Practical Closer Union in East Africa.

SECRETARY OF STATE'S ADVICE.

Not to Worry Over Political Aspect.

TRIBUTE TO REPORT OF KENYA LAND COMMISSION.

During the course of a speech at the East African Dinner held in London on Wednesday, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, the Secretary for the Colonies, reviewed a number of East African problems.

He stated emphatically that no British Government would ever surrender the Tanganyika Mandate which was a trust. Residents of Tanganyika might, he added, count on this as a fixed certainty.

The report of the Kenya Land Commission was described by Sir Philip as a definite solution of a difficult problem, and he paid a tribute to the members of the Commission.

He urged East Africans not to worry about the political aspect of closer union, but to work for practical day to day co-operation. He considered that the Governors' Conference should be treated as a continuous session.

Dealing with mining developments he indicated the suggestion made in Britain that the natives of the areas concerned were suspicious.

The Tanganyika Mandate.

Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, speaking at the East African Dinner... He declared that officers on the spot and officials of companies had every thing to say regarding the demarcation of native reserves and even boundaries. He found from personal observations that there was extraordinary little disturbance of native reserves.

Land Commission.

Sir P. Cunliffe-Lister dealt at length with the Kenya Land Commission report, which he extolled as a definite solution of a difficult question, and especially praised the recommendations permitting the interpenetration of tribes on the basis of an important principle of economic development, and also the Commission's recognition that local conditions were not static.

Referring to mining developments, he emphasized that the Governors' Conference should be treated as a continuous session, working out problems between formal conference and ad hoc political aspect, but to work for practical day to day co-operation in the three territories, making closer union a living reality.

ENGLAND'S WEATHER.

Restricted Water Supply Possible.

Only considerable showers broke the long sunny period yesterday in South-Eastern England, and although under the influence of general troughs of the prolonged drought. The Metropolitan Water Board announced last night that unless there is a very considerable increase in water consumption in the London area within the next few days, compulsory restrictions will be imposed. THE COUNCIL ELECTIONS.

Lady Delamere's Big Majority.

In Parklands Ward.

MR. G. GWINNET BOMPAS RETAINS MUTHAIGA.

Although the polling was not heavy, less interest was evinced in the contests at Parklands and Muthaiga yesterday than in the respective candidates for these two ward seats on the Municipal Council of Nairobi. In each case the seat was defended by the sitting councillor.

The Acting Town Clerk, Mr. W. Hildout, who officiated as Returning Officer, announced that Parklands result in the Council (Class C) Government Ward, at 6.24 p.m., ten minutes after the counting had commenced. The Muthaiga result was received at 6.30 p.m. The results, which were received with applause, are as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Candidate Name and Votes. Includes G. Gwinnet Bompas (98), M. G. Henderson (43), and M. H. Hamlyn (43).

There was one split paper, Mr. G. Gwinnet Bompas 98, M. G. Henderson 43, M. H. Hamlyn 43.

There was one split paper, Mr. G. Gwinnet Bompas 98, M. G. Henderson 43, M. H. Hamlyn 43.

This is the first municipal election to have been held in the Muthaiga Ward, the Deputy-Mayor, Councillor Bonipas, having been returned on the previous, and first, occasion on which nominations were received for that seat.

The last election in the Parklands Ward was held in August 1932, and was contested by the present Mayor, Councillor J. Mortimer, and Mayor the Hon. F. W. Cavendish Blythe.

In 1932, Mr. Newark was elected by a narrow majority of 15 votes to fill a vacancy in the Muthaiga Ward on the Municipal Council of Nairobi.

Referring to mining developments, he emphasized that the Governors' Conference should be treated as a continuous session, working out problems between formal conference and ad hoc political aspect, but to work for practical day to day co-operation in the three territories, making closer union a living reality.

Shipping Disaster Off Norwegian Coast.

GERMAN LUXURY LINER STRIKES ROCK.

Hull Ripped Open.

BRITISH BATTLESHIP ASSISTS IN RESCUE OF PASSENGERS.

A German luxury liner which was enroute off the Norwegian coast, with 1,000 holiday-makers on board, met with disaster when the ship struck a submerged rock in a fjord, north of Stavanger. The bottom of the hull was ripped open.

The captain managed to beach the liner before launching the lifeboats. Most of the passengers and crew were rescued, and only four women were drowned and 12 persons were injured.

The British battleship "Rodney" assisted in the rescue work, and took off those people who remained on board.

Agriculture in the Fascist State.

PLANNING FOR ITS OWN PROSPERITY.

The Moseley Ideal.

CO-OPERATION BETWEEN PRODUCERS AND THE CONSUMING PUBLIC.

Sir Oswald Moseley and his Fascist followers are preaching in Britain the ideal of a Corporate State on the Italian model, by which is meant a constitution composed of "Corporations" representing all interests in each industry, business and profession.

Every "Corporation" will be responsible for the planning of the progress of its own industry and all would be represented in the central body, the whole being controlled and directed by a strong Central Executive akin to a one-party dictatorship.

The same suggestion as a solution of Kenya political problems was set out in detail some time ago by Sir Edward Grigg who is opposed to the conception of self-government in Kenya as visualized by the adoption of the British political model in East Africa.

The following article, taken from a British Fascist propaganda newspaper, deals with the "Corporation" of greatest interest to Kenya—agriculture, and indicates broadly its construction and purpose.

Controlled Production.

Increasing interest is being shown in Kenya by the Fascist movement in Britain. The political and economic basis of the Fascist movement is a "Corporate State" on the model of the Italian model. The Fascist movement in Kenya is being led by Sir Edward Grigg. The Fascist movement in Kenya is based on the principle of controlled production. The Fascist movement in Kenya is based on the principle of controlled production. The Fascist movement in Kenya is based on the principle of controlled production.

The writer states, inter alia: "There are 500,000 people at present employed in agriculture on the land, but under Fascist government at least 1,000,000 would be employed in agriculture. The Agricultural Corporation will therefore be one of the most important institutions in the National Corporation."

A National Plan. Agriculture is actually more important than any other industry today, and to the very nature of the work, and the traditional methods of production, are such that the organization of agriculture is a task of the highest importance. The Fascist movement in Kenya is based on the principle of controlled production. The Fascist movement in Kenya is based on the principle of controlled production.

recorded, and Mr. Horn has become the youngest of those for safaris.

Communications. Roads, as we know them, were but native tracks, but Mr. Horn looks upon the construction of the railway branch line from Nairobi to Nanyuki as one of the most important events in his career. It began with the building of the "tram-line" to Thika during Sir Percy Girouard's régime as Governor, which was subsequently continued to Nyert, thence to Nanyuki, and eventually to Nanyuki. This line did more than anything else to open up the richest part of the Kenya country, opening up markets for the produce of natives and settlers alike; in fact, it constituted the main artery in the Makindu district. Prior means of communication when travelling by road had included the cattle way over the Thika River, and native boats with crews of the ablest, but with the exception of one bridge across the Mathyas.

