamhuri Day last month were each sentenced to five years and 12 strokes yesterday by a Nairobi magistrate, Mr. Sibi-Othman.

Mr. Sibi-Othman said that since the coming into force of the new Rehabilitation of Habitual Criminals Law, there had been a remarkable decrease in crime, which had been committed by the same people.

Police were still patrolling the campus late last night. Mr. Awori appealed for calm and asked students to discipline themselves. He requested that the students should be given a chance to express their views.

Warning to traders on weights

Standard Staff Reporter
Traders contravening the provisions of the Weights and Measures Acts were warned in Nairobi yesterday by a magistrate, Mr. R. Kierulff.

He was imposing fines totalling $80 on the proprietor of Dagoretti Country Store, Frederick Ghaburu Mbatia, who faced four charges under the Act and one of obstructing a Weights and Measures inspector.

Commenting on the New Year, Mr. Kierulff said that the police had high praise for the public which he said had been very co-operating with the police both in preventing crime and also sometimes helping to overpower criminals.

12 MONTHS FOR OFFERING BRIBE

Standard Staff Reporter
Raphael Kimani Njoroge, who had denied corruptly giving $5 to a police sergeant to secure his release after he was arrested for possession of drugs, was jailed for one year yesterday by a Nairobi magistrate, Mr. S. D. Maini.

Mr. S. D. Maini said that the police sergeant had been found to be an unscrupulous person who would be induced by the money to release Njoroge. The court had been told that Njoroge had pleaded "Not guilty" to corruptly giving $5 to a police sergeant to secure his release after he was arrested for possession of drugs.

St. Meno and P.C. Kapumba had accused who were on plain clothes at the Nakuru bus stop, who were returning home to offer to sell them drugs. They arrested him and took him to a police patrol who was on the police station, it was alleged, he offered the sergeant $5 in release, an attempt to secure his release.

Jail and ban for driver

Standard Staff Reporter
Fines imposed on drunken drivers had failed to act as a deterrent, a Nairobi magistrate, Mr. V. Kapila, said yesterday when he sent a Yala of Kenya technician to jail on a charge of driving a vehicle under the influence of drink.

Mr. V. Kapila said that the police sergeant had been found to be an unscrupulous person who would be induced by the money to release Njoroge. The court had been told that Njoroge had pleaded "Not guilty" to corruptly giving $5 to a police sergeant to secure his release after he was arrested for possession of drugs.

The magistrate jailed Ndungu for two months and disqualified him from holding a driving licence for two years. In the same court a scooter rider, John Githu Kioni, who told the court that he had drunk beer on Jamhuri Day, was fined $35 and his scooter suspended for two years and 12 strokes on appeal.

Sentence increased on appeal

Standard Staff Reporter
James Kamau Njoroge, who was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment and 12 strokes by a Nairobi magistrate, Mr. J. S. Schuster, on November 23 on a charge of robbery with violence, had his sentence increased to four years and 12 strokes on appeal.

On October 23, Njoroge had pleaded "Not guilty" to robbing Mr. J. P. Mwangi of $500 and $100 in cash and a watch. The court had been told that Njoroge had pleaded "Not guilty" to robbing Mr. J. P. Mwangi of $500 and $100 in cash and a watch.

Mr. S. D. Maini said that the police sergeant had been found to be an unscrupulous person who would be induced by the money to release Njoroge. The court had been told that Njoroge had pleaded "Not guilty" to corruptly giving $5 to a police sergeant to secure his release after he was arrested for possession of drugs.

African builders' CAUTION NEEDED

Standard Staff Reporter
Building contractors should regard their works as a career job to be carried out with integrity, sincerity and competence, the Mayor of Nairobi, Coun. Isaac Lugonzo, said yesterday when he addressed the annual conference of the Kenya Association of African Contractors.

A young contractor might underestimate the risks and end up in bankruptcy. Local authorities should devise a simple but precise tendering procedure, leaving nothing to guesswork. Nairobi City Council was trying to pay the Ministry of Local Government to revise certain regulations so that local government authorities could participate more effectively in assisting African contractors.

The Mayor, who was speaking on the role of local authorities in assisting African building contractors, suggested that people should not become contractors merely as a stepping stone to becoming rich. If African contractors were to be helped by the Central Government or a local authority it had to be on this understanding.

Others, however, were determined to do a good job and they were the ones who must be assisted by the Government and local authorities. "I would even go further to suggest that a deliberate move be made to give certain categories of contracts to African contractors to enable them to enter the market."

Local authorities should try to bring to the notice of all potential contractors, who they anticipated would have to do so and should adopt the principle of passing on enough work to African contractors to keep them going and add to their experience. It was essential that the choice of jobs should be made carefully.

He suggested that the National Construction Corporation should advise the existence of African contractors with a good reputation. Contracting should be taken seriously. He was amused by people who thought that they should report to contracting when they failed everywhere else.

POLICEMAN 'NOT GUILTY' OF MURDER

Standard Staff Reporter

INDIAN REPUBLIC DAY

of the greatness of Gandhi

by Karl Jaupers

Gandhi liberated India from British rule, not through violence but through non-violence established in right. He made politics he was associated with violence but in a manner totally unheard of before.

In a world which pretended to exist in the idea of right and custom, Gandhi tore open the mask of deception. He exposed the foundation of violence not only the essentially (which had already existed long ago) but also in a practical sense by arresting it himself and by visibly suffering under it.

Gandhi's decisive strength lay in the readiness to suffer all the consequences of his actions from the ruling authorities and to last this until his death in the Indian masses. He amazed the world by his leadership by which he carried this fight to the end on the side of the Indian masses.

The man wanted to achieve the impossible: politics through non-violence. He succeeded greatly. Has the impossible become possible?

Gandhi shunned physical violence. He suffered that violence through innumerable imprisonments, threats to life and his final assassination. Did he want absolutely no violence at all? There lies the crux of the matter. He may say very clearly and honestly that he wants to convince, that he wants to convert and that he wants to be in agreement with his opponent.

But actually he practiced and wanted by his own actions a personal sacrifice for suffering, whose effectiveness was enormously enhanced by his reflection in the endurance of the Indian people, by the courage of the associates. He drove the British out of India.

One could recall the old Indian political attitude provided a magical power which led to the mastery of all things. Even the gods are frightened of the power of such ascetics.

Gandhi's self-discipline is not without inner violence. But this violence is not only his own self is not a free confession-to-itself. It is an element of Gandhi's effectiveness.

If Gandhi's method of non-violence could not actually reduce violence, one only shifts to be has achieved his political success without any physical violence even though accompanied by a minimum physical violence on the part of the individual Indian.

Has he not found a political method in which right gets the better of power? Herein lies the second crucial point. To comprehend his achievements fully it is essential to find out if and how he is considered a unique and highly remarkable event.

Big strides in chemical industry

The chemical industry is one of India's most rapidly expanding spheres of economic activity. Above: Young scientists working in an Indian laboratory.

There has been remarkable progress in the field of chemical industries in India since the beginning of the First Five-Year Plan in 1951. This has largely been due to a number of favourable circumstances such as the existence of a well-trained technical and scientific personnel.

Although India has the potentiality to develop an industrial system similar to that in the U.S. and USSR, it was realised that industrial development would proceed faster if priority was given to the production of basic and heavy industries. This has been the broad strategy of industrial development.

The term "chemical industries" covers basic chemical, fertiliser and organic and petro-chemicals. It might appear at first sight as if the production of basic chemicals is the province of advanced countries, but the development of these industries in India is rather limited.

In the case of phosphatic fertilisers, as against a production target of 2,000,000 tons of P<sub>2</sub>O<sub>5</sub> for the Fourth Plan, the licensed and approved capacity by the end of 1968 was about 1,500,000 tons a year. Part of this capacity has been planned on use of chemical sulphur which is in short supply and the balance based on nitric acid, sulphuric acid produced from smelter gases, hydrochloric acid and imported phosphoric acid.

The establishment of complexes, rather than a series of small scattered units, has been the basic approach in establishing the Petrochemical Industry in the country, because such an approach results in an integrated development where the by-products are utilised in units of economic size.

Until recently, the organic chemical industry, which is in its infancy, was made in India about eight years ago and a complex for the production of polyethylene, acetylene, black benzene and solvents, based on a naphtha cracker, was commissioned about a year ago.

Another 225,000 tons naphtha cracker for the production of PVC, acetone, ethylene glycol, butadiene, benzene, 2-ethyl hexanol, etc., went into production in early 1968. Yet another complex for the production of phenol, acetone, phthalic anhydride and phthalates has been recently commissioned. A 30,000 ton per year methanol plant in the petrochemical sector at Trombay was commissioned in early 1968.

It is expected that for the first time India will be exporting small quantities of PVC, polyethylene, ethylene glycol, acetone and methyl isobutyl ketone and other solvents from the petrochemical industry.

Setting up a complex with a 500,000 tons per year naphtha cracker and steam-stream units at Koyali in Gujarat, has made some progress.

Since in the chemical industry the processes and technology are changing rapidly, considerable attention has been paid to industrial research and their utilisation for commercial production through consulting engineering firms.

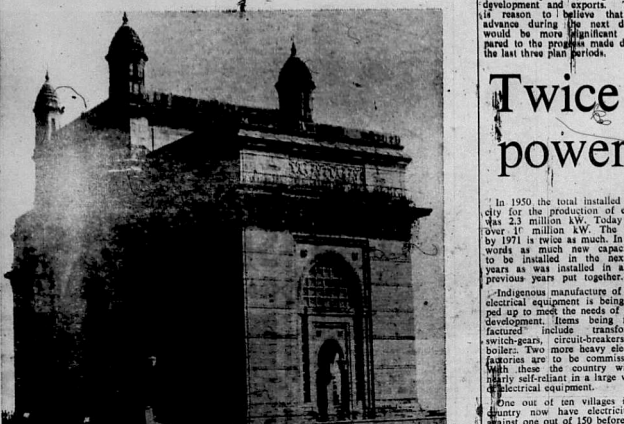

Training of technical personnel has received a great deal of attention. Provision of training of Indian personnel for technical and managerial posts in joint enterprises is always made. There are adequate facilities in the country for training in different chemical industrial fields.

Although India has a long way to go before her industrial base is fully and firmly laid, a good deal of progress has already been achieved and she has acquired a considerable amount of experience in the planning of industrial development, in the implementation and operation of industrial projects and in the designing and fabrication of industrial machinery and equipment.

Under the First Five-Year Plan, emphasis was on agricultural development. The Second Plan stressed itself mainly with industry. The Third Five-Year Plan laid special emphasis on machine-building.

In the Fourth and subsequent Plans emphasis would continue to be laid on machine-building, continuing process, development and development of new ones, and translation of laboratory and pilot plant scale developments to commercial operation, agricultural development and expansion. It is in reason to believe that the advance during the next decade would be more significant compared to the progress made during the last three plan periods.

Twice as much power the aim

In 1950 the total installed capacity of the production of electricity was 2.3 million kW. Today it is over 10 million kW. The target for 1971 is twice as much. In other words as much new capacity is to be installed in the next five years as was installed in all the previous years of the country. The development and expansion of the power industry is being stepped up to meet the needs of the country. Items being manufactured include transformers, switch-gears, circuit-breakers and boilers. Two more heavy electrical factories are to be commissioned. With these the country will be nearly self-reliant in a large variety of electrical equipment.

One out of ten villages in the country now have electricity, as against one out of 150 before 1950. Under the Five-Year Plans were launched, the Fourth Plan target is to double the number of electrified villages to more than 100,000.

Madras State has the distinction of being the first to carry electricity to more than 10,000 villages, about half the total.

Over 65,000 million pumping sets and tubewells in the country are electrically operated.

India had a most remarkable industrial growth when she became independent in 1947. Large-scale enterprises have been set up in several areas in Assam and Gujarat.

Output of crude oil has risen from a meagre 250,000 tons in 1950 to 4,650,000 tons and may double in the next five years.

Four refineries, wholly based on domestic crude, have been established at Digul and Guwahati in Assam, Barmer in Bihar and Koyali in Gujarat.

There are three more in the private sector. A fourth of the same size is under construction. The Government has a foreign loan of Rs. 100 million for the purchase of a refinery oil in September 1967.

The total refining capacity now in India is 10.4 million tons. A new 2.5 million ton capacity refinery is being set up in West Bengal.

The Indian Oil and Natural Gas Commission, set up in 1957, is also participating in offshore oil exploration in India.

The country has vast deposits of coal, estimated at 131 billion tons. Production in 1957 was 32.8 million tons. By 1967 it had more than doubled to over 68 million tons.

India's first nuclear power station at Tarapur north of Bombay, was commissioned by the end of 1969. This station will be accompanied by a minimum physical violence on the part of the individual Indian.

A second station, at Rana Pratap Sagar in Rajasthan, will have its first unit (capacity 200 Mw) completed by the end of 1969. Construction of the second unit of the same capacity has been authorised.

For yet another nuclear power station - at Kalpakkam, near Madras - preliminary work has begun. It will consist of two reactors of 200 Mw each, to be designed and built entirely by Indian scientists and technicians.

India is the world's largest democracy. The picture shows votes being cast in a Delhi polling station.

Starving by-laws for local authorities

Standard Staff Reporter
All Kenya's local authorities are to be asked to adopt new local Government Orders containing a set of model building by-laws designed to rationalise building throughout the country for the first time.

The adoptive by-laws are contained in the Local Government (Building) Order, 1968, and the Local Government (Grade II Building) Order, 1968, which were introduced at a Press conference in Nairobi yesterday by the Minister for Local Government, Mr. Sagini. Both were granted on Thursday.

day and are contained in full in a booklet on sale for 10/- from the Government Printer. The by-laws, contained in a 100-page booklet, are the result of long and hard work and careful thought. They pay special attention to health, fire and safety provisions, laying down standard minimum requirements in every corner of building.

Mr. Pratul Patel's expulsion supported

Standard Staff Reporter
All right-thinking people in Kenya must support the decision of the secretary of the U.K. Citizens Committee, Mr. Pratul Patel, to prohibit immigrant and ordering him to leave Kenya.

National Assembly and nobody should attempt to tamper with the decision.

Non-citizens have been given no right to apply for citizenship applicable throughout the country.

Therefore, this hue and cry is both completely unnecessary and that in why those engaged in organising the non-citizen's day in the country" Mr. Shikuku added.

FAMILY PLANNING IS KENYA'S POLICY

The policy of the Kenya Government was to become more strongly involved in the services of family planning, a senior official in the Ministry of Health, Dr. M. R. Chaudri, said at a family planning seminar at Thika yesterday.

providing a weekly increase mobile health clinics to reach remote areas, including the North-eastern areas of Kenya.

The committee studied and drew from the building regulations then in force in Kenya and overseas. It consulted various authorities and specialists in Kenya and the United Kingdom.

Cotu sends protest to Community

Standard Staff Reporter
Kenya's Central Organization of Trade Unions has written to the East African Community stating that disputes between the Community and three unions affiliated to Cotu had become explosive because of the delay in instituting proceedings in the East African Industrial Court.

Opening the seminar, the deputy secretary of the Kenya Association of Manufacturers, Mr. C. K. Lusere, stated in the general meeting the organization is satisfied that any industrial action contemplated by the three unions will be lawful and legal under the Kenya Trades Disputes Act.

Mr. Sagini described the order as a "first step forward in laying down a country-wide approach to standards. He stressed that the success of the by-laws will depend on their adoption throughout the country.

Big motor rally in Mombasa today

Standard Correspondent
A large number of entries have been received by the Mombasa Motor Club for its meeting at the Tangia circuit tomorrow.

The track is open to them for practice today from 3 to 6 p.m. Today at 1 p.m. a meeting has been called at the Manor Hotel to brief the officials and competitors.

It has been arranged to get two series operating today to cope with the rush, but the organizers have asked drivers to start early to avoid congestion. Mr. Sabharwal said that transport at a very reasonable rate would be provided by Sabharwal Safaris from the other side of the city.

DANCERS ENTERTAIN PRESIDENT

Standard Staff Reporter
The famous Senegalese traditional dance team from Dakar, Senegal, entertained President Kenyatta and his wife, Mrs. Ngina Kenyatta, here yesterday evening at the Presidential Palace.

The entertainment consisted of a group of dancers and drummers, dressed in traditional Senegalese attire. They performed several dances, including the 'Mbalax' and the 'Wolof' dance.

Students demonstrate after meeting is cancelled

Standard Staff Reporter
Hundreds of students of University College demonstrated yesterday when Mr. Odigwa's meeting was cancelled to talk to students. The picture shows students at the University College ground.

The demonstration, held in the grounds, started from the students' halls and ended at the main grounds, where a meeting was held and a resolution composed by the Students Union, announcing the meeting.

The delegation will see from the Minister a clarification of the Government position on what they call "Government interference in university affairs."

Bonding move criticised

Standard Staff Reporter
The Kenya African Customs Workers' Union yesterday protested against the bonding of recruited officers for three years as a means of preventing staff losses.

The general secretary of the union, Mr. S. M. Seif, said in an open letter to the Secretary-General of the East African Community that his union had persistently advocated improved terms of service as a means of making the officers in the department content.

£200 immigration fines

Standard Staff Reporter
Immigration fines of over £100 yesterday fined more than £200 in a Nairobi court yesterday and on January 15 was unlawfully employed Sarwan Singh Bhogal.

The magistrate, Mr. R. Kerri, warned that people routing the immigration officers would be severely dealt with.

A director of the Port of Kenya, Mr. Joseph Mathias, was fined £2 for being late on three occasions.

Another man, Bahag Sanga Singh Baburam, was fined £2 for being late on three occasions.

Swaran Jaigar Bhag Singh was fined for remaining in the country illegally.

Builders snags CAUTION NEEDED

Standard Staff Reporter
Building contractors should regard their work as a career and be carried out with integrity, efficiency and competence, the Mayor of Nairobi, County Council Chairman, Mr. Pratul Patel, said yesterday when he addressed the annual conference of the Kenya Association of African Contractors.

The Mayor was speaking on the role of local authorities in assisting African building contractors. He suggested that people should not become contractors until they are sufficiently rich, if African contractors are to be helped by the Government or a local authority.

He also cautioned young contractors against being too ambitious and contrasting their building with the quality of their work.

Local authorities should try to bring to the notice of all potential contractors any anticipated work which they would have to do and should not be taken over by African contractors to keep them going.

Suspension of Kanu sub-branches 'illegal'

Standard Staff Reporter
The chairman of Kanu Mombasa Branch, Mr. Khalid Nigala, who is also Minister for Co-operatives, said yesterday that the suspension of all Kanu sub-branches in Mombasa was a "big mistake."

This followed the announcement on Thursday by three Mombasa M.P.s, 14 councillors and 30 other citizens, that they had suspended all sub-branches and elected interim officers to run the party in Mombasa.

Mr. Nigala, who held a Press conference without the consent of the Executive Council and suspend officials of the party. Officials of the party were not employed by any other committee except the appropriate current Executive Committee of the party itself.

Therefore these suspensions are illegal and calculated to create hatred and instability among Kanu members in Mombasa, he declared, and invited Mr. Masalin Juma Mohamed to contest the chairmanship.

Mr. Nigala declared his two years ago, when he stood against me for the chairmanship and now that elections are coming up, he is perfectly free to try his luck again," he said.

Referring to the meeting of the governing council on Sunday, Mr. Nigala said that the Council was a waste of time and money.

EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE

A special conference aimed at helping Kenya to achieve the right goals of education will be held at the Aga Khan Secondary School, Mombasa, at 10 p.m. on Thursday.

The East African Community Secretary, Mr. A. Rabeni, will be the guest of honor. Speakers will be Mr. Emil Rado, senior secretary of the East African Community, Nairobi, and Mr. A. W. K. Although he failed in his first big opportunity, he was able to overcome his failure and went on to success. There are several lessons to be learned from the story of John Mark. We can be sure that we will meet difficult circumstances and face crucial testing. No one is exempt from these things, even though he may have been brought up in the midst of a prosperity of material wealth.

John Mark was a young man who was brought up in a prosperous family. He was a young man who was brought up in a prosperous family. He was a young man who was brought up in a prosperous family.

INDIAN REPUBLIC DAY

Huge land of contrast

By A. K. Kaharia.

In India the land of castles (Hindu monks) and snake-charmers? Of Taj Mahal, fabled forts, magnificent mosques and splendid temples? Of colourful festivals, ceremonies and, of course, Kama Sutra? It certainly is.

India is also the land of sleek jets, bustling cities with modern skylines, neon signs, nightclubs, fabulous (and peaceful) beaches, stiling on the towering slopes of the Himalayas, golfing on superb links and big game in numerous forests inhabited by tigers, lions, elephants, rhino and the like. It is a land of beautiful creation by a naturalist, a man of a harmonious blend of the old and new.

With an unbroken civilization that goes back some 5,000 years of history, India has a rich and colourful cultural and spiritual heritage. It is the land where fierce battles of the Mahabharata were once fought; to defeat the forces of evil and also such words of peace and inner tranquillity as the Bhagavadgita were written.

It is a land plundered thousands of times by invading hordes, who ransacked its material wealth, but could change little of its old culture. It is a land where Alexander the Great's quest for new empires ended, and Genghis Khan's began. And, for over a century and a half, it was the "brightest jewel" in the crown of the British Empire.

India is vast — a world in itself. Take the topography first. Tiptoes are the snowy Himalayan peaks extending hundreds of miles to the North. There are the lush green coasts and bays in the East. There is the desert to the west and, across the vast undulating plains and hills of its entire length, the beautiful beaches on the Indian Ocean to the South.

The climate, at any time of the year, covers almost the entire range of meteorology — from the coolness of the Himalayas to the tropical heat of Bombay; from the sizzling deserts of Rajasthan to wet Assam which has the distinction of being the wettest place on earth.

India is populous — with 520 million people and a growth rate of 10 million a year. Although the majority of the population is Hindu, it also embraces every known religion — Islam, Christianity, Zoroastrianism, Buddhism and Jainism (to the far-flung tribal belts).

A democratic Constitution ensures complete freedom of thought and practice, as well as other fundamental rights of citizens.

Hospitality is ingrained in the average Indian, and has averaged under the numerous onslaughts of foreign invaders through the ages. For an Indian, hospitality is a matter of national faith and a state of mind.

To a foreign visitor, while it makes the effort, India tends to put things together. Sensible splendour, cleverness to see, creations of many things to do — they are all here in abundance. Time, tourism and an institution may not be developed in India as in some of the more advanced countries. But there is an acute awareness of the need to improve.

How does one get to India? Fortunately, the country has continued, in spite of the tremendous advance made by communications, to hold as pivotal a position in travel across the eastern hemisphere as held by West Europe across the western.

Today, almost all the major airlines of the world operate through India, and shipping services sailing "east of Suez" touch one of its ports. With the modern jet service becoming faster and less expensive and sailing more comfortable and luxurious, India is getting closer to everywhere. Entry and exit, especially for a tourist, are simplified to the minimum delay, which is being further cut down by accepting modern procedures.

Where does one stay? No problem here. Each major city and place of congress has comfortable accommodation. From the luxury of five-star hotels to the modest comfort of modest hotels, hostels and guest houses, all with modern amenities.

And a dollar or a pound or a franc or whatever other unit goes a longer way in India than in most other places, making it possible for a visit to suit almost every pocket. Internal travel is smooth and swift by sleek jets, fast railroads and modern road transport.

With the combination of all three, virtually every corner of the country, worth a visit is easily accessible. There are 17 States in India, each having several magnificent centres of tourist and cultural interest.

Interested in history? Prepare to be overwhelmed. India abounds in existing testimonials of its long and rich historical past, from the pre-B.C. reign of Hindu gods, through the long spell of the Mogul dynasty to the 20th century rule by the British.

There are the great temples and ruins of ancient cities, the awesome caves of Ajanta and Ellora, all dating back thousands of years, all connected with milestones in history not only of India but the entire world.

There are the erotic sculptures on the temples at Khajuraho and Konarak, breathtaking in their frankness. There are the countless mausoleums, forts, mosques and structures all over the country, each steeped in historic significance, each perpetuating the memory of the fabulous lives of old.

There is the Taj Mahal, a world wonder, which never fails to stir the heart with its saga of creation by a Mogul Emperor out of his unbounded love for his Queen. And there are the near-modern monuments of the British Empire which bespeak stridently of its role in India's history.

There are also, in the words of the late Prime Minister, Mr. Nehru, the "modern temples of India" — stupendous dams, atomic reactors, huge factories and other wonders of modern science and technology.

Even if one is not particularly keen on history, the grandeur and architecture of all these structures are eye-catching. At New Delhi's Red Fort the administration runs like a well-oiled machine.

Where creations of man end, those of nature begin. In scenic splendour, nature has been bountiful to India. There, to the north, is Kashmir Valley, described long ago by a famous Urdu poet thus: "If there is a paradise on earth, it is here, it is here".

In beauty, marked by towering snow-capped mountains, gentle green meadows, scores of placid lakes, thousands of gushing streams, profusion of small flowers and lush vegetation, must be seen to be believed. Here man's communion with nature is complete, even while living in the Valley's modern hotels, guest houses or houseboats moored in the lakes — or, while water-skiing, golfing and, in winter, going down the modern ski run (one of the longest in the world) at the majestic heights of Gulmarg.

And this is just one beautiful spot. There are the acres of palm-dotted beaches all round the country, the scenic beauty that in Kerala, Asia's Venice; the fairy sunset and sunrise at Kanyakumari, on the southernmost tip; the "Pink City" that is Jaipur; the city of the thousand temples that is Benares; and innumerable other places.

India, thus, is not just a visit to the Taj Mahal, or a hop to Benares, or a date with the fortune-teller and the snake-charmer, or a short stay in the bustling metropolis of Bombay, Calcutta and Madras; those shimmering lights 30,000ft. below while "we are now flying over India," India is more, stupendously more — as only a suitable way can discover. — (INFA).

India's national emblem and motto, above, and below, the symbol of modern India's unity, President Zakir Husain, who is a Muslim.

'COME CELEBRATING!'

said the maharajah. "All my friends will excuse me if I allow a secret joy to fill my heart. Because, you see, it is now 19 years since my country became a Republic.

"This was our blessed hour of jubilation when at last we became free.

"My East African friends in particular will understand if I feel joyful at the thought of this memory. For their own Uhuru and Republic celebrations are still as fresh as mountain dew in their minds.