European settlement was very sparse in those days. One of the regions far to the Northward was the Mt. Kenia, now known as Mt. Kenia, while at Kyanba the settlers could be counted on one hand. Mr. Horn went down to the Mau Forest to take charge about 1922. He was engaged in a particularly anxious time, for following upon the war the Mau Forest was a common pasture. However, with his arrival the various organizations were broken up and quiet restored. Mr. Horn was also sent to the coast for a short while with the view of opening a station at Mombasa. This idea had to be abandoned owing to shortage of water near the M.P.F.

In the M.P.F.

An exciting episode in his administrative career was the Aulhaia expedition. This district embraced Somali—now in Italian Somaliland—Wajir, etc., in the Northern Frontier Province, and in 1916 the Somali living in the Lorian Swamp area made a big raid into the Saburi and Murr country. They carried off a number of women, cattle, and so on, doing a great deal of damage, and bringing about a general rising. So disturbed did the whole district become that there was a possibility of the Province being evacuated entirely. However, Mr. Horn took up a punitive expedition of R.A.F. and police, and Somali and Wajir were required from the rebels. In the fighting, Mr. Elliott of the Police was chased back, and the stolen women recovered. Mr. Horn played an important part in restoring the peaceful administration of this country.

For his services generally in assisting to develop Kenya as a whole, Mr. Horn was honoured by His Majesty the King in the last Birthday Honours, when he was received as a Knight G.C.M.G. Mr. Horn hopes to return to Kenya in about a year's time, and he will be welcomed as forming a valuable addition to the community.

FILM CENSORSHIP IN ENGLAND.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke Disappointed. THE HANGING JUDGE. An Increasing Demand for British Pictures.

STANDARD CORRESPONDENT. London, June 12. (By A. M. M.) Sir Cedric Hardwicke has been cast for the part of Judge Jeffries in the proposed British film, "The Hanging Judge," which the Film Censor has just passed. It is significant that the production was abandoned, and Sir Cedric disappointed. Of the judge, he said: "The judge was a man of letters." He was an expert in the law. No film censor has ever refused to take the production of British pictures at any period will be passed." Sir Cedric said, "I was very keen to play the part of Judge Jeffries, and I am intensely disappointed that the attitude of the film censor has made it impossible for me to do so. I understand that objection can be taken to the screening of films which are already recorded in history books. I should have thought that a film suitably adapted to the life of this notorious judge would have been in the interests of justice. It would have shown the great strides which have been made in the administration of justice since the time of Judge Jeffries. There would have been no occasion to distort any of the recorded facts. The life of the judge is a perfect screen story. It is difficult to follow the course of the film censor."

An official of the British and Dominion Film Company, who was protesting the film said: "I think that it is a character of performance. The Censor has no objection to a character of 'Frankenstein' and 'King Kong'—but as soon as a British company proposes to show an historical matter, instead of a fictional one, objections tend to multiply. The film was to have cost £50,000 and Mr. Jack Raymond would have been the director."

One of London's most famous cinemas, the New Gallery, became an "all-British" theatre on the stage with the presentation of Jesus Mathews' latest film, "Evergreen." "The drama of British pictures is so great that I have decided to put on at the New Gallery only films made in this country," said Mr. Arthur W. Jarrett, who is in control of the programme of the 500 cinemas of the Gunpowder Trust. "BANNERS IN AFRICA." A Record of Salvation Army Work.

At the small cost of one shilling Mr. Arthur Coppington, in the discharge of a commission, will visit every part of Africa in the cause of the Salvation Army. "Banners in Africa" (Hodder and Stoughton, Ltd., London) is not only interesting. It is also revealing. In a brightly written, less caught mood of the atmosphere and colour of the times and is entertaining well as informative.

It tells the story, with infectious enthusiasm, of the progress of the work of the Salvation Army in East, South, East, and Central Africa. Mr. Coppington had the special advantage of accompanying General Higgins on his tour of the Union. General Simms made a notable speech when they met. He said that what had always struck him about the Army was its human touch. It was not a high-sounding organization.

"The black races of the world," General Simms said, "have to discover that the religion which saves whites so far from being alien to the black races every thing to them. We for our part need to realize that in dealing with this profound and hitherto insoluble problem of black and white, we have only one thing to go by and that is Christian fair play, honest dealing, pity, mercy and the helping hand. Those fundamental Christian principles to my mind are the only key for solving the native question in Africa and that key is going to be put in the door by this mighty organization."

Mr. Coppington is a happy-hearted traveller and he found everywhere stories (which he tells well) of how isolated African groups and individuals are holding aloft the banner of the Army in Africa. His tour includes Kenya. The book is obtainable through the E. A. Standard Stationery Store, Nairobi, G. K.

run—or as long as the public wants them!" "Evergreen" is an elaborate musical comedy-romance based on the stage play, in which Miss Matthews appeared. As the young girl who impersonates her dead mother in order to become famous she scores a true triumph, and she has been contracted to exploit all her talents and give her the best across parts she has had.

Particularly delightful are the scenes in which she dances, Betty Balfour makes a most successful return to the screen in "Evergreen," and important parts are taken by Bonnie Egan and Barry Mackay. The film as a whole is the most ambitious musical picture yet produced in this country. Victor Saville directed most efficiently.

WHIPSADE 200. TRAGEDY.

the zoo. It was his last day of duty, for he had intended leaving the zoo the following day to take up another occupation. Only two or three people saw this incredible tragedy, but so far as can be gathered from their description of it Stenson climbed over a low rail, dug which guards a 20 ft. drop into the lions' concrete-lined feeding place.

Eye-Witness Story.

An eye-witness gave the following account of the tragedy:— "Stenson had jumped over the railings, which are about four feet high, and then to reach the spot where the lion lay he had to climb along to the point where it was just raised and is guarded by a railing.

"It was just as Stenson thrust his left arm through the small railing, which are about four feet high, and then to reach the spot where the lion lay he had to climb along to the point where it was just raised and is guarded by a railing.

"Stenson's friend, realizing that what was happening, jumped forward and pushed his hand through the outer rails to grab Stenson's right hand.

"He pulled, but obviously he could do nothing. I dashed forward to help him and seized hold of Stenson's hand by crawling along the railing.

"Then suddenly what was almost inevitable happened. He let go my hand and dropped into the well. Just before he went he screamed, 'Shoot me! Shoot me! Shoot me! Shoot me!'

Body Dragged Away.

"It was impossible for either his friend or I to have got over the small railings which separated him from the lion. On one side there was the rising ground, and on the other there was the 20 ft. drop."

"As he dropped I knew that everything was over, and I crawled back over the railings. The next I saw was when I looked back—the body of Stenson being dragged across the ground among the trees by the two lions."

"Strangely enough, two other lions in the enclosure seemed disinterested. They took no notice." The tragedy occurred shortly after feeding time, when meat had been thrown over the railings to the lions.

Kitale Race Club's Meeting.

Course Improvements Effected.

THE RESULTS.

["STANDARD'S" CORRESPONDENT.]

Kitale, June 13.

The Kitale Race Club held their June Cyrenaica Meeting on Saturday. Although the weather was hazy, there was a large attendance with a fair proportion of race goers from down country. The course, which resembles a small English steeplechase course rather than a Kenya race course, has been improved, new staking erected, and we expect before long that this comparatively new club will be as well found as most courses in the country.

The racing was good and the following are the results.

Good Gravy improves Roasts

There's something about my cooking that folk can't resist, but it's Bisto that does the trick. Take Pork for instance; it does not yield much natural gravy, but plenty of rich gravy is as essential to pork as to any other roast. I place one good teaspoonful of Bisto in a basin and smooth it down with half a pint of warm water, then I pour the mixture into the roasting tin, from which the fat has been strained and bring to the boil. The result is delicious gravy.

PROBLEM No. 1560.

"K" in the Competition. Black Eleven.

This problem, No. 1555, was as follows.

Black Six.

White Twelve.
White mates in two moves.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

E. Hays, Durban: We thank you for your letter appreciating problem "E," which is indeed a fine and beautiful of its well-known kind and the tantalizing trial with Queen and Bishop. Glad you enjoy our efforts to entertain you "and" and "B" are particularly tricky.

Sant Singh, Mysore: Your answers always arrive in good time and are most intelligently written. No. 1550 is quite nice, but it is not tricky enough for competition purposes. The variations are of a recurrent order, the same defence being repeated in different positions, and it would catch nobody because there are no plausible tries, as Mr. P. G. Moha calls them. "Whan-ton Cooks." Thanks for your donation to the white fund.

Hassanali, Mysore: Sorry you have exceeded your time again with "F," and its solution can't be admitted from you. Send me late answers by Air Mail shows commendable keenness but does not suffice. I will send you a slip in a place in the list. Every solver, no matter where he lives, must send off his name and not seven days after his paper is delivered to him. We know exactly on which date the "Standard" gets to Mysore.

Keynote to "F."

White Six.

White mates in two moves.

The Key is 1. Q-B1.

It abandons the Rook, but threatens 2. Q-c1 mate.

1. B-K2, 2. B-d4 mate, (Q protects Bb1). If 1... B-K2; 2. Q-c1 If 1... Kt6 move; 2. Q-B1 a very pretty long shot.

1. B-K2, 2. Q-B1. No castles. Composed by Herr A. Gayerman, 4 points.

Solvers' Comments.

"F.V.L." A welcome reprieve after "F".

Sant Singh: Very clever manoeuvres with Queen. I nearly missed it.

G. Tanner: Has some nice mates and the two long safes by the Queen are especially good.

H. J. S. Palmer: A case in which the longest safe by the Queen proves to be the right key. I hope. I usually try first a Queen sacrifice, and then move her as far away as possible.

W. E. R. Fowler: Would have said it was "Not an all" if I try like myself. I composed it, because of the very pretty mate after 1... B-K2. But the key is somewhat obvious and the "Key" fancy.

PLATED LUBRICATION WITH COL GRA.

for all Internal Combustion Engines

How It Works:

Col-Gra in fluid form is mixed with the oil and fuel and under heat and pressure the minute particles of Colloidal Graphite leave the liquid, are attracted to bare metal, and actually become a plated Col-graphoid surface.

What It Does.

It reduces Wear by smoothing and plating all contact surfaces.
It reduces Friction and Heat the one being consequent on the other.
It lubricates at Higher Temperatures. Oils break down under very high temperatures. Col-Gra Graphite is manufactured at a temperature of 7,500 deg. F. and will lubricate at much higher temperatures than oil.

It provides a more perfect Piston Seal. This is noticeable at once by the improved pulling power and reduced fuel consumption of all Col-graphoid Engines.

FINALLY, It preserves the oil body longer. It penetrates, softens and frees Carbon. It provides lubrication to the top of the piston and cylinder.

IT MORE THAN SAVES ITS COST.

ASK THOSE WHO USE IT.

TOURING THE WORLD BY MOTOR CAR.

Travelers Arrive at Nairobi

Mr. Arthur F. Kane, American by name, arrived at Nairobi last night on the 19th. He is on his way to the continent. At least that is what he says. As evidence of his disposition he wears a pair of tweed-travel shorts, high-topped boots, and a hat of black and white and white and black.

Amateur Nomads.

This traveler has no other motives behind them than the two tourists should see as much of the world as possible and expand the generous amount of wealth with which each is endowed in the enjoyment of a nomadic existence. If they have any other object, it is that they hope one day to outride the depression. It was because of the depression and its effects on their respective professions that they originally set out on their venture.

In his home-town, Chicago, Mr. Kane was vice-president of an engineering company. There were two other vice-presidents. He was married. He was not. When things began to go badly with the business and two executives became sufficient for the purposes of the concern, he decided to break away and roam the world.

In Germany he met Mr. Kahler, who had been a pharmacist in a big chemical factory in his native country of Chile, and who had gone to Germany to study photography in all its branches, but his patent agent refused to accept his conditions. To date they have covered a total mileage of over 110,000 miles, and they are now busy wearing out their fifth car. They expect to be on the road for another two years. Neither has any idea what he will do when he gets back home.

Linguistic Abilities.

Apart from being able to speak and write nine languages, Mr. Kahler has taken some four thousand photographs. Mr. Kane can speak and write four languages. This, however, did not prevent him being arrested as a suspected Russian spy on the Persian border some two years ago and helped in need for five days.

Both are honorary members of almost every automobile club in the world. They are doing their services, photographic material and films for the betterment of practical motor routes in the lesser-known regions of the globe. When possible tourist routes are available; only the remotest regions are sought and traversed.

Their car, a sedan, has specially designed features suitable for travel in areas in which the extreme changes of climate and atmospheric conditions make maintenance more than ordinarily difficult. It can be converted into a sleeping saloon at night, and supplies hot and cold water. Provision is made for desert travel by means of large water, petrol, paraffin and batteries and supplies. They also carry full safari equipment. Neither carries firearms. They will remain in Nairobi for another week, prior to setting off on their journey southwards to Cape Town.

Another Trade War?

Dr. Schacht suggested three remedies for the present situation, firstly to prevent Germany from rearmament, secondly to increase her exports and thirdly a reduction of the capital and rates of clearing in Germany's debts.

Dr. Schacht declared that if Germany was not permitted additional exports, he saw no possibility of the resumption of her debt service.

Objects of the Bill.—London, June 21. One of the main objects of the Debt Clearing Offices and Import Restrictions and Exports Bill which will be debated on this second reading in the Commons on Monday will be to empower the Government to prohibit or restrict foreign imports in retaliation for quota restrictions imposed against, or specially detrimental to, British goods.

The Government will also impose quotas against any other country which applies restrictions specially detrimental to British trade.