"Permit me in my sublime happiness to send my greetings on this occasion to the land of my birth — India."

Leading role in education

India is probably next only to the Soviet Union and the United States in the number of engineering and technology graduates it produces.

At the time of independence in 1947 India produced only 935 graduates in engineering and 320 graduates in technology. Facilities for advanced training and research at post-graduate level were meagre. In the field of technology and almost non-existent in the engineering sector. The last two decades have, however, seen rapid growth in the field of engineering and technological education, which is reflected both in the student enrolment and in the establishment of new institutions.

The number of students admitted in the first degree every year in the past five years has increased by 11-fold during the past 20 years. The number of institutions providing degree courses in 1952 was 75 only. Today the number of institutions is over 100. There are four times their number in 1947. The average admission of an institution has also more than doubled; from 75 in 1947 to over 220 last year. The demand for diploma courses in engineering and technology has increased 11-fold during the 20 years since independence.

Explaining the... A condole meeting for the late Mr. Mahan Singh was held at the United Club last night.

The final produced a clash between one of the strongest amateurs and a professional. The styles were a violent contrast. Little was a quiet, blooded, dynamic swing that almost propelled the ball out of sight.

Mr. Carrasco was the vice-president of the Nairobi Golf Institute and the Kenya Table Tennis Association and secretary of the Kenya Billiards Club.

President was the 'cleans' who bred 'disunity'

Standard Staff Reporter, Mombasa.
people who b f e d in Kenya, law-ers, university stu-dents and their lecturers dabbled in politics, tititudes and non-nens who were crying sympathy after reject-the chance to become yates in Mombasa erday.
addressing thousands at a at Mombasa Municipal on, Mr. Kenyatta refered to incidents which ken Kenya's image and ere were examples of matters the Government would with unhesitantly.
reminded the audience of a recent case in which a student was fined for unlawfully wearing the colours of the Kenya national soccer team at University College, Nairobi, and a group of Kiambu people who held an American in a forest cave for £4,000.
The country was still experi-encing other diseases, such as disunity, prostitution and crime. There were also "devils" in the cheap people who were in the Government officials to state that they were applying for licenses which they had bought business ally owned by Asian non-estment.
The Government was aware of the dealings and would deal with anybody found to entangling any of the war-rior.
Kenyatta opened the rally by thanking the secretary of the rally which he said was one of the most precious Foundations in Kenya.
It was strong and this was why he had more achievements than in its six years of in-dependence and would deal with anybody found to entangling any of the war-rior.

at University College, Nairobi, Mr. Kenyatta said that any student who should realize that what- ever he was doing was being done on Kenya's soil. Students had been sponsored to the college to study and should leave politics alone until they graduated. They were not above the Government of the land and those who failed to abide by this warning would have to be punished.
The president also warned drunken drivers and ordinary citizens who drank excessively, forget-ting about their own families. They were not only a disease to the nation, but also brought branches which must be pruned in the bud.
He appealed to the nation to report to the authorities searching for them and if need be legislation making the death sentence mandatory for robbery and other thieves would have to be enacted.
If these acts become necessary receivers of stolen property would face the same sentence. The Govern-ment wanted to create not only a safe life for all, but also a country attractive to tourists and investors.
He was glad that the Kiambu thugs who kidnaped an American child and demanded £4,000 from the parents had received 14 years' imprisonment and strokes.
He reiterated his recent warning to prostitutes and said they were a social disease and should be cleared. There were also men who went round seducing other people's wives. These people did not know that anybody who stabbed to death a man he found in bed with his wife would go unpunished.
There were equal jobs and business opportunities for all men and women in Kenya and it was time that all citizens searching for a decent means of living.

Students vote to boycott lectures

Standard Staff Reporter
Students at University College, Nairobi, voted last night not to attend lectures until academic freedom was won.
The statement was obtained from a students' representative although it was impossible to contact any member of Students' Union executive committee which was meeting late last night.
Reply to several calls were answered by a number of students who appeared to have no knowledge of the result of the ballot on whether they should return to lectures.
The voting was reported by one representative to be a 700 majority in favour of staying away from lectures although the exact figures were unobtainable.
The ballot followed a directive by the Minister for Education, Dr. Kiambu that the students should attend lectures.
The students held a ballot yesterday afternoon which resulted in the majority voting against attending any further lectures until a delegate of the Students' Union had met the Minister for a clarification of the Government's policy on academic freedom.

Students vote to boycott lectures MINISTER'S ORDER

Last Friday the students pro-posed the cancellation of a talk by the leader of the Opposition, Mr. Odinga, and decided to boycott lectures.
A statement issued yesterday by the Minister said: "The Govern-ment expects all students to re- port to their respective classes on Monday, January 27, without failure. A roll-call will be taken on that day to make sure that this direct order is complied with."

UGANDA ENVOY DIES IN BONN

Uganda's Ambassador to West Germany, Mr. Leonard Bwalya, has died in Bonn.
He had served since he was born in Kampala, was 53. He was the Minister of Finance in the former Uganda, did not attend classes on Friday and Saturday.
"This is an extremely serious breach of discipline and must cease forthwith. Consequently the Govern-ment expects all students to re- port to their respective classes on Monday, January 27, without failure. A roll-call will be taken on that day to make sure that this direct order is complied with."

MAO SCOTCHES DEATH RUMOURS

Peking Radio yesterday announced that Chairman Mao Tse-tung "in excellent health and high spirits" had made an appearance at a mass rally of "revolutionary fighters" of the Chinese capital.
The announcement scotched per-sistent rumours which have been circulating for two weeks that Chairman Mao was either dead or seriously ill.
The 75-year-old Chinese was accompanied by his chosen successor, Vice-Chairman Lin Biao, and by a full turnout of China's top rulers headed by the Premier, Chou En-lai.
They made their first expected appearance at a reception for more than 50,000 army men, cadres and Maoist revolutionary masses in Peking.
The broadcast said that the revolutionary fighters were "beside themselves with joy" singing "Chairman Mao, you are the splendour sun and we are like sun- flowers blooming happily under your sunshine. You are the bright driver and we are the stars rally- ing closely round you."
Chairman Mao and most of the top Chinese leaders have been out of the public view since the National Day celebrations last October. There has been consider- able speculation not only about his health but also about the where- abouts of such leading figures as Lin Biao, Chairman Mao's wife, Chiang Chiao, and the Foreign Minister, Chen Yi.
Sen. Edward Kennedy has urged that the U.S. should take steps to permit the membership of both China and Taiwan in the United Nations.

Cautious optimism at Paris peace talks

The Vietnam peace talks in Paris were in recess yesterday until Thursday after the first meeting on Saturday — a six-and-a-half-hour session at which the four main negotiators put forward their con-cluding views.
The full-scale peace talks will resume at the International Confer-ence Centre near the Arc de Triomphe on Thursday morning.
Saturday was the first time both top negotiators for the Hanoi Government, the Vietcong's N.L.F., the Saigon Government and the United States had met in formal sessions.
He put forward the idea of replacing the tripartite International Control Commission (India, Poland and Canada) with a new body in-cluding representatives of Vietnam's neighbouring States.
Mr. Lodge did not spell out any proposals regarding the composition of the new body in which people's China could possibly be called upon to play a part.

NINE MORE DIE IN PAKISTAN RIOTS

The curfew imposed last Friday in the East Pakistan capital of Dacca was lifted for three hours to allow people to do their shopping, according to Radio Pakistan. The curfew was imposed when mob violence claimed at least 100 lives in the province.
The Punjab Union of Journalists called for a strike to protest against the police's "high-handedness of the administration" and their anti-people policies.
In Lahore, 200 women paraded the streets with babies in arms, demanding the release of political prisoners and the police to be the same city about 2,000 English-speaking students clashed with police in front of the Provincial Assembly, shouting slogans against police brutality.
The outbreaks of violence came after 14 people died and about 90 were wounded when police opened fire during recent disorders in East Pakistan.

Biafra pins faith on U.S. to end war

The Biafran leader, Col. Ojukwu, yesterday called for an international solution to the Nigerian war and not just a regional solution involving only the three countries.
"It is clear now that Africa is divided and that help is being sent to the wrong side," he said. "I believe that the United States should help bring about a permanent settlement in Nigeria."
The Biafran leader was speaking in Umuahia to journalists from throughout the world, including the United States.
He said the Biafran movement was in the face of the human suffering was a catastrophe.
"The only way to stop starvation is to stop the war. Once there is cessation of hostilities and the people are back to their land, the misery will cease. There are 20 people ready for starvation all over Biafra."
Col. Ojukwu said he felt the Nigerians were already tired of the war and were not likely either side to start again.
The Biafran leader said he was glad to see that the British had decided to pull out of Biafra and that the Biafran people would be able to live in peace and stability.
He said that the Biafran people were ready to accept a permanent settlement in Nigeria.

GRADUATED PERSONAL TAX ACT, 1966 (No. 38 of 1966)

NOTICE

NOTICE is hereby given to all self-employed and unemployed persons resident in Nakuru Municipality area that the Graduated Personal Tax for 1969 must be paid by either of the two following methods—

- The tax due shall be paid in full on or before the 31st day of March, 1969.
- An individual who fails to pay the tax due on or before the 31st day of March, 1969, shall be guilty of an offence and liable to pay a fine not exceeding 3,000/- or to imprisonment of a term not exceeding three months, or both.

2. The tax due shall be paid by 12 monthly instalments, such payments to be effected by obtaining a tax card from the Municipal Council and affixing to it, each month, tax stamps of the value of the instalments.

An individual shall be deemed to have opted to pay by 12 monthly instalments if, and only if, not later than the 31st day of March, 1969, he obtains from the council's G.P.T. office a tax card and stamps it up to date.

An individual who fails to purchase tax stamps of the requisite value and affix the same to the tax card by the 7th day of the month following the month to which the instalment of tax relates, shall be guilty of an offence and liable to pay a fine not exceeding 2,000/- or to imprisonment of a term not exceeding two months, or both.

In addition to the punishment shown above, a penalty of 50 per cent of the tax will be imposed upon any tax remaining unpaid after June 30, 1969, in respect of (1) above and any instalments remaining unpaid in respect of (2) above.

"MY DADDY'S THE MOST WONDERFUL MAN IN THE WORLD"

All little girls, like your little girl, adore their daddies. Trust them completely. So don't let her down. See counts on you to provide security, fine education... the sort of future you would want her to have. Make sure she gets it... and the rest of the family, too, by planning with...

Life Insurance Corporation of India advertisement. It features a drawing of a man and a woman, and text describing the benefits of their life insurance policy. The text emphasizes the security and future provided by their insurance.

The Israeli Foreign Minister, Mr. Abba Eban, has warned President Nasser's promises of support for Palestinian resistance organisations a threat to the November, 1967, United Nations Security Council Resolution.

In a letter to the President of the Security Council Mr. Eban asked him to inform all member nations that Israel would continue to hold the U.A.R. responsible for the activities of organisations it aids.

President Nasser's position, as defined in a speech to the Egyptian Parliament last Monday, constituted a violation of the U.N. Charter, Mr. Eban wrote.

The Egyptian President told the National Assembly that the U.A.R. fully supported the political activities of the Palestinian organisations. He said the Palestinians' rejection of the U.N. resolution was understandable because implementation of it might eliminate the consequences of the June, 1967, six-day war, but could not assure the future and fate of the Palestinian entity.

Resolution on the Middle East and all bodies proposed following it. Speaking at the second International Conference in support of the Arab People, Mr. Eban said the resolution "inequity and injustice" it was "unjust and categorically unacceptable" he said.

The resolution skirted the real issue named: The right of the Palestinian people to liberate its land, live on it and enjoy its fruits," he told widely-applauding delegates.

The Palestinian people had been the victim of 29 years of inaction on the part of the international community, which had stood still "while the Israeli aggressor occupied more and more territory by terrorism, oppression, deceit, lies and false promises."

"We shall not lay down our arms until Palestine is liberated and our rights are restored, and we shall not accept any solution denying these rights," he told the conference. Earlier delegates who number about 350 and represent about 80 countries, heard Mr. Anwar Sadat, a leading member of the U.A.R.'s ruling Arab Socialist Union Party, warn that the present situation in the Middle East could lead to a fresh outbreak of war, "extending far beyond our countries". He called on the U.N. Security Council to accept its responsibilities and implement the November 1967 Resolution.

The U.A.R. has officially denied an American clergyman who has just spent a week in Biafra at the weekend that he believed the Christian Church could help bring about a ceasefire in the Nigerian war.

The Episcopal Bishop, Dr. Edward Crowther, British-born and now a U.S. citizen, said in London that because of the strong Christian beliefs of both leaders in the conflict, the Church could prove the vital agent of reconciliation.

He said that during his visit he offered himself to Lt-Col. Ojukwa the Biafran leader, at a channel of communication "to substitute dialogue for war". Bishop Crowther did not meet the Nigerian leader, Maj-Gen. Gowon, but he hopes to return to Nigeria within a month. Gen. Gowon is a sincere Anglican. Here surely is a channel through which talks can begin," he said.

The British Consul-General, Mr. Heath, told 12 militant party supporters in the English Midlands that if the necessary steps implemented by Britain should be promptly suspended for a while period.

He also promised present immigrants "generous assistance" if they wished to return to their countries of origin.

There was a tumultuous ovation when a member of the audience said after the Conservative leader had finished: "May I say how delighted we are that Mr. Heath appears to have adopted the views expressed by Mr. Enoch Powell, Mr. Powell, Conservative M.P. for Wolverhampton South-West, was dismissed from the Opposition 'shadow' Cabinet last year for allegedly racist remarks. After the applause had died down the member of the audience added: "We are delighted that this is now Conservative policy and we look forward to its implementation."

Slight the VW. As you probably haven't noticed, we've been at the beetle again. Hidden among the familiar parts we're using to make our latest models, you'll find a few that are new to us. Consider the 1200 De Luxe and 1500. They now come with new dash warning lamps and symbols, so you know what your lights are doing as well as everything else. There's an emergency flashing system too. So you can let everybody know if you are in trouble. The bonnet release handle is tidied away in the glove compartment. We've upped the power of the windscreen blower for quicker de-misting and more fresh air, and given you better back-rest support in the front seats. And there's a look-up fuel cap to check a five-litre tank. On the 1500, we've added an improved carburettor to make it even easier for you to drive away. So there's really no way to tell VW apart from the other 4 New colours that is. It looks a little better. It works a whole lot better. If you'd like to drive a VW, contact your nearest Volkswagen Dealer.

Kenya's first kidnapers get 4 years and strokes

Standard Staff Reporter
The first case of its kind heard in Kenya, two men pleaded "Guilty" to kidnapping a nine-year-old Amshoolah at Kiljabe were sentenced to a total of 14 imprisonment and 24 strokes by a Nairobi magistrate yesterday.

The two men were charged with taking Keith Thomas Baker out of the keeping of his lawful guardian, Mr. Sterling Baker, at Kiljabe on January 20 without his consent, and on the following day with intent to extort 60,000 from Mr. Baker, by threatening to receive a letter, demanding the money.

On a third count the two men were charged with assaulting Keith Thomas Baker, his actual bodily harm. The Deputy Director of Criminal Investigations, Mr. John Bell, told the court that the two men were charged with the offence, although well known in other parts of the world, had not taken place in Kenya before.

Keith, he said, lived at Kiljabe with his father who worked as a teacher at the Rift Valley Academy. When the boy left for school on foot after lunch he was met by the two men who caught him by the back of his head.

He was forced to accompany them for about six miles into a thick forest, near a house where he was put in a cage and kept for 24 hours. During that time he was fed with dry bread, biscuits and potatoes and given black coffee and tea.

A "Police" handbook was shown to the court. It stated that three of the eight counts were "on a bedstead" on the morning of January 21. The letter was a stick note on the ground near his home in the letter of which a letter was found, Mr. Bell told the court.

Mr. Bell produced the letter in court. It was written in English and headed "Letter for Count 1". It was signed "Negro Executive for Communist Intelligence, Terrorism and Resistance Association".

It told Mr. Baker that his son was not lost and that he was in the hands of the kidnappers. Mr. Baker was not to be brought his son back safely if he compromised by informing the police about the incident.

By told kidnapping as done for fun

Standard Staff Reporter
The nine-year-old son of Mr. Sterling Baker, at Kiljabe, who was held in the forest for 24 hours by kidnapers, yesterday said that the two men told him that they were doing it for fun and that they were not serious.

When their son returned, the bells of the church rang and everyone in the area turned out. They had been flabbergasted by the interest and concern of their son's father. Mr. Baker was reporting a "message" to send to his parents in Pennsylvania, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Falkenstein.

The kidnappers were taken to a neighbour to telephone Mr. Sterling Baker, at Kiljabe, to tell him that they were not serious. "We knew all about it in the morning," Mr. Baker said. "The couple, who are teachers at the Rift Valley Academy, have been in Kenya for three years."

ENYA REDUCES PRICE OF RICE

Standard Staff Reporter
The Ministry of Finance, Mr. Njenga, has signed an order to reduce the price of rice in Kenya from 100 shillings to 85 shillings per 100 lbs. The order was issued yesterday.

HEALTH THE VITAL POINT

Standard Staff Reporter
In Saturday's issue, a report of a family planning seminar at Thika said that the senior medical officer in the Ministry of Health, Dr. M. R. Chaudri, had stated that the reason why the Government supported the concept of family planning was the fear of a population explosion.

Dr. Chaudri had pointed out that the Government did not fear a population explosion and that the object of family planning was to ensure the health of the mother and child.

Nasser promise 'threat to U.N.' says Israel

The Israeli Foreign Minister, Mr. Abba Eban, has termed President Nasser's promise of support for Palestinian resistance organizations a threat to the November, 1967, United Nations Security Council Resolution.

The resolution skirted the real issue, namely the right of the Palestinian people to liberate in their lives on it and enjoy its fruits," he told widely-applauding delegates. The Palestinian people had been the victim of 20 years of inaction on the part of the international community, which had allowed still "while the Israeli aggressor occupied more and more territory by terrorism, oppression, deceit, lies and false promises".

President Nasser's position, as defined in a speech to the Egyptian Parliament last Monday, constituted a violation of the 1957 Charter, Mr. Eban wrote.

"We shall not lay down our arms until Palestine is liberated and our rights are restored, and we shall not accept any solution denying these rights," he told the conference. Earlier delegates, whose number about 350 had representatives from 60 countries, heard Mr. Aghar Sobay, a leading member of the U.A.R.'s ruling Arab Socialist Union Party, warn that the present situation in the Middle East could lead to a fresh outbreak of war, extending perhaps to other countries.

College told to close after student defiance

Use their influence to ensure that the students resumed lectures yesterday afternoon.

Late Dr. Porter and other members of the staff had a meeting with Dr. Kiano.

The head of the geography department at the college, Prof. S. Ominda, the Dean of the Faculty of Veterinary Science, Dr. F. Njeru, and several members of the East African academic staff, among them Dr. M. Hyder, addressed a rowdy meeting of students at the university residential hall in an attempt to solve the crisis.

Prof. Ominda said the staff shared the concern of the students over what they contended was "an erosion of academic freedom".

It was for this reason that East African members of the staff had met the Principal with a view to creating an atmosphere for talks with the Government.

He said that at a meeting with the Principal it was decided to pass the following resolution—

"We, the East African members of the academic staff of the University College, Nairobi, under the chairmanship of the Principal, realising the crisis in which this institution is involved, and recognising the concern of the Government on the role of the university in nation-building, resolve:

"To endorse fully the concern of the University College students and staff in championing the pursuit of truth and knowledge in this college.

"To commend the Principal and the president of the Students' Union for their efforts in trying to find a solution to the crisis.

"To urge the Government to the students that in defence of the directive that has been issued by President Kenyatta, who is also a Visitor to the College, that they resume classes. This we expect will also create an appropriate atmosphere in which the dialogue between the Government and the College will be continued.

"Cries of "No" greeted Prof. Ominda's suggestion that students should resume their classes. Some said there would be no compromise on academic freedom.

Prof. Ominda then said: "The position now is that the college is closed. We must make a decision one way or the other."

Dr. Hyder told the meeting that unless students resumed classes they would have no place to pursue their education and all the principles for which the institution stood.

Students booed Dr. Njeru when he suggested that some of them who were facing examinations would be the losers if they kept up the boycott. One said: "To hell with the exams."

Police stood by throughout the day, defying students' shouts of "police go home" and "yet-uhuru", but no serious incidents were reported.

A college spokesman said that 1,825 students were affected by the Government's order closing the college.

A number of embassies in Nairobi yesterday asked for students from their countries to find them accommodation for the closure of the college.

The Zambian Deputy High Commissioner, Mr. H. Zaku, said last night that six Zambian students had asked him to find them alternative accommodation.

His office was not making any arrangements for their repatriation as it had not received detailed information about whether the college was completely closed at the American embassy, Mr. W. D. Lockwood, said that his office would help students unable to make their own arrangements or who might become destitute as a result of the closure.

A Malawi High Commissioner, Mr. E. D. Phakama, said about six Malawi students were making their own arrangements. Should they be unable to do so, he would do all he could to help them.

An official of the Ethiopian High Commission said everything would depend on whether or not the students were sponsored by their Government.

No comment was available from the Indian High Commission or the Pakistan High Commission, although it was believed there were a number of students at the college from both countries.

All extramural activities at the college stopped last night. Members of the public who went to the buildings to attend students, such as those of the Alliance Francaise, were turned away.

A huge traffic jam built up near University Way yesterday evening. Motorists leaving town in the direction of Westlands at about 5 p.m. took up to 30 minutes to cover the 10-mile stretch to the junction of Westlands and University Way.

Left: University College students, some of them looking rather pensive about the whole business, stand in groups outside the college building yesterday after their refusal to attend lectures. Above: "Victory is ours, definitely" says this placard held outside the college in the morning telling students to stay away from their classes. Right: Riot police move in on a group of students leaving their hall of residence on Maiti Street Road.

Police first took action to clear the university teaching and administrative blocks as there were rumours that militant students had threatened to destroy university buildings.

The threat was said to have originated at a night meeting held outside the halls of residence late on Sunday and into yesterday morning. Residents in the area complained that they had been unable to sleep for the noise.

After clearing the teaching blocks, the police party moved through the tunnel under Uhuru Highway to the halls of residence to reinforce patrols already waiting there. The students were ordered to move out.

Police tried to keep the students moving as quickly as possible to lessen their chances of causing any damage inside the residences.

A number of stones were thrown at policemen but they caused no injuries and no arrests were made. Students' Road was closed to traffic for 14 hours while the students were moved away from the residences.

Taxi drivers had a field day transporting students from Tanzania and Uganda to the railway station while hundreds of students stayed in the Malawi, Mauritania, South Africa, Rhodesia and the United States said that they were now refugees.

Education 'way to fill expatriate jobs locally'

ASSURANCE BY PRESIDENT

President Kenyatta said yesterday that the Government was fully committed to further education in the country so that Kenyans could eventually take over jobs now held by expatriates.

The President said this when he met a delegation of 31 councillors of Kilifi County Council who were led by their chairman, Mr. William Karenge, accompanied by the District Commissioner for Kilifi, Mr. C. P. Okech.

The Provincial Commissioner for Coast Province, Mr. I. M. Muthenge, and his deputy, Mr. Chelugei, were also present.

In reply to a memorandum submitted to him by the delegation, the President said the Government realised how the colonialists hampered education in Kenya. He added that the Government was ready whenever the funds were available to help the people by taking over harambee schools.

President Kenyatta reiterated that nothing could be accomplished overnight and emphasised that some of the specialised jobs, such as those of doctors and engineers, required long training.

Replying to a point on land demarcation and registration in Kilifi District, the President said that he fully agreed with their request, but it was very important that the question should be looked into carefully so that there should be no irregularities which could create disputes.

He added that land was the foundation of every nation and he knew that some people did not realise that some of the maps in which they lived were not locally made.

Mr. Kenyatta gave an example of the former Coastal strip which was legally under the then Sultan of Zanzibar. Some of the residents in the area considered the land was theirs. It was not until the held negotiations with the then Sultan of Zanzibar that the land was legally possessed by the Government.

The President stressed that he was prepared to listen to everyone's problem, but advised the delegation that when they had a problem they should channel it through district officers, district commissioners and provincial commissioners. If the officers were unable to settle it they would forward it to him through the appropriate Cabinet Minister.

The Kilifi County Council chairman, Mr. Karenge, gave a cheque for £100 to the President for the Kenya Armed Forces Hospital Fund. The donation was on behalf of the County Council.

Thanking the delegation for the donation, the President stressed that a country without armed forces was not complete. He noted with deep appreciation donations, no matter how small, and pointed out that anyone could donate anything he could afford.

The council chairman thanked the President and the Government for certain projects completed by the Government, which included bituminisation of the Mombasa-Malindi road, the modernisation of Kilifi ferry, the water pipeline from Mbarani to Kilifi and the taking-over of Kalandi Harabere Girls' Secondary School and Malindi Secondary School.

15 ISRAELI SPIES HANGED IN IRAQ

Fifteen people were hanged in Iraq yesterday after being sentenced as Israeli spies by a military court. A Baghdad Radio report said the 15 included nine Iraqi Jews. The radio said four of the convicted men were hanged in the Persian Gulf coastal town of Basrah while the 11 others were hanged in Liberation Square, Baghdad.

Normal life in Baghdad came to a halt as about 50,000 people celebrated the hangings.

Radio Baghdad told the people to "regret today as a national holiday", and people all over the city left their work to march past the gallows in Liberation Square.

The 15 had been condemned to death by the Revolutionary Tribunal earlier in the month, and the sentences were ratified by the Head of State, Gen. Ahmed Hassan Ali Bakr.

Radio Baghdad said yesterday was "the glorious day of our great victory, the victory of the Baas Party." Speakers posting for the microphone and interrupting each other said: "We will liberate Palestine. We have chosen the only possible way—the destruction of our enemies."

"The theme of the demonstrations was that 'the Arab Socialist Baas Party is the vanguard of the struggle for the liberation of Palestine'."

Radio speakers said: "The only road to the Arab revolution is the Baas Party. It is the Baas which will liberate Palestine. Soon there will no longer be a single spy on Iraqi territory."

U.K. changes Rhodesia portfolio

Mr. George Thomson will no longer be in charge of negotiations with Rhodesia, the British Prime Minister, Mr. Wilson, indicated yesterday.