The Weather.—The British East African Meteorological Service in its report on weather conditions as reported from selected stations in East Africa up to 5 a.m. yesterday states that no rain fell at Kabete, Kiambu, Nairobi, Embasa, Pwani, Butiaba, Broken Hill, Dodoma and Zanzibar. The maximum and minimum temperatures recorded in the P. were as follows: At Embasa 66 and 22; at Kiambu 72 and 65; at Mombasa 82 and 72; at Nairobi 60 and 55; at Kampala 77 and 64; at Butiaba 81 and 71; at Zanzibar 81 and 73; at Dodoma 79 and 57; at Broken Hill 79 and 53.

Muter and Oswald Ltd., Nairobi, yesterday, but remained unsold, the highest price which was not announced, not being reached. The property in question is a plot just over half an acre in area held on a 99 years lease, opposite the Parklands Sports Club and near the Parklands School, and contains a stone house.

Saturday Sermon. A RECKONING. DEAD men tell no tales. [FROM A CORRESPONDENT.] eternal life. And if you reckon you are to be dead when you come to you? You may be in a condition to not elate or the other depress you, you may speak of your good or evil as to be laid to rest, you may not react to either, praise or censure, or you may be so full of life that you will speak, misapprehending of friend or enemy of the cause or cause to be laid to rest, you may have an answer to all that would hurt or grieve or assist in Christ dead and you find in Him.

NEVERTHELESS death comes by an unobvious death of all is imputed in Christ's death for a purpose of blessing, death is also of our sin. It is for men to decide whether they will be saved by the death and reckon themselves as dead in Christ's dying, which will allow them to establish their right to life in Christ, which what they are in themselves, in brief, men who have come short of what was intended for them, who refuse to accept God's offer to mould them into His image by a daily acceptance of Him as theiraviour, redemption, and resurrection. There is in walking in the way of God's purposes for us.

CHATS ON WIRELESS.

Out of the number of people who come to our Showroom to make enquiries about Wireless Receivers, eight out of ten usually ask us how many valves this Receiver? They have thought it out, and decided that the greater the number of valves, the greater will be the efficiency of the Receiver, and forty-four of these Receivers, they are told, is a moratorium in itself, the larger will be the cost of upkeep, and the greater the liability for the Receiver to break down.

— Today we have a Receiver that is British throughout, with four valves only, and we are quite prepared to demonstrate this Receiver against any other with six, eight, or ten valves, and we further say that this four valve Receiver will do everything that the largest Receiver is capable of doing, and do it even better, from the point of view of quality and reliability. We have called this Receiver, and forty-four of these Receivers. Surely there is a moratorium in this! We add that the price—This Set, built into a handsome cabinet, complete with valves, costs only Shs. 165/-, or if you feel inclined to build it yourself, we can supply it in kit form at Shs. 120/- complete with four valves.

This Receiver is known as the Lissen All-Wave Four. It and brings in Stations from 12—2000 metres. We sell it on a money back guarantee.

diffuse the advantages of domestic, decent living, industry, and humanity. They should aim at the production of a native character and customs and should especially show the great that has been made by natives of Africa who have been trained to prosper in the world, such as the West Indies and Mauritius, where they have been benefited by contact with a higher race.

"I submit that the Trade cannot be expected to supply such pictures. There would be no money in them. They would therefore have to be provided by the Governments of our various African territories. The various African territories should give attention to a few tentative experiments that have lately been made in this direction by the Federated Malay States, the Sudan, and other territories. There are hopes of further efforts are expected."

"I venture to think that, if real and national progress is to be made, much more vigorous action is required. The individual and inaccessible ventures made by more or less inexperienced professional people of the supply of instructional films suitable for Africans generally should be provided by collective action on the part of the several Administrations concerned. The films would be suitable for the Solahene would probably be equally commensurate for the people of the Gambia, Sierra Leone, and the Gold Coast, Nigeria, Kenya, Uganda, Tanganyika, Malawi, and Zanzibar.

"The various Gov. Admins might thus combine to provide an adequate stock of cultural films which should be distributed from the central agency to the Education Department of each territory. The cost of the pictures, being divided proportionately, would be well within the means of the African Administrations even if a project were initiated on a compulsory scale. The various Gov. Admins should, of course, be entrusted to experts in that business, and by one or more Colonial officials possessing such experience of African 'nationality'."

"Your Committee would, therefore, venture to recommend that the possibility of Government taking such action on the line suggested by Sir Hesketh Bell should be fully and carefully considered."

of course the general application of a moratorium clause.

A Clove Association.
Another Bill, modelled on the Kenya Land Ordinance, proposed for the statutory establishment and management of the Clove Growers Association. There will be appointed a Board to manage the affairs of the Association and control its operation.

"The objects of this body are to take care of the interests of the clove growers, to provide facilities for the production and marketing of the agricultural produce of the Association, to encourage, among the Agricultural producers the spirit and practice of co-operation and self-help. The Board as empowered under the Bill to deal with export produce, to export suitable materials, to collect statistics, to purchase materials and implement necessary for producers, to lend money, to store and market the produce of the Association, and to promote agricultural production, and to promote and manage subsidiary activities."

A Levy.
The Board will be given the power to levy charges for its services, to use the revenue arising therefrom for the purposes of production and export, to raise a bank account, and to use any miscellaneous source of income. Part of its functions will be to lease and to purchase, on behalf of the Government, land of unenclosed lands, the discontinue of existing mortgages, the maintenance or improvement of land, promotion of agricultural implements, the purchase of land required for agricultural purposes. These advances must be properly secured by a mortgage on the property but can use part of its funds to discharge existing mortgages of onerous nature. Power is given to His Highness the Sultan in Executive Council to fix the maximum amount of loans against any land, but not to exceed the value of property against which the Association may lend its funds. A maximum period of five years is proposed for these loans, during which time principal and interest have to be repaid. No rate of interest is proposed by the Bill, but it is stated that the Board shall have proper discretion. Provision is also made for a reserve fund and for a bonus distribution among members of the Association on a profit sharing basis.

THE ECONOMIC POLICY OF BRITAIN.

Feeling of Resentment.
There is no doubt that Mr. Bruce's campaign, which is described as a policy of despair, has resulted in a feeling of resentment against Britain, including the charge of obligations. It is pointed out that Australia has long been a net exporter of her secondary industries, and even secured a few, in order to observe the letter and spirit of her Ottawa obligations toward Britain. This is proved by a large increase in the exports of the spoken of these views has been made on most of the rodding of agriculture, while simultaneously exporting a large trade to British manufacturers. They further complain that Australia's debt can only be paid by goods, and therefore the policy of restriction has had the effect of reviving Australia's difficulties in meeting her debts and service payments.

The Free Traders.
The Empire Free Traders here, the interest will be struck by Britain's quota proposals and are pouring out a flood of resolutions, schemes, and proposals, present nothing practical has emerged.

While advocating tariff reduction, and even abolition, in order to facilitate British trade, they are demanding that farmers workers displaced as a result of restriction must be given consideration in the tariff cutting programme, would be a serious matter.