Mr. Wilson told a British Parliamentary Press luncheon in his honour that such negotiations would henceforth be within the normal responsibilities of the Foreign Office.

He added that Mr. Thomson would from now on be called to play a co-ordinating role within the Cabinet and would deal with questions which were not the direct responsibility of any specific Minister.

The Prime Minister's statement is a confirmation that there are to be no new moves initiated by the Government on the Rhodesian problem, authoritative sources said in London.

"Cries of "No" greeted Prof. Ominda's suggestion that students should resume their classes. Some said there would be no compromise on academic freedom.

Prof. Ominda then said: "The position now is that the college is closed. We must make a decision one way or the other."

Dr. Hyder told the meeting that unless students resumed classes they would have no place to pursue their education and all the principles for which the institution stood.

Students booed Dr. Njeru when he suggested that some of them who were facing examinations would be the losers if they kept up the boycott. One said: "To hell with the exams."

Police stood by throughout the day, defying students' shouts of "police go home" and "yet-uhuru", but no serious incidents were reported.

A college spokesman said that 1,825 students were affected by the Government's order closing the college.

A number of embassies in Nairobi yesterday asked for students from their countries to find them accommodation for the closure of the college.

The Zambian Deputy High Commissioner, Mr. H. Zaku, said last night that six Zambian students had asked him to find them alternative accommodation.

His office was not making any arrangements for their repatriation as it had not received detailed information about whether the college was completely closed at the American embassy, Mr. W. D. Lockwood, said that his office would help students unable to make their own arrangements or who might become destitute as a result of the closure.

A Malawi High Commissioner, Mr. E. D. Phakama, said about six Malawi students were making their own arrangements. Should they be unable to do so, he would do all he could to help them.

An official of the Ethiopian High Commission said everything would depend on whether or not the students were sponsored by their Government.

No comment was available from the Indian High Commission or the Pakistan High Commission, although it was believed there were a number of students at the college from both countries.

All extramural activities at the college stopped last night. Members of the public who went to the buildings to attend students, such as those of the Alliance Francaise, were turned away.

A huge traffic jam built up near University Way yesterday evening. Motorists leaving town in the direction of Westlands at about 5 p.m. took up to 30 minutes to cover the 10-mile stretch to the junction of Westlands and University Way.

ISUMU turns deficit into £500 surplus

County Commission, which reported a deficit of £20,000 from the former year, made a surplus of £500 last year, the Assistant Secretary for Local Government, Mr. K. Njiru, said at rallies held at Siaya and Alego districts at the weekend.

The chairman attributed the result to improved collection of rates and school fees. The rates collected in 1962 were £182,104 in Siaya and £140,000 in Alego.

Mr. Njiru said that the relationship between the commission, its chief officers, the people, employees and the Union had all been good. He said the commission was trying to find £50,000 for the construction of the Siaya headquarters building to speed the plan to split the dependent county into two.

New management for schools

Two harambee secondary schools in Kilifi district have been taken over by the Government, the District Commissioner, Mr. C. P. Okech, has reported.

Four other harambee secondary schools at Rabai, Godoma, Kili township and Marikani were still in the process of being formed and were being run by the various committees concerned.

Cattle dip opening

The Minister for Power and Communications, Mr. Nyamweya, is expected to perform the official opening ceremony of Gesusu and Kamacha cattle dips on Friday and Nyaturbo Cattle Dip on Sunday in his constituency.

The deputy director of veterinary services, who is due to visit Kisumu district on January 29, has also been asked to open Orange Cattle Dip in East Kitui on the same day.

The Eastern Province Community Development Officer, Mrs. J. W. Gilau (pictured above), supervised the distribution of a further ton of food to famine-stricken people of the Garba Talla and Mudogabe area of Isalo district at the weekend.

The consignment, which included detestants, beans and maize, was given to Boran children suffering from malnutrition. A Christian Council of Kenya field worker said that about 800 people were receiving famine relief food in Isalo.

Pig breeding show at Endarasha Farm

The Mount Kenya District of the Agricultural Society of Kenya has arranged a field day on pig breeding and the pig industry at Nanyuki on Friday, February 7.

The event, which will be held at Endarasha Farm with the cooperation and assistance of Mr. D. Hansen, is designed chiefly to help beginners in the pig industry, and the programme has been planned to give basic information and guidance of value to everyone interested.

After a tour of the breeding pens at Endarasha Farm, a number of experts will give demonstrations and talks on particular aspects of pig farming and the bacon industry.

Mr. R. G. Holmes of the Department of Veterinary Services at Kabete will deal with pig diseases, a representative of Lingo Ltd. will talk on feeding, and the assistant animal husbandry officer (Pigs) at Nyandarua, Mr. C. Gamble, will discuss general pig management.

Mr. W. Smith of the Pig Industry Board, Mr. L. Martin, chief production assistant at Uplands Bacon Factory and Mr. J. Febrary of the Ministry of Agriculture will cover the general operation of Kenya's pig industry, the requirements of the bacon industry, grading and future prospects for pig farmers.

Endarasha Farm is eight miles out of Nanyuki on the Umuha Road and the route will be signposted for visitors from Nanyuki township.

The programme is expected to end at about 4 p.m. Members of the A.S. of K. from all districts are asked to wear their badges.

A detailed programme for the field day is being prepared and will be handed to visitors when they arrive.

GOVERNMENT TO TAKE OVER SCHOOL

The Minister for Education, Dr. J. G. Kioko, announced at the weekend that the Government has agreed to take over Kitito Harambee Secondary School as a Government-maintained school from this month.

The Minister was touring Makuyu Division of Muranga district accompanied by the Chairman of Muranga's County Council, Mr. Pharis Wachira, Clerk to the Council, Mr. Mburu, the D.O. for the area, Mr. Oburu, and Muranga's councillors.

News of the Government's move to take and maintain the school were greatly appreciated by the parents of the area where the school is situated and who came to meet the Minister.

Dr. Kioko thanked the church group who had built the school and said he wanted maximum co-operation between the church organisations and the Kenya Government in promoting education throughout Kenya.

At the Kanu office, Makuyu, where the Minister signed a visitors' book, he said that in Muranga there was only one Kanu. "We do not want to hear about Kanu A or B. We have one leader, Mr. Jomo Kenyatta, one Kanu and one people."

The thousands of people present adopted unanimously a motion of full confidence in President Kenyatta, his Government and Kanu.

At Ihanga Primary School, the Minister outlined the great achievements of the Kenya Government particularly in the field of education and land settlement. "Ours is a Government of actions not mere words. Actions of service and not empty promises are what the people want," the Minister said.

He added: "We have practically finished K.P.U. in this district. We must now beware of those Kanu members who sing Kanu and still act contrary to the Government wishes and policies." Dr. Kioko and Dr. J. F. C. Mwangi donated one hundred desks for the Ihanga Primary School so that all children in the area may find places to sit in the school.

Mr. Kariuki said that a substantial proportion of the £400,000 which had been set aside for the Kenya development plan would be spent on improving 7,000 acres of land in Masailand.

Mr. Kariuki donated iron sheets and cement for finishing the project. He was later presented with a spear and a shield by a Masai Moran.

Among other speakers were the District Commissioner for Kitale, Mr. S. K. Roumange, and the Member for Kitale North, Mr. G. K. Kipyo.

£671 raised for school

A sum of £671 was raised by Kitale people during the sale of the foundation stone of the Eastonii Harambee Primary School by the Assistant Minister for Agriculture, Mr. T. M. W. Kariuki.

Mr. Kariuki said that the developments were achieved in the area where the local people were in Harambee spirit.

He appealed to parents to send their children to school urging them to work hard in schools as proper development was based on good education.

Kanu post for Mr. Otiende

The Minister for Health, Mr. Otiende, was elected chairman of Kanu Kakamega District branch at a meeting held last weekend at Kakamega. He defeated Mr. Beth Lugonzo, a member of the East African Legislative Assembly, who has been chairman of the branch for several years.

Mr. Naaman Esuchi, who has been secretary of the branch for some time, was elected vice-chairman. Other elected were: Secretary, Mrs. Nathan Madavala, assistant secretary, Mr. William Mumbo, Jonathan Murali, M.P., and Mr. Francis Obengia was elected executive officer.

The new organising secretary of the branch is Mr. Brown Touma, who replaced the Assistant Minister for Information and Propaganda, Mr. James Uthman.

The election was supervised by the Kanu vice-president, Uasin Province, Mr. Eric Abukhalifa, who is an Assistant Minister for Education.

After the election, Mr. Abukhalifa said: "Anybody found this using party vehicles in the province will be severely dealt with."

Census by sight

The Nairobi senior District Commissioner, Mr. A. Martin, who is the officer in charge of the 1960 Kenya population census, is a member of provincial and administration officials at Meru that in order to avoid taking the 1962 census, the new census would be strictly a matter of "counting only those you see."

The 1962 census, the new census would be strictly a matter of "counting only those you see." Sub-locations will be the basic enumeration units.

Minister praises Social Services RURAL PRIORITY

Standard Staff Reporter
The President of the National Council of Social Services, Mr. Njala, who is also the Minister for Co-operative and Social Services, yesterday commended the council for giving priority to rural development as demonstrated by the theme of a conference of local councils in Thika last week.

Mr. Njala, who was speaking at the council's fourth annual meeting, recalled that the Government's development policy gave priority to rural areas. By adopting the same policy the council was doing the right thing.

It was hoped that all other voluntary organizations would join the Government in its efforts to develop the rural areas where the majority of the population still lived.

Hundreds go home as police guard campus

The staff of the college worked all day and night yesterday trying to help students to find alternative accommodation. Embassies and High Commissions found themselves faced with the problem of accommodating unexpected visitors.

Police guarded the entrance to the college building where Tanzanian and Ugandan students received money provided by their Governments and sponsoring institutions for their fare home, but all was quiet.

Left: The campus at University College, Nairobi, was deserted yesterday except for these two policemen who patrolled the grounds. Above: Students who did not manage to leave on the day the university closed seemed despondent as they last night to take them home.

Only obedient students will be allowed back

maintaining them at great sacrifice by the Kenya taxpayers. If they want to return to the college they must be prepared to obey the Government without question.

Teachers criticise strike

The secretary-general of the Kenya National Union of Teachers, Mr. S. Kioni, said yesterday that his union could not support strikers by students, because that amounted to mass indiscipline.

Pakistani death row up to 24 CURFEW IN CITIES

Army units yesterday patrolled Pakistan's three biggest cities after four days of anti-Government violence in which at least 24 people have died.

Police said four people died in Monday's clashes in Liqueabad which came when a crowd attacked and tried to burn the home of a local government official.

The Government of West Pakistan, Mr. Mohammed Musa, warned in a radio broadcast that the Government was determined to enforce law and order.

Iraq may hang more as Israel talks of vengeance

An Opposition Member, Mr. Avraham Tsarf, spoke of possible reprisals. He said the Iraqi rulers must realise by now that the Israelis were able to strike at relatively distant targets.

The reaction of Arab states to the hangings appeared to have been one of embarrassment. Reports of the executions yesterday were brief and without comment.

AGREE OR GET OUT ZAMBIANS TOLD

The Zambian Minister for Information, Mr. Sikota Wina, has advised opponents of the ruling United National Independence Party to emigrate to Rhodesia, South Africa or Angola, the Zambian News Agency reported yesterday.

Mr. Wina also criticised opposition African National Congress A.N.C. members and the Johannesburg Witness religious sect for using Kaunda's Government without being loyal to it.

Paris talks 'good start'—Mr. Nixon

Mr. Nixon said in his House television address that the Paris peace talks were a "good start" and that the concrete proposals of the United States...

to "defuse that highly explosive powder keg." Mr. Nixon said he was in favour of having talks with the Soviet Union on strategic nuclear weapons...

While cautioning against over-optimism that could impede the negotiations in Vietnam, the President indicated that he believed progress would be made in Paris.

Rather than submitting a laundry list of various proposals, we have laid down those things which we believe the other side should agree to and we agree to in return...

These were matters on which progress could be made, he said. The term ceasefire, he said, had to be used.

Mr. Nixon said he was in favour of having talks with the Soviet Union on strategic nuclear weapons, but at a time that would promote political talks on other world problems.

He said that the United States would not agree to a mutual withdrawal of forces from South Vietnam on a guaranteed basis by both sides.

On Home Affairs, Mr. Nixon said this administration would aim at controlling inflation without increasing unemployment by adjusting the nation's fiscal and monetary policies.

The President was given a three-hour briefing on "what military situations may be expected in the U.S. diplomatic circles."

Officials said that President Nixon's speech was a "broad dialogue" which would go far beyond the military situation.

Mr. Heath accuses of hypocrisy and immigration

The Home Secretary, Mr. James Callaghan, called Mr. Heath a "shabby salesman selling shabby goods" and referred to his speech on immigration as "hypocrisy."

Mr. Callaghan said: "The only reason I can think for making such a speech is that he wishes to appease the Powellites and to be all things to all men."

Mr. Heath's speech, Mr. Callaghan said, was "one of the most shabby speeches he has made because he wanted people to believe that he was promising a drastic and immediate curb on immigration."

Military pressure in Spain denied

Spain was put under a State of Emergency to end an "intolerable situation in the universities" and not as a result of military pressure, a Spanish Government Minister said.