Mr. Bruce has not defined a policy, but merely told the facts, leaving the Australian Government the unenviable task of evolving a policy. But he has indicated that such a policy must be in co-operation with Britain for temporary restriction, but even for a permanent one, but that is objections to a large bulk of the Government's support. Mr. Bruce has not answered their questions:

"Why does not Britain first cut foreign imports to the degree desirable to assist home agriculturists before asking the Dominions to make sacrifices?"

"Why, if it has in mind such a policy, is it not in mind such a policy of agricultural development, did she make agreements with Australia and Denmark so favourable to those countries?"

"Why does not Britain and Australia as on the verge of the greatest problem, which has existed since their relationship. Government about restriction is growing, and there is no doubt that marketing will be the supreme question of Federal politics. It is not in mind such a policy that if a labour Government is returned at the federal elections, they are likely to be reactionary to any Anglo-Australian agreement restricting production here."

GOVERNMENT'S REPLY.

The following notice has been issued by the Uganda Government in connection with the recommendations submitted in the supplementary report—

"In its supplementary report the Committee emphasizes the need of a strict censorship on the importation of films for private exhibition, and the value of the cinematograph as a medium of instruction. The Government is instituting inquiries to ascertain what, if any, further measures can be adopted to assist the postal and customs authorities and the police in maintaining a close censorship of films of the type referred to by the Committee.

"The Government agrees unreservedly with the Committee's recommendation that the cinematograph for instructional purposes, but regrets that the delay in the financial position of the Protectorate with respect to annual revenue and annual expenditure it will not be possible at the present time to take any effective steps to implement the Committee's recommendation under this head."

Adulterated Produce.
The third Bill in the series called "A Measure to Prevent Adulteration of Produce" is intended to ensure that the exports of the Protectorate, in the form of goods and cereals at present shall be of good and marketable quality. The Bill is based upon similar legislation in Kenya and Nigeria, and makes an attempt to substitute a motion. Other export products may as time be brought within the scope of the Bill. Power is given to inspectors and examiners to enter premises, stop any vehicles, boats or canoes, and seize and detain adulterated produce.

Grading.
The fourth new measure which follows closely behind the Tanganyika legislation, provides for inspection and grading of crops agricultural produce. It is presented in form of a Bill, but it may be extended and it prohibits the export of produce until passed by inspection of units, graded, or branded. For the moment, regard to clove and copra has been extended, but it is intended as soon as possible to provide also for the grading of copra.

The Change.
To realize the importance and importance of the foregoing group of new bills it is necessary to be reminded that the East African Protectorate has been no restriction whatever on the alienation or mortgaging of immovable property by Arabs and Africans. The result has been that over a number of years a large proportion of the most valuable freehold lands have been mortgaged to persons who are not agriculturists and rates of interest based on high clove prices in the past, are impossible to pay. As a result of the fall in the value of clove the land owners find themselves unable to fulfil the conditions imposed by the mortgages with the result that the money lenders are recovering the value of the shambas is generally less than the amount of the mortgage debt, the mortgages are being the property in whole or in part to the lender. It is not only clove but also other crops, such as sugar, but remains unpaid for the balance. The Government views with alarm the loss of the agricultural land into the hands of non-agricultural persons, and the production of agricultural commodities is the life blood of the Protectorate today.

Will it be Effective?
As it has been difficult to make the land owners pay, the Government has all that Government has done has been to increase the period of repayment from the present maximum of six months to a maximum of twelve, thereby in effect granting a moratorium in respect of all mortgages for a year. Nevertheless, the interest will continue to run and when the moratorium is over the land owner may find himself in a worse position than before as there is no indication at present that Government would constitute direct financial assistance.

While the Government contemplates an important part of the policy of the Zanzibar Government, it is not clear how far as far as possible, or at least to the extent of the Government's ability, to stabilize the price of clove, which Zanzibar still has a virtual monopoly.

An Oil Industry.
In the same connection special importance attaches to a notice in the current issue of the Gazette intimating that the Government will remove the embargo on the local distillation of clove stems from July 1, 1934, and from the same date will prohibit the export of clove stems under special licence of the distillation of oil of clove from any part of the clove zone, has long been a definite feature of the Zanzibar Government. It is removed, however, that an important American concern have approached the Government with a view to establishing in Zanzibar a factory for the production of oil of clove. This Government notice appears to give support to this rumor.

Motor Accident.
At about 11.30 p.m. on Wednesday a motor car was being driven by Mr. Hugh Devereux, 200 Parklands Avenue, Kenia, Lamuru Road. There were three passengers in the car. Mr. Devereux did not realize he was so near the junction and reached it at about 11.30 p.m. He was unable to take the corner and the car skidded into the ditch in Lamuru Road. Mrs. Pollman, who was one of the passengers, sustained a fractured thigh and was taken to the European Hospital.

INCIDENTS FOLLOWING THE DERBY.

What Happened in the Court.

AND AT A SELECT COMMITTEE.

["STANDARD" CORRESPONDENT.] London, June 12.

When a reporter handed the results of the Derby to one of the judges at the Law Courts, the judge placed it in a legal book and directed the volume be handed down the stairs. The K. V. who wrote it remarked that the reference was extremely interesting and passed the book on to another barrister.

While the race was being run five peers were sitting as a select committee, and Mr. Lyell, Lord Justice, K. V. in his address to remark, "Perhaps your Lordships would not mind my making an announcement." Mr. Jones then gave the result, saying, "After that check to my friends, I will proceed." He then plunged once more into the intricate details of the bill.

At the Theatre. Derby Day was celebrated in an original and popular way at Daly's Theatre when Mr. Seymour Hicks presented each woman member of the audience, including those in the gallery, with a souvenir bottle of champagne. Mr. Hicks takes the leading part as "Vintage Wine," an amusing play of which he is first author. He has always favoured souvenir nights, but this surpasses all other similar occasions. Blonde girls in black and silver stood at the different entrances and handed each woman a bottle—999 bottles in all—as she went into the auditorium. This gesture was so unexpected that many were momentarily non-plussed. One woman refused to take a bottle. "Not for me," she said; "there is a catch in it somewhere." But there was not. Seymour Hicks on the lotus; "This comes to you with the compliments of Seymour Hicks, who hopes that all through life your only pain may be champagne." When the first interval was over there was a general rush for glasses. Many had their names placed on set for a toast later in the evening. Others took their hats.

For were so happy over the results of the race as the residents of Old Windsor, where the Maharajah of Bhopal has his seaside residence. The hospital of them all were the employees of the Maharajah and their friends, for whom he has chartered a special motor-coach so that they might see his horse win.

Speed Work. The times of the transmission of the Derby results over the cables of the Imperial and International Communications Ltd. were: Cairo, 13 sec.; Cape Town, 19 sec.; Zanzibar, 27 sec.; Sydney and Melbourne, 22 sec.; Shanghai, 31 sec.; Lagos, 31 sec.; Barbados, 17 sec.; Auckland, 35 sec.; Montreal, 10 sec.

The Derby was celebrated all over London. The King's dinner to the members of the Jockey Club, which took place at Bucking-ham Palace, is an institution near-ly as old and famous as the Derby itself. About fifty guests, all men, attended. The Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, the Duke of Gloucester, Prince George, and the Earl of Harewood were among the members of the Royal Family present. Lord Londsdale was present and it is an ill omen from the madcap which occurred when he was on his way to the race. He was in a collision with another car and sent his motor to the scrap.

The Queen presented to the Earl of Athlone, and Princess Alice, Countess of Wilson, and other waris went with them to the Queen's Theatre.

Most of the West End restaurants had special dinner there was in the Horse-shoe Ball and the International House for the Critics' Comments.

Experts have examined up the race on how Colombo, "the un-derstandable" judge for his horses, and it is thought that he could not quite say the same. One ex-pert says: "Quite unimpressively it was Steve Donoghue who, by setting such a ripping pace on Madjed Knight, contributed more to the defeat of the favourite than any-thing else. We saw the famous jockey push Madjed Knight into the lead on the first lap of racing ground so that he was racing in some sport after Donoghue had thrown most of his bid into the net. To the experts' minds for the slender chance which Medi-cal Knight gave him of riding his fifth Derby winner. Donoghue has become the Derby deflator. He showed the result by his only dash. Judson's forced Colombo to go with him for the first three furlongs, and we saw how this jockey thought of taking a direct "easy" when something else joined with Madjed Knight to make it an extremely tight race. Those pessimists had probably seen how the jockey on Colombo, Easton, and a few others, a chance to give the race which least suited them. If it could be possible to have the race run rationally Colombo would probably win—and with handsomeness. But a modern Derby is run at breakneck speed right through, and it has become more and more evident that no trainer can get off for Lisbon with a good thing to win a Derby unless he has truly tested his odds for stamina. Much is made of the fact that Judson's, in taking his "easy" halfway in the race, allowed himself to be pocketed and lost invaluable ground which was not regained only under ex-treme pressure. In taking that "easy" it must be credited to Colombo's mile that he displayed first-class jockeyship; he at least was conserving some speed for the final furlong."

Kiambu Club's Annual Fixture.

TURNER AGAIN IN THE WINNING COUPLE.

(Nairobi)

Over the weekend I was away from Nairobi and, although I did not play golf, I had the pleasure of walking over the Highlands course at Molo, the Nyero course, and the Eldoret course, ... The Kiambu Club's annual fixture is now being prepared.

Molo has had plenty of rain and their course was lively green, the grass greens were in perfect condition, and Mr. Davis is to be congratulated on the way he keeps the course in such top condition.

Eldoret was again on the dry side they having had little or no rain for about a month.

I think Eldoret could be made the finest using hole course in the country today.

The 4th-short holes— it is today, with the river just in front of the tee is a good short hole, and nothing but an absolute hazard, whereas, if the tee was placed further back, and the brown brought forward giving just enough room to pitch over the river, you would have a top flight shot.

the course proper. We had some welcome rain last week which has improved the course considerably, and it only the Hon. Greenkeeper can have another inch or so, I think the course will be better than I have seen for a very long time. I walked over holes 1-9 the other evening, which are still all of the same standard as the 10th. The only hole really on the whole course is the 14th, and the 15th. The better you drive at the 15th the worse you are penalised. We have never been able to grow grass on these holes since the focus is in the 14th and 15th. A little better, and so is the 10th. The 11th, which was such a "bug bear" for many years, is now quite playable, and I think visitors will be amazed at the appearance of all the other holes.

The Hon. Secretary of the Kenya Golfing Club, Mr. J. H. M. ... to-date are not so large as last year, but there is time before Wednesday, the 27th for the entries to be considerably increased. Entries close at 12 noon on this date, and 15 active players who are considering entering for the Championship will have to be in the hands of Capt. Le Man Smith coming down from Oligi, and I wish Mr. Le Man could make the trip from Kiambu, because he is one of our best players.

The reigning champion, Mr. R. D. England is defending his title and Mr. Hopper last year's runner-up, will also be in the field. Messrs. Forrest, (a past champion) Hiddell, and Hopper, should make the trip from Nairobi, because he is one of our best players. Mr. Marcus is coming up from Mombasa, and as he invariably plays on the top of his form on this course in the Easter Tournament, he should be dangerous. I do hope the Championship will be representative of the finest golf in the country.

I shall be able next week when I have seen the entrants and the draw to give you my views on who has a chance. Mr. England will be the strongest, but he will not be in the first 18 holes of the final last year, because I have never seen him play. Nairobi Foursomes closed with an entry of 60. This is to my mind one of the best competitions of the year. It is the first time that I have been unable to enter owing to the uncertainty of my being in Nairobi all the time. My competitor is Mr. Hopper, who is a very good player, and there are some very excellent combinations. The great match was played on Wednesday between Lockhead and Hopper. I do hope Mr. Shaw and Mr. Taylor, J.C. and his partner just managed to scrape into the final. I think they will play quite a long way in the country. Another first I had was Mr. Ferrer and Mr. Smith, who they all have a chance, but I am sure they will give a good show of their ability themselves. This competition pulls you out of the rut and the groove, and you get to know the pro and the amateur in the ordinary course of events. I have made many lasting friendships through this tournament through these annual Foursomes.

Do You Know? Alfred Chilling, the 18th Man full-back, played no football from the time he left school until he returned to Kenya in 1951. He showed such courage and skill that he was named the season's best. Born at Platfontein, he was formerly a steel erector.

RAIN IN BRITAIN. A PROBABLE TRANSFER.

But Little Relief to Water Shortage.

[BY WIRELESS.] Rugby, June 25. The long awaited rain fell during the week-end and although it has done little to relieve the acute water shortage, farm lands, sports grounds and gardens have benefited, and artificial watering has been rendered unnecessary, thus conserving supplies for domestic consumption.—British Official Wireless Service.

Sentence of one and a half months' imprisonment with hard labour on each count was passed on him. In both cases the cheques were cashed by the accused with Messrs. Tur's Hotel, in the first case on June 18 for a sum of Shs. 125, and in the second instance on June 18 for a sum of Shs. 125. 1934 COFFEE CROP.

Reports Denied by the Board.

Undue Optimism.

Effect of Lack of Rain.

The East African Standard has been asked by the Coffee Board of Kenya to corroborate reports that have been circulated to the effect that the 1934 coffee crop is going to be a "big one". The Board points out that owing to the lack of rain during the early part of 1934, there will be practically no crop this year and picking of the main crop will probably start in October and continue until January, 1935. Arrivals of new crop in London will not therefore, begin much before the middle of November and may be expected to continue well into March, 1935.

BRITISH NAVAL NEEDS.

Warnings by First Lord.

Comparisons With Other Countries.

ADEQUATE DEFENCES NECESSARY.