The Information Minister, Senor Fraga Iribarne, said the decision had been unanimously approved by the Cabinet.

He dismissed as "completely fantastic" a London Daily Telegraph report yesterday that Gen. Franco would step down as Head of State to make way for the crowning of Prince Juan Carlos as King.

Gen. Franco is in better health than ever before and is in no way thinking of retiring next April," the emergency measures did not signify a change in the Government's policy.

The aim of the State of Emergency, and the only aim, is to restore genuine freedom in teaching and studying at Spanish universities.

The tough measures did not mean an end of the Government's liberalisation policies, Senor Fraga Iribarne declared the usual "normalisation" will constitute only a warning and a light pause. The process will continue afterwards.

The number of people arrested since the State of Emergency was declared on Friday had at "no time" exceeded 200.

Universities would re-open in a few days "once clearing work has been completed."

Conciliatory tone at Ocam talks

All signs at the end of the first day of the three Afro-Malagasy Organisation (Ocam) summit meeting which opened in Congo Kinshasa yesterday pointed towards conciliation between the host country and the two missing Ocam members, Congo Brazzaville and the Central African Republic.

The Ocam President, Hamani Diori of Niger, who re-elected president of the organisation, for conciliation, and Congolese President Mobutu's declaration that the disputing countries had avoided falling into the trap he believed to exist among delegates who had feared a worsening of the split in the heart of the Organisation.

In his opening speech, President Mobutu spoke of Kinshasa's willingness to solve temporary problems and build up a new fraternal Africa through friendly discussions.

He was also glad that the majority of the Organisation members had respected the rendezvous in spite of differences between certain members. It was a victory for Ocam and for Africa as a whole, that members had avoided falling into the trap, he said.

President Diori spoke of the Nigerian civil war and called for peace in West Africa. Some observers saw this as a confining remark that President Houphouët-Boigny of Ivory Coast who had taken Ocam, had arrived in Kinshasa with proposals for ending the Nigerian war.

President Boigny said that the Organisation's members had asked Mr. Diori to remain in office until the next general session to enable him to complete his mission concerning negotiations on the renewal of the Yaounde Agreement linking 15 Afro-Malagasy states to the European Common Market.

Observers felt that the United Arab Republic, which made brief speeches, praising the Organisation for its efforts towards unity and economic development in the heart of the African continent.

The Mauritius Premier, Sir Scowasagar Ramgoolam, confirmed reports that he had come to Kinshasa to ask for the country's admittance to the French-speaking Organisation.

Mauritius is a member of the English-speaking Commonwealth of Nations, was a French colony before being taken over by the British, and the majority of its inhabitants speak French as a second language rather than English.

COSMONAUTS DRIVER DIES

The driver of the car carrying four Russian cosmonauts which was shot at by an unidentified gunman last week has died of his injuries.

The driver, who never regained consciousness, was operated on several times and a bullet was removed from his head, but in vain.

A member of the cosmonauts motor-cycle escort who was injured in the arm in the same attempt was said to be progressing well.

THE MANAGEMENT TRAINING AND ADVISORY CENTRE
Parklands, Nairobi

prepares the Third Special Training Course for Middle Management in

BETTER SUPERVISION

At the centre, February 24 to March 1, 1969.

The leader: Mr. J. E. W. GAINES, B.Sc., A.M.I.E., (Aust.)
E.A.M.L. F.E.A.M.F.

The purpose of this short course is to present the basic principles of effective supervision in a practical and convincing manner intended for most of the middle management levels especially valuable to those who have recently been or about to be promoted to middle management positions.

The main objective of the course is to give a broad insight into the meaning and practice of supervision, but it also covers methods designed to improve the effectiveness of the manager's work.

Surprising how few managers have given any serious thought to the management environment in which they must operate. For this and other reasons the results achieved in the course are usually spectacular. This is due to greater awareness of the company's general objectives, better human relations, increased control-consciousness and greater job satisfaction all resulting from the course.

The course is highly participative and considerable use is made of the latest teaching aids as well as discussions and group work. The course includes morning and afternoon tea. There is free parking at the centre and a bus-stop opposite.

Application forms write to P.O. Box 2079 or phone 56100. Fee 100/- Certificate of participation is available.

The story of a shoe

You slip on a pair of shoes and, without a doubt, that is the last thought you give to them. And yet most people have a good idea of what they are looking for when they buy shoes, ranging over pair after pair until they find the style, size and colour that suits them.

It takes a lot of people trying at the shoe factory trying to judge the public's taste in shoes, and remarks made to the salesman about shoe styles are generally passed on to the company's Limuru factory and recorded.

"It was only recently that Bata began to manufacture women's heeled shoes locally, as the process is rather more complicated than that of the flat-heeled shoe, and considerable expenditure on new equipment is necessary.

Market research before the production of a new design is extensively carried out, and only after the success of the design is assured will the company proceed and order the necessary equipment from overseas.

This can be appreciated when one considers that one of the most necessary items of equipment are wooden lasts, and these cost about 40/- a pair. For small production runs at least 500 pairs of lasts must be obtained, so expenditure on these alone amounts to £1,000.

At present only a limited range of elaborate styles of ladies' shoes are made locally, and as more designs are introduced in this range, an expenditure will become more complicated and elaborate.

Women in Kenya are behind the times in shoe-fashion, and research has shown that pointed toes are still more popular than the newer, rounded toe. I was shown the last of a shoe that had a slightly rounded toe, and the shoe produced from this had been proclaimed to be "not quite enough" by customers.

Again the designs are limited by public demand, and the shoe produced from this had been proclaimed to be "not quite enough" by customers.

Like clothes, shoes are being made from synthetic materials more and more. Women rarely expect their shoes to be made purely from leather nowadays.

In the same way that cotton or wool dresses usually contain a certain percentage of synthetic fibres.

The trend is a practical one as the new synthetic materials from which shoes are being made are easy to clean and do not wear as badly as leather.

Various types of PVC are used in the synthetic commonly used materials, but it was demonstrated to me just how different it could look when treated in different ways. A glossy or matt finish can be given the surface, or it can have a texture exactly like that of leather.

"The other advantage of this material is that the colour range is unlimited. Hence the brightly coloured shoes we see so often today, and, as the material is cheap, women can afford to have a pair of shoes to match every outfit. Shoe making is done by experienced staff trained in the company's technical training school at Limuru. I watched the work of a designer, Mr. Joseph Kamau, who also spent two years in London training as a designer at the Cordwainer College. He was perfecting a drawing of a woman's shoe which will soon be in production at the factory.

When it is decided that a certain style that has previously been imported by East Africa is to be manufactured locally, samples are made and tried out. When the shoes finally go into production, they are of course much cheaper than the original imported ones.

From the designer's table comes the pattern for the shoe, in its various sizes, and steel "cutters" are made.

In the main factory there is a buzz of activity and, from the cut-out pieces, the shoes go slowly down a rotating belt while they undergo all the various stages of sewing, being placed on a last, having a sole lined on, "stitching" up, being inspected and finally sent off to the shops.

There might be as many as 135 components in one shoe, I learned as I gradually began to get a new insight into the economics of shoe-making.

1 A shoe begins like this - from the wooden form. The form is bound with tape which is then drawn over by the designer in the shape of the shoe. This is then cut off and fastened over the pattern, and the work of drawing. Patterns for all the sizes are made in this way.

2 A designer, Mr. Joseph Kamau, works on a design for a lady's shoe. Beside him is a pullover on a wooden form from which the design is perfected. A knowledge of the available equipment and its limitations is necessary as well as artistic skill.

3 Metal cutters are made for all the sizes and sections of the shoe, and then used to begin on cutting up quantities of the leather or - as shown here - synthetic material. The pieces are then joined ready for the next stage in manufacture. (right)

4 Workers reinforce the heels with inner stitching, which will become hard and retain the shape of the heel. (left)

5 Wood lasts like this one are indispensable in shoe making, but expensive. Here, an assistant prepares inner soles.

HOW IT'S MADE—a new series by PENNY MOORE

Queen may leave the Palace

Queen Elizabeth may be contemplating a move from Buckingham Palace, the vast grey edifice of Portland stone, which for two centuries has been the traditional home of the British monarchy.

Recently it has become little more than a business office in which the Queen commutes each day from her country seat at Windsor.

This possibility, first rumoured six years ago, is currently being talked about by those close to the Royal Family.

Apparently, they believe that a firm decision could be made quite shortly, which would result in the Queen and her family eventually moving permanently to the recently modernised Windsor Castle, with its 13,000 acres of parkland forest.

Certainly, it is no secret that the Queen has never liked Buckingham Palace, but if she does move, it will be mainly because the many buildings, which are now tower on all sides over the Palace, have destroyed the last vestiges of privacy the Royal Family once enjoyed.

It was nearly six years ago that the first spoke to the then Prime Minister, Harold MacMillan, about the constitution problems involved in a move to Windsor - always her favourite home.

A plan was apparently formulated - and then, unaccountably, shelved.

This surprised many of their close friends who knew of the scheme. One said me: "The Queen and Prince Philip have often said they preferred Windsor's country-house atmosphere to Buckingham Palace."

"The Palace is too large, but, surprisingly enough, the apartments tend to be rather cramped and uncomfortable."

"The matter was raised apparently again two months ago, when the Queen was annoyed to learn that several magazines and newspapers, published on the Continent, contained many informal photographs of her family and their guests in the garden."

Photographic experts confirmed they had obviously been taken from one of the nearby skylark blocks.

"A panorama of one side of the Palace lawn and gardens is commanded from the posthouse restaurant of the 357-ft. Hill House in Park Lane.

The other side is completely overlooked by Portland House, 332 ft. high, and situated only half a mile from the Palace.

Other smaller buildings built in the last three years also give views of royal apartments, lawns and gardens.

Said the manager of the Hilton Hotel: "There are six tall buildings around Buckingham Palace which, in my opinion, could be used to take photographs."

"We forbid all photography from the roof unless it is supervised by the management. But, of course, we have no control over the picture guests might take from their bedrooms."

"It is a pity, but how many photographers, given the chance of getting informal shots of the Queen sitting on the lawn or picking flowers in her garden, would resist doing so?"

Ironically, the Earl of Snowdon, the Queen's brother-in-law, was recently refused permission to take photographs from the roof of one of the buildings.

He was told that photographers were banned when he asked if he could go to the roof. It stands up to take some unusual shots of Westminster Abbey.

Please get "the feel" of a Spotmatic

Try handling a new Asahi Pentax SPOTMATIC with gloves or mitts or Flea's 35mm camera that's compact and lightweight with a built-in through-the-lens light meter, and you'll be amazed at the ease of operating its functionally located controls.

The SPOTMATIC is a single-lens reflex camera you can actually view, focus, compose and also adjust for exposure—all through the taking lens. Behind the lens is an infallible CAS (Cadmium Sulfide) Exposure compensating system powered by a bottom-sized mercury battery. All you do is flip the light meter switch on, then align the needle in the pentaprism viewfinder. You're assured wonderful pictures because you get perfect exposures on every shot, for the meter reads only what the lens sees.

Now run your hand over the richly grained leather. Feel the satin-smooth chrome. Whether you're an ardent amateur or a seasoned professional, the Asahi Pentax SPOTMATIC will live up to everything you've ever wanted in a fine camera.

A SPOTMATIC costs more but you get what you pay for: the finest of cameras backed by Asahi Optical Company, pace-setter in the world of 35mm single-lens reflex photography.

Statistics that can't be denied

It is said that statistics can be made to read any way you want, but it would be extremely difficult to alter the hard facts which can be published about the various types of Boeing aircraft at present flying in Africa.

To many people Boeing crops up in their minds only in connection with the VC10, but there are 400 Boeing aircraft in operation with less than 100 VC10s.

To give some examples, the 707/720 type, of which 1,116 were built in 1958, are now in service with 23,300,000 and 174,000,000 hours flying. There are 72 Boeing 707/720s in operation, 623 of the 727 type and 114 of the smaller 737.

At one time there was a possibility that the BAC VC10 would have battled its way into the Boeing type and the success can be counted only in sales and performance record.

MACHAKOS COTTON INCOME DOUBLES

The district agriculture officer for Machakos, Eastern Province, Mr. J. M. Njomo, said in his Annual Report for 1967 that agricultural development there had made a first step forward during the year when cotton alone brought 449,107 as compared with 224,641 in 1967.

He said that from coffee the district exported fruit worth 15,700 and 13,887 tons of vegetables which brought in 248,928.

During the same period the district exported fruit worth 15,700 and 13,887 tons of vegetables which brought in 248,928.

Mr. Njomo said that the district borrowed 1,300,000 either by individual credit or through the Co-operative Societies.

He was addressing the first of a series of seminars to be conducted through Kenya. The seminar, which was held at Machakos, was attended by Co-operative Department staff and Co-operative Union officials from Nyanza and Western Provinces.

The purpose of the seminar was to find out ways of solving the financial problems of credit societies in the country.

Mr. Njomo said the need for credit for small-scale farmers in the rural areas was vital. Money lent had not been repaid because some Co-operative officials had not been making effective use of the money.

He claimed that some of the money was used without proper documentation.

Mr. Njomo said his department wanted to create a market for handling marketing of farm produce. He urged the people to work hard and make sure that the final product of the co-operatives was of high quality.

trial development. It was the Government's aim to develop all areas. The Government would also extend electricity to the villages and Malak township when finances permit.

A dispute has arisen over the alleged Kakamega District Kanu election at which the Minister for Health, Mr. Otieno, was elected.

Four branch officials who claim that the election was illegal said in a joint statement that they would carry on holding offices of the Kakamega branch of Kanu.

The four were the chairman, Mr. Seth Lugozzo, the secretary, Mr. Wilton Mutua, the organising secretary, Mr. James Onani, M.P., and the executive officer, Mr. Mark Udo.

This is a very cowardly and childish action by a class of workers who are power-hungry. They would never be elected wherever elections are held democratically.

"We wish to reassure the public that the holding of district elections is a constitutional duty of the public and will soon carry out in the district where a date for district elections will be announced."

The four said they were surprised that those who had carried out "a coup d'etat at the weekend" were at the State House discussions on Western Province problems at which the president of the party appealed for unity and appointed a commission of five members to resolve those problems amicably.

OMEGA

The Omega Constellation

Truly one of the finest watches that has ever come out of Switzerland. To be rated as a Chronometer, the Swiss Movement must undergo 250 hours of severe testing in a watch Institute for Official Chronometer Tests. Only movements that maintain high accuracy throughout all tests can be given a Chronometer Certificate. The Omega Constellation does better than that. It certifies as an "Especially Good Result" which is the highest commendation the Institute can give. Incidentally, Omega is now responsible for well over half of Switzerland's annual output of certified Chronometers.

HISTORY AND PROSPECTS

THE COMPANY was registered on September 21, 1968, with the sole aim of producing top-class Motion Pictures and to develop this industry in East Africa. The possibilities of establishing this industry in East Africa have been fully explored and there are tremendous chances for considerable profits in the form of profits. Millions of shillings are being made by East Africans to use and buy foreign-made films for entertainment, which is a drain on the Foreign Exchange Reserves. A class of locally produced entertainment East Africans, but will also retain exchange value. Millions of films in the international market are being made each year, weather and local talents are gifts for East Africa and other countries in quality elsewhere in the world. If all countries could produce top-class Motion Picture Productions, and the natural gifts of Kenya and other East African countries are properly used, East Africa can become one of the major picture producers in the world. This fact can be substantiated by foreigners who have used our countries to produce films here and sold the same to us. An opportunity exists for us to use our own natural resources for the benefits of our countries and people in general.

The incorporation of foreign-made films in large numbers, the interest in this field of entertainment and the construction of modern and luxurious cinemas is a clear indication that this is a very profitable and most useful industry. Surveys show that the majority of the films produced and exhibited have brought in tremendous amount of profits and that the cinema-going public will not reject this form of entertainment.

The Company's aims are to produce at least three, if not more, films annually in Kiswahili, English and Hindi/Urdu apart from dubbing into other languages, to cater for the multiple people of this country primarily.

PROGRESS OF THE COMPANY

PROGRESS has been the keyword of the Company's Arrangements are well at hand to launch the Company's first production entitled 'BEENA' (Bahati in Kiswahili) very shortly. Location, Music, Scripting, Casting, Technicians have been selected. The Script has been blueprinted and it only needs the shooting to complete it. It should take about 45 days to complete. Arrangements have been made with laboratories to handle the film at top priority rating so as to enable us to complete and release the film within three months after the commencement of the production. The Company is also working on the script of three other films which should be released in the next year.

All the Company's productions will be in COLOUR and TECHNICAL SCOPE (wide screen), so as to present Kenya and the other East African countries and its people in true colours in accordance with the wishes of the East African Governments, the preference for training of Artists and Technicians will be given to the Citizens of Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda.

STAFF

MR. ABDUL LATIF RAMESH has been appointed as Managing Director. He is a Film Producer, Director and Film Artist, having gained considerable experience in this industry in Bombay, where he spent 20 years learning all aspects of the industry. His successful films include JADOO, DIL, PUKAR, SAVITRI, SARONJI, DEVANA, CHAGHA CHOWDARY and many others.

HON. DR. MUNYUA WAIYAKI, M.P. is appointed Director. He is a medical practitioner and Member of Parliament for Mathara Constituency, Kenya.

MR. ITIKHAR AHAMED MEHAR is nominated as Secretary. He is one of the most able and experienced Cinematographers in Kenya.

MR. AUGUSTINO NYAKUNDI is appointed as Director. He is a very versatile person with considerable acting experience and appears regularly as an actor on local produced Television shows in Kenya.

OTHER STAFF will be recruited as required. Terms and conditions of employment (include surerties signed by the references of all the applicants, whether Artist, Technician or otherwise, whereby all the people engaged in any productions of the Company will be obliged to complete their contracted obligations with the Company. This has been found necessary to safeguard the investors' money and to complete all the productions undertaken without stoppage.

PREMISES

THE COMPANY'S offices are in Mulji Jetha Mansion, Latema Road, Nairobi, and the Studios are situated at Shoreditch Road, Nairobi. These premises have been rented on a month to month tenancy of Shs. 100/- per month. It is the intention of the Company, later on to build a Studio, Office, Laboratory, Theatres and Music Halls on suitable land in or near the City, preferably adjacent to each other or on the same piece of land. Similar projects may also be built in Tanzania and Uganda.

SHARES

The rights attached to the respective classes of Shares are:-

- THE MANAGEMENT "A" Shares are excluded from participation in the profits of the Company, available for dividend and determined to be distributed and, in a winding up, rank "pari passu" with Ordinary Shares as regards return of Capital, paid up or credited as paid up, thereon but do not entitle the holders of the Management "A" Shares to any surplus assets.

THE ORDINARY SHARES rank "pari passu" in all respects as regards participation in the profits of the Company in issue and dividends and determined to be distributed and, in a winding up, as regards participation in the surplus assets remaining after paying all liabilities and ratably according to the amount paid up or credited as paid up thereon.

VOTING

(b) The holders of Management "A" Shares are collectively entitled to as many votes as the holders of all the other shares in issue and determined to be distributed and, in a winding up, rank "pari passu" with Ordinary Shares. On a show of hands every member present in person or by proxy shall have one vote and on a poll every person entitled to vote shall have one vote and on a poll every member present in person or by proxy shall have one vote in respect of which he is the holder and entitled to vote.

VARIATION OF RIGHTS

The Company's Articles provide that the rights attached to any class of shares may be varied or abrogated with the consent, in writing, of the holders of three-fourths of the issued Shares of the class or with the sanction of a Special Resolution passed at a separate meeting of the holders of the class at which the necessary quorum shall be two persons at least, holding or representing by proxy one-third in nominal amount of the issued shares of the class (but so that at any adjourned meeting those members shall be a quorum).

It will be seen from the foregoing that the Management "A" Shares carry all the controlling rights. The object is to protect the Company against control passing to any of the competitors and the control should remain in the hands of the Shareholders. The Management "A" Shares have been acquired and will be held by the Original Subscribers and three others, who have agreed that the Directors will have a first refusal of these, in the event of either holders wishing to sell their shares.

In view of the voting control conferred on the Management "A" Shares it will be necessary, under the provisions of Sec.37(3) of the East African Income Tax (Management) Act, 1958, for dealings in Ordinary Shares between members of the public to take place each year, in order to avoid the Company being classified as a controlled Company. It is anticipated that such dealings will take place.

BORROWING POWER

THE BOARD, on behalf of the Company, may exercise all the powers of the Company to borrow money and to mortgage or any part thereof and to issue debentures or other securities.

PRELIMINARY EXPENSES

Preliminary expenses amounting to Shs. 9,000/- have been contributed by MR. ABDUL LATIF RAMESH. The said amount will be repayable to MR. RAMESH at the time of determining the dividends to be distributed after the start of the Company's first production. The preliminary expenses have been spent in the following manner:-

On a show of hands every member present in person and entitled to vote shall have one vote and on a poll every member present in person or by proxy shall have one vote in respect of which he is the holder and entitled to vote.

VARIATION OF RIGHTS

THE COMPANY'S Articles provide that the rights attached to any class of shares may be varied or abrogated with the consent in writing of the holders of three-fourths of the issued shares of the class or with the sanction of a Special Resolution passed at a general meeting of the holders of the class at which the necessary quorum shall be two persons at least, holding or representing at least one-third in nominal amount of the issued shares of the class so that at any adjourned meeting those members shall be a quorum.

It will be seen from the foregoing that the Management "A" Shares carry all the controlling rights. The object is to protect the Company against control passing to any of the competitors and the control shall remain in the hands of the Shareholders. The Management "A" Shares have been acquired and will be held by the Original Subscribers and three others, who have agreed that the Directors will have a first refusal of these, in the event of either holders wishing to sell their shares.

In view of the voting control conferred on the Management "A" Shares it will be necessary, under the provisions of Sec. 7(1) of the East African Income Tax (Management) Act, 1958, for dealings in Ordinary Shares between members of the public to take place each in order to avoid the Company being classified as a controlled company. It is anticipated that such dealings will take place.

BORROWING POWER

THE BOARD on behalf of the Company, may exercise all the powers of the Company to borrow money and to mortgage or charge its undertaking, property or uncalled or unpaid Capital or any part thereof and to issue debentures or other securities.

PRELIMINARY EXPENSES

Standard Correspondent

Annual meeting of the Mombasa Football Association District Football Association was held on Sunday in the new Nairobi Football Stadium. The meeting was held to discuss the association's action in the coming year.

Those who attended the meeting were: M.D.F.A.— Messrs. Mbaraki Said, A. O. Chacha, and O. H. Sarai, Mohamed Karim, Issa Yakub, Mvinyikhamisi and Alidjaji Abbas; N.F.F.A.— Messrs. F. W. Mwachui, Alfred Olimba, Jaban Akulu, Solomon Ory, J. Shikanga, We Miguda and P. J. Ochola.

It was suggested that the match be arranged between Mombasa and Nairobi to be played at the Nairobi Stadium.

Mombasa fans should see some good football during this week at the Mombasa Stadium. Today Ramogi take on Champaign in the semi-finals. Champaign beat Feisal in the semi-finals. Both teams will be allowed to play "ghost" players.

On Friday Hungary will meet Feisal or Burnley in the semi-finals. On Saturday Dundee "AV" meet Ramogi in the M.D.F.A. Division I Knock-out Cup competition (B.A.T. Cup). Dundee play some good football and beat Burnley 3-2 in the semi-finals.

Mr. R. Cooper of B.A.T. Nairobi will be the guest of honour. The M.D.F.A. has asked the character committee to postpone a K.N.F.L. match on Saturday.

The M.D.F.A. has asked the character committee to postpone a K.N.F.L. match on Saturday. On Monday Burnley beat Feisal by 2-1 in the Jamhuri Cup quarter-final at the Mombasa Stadium after leading 1-0 at half-time.

Burnley, with several good players, deserved to win although Feisal had their chances, especially in the first half. Burnley had a very strong defence with Hassan Omar, Ahmed Breik, and Riziki always in the picture. Breik was the man of the match.

Feisal took the lead after 15 minutes through Mwinyi who is playing for West Ham in league matches. A few minutes later Feisal had a chance to increase their lead but they were unlucky.

In the second half Burnley attacked strongly and equalised after ten minutes when Riziki found the net with a good shot. Five minutes later Balfain made it 2-1 for Burnley.

Race riding not a woman's sport

By Henry Carr

William Shakespeare says that the difference between driving a car and a power boat is that the former resembles an archaic of vehicles while the latter reminds him of riding a rock. By the way, this is the other William Shakespeare — the one who builds power racing boats for the Boat Year Ten Festival, in Gloucestershire.

David Hooper-Lewis of Mwanza Marina; Peter Abjink, Alec Macpherson, Sven Kristiansen, all use fast boats and are a delight to watch. I should think it another year some of the world drivers will give the man a good drive. Although most women are naturally enough, based upon the race begins, each only lasts for the start; after turning the first buoy they drive with a precision good to see.

I have often wondered how the B.B.C. commentators can describe accurately a horse race of a football match, naming at speed each rider and horse or each player. I now know. They must be thoroughly familiar with every animal and man. I was pleased to find that in describing the race over the address system I, too, knew every boat and driver, horse power and make of the motor.

I was also pleased that I could visualise the final line-up of the boat race as late as noon and the boats drew nearer to one another for the finish.

Before a race I always ponder why the earth I became involved in the sport. After the meeting on Sunday, and while we were drinking from the cup won by David Hooper-Lewis, with everyone laughing while they sipped off the champagne, I thought why I had become involved in the sport.

Over and again my boat, Judy J1, buried her nose as she ran down the river, a chop sending the spray high and wide. The water was as flat as could be, but the chop forward was sharp and a thrashing when we ran at 25 knots through Nyirabridge and round the snaky waterway to the Mombasa Water Sports Club. There a most capable man named Sam Lion took over the boats and powered them. Running time to Mombasa had been 45 minutes.

One of the thoughts that came into my mind as we voyaged along was that this run, from Mwanza to Mombasa and back, would make an ideal curtain-raiser for the Offshoot Eighty that my club intends to arrange for the change of the monsoon next November. The big race will start at Mwanza with the first leg to Mombasa; from there to Kilifi with a return to Mwanza, a distance of 80 miles.