[BY WIRELESS.] The First Lord of the Admiralty, Sir Baldwin Easton-Massell, in a speech near Worcester today, referred to the necessity of having an adequate navy for defence. He said that during the last eight years Italy had increased her expenditure on armaments by 94 per cent, the United States by 10 per cent, France by over 100 per cent and Russia by over 197 per cent. It was time England looked to her National and Imperial defences because they could not go on purchasing the international dream of disarmament all alone.

Discussion in London.

Conversations on naval questions, which lasted three-quarters of an hour took place on Saturday between the King and Mr. Matoussaris, who called on Mr. Storan Davis, the United States Ambassador, on Saturday morning. So far only the British, American and Japanese Governments have taken part in these preliminary historical conversations, which are of a purely preliminary character in view of the 1935 Naval Conference—British Official Wireless Service.

The Second Test Match at Lord's.

ENGLAND IN FAVOURABLE POSITION.

Yesterday Morning's Play.

AUSTRALIANS LOSE FOUR WICKETS IN AN HOUR.

England's attack experienced a heartening success when play in the second test match was resumed at Lord's yesterday morning. Four wickets fell in the first hour of play, when there was a brief halt while the players of both teams were presented to His Majesty the King, who attended the game.

Australia's reply to the splendid total of England, after a disastrous time during the middle of their innings, was somewhat disheartened when Verity, the Yorkshireman, came into his own, and claimed three wickets in quick succession.

Some Good Bowling.

[BY WIRELESS.] London, June 25. His Majesty the King attended the second test between England and Australia was resumed. Again there was an exceptionally large crowd present when the first hour of Saturday came out to resume their innings. Brown had 100 to his credit, while McCabe, perhaps the most brilliant all-rounder of the side, had 24 on the board.

Foot Validity.

The sides were crestfallen when the Australians resumed their innings, and the doubtful light saw a successful appeal made on the ground. It was a very brief ball, however, as the weather soon cleared, and with the sun appearing, the batsmen once more found their way to the crease.

THIKA AND DISTRICT CHALLENGE CUP.

Makuyu Beat Thika in Final.

THE RESULTS.

[* STANDARD * CORRESPONDENT.]
Ruira, June 21.

The first tournament for the Thika and District Challenge Cup was completed for the Ruira, Thika, Makuyu and Donjo Salubria clubs over the four courses, the Makuyu supposed in beating Thika by the narrow margin of one game.

Following upon Friday night's heavy rain the course was in excellent condition, and the bowlers were perfect. The Ruira Captains were so congratulated upon having the course in such good shape, not an easy matter for a club which has such a small membership.

The morning matches saw some surprises. Avonon, of Ruira, was easily and unexpectedly beaten by King, of Thika. The first three matches to be finished saw the sides all square, and the deciding match was taken to the last bowler.

Both Gillespie and Macraeth, of Thika, Hayman and Jackson, of Makuyu, were on the known for three wickets. Gillespie failed with his put and the crowd waited breathlessly to see Jackson make no mistake with his to win the cup for his side. It was a very fine finish to a splendid day's sport.

Our old friend, Peter Whitehead, was an interested spectator during the afternoon, and expressed himself delighted with the arrangements.

The following are the scores.

Thika vs Ruira.

T. Gibbs lost to W. Ritchie 5/4.
R. King lost to Y. Avonon 9/2.
Campbell Murray and T. Macraeth all square to G. Taylor and J. Ross. I. H. Gillespie and D. Macraeth beat Marshall and Webb 4 up.

This beat Ruira by 24 to 14.

Makuyu vs Donjo Salubria (Kinnaab).

J. Ambler Davis beat H. W. Barry 7/4.
Makuyu halved with N. Whisky.

J. Cornforth and C. Haraway lost to Weldon and Walker 1 up.

Makuyu beat Kinnaab 29 to 14.

Campbell Murray and T. Macraeth halved with J. Cornforth and G. Haraway. J. H. Gillespie and D. Macraeth lost to E. Hayman and H. Jackson 1 up.

Result: Makuyu beat Thika 29 to 14.

RACING CRAFT AT LAMU.

New Type of Boat Proves Popular.

[* STANDARD * CORRESPONDENT.]
Lamu, June 8.

Within the past few months a new class of racing and pleasure craft has made its appearance in the Lamu harbor and has become so popular that no less than 15 of them were entered in special races for this class at the recent King's Birthday sports. Altogether 20 boats of this class were entered for completion, and several more have been projected and will be built in Lamu as materials become available.

It is pretty safe to say that every toke in Lamu wishes to become an owner of one of these boats, but how long they will have to wait before their wishes will be met depends upon when the next supply of old corrugated iron trading sheets becomes available, for it is from these—with the corrugations flattened out—that the hulls are constructed. The flat sheets are cut into the shape of a Lamu dhow, wooden stem and stern posts and thwarts are fitted and a little sail, mast, and rudder completes the ship ready for sea.

They run from five to eight feet long and each boat is manned and handled by a solitary shaft of anything from eight to fourteen years old. No name has as yet been given to the class, but in view of the fact that each little toke constitutes not only the crew but the captain and the mate and the boat itself as well, they might fittingly be termed the "Nancy Bell class."

A Risk.

Of course, should the boats spring a bad leak and fill they would go to the bottom like stones; an eventuality that most of the owners have provided for by fitting a long line attached to a float at one end and to the hull at the other, so that the ship may be salvaged in the event of a casualty. As to the boys themselves there need be little fear, as they can all swim like fishes and are experienced enough to stand by one another when difficulties arise.

They are—so boys the world over are inclined to be rather daring and today a fleet of them have set off in their cockle-shells on the long voyage to Shellima. (Continued in previous column.)

Our shoulders are far too wide for that plated cap effect, and, but really, it's not so good as we really are.

time ago it was represented to the Town Council that the system against the slaughter boys for slaughtering by making it impossible for the general public to be acquainted with the Committee proposal until it was too late to express a view upon it. As a result, it was decided to meet the point by issuing the minutes of the Committee for publication at least a full week before the date of the Council meeting. It has been possible for the Press to publish extracts from the minutes a day or two before the meeting of Council. Limited though the margin of time is, the public nevertheless has been placed in a better position to appreciate the nature of some of the important subjects coming before Council than hitherto. Now, however, the General Purposes Committee, while apparently still desirous of continuing a system which has manifest public advantages, propose to issue the minutes only on the condition that there shall be no comment. That attitude seems to be based on an understanding of the position. Let us take a simple example of the application before the proposal. Suppose the Parks Committee proposed that the City Park be closed on Saturdays and Sundays. That recommendation to Council would be recorded in the minutes of the committee and would be issued to the Press under the present arrangement in time for publication before the meeting of Council. Under the new proposal, however, the General Purposes Committee would expect no public comment on their proposal. It is quite clear, however, that if an irate taxpayer sends a letter to the East African Standard expressing the hope that the full Council would turn the proposal down, that letter would be published. Yet it would constitute comment! It is equally clear that if any section of the Press disagreed with the Committee's proposal, it would be allowed to do so. The minutes of the committee would be published in the minutes before the meeting of Council is held. The minutes of the committee would be published in the minutes before the meeting of Council is held. The minutes of the committee would be published in the minutes before the meeting of Council is held.