I was thinking that intending competitors might like a taste of what they are in for by traversing the shorter course as a sort of mini-offshore contest about Easter. It would be anybody's race; a boat that could pound through the chop would have a better chance than perhaps one of these sleek craft that under normal conditions touch 50 knots.

The reason for the Mombasa excursion was that on Sunday morning the Mtwapa Power Boat Association was to show the people of Mombasa just what power boat racing looks like. I must say I had the usual butterflies before the event started. A dozen of us who had the usual butterflies before the event started. A dozen of us who had the usual butterflies before the event started.

Orinella won the 1969 Uhuru international-style rowing competition when they beat the favourites, Japan, 3-1 (15-4, 4-15, 15-11, 15-0) in an exciting final at the Nairobi Siba Union ground on Sunday. Pictured above are members of the team after receiving the cup from the former president of the now defunct F.A. of Kenya, Mr. John Kenyatta, who was guest of honour at the match. # Prizes halved in Kaiser Open Incumbent main title which turned the Silverado Country Club course into a quagmire forced a cancellation of the last two rounds in the $15,000 (about £5,000) Kaiser Open golf tournament.

Under Professional Golfers' Association regulations, half the listed prize money will be distributed to the leaders after two rounds. Miller Barber of Texas, with 68-67-135, earns a first prize of $13,500 (about £5,500). Australia's Bruce Devlin (69-67-136) gets $7,000 (about £3,200) for second and Arnold Palmer (69-68-137) $4,780 (about £1,990) for third. — Reuter

EARLY DATE FOR 1970 CUP FINAL

The British Football Association Cup final will be held on April 11, instead of the usual date for the English Cup final has been played for more than 80 years.

The home international tournament will run from April 18 to April 25, 1970. This will enable players selected for Mexico to have a short break with their families before they fly out on May 2 or May 3.

TEST CRICKET

West Indies bounce back to vial fourth cricket Test with a vengeance as they announced a new line-up for their second innings in Adelaide yesterday.

Determined West Indies bowlers turned a first innings deficit of 257 into a formidable lead of 357 runs with one day's play left. They still faced an uphill task when they resumed yesterday morning at 20 for three until a brilliant century by Basil Doolander turned the tide.

They were fighting desperately to keep the Test series alive and it was the first time since their surprise win in the opening Test in Perth when they made their opponents aware where the form that since made them world champions lay.

MORE SPORT IN PAGE 9

The West Indies must save the Adelaide Test as they are already 2-1 down with only one remaining. After their meagre first innings of 276 compared with the Australians' mammoth score of 533, the West Indies have been happy to force a draw. Now they are in sight of a memorable win.

Their former hopes of victory were raised by the all-rounders David Holford batting on number eight to make an invaluable contribution. Just when the Australians looked like taking charge again after tea, Holford and the wicketkeeper, Clive Lloyd, bowled them with a stinging line of bowling which raised 133 previous runs. Lloyd, important to them, hit the West Indies to their highest single innings score ever 118 against Australia, surpassing the 113 record established in Barbados in 1955.

Holford for once outscored his famous cousin Gary Sobers, who was not exactly decorated with a Test line-up after sitting out the last two, was dismissed on the 51st ball of the day leaving Hendricks 36 not out.

Holford had batted for 171 minutes and ended a riveting ninth wicket partnership with the Australian batsman, Ian Meckell, who had been bettered by the 107-run stand between the Australian, Ken Aldrich, and the West Indies' Murray. Murray, who had scored 20 runs from 33 overs but claimed five prize wickets, was bowled by Roy Fredericks and Joey Carner, Rohan Kanhai, Sobers, and Lloyd.

Murray (55) were the chief contributors as M.C.C. raced to 20 for 1 in the first 10 minutes. Lloyd and Pat Pocock, helped M.C.C. to 55 in the last five minutes of the innings.

The Central Province team lost 10 wickets in the first 20 overs for 64 for five after 23 overs.

And smiling down, the Peugeot 201 of W. Verwey, Member of Motor Club, finished the Ford Anglia of P. Deen in Sunday's at the Tangila Circuit.

MOTOR SPORT

Fast times at the Tangila Circuit

Standard Correspondent Abdul Hanif, one of Mombasa's ace track drivers, proved his superiority when he won three laps and turned in the fastest time of the day at Mombasa Motor Club's motor and cycle races at the Tangila Circuit on Sunday.

Driving an Alfa Romeo 1600, Mr. Barnhill surprised many of the club members with his terrific speed and covered the 13 miles earth track in 1 min. 25 sec. He broke last year's record by 6 sec.

W. D. de Gairs, who travelled from Nairobi, won both motor and cycle events. He entered and also turned in the fastest time of the day on his C.Z. 250. Driving all great speed he covered the course in 52 sec.

The track was described by a Nairobi participant as one of the best in Kenya. He found it to be very wide, with plenty of corners.

Mrs. H. Barnhill, the 15-year-old woman participant, after 15 min. Driving a Ford 1600 GT second, was the only woman to finish the 1969 Usambara Rally, Shikhandi being a total of 34 points and the Ulaye 81 points.

A freak storm over the Usambara Mountains just before the rally passed through turned the road from Marapo to Malindi into a sea of mud, and partially washed-away bridges, resulting in the retirement of six of the cars still running at the time with the exception of the two finishers.

The rally, organised by the Tangia Motor Club and run on Saturday and Sunday last, attracted entries from Dar es Salaam, Moshi and Tangia starting from Tangia, the route took competitors via three fast and very dusty sections to Korogwe.

Here competitors were above the road level and had to cover many miles at virtually no visibility. After passing through Ambungulu, Baidangi and some 30 miles after passing through Marapo, at this point the faster cars had forced their way to the front of the field in the following order: Shikhandi, Ulaye, Peugeot, Steel Hansard and Cooper/Drysdale.

After leaving the Usambara the route went via Mikomari and along the old road to Samba, back along the new road to Korogwe and via Mbeza and Pangani to Tanga. After leaving Mikomari a half-mile river, headlight deep, flowing out of the mountains and across the road, had to be negotiated. It was halfway through this river that Shikhandi caught and passed Ulaye who, starting in the No. 1 position, was still first on the road. The two cars had a brief test-rally to engage in a speed-battle. Arriving at the finish, the mud-covered road was being beset by many hundreds of enthusiastic spectators who had gathered to start the rally the night before.

The Californian, George Archer, played safe at the 10th to win the 15000 dollar (680,500) Hong Kong Pro-Am golf tournament by one stroke over the runner-up, Bob Dickson, whose partner, Mike Taylor, was also in the round. Archer carded a 71 to give him a 72-hole total of 283. On the last few holes he was tied with Johnson, but he moved ahead at the short 17th when his rival needed a chip and two putts after his shot was short. Taylor's 72 woods, an iron to within 12 yards of the hole and two putts at the 18th gave him the 68 and 282 (181,426).

Everton, losing finalists last year, were installed 'champions' at the 1965 English Football Association Cup at the Victoria Cup 'wall-to-wall' at Everton. 6-1 Liverpool, 7-1 Arsenal, 15-2 Chelsea, 8-1 Tottenham Hotspur, 2-1 West Ham United, 11-1 Manchester United, 1-1 Manchester City, 1-1 Sheffield Wednesday and West Bromwich Albion, 3-1 Newcastle United, 1-1 Leicester City, 100-1 others.

With a devastating finish, Britain's Mike Tang won the 14th international 'San Sebastien' Open.

Standard Correspondent Bert Shankland and Brian Barton in a Peugeot 404 (second) and first and Robin Ulaye and Tony Peacock in a Ford 1600 GT second, were the only finishers in a 1969 Usambara Rally, Shikhandi being a total of 34 points and the Ulaye 81 points.

With a devastating finish, Britain's Mike Tang won the 14th international 'San Sebastien' Open.

Standard Correspondent Bert Shankland and Brian Barton in a Peugeot 404 (second) and first and Robin Ulaye and Tony Peacock in a Ford 1600 GT second, were the only finishers in a 1969 Usambara Rally, Shikhandi being a total of 34 points and the Ulaye 81 points.

A freak storm over the Usambara Mountains just before the rally passed through turned the road from Marapo to Malindi into a sea of mud, and partially washed-away bridges, resulting in the retirement of six of the cars still running at the time with the exception of the two finishers.

The rally, organised by the Tangia Motor Club and run on Saturday and Sunday last, attracted entries from Dar es Salaam, Moshi and Tangia starting from Tangia, the route took competitors via three fast and very dusty sections to Korogwe.

Here competitors were above the road level and had to cover many miles at virtually no visibility. After passing through Ambungulu, Baidangi and some 30 miles after passing through Marapo, at this point the faster cars had forced their way to the front of the field in the following order: Shikhandi, Ulaye, Peugeot, Steel Hansard and Cooper/Drysdale.

After leaving the Usambara the route went via Mikomari and along the old road to Samba, back along the new road to Korogwe and via Mbeza and Pangani to Tanga. After leaving Mikomari a half-mile river, headlight deep, flowing out of the mountains and across the road, had to be negotiated. It was halfway through this river that Shikhandi caught and passed Ulaye who, starting in the No. 1 position, was still first on the road. The two cars had a brief test-rally to engage in a speed-battle. Arriving at the finish, the mud-covered road was being beset by many hundreds of enthusiastic spectators who had gathered to start the rally the night before.

M.C.C. BATSMEN AGGRESSIVE

The M.C.C. cricketers beat the Central Province cricket team at the Kenyan Association XI by 61 runs in a five-day 50-over match at Kisumu yesterday. Murray, aided by Rohan Kanhai and Pat Pocock, helped M.C.C. to 55 in the last five minutes of the innings.

The Central Province team lost 10 wickets in the first 20 overs for 64 for five after 23 overs.

Murray (55) were the chief contributors as M.C.C. raced to 20 for 1 in the first 10 minutes. Lloyd and Pat Pocock, helped M.C.C. to 55 in the last five minutes of the innings.

WORLD SPORT IN BRIEF

Australians completed a clean sweep of the major titles when the Best Australian Open tennis tournament ended at the Milton Courts, Brisbane. The Wimbledon champion, Rod Laver, took 95 minutes to beat the Spanish professional, Andres Gimeno, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5 in a dull men's singles final. In the women's doubles final the Australian Mrs. Margaret Court and Miss Judy Tegart scored a straight sets 6-4, 6-4 win over Mrs. Billie Jean King and Miss Rosemary Casals, both of America. They have had Roy Emerson beat fellow professional Ken Rosewall and Fred Stolle in an all-Australian men's doubles final, cut from the best of three because of failing light, 6-4, 6-4. The light failed the abandonment of the mixed doubles final.

Everton, losing finalists last year, were installed 'champions' at the 1965 English Football Association Cup at the Victoria Cup 'wall-to-wall' at Everton. 6-1 Liverpool, 7-1 Arsenal, 15-2 Chelsea, 8-1 Tottenham Hotspur, 2-1 West Ham United, 11-1 Manchester United, 1-1 Manchester City, 1-1 Sheffield Wednesday and West Bromwich Albion, 3-1 Newcastle United, 1-1 Leicester City, 100-1 others.

The Californian, George Archer, played safe at the 10th to win the 15000 dollar (680,500) Hong Kong Pro-Am golf tournament by one stroke over the runner-up, Bob Dickson, whose partner, Mike Taylor, was also in the round. Archer carded a 71 to give him a 72-hole total of 283. On the last few holes he was tied with Johnson, but he moved ahead at the short 17th when his rival needed a chip and two putts after his shot was short. Taylor's 72 woods, an iron to within 12 yards of the hole and two putts at the 18th gave him the 68 and 282 (181,426).

Final stages of Kenya Cup hockey postponed

Standard Staff Reporter The semifinals and final of the Kenya Cup hockey competition have been postponed from this weekend to February 8 and 9 because of the Kenya International tour of Wadhwa and Nyazara Provinces on Saturday and Sunday.

On February 8 at the Nairobi City Park Stadium the semifinal line-up will be Goin Institute, Nairobi, v Railway Gymkhana and Sikh Union, Nairobi v Railway Institute, Nairobi.

Goin Institute, Nairobi, beat their counterparts from Kisumu at Kisumu on Sunday 2-0 in a quarter-final match. Railway Gymkhana defeated Nyett Township 2-0 in a quarter-final match. Goin (C), Hardev (D), Santok, Resham and Barjinder scored. The other quarter-final scheduled for last weekend between Sikh Union, Nairobi, and Sikh Union, Kisumu, at Kisumu ended in a walk-over for the Nairobi team, who are favourites to win the Cup. The fixtures secretary of the Kenya Hockey Union, Mr. Hyslop, said yesterday: 'I received a call from Kisumu on Saturday morning from Sikh Union saying they could not race a team for the game. I do not know why.'

AFRICA CUP DATE STILL IN DOUBT

The delay by the Football Association of Tanzania to reply to a letter from the Kenya Football Association Committee with regard to the first leg match of the Africa Cup, which is to be played in Nairobi, was originally scheduled for February 20, has been postponed until February 16 after Tanzania had failed to write back and confirm the match.

Two weeks ago the full-time executive officer of the Kenya Football Association, Mr. James Tripp, sent a letter to the F.A. of Tanzania asking it to confirm his new date.

To date no answer has been received from Tanzania and Mr. Tripp has decided to send a reminder this week 'if I must send a reminder this week it will be Kenya on February 16 so that we know where we stand as far as the future is concerned.' He said.