MIX-UP AT A WEDDING — UMBRELLAS — PORCUPINES FOR LUNCH — QUEER PHENOMENA — PRACTICAL JOKE CAUSES DEATH.

A bridegroom was nearly run over by a motor car on the occasion of a wedding at the home of a friend of the bride. The car was driven by a young man who was making the mistake.

It was the day of "mass" weddings at a local church when several couples were married after the other. The vicar announced that the bride and bridegroom had been married. The vicar then turned to a woman in his arms. The vicar then turned to a woman in his arms.

REVIEW OF THE COLONY'S PUBLIC HEALTH.

corals of the current year. In his report on the health of the town of Mombasa in 1932, the medical officer of health observes that during the year no case of plague or smallpox was reported within the Municipal area, and we have reason to believe that in all probability no cases did occur though in previous years epidemics of both diseases have not been unknown.

What is the significance of the statement of the medical officer of health? Does it indicate that the public health of Mombasa has improved in 1932, or even that there has been improvement upon previous years? If we had no other information we might perhaps, though quite unjustifiably, come to one, or other, or both of these conclusions. But Mombasa is one of those places where a localized and fairly comprehensive, though as yet by no means sufficiently intensive and detailed local investigation has now been carried out over a period of years, and the medical officer of health had in consequence rather information at his disposal, and so in discussing the incidence of infectious disease in Mombasa he can state: "The public health as regards to tuberculosis in Mombasa is a serious one and merits the most careful attention. The more so because of its insidious nature. Tuberculosis does not give rise to epidemics and makes no appeal to sensational public opinion, comparable to that of plague, smallpox or even malaria, yet deaths attributable to tuberculosis during the decade 1922-31 were more than seven plaques and smallpox put together. He does not tell us exactly how many deaths occurred from tuberculosis in 1933 as he has no reliable data on this point, but he notes that sixty cases of the disease were notified.

recorded notifications of cases of this disease is a sure indication that there were many more cases than notified and that very many more people must be ill of this disease, and so though smallpox and plague were absent from Mombasa in the past year it does not follow that the folk were healthy; for the notification of 69 cases of tuberculosis suggests that there are not. But that is all that we can say for, so it happens we have no information at all as to the general death rate from all causes in Mombasa in 1932 since we have no adequate system of notification or registration of deaths in that town.

Deficiency Diseases.
After reviewing the major epidemics and diseases, the chapter on deficiency diseases follows. "We are justified in arriving at the conclusion that the state of the public health is not as good as it might be and should be, and from our knowledge of the causes which predispose to these diseases that by an intensification of measures it might be improved. But by how great an intensification of measures and by what measures? But to answer that question which is of primary and fundamental importance, and in fact the sole reason of the attempt which is made each year to estimate the state of public health, we must be able to say not only that the public health is not as good as it might be, but very much more, precisely just how bad it is, so that we can estimate the causes of ill health, and the conditions which favour the persistence of these causes, and estimate the efficiency of the measures already in operation.

"No answer to these questions can, however, be found in the records so far given for that record goes no further than to indicate that certain diseases are, or appear to be, common or very common, and that large but unknown numbers of patients have received no treatment at all, while to some extent the record is one rather of impressions than of measurements. The impressions may be correct but they are not precise, for exact data that record does not give, and it is only by necessity lacking.

Local Investigations.
"In the absence of exact data for the population as a whole it becomes necessary therefore to have recourse to such exact data as we may have, and for preference, more and more detailed, which have been so collected that they relative importance of all factors can be determined and the course of events established over a period of years, that is we must have recourse to the results of such local investigations as the results of which may have been made.

The local investigations are of two types, the special investigation and the routine investigation. Examples of the routine type are the investigations which are carried out by every medical officer of health who has the necessary facilities year in and year out as he collects and analyses the vital records of his area. In undeveloped countries, however, it is usually only the medical officers of health of towns who can carry out such routine investigations with any intensity over long periods of time, and from the records of one such investigation, I have already quoted, I have already quoted, I have already quoted.

But our population, in Kenya is only urban to a very small extent while even so the urban population contains as yet a very large percentage of young uneducated males and of unusual constitution. So the records of the country are still restricted only in a very simple and elementary fashion and the medical officers of health, that is the medical officers of the great native reserve districts, are still few and far between and as a rule too busy administering their hospitals and their dispensaries, operating on and treating the sick, pushing hygiene, organizing latrine and housing campaigns, and dealing in a most practical fashion with the hundred and one diseases and deficiencies which call only too heavily and obviously for their attention to leave them time accurately to estimate just how much more sickness there is than they can treat, or even the mass effect of what they do.

In the North Kenya reserve, for example, 20 medical officers died with 30,000 folk, they have no time for measurement. So the records of the reports of the medical officers of health of the reserves do not actually serve our purpose. Nevertheless in one or two of the smaller reserves the disproportion between staff and population is less, and from the records concerning two of the smallest districts some exact data can be obtained."

Hygiene and Sanitation.
In a subsequent chapter on hygiene and sanitation, the report says: "In Kenya we have a native population of about 2,000,000. Half of these people at least are actually suffering from the effects of intestinal worms, half from scabies, probably more than half from malaria by many thousands from ulcers and yaws. Each one of these cases so long as it goes uncurd is a focus of infection. Chyral medical relief if it could be provided at an adequate scale might play a great part as a preservative against the disease, but the moment not more than one in every three of the population visits even a satisfactory dispensary once in a year, while the proportion seen by a qualified medical man can hardly be more than one in thirty, or about 6 per cent.

At the present time therefore well over 90 per cent. of three million people, almost all of whom must be sick at one time or another during the year and of whom at least 20 per cent. or more are known to be sick throughout the year, are never seen by a qualified medical man. The figures for treatment given are undoubtedly large and satisfactory considering the smallness of the staff available, but they sink into insignificance in comparison with the numbers of folk left untreated, and treatment under these circumstances cannot, except in the cases of a few diseases, be a generally effective preventive measure. But unless treatment on an adequate scale could be made available disease will remain with us at a high rate of incidence till environmental and cultural conditions here have been even more radically improved than has been the case in Europe where, in spite of all the sanitary progress there has been, the proportion of practitioners required in the rural areas even to-day is, according to a recent report, one to two thousand of the population, or fifty to one hundred thousand.

Health No Good.
"And so we know this with regard to the health of Mombasa in 1932, that though smallpox and plague were absent the public health was almost certainly not good either in that or the preceding years, and we arrive at the conclusion that merely because there were a certain number of deaths from tuberculosis, but because sixty cases of the disease were notified and because under the conditions which prevail in Mombasa that measure of deficiency diseases follows. "We are justified in arriving at the conclusion that the state of the public health is not as good as it might be and should be, and from our knowledge of the causes which predispose to these diseases that by an intensification of measures it might be improved. Education.

CASE FOR COMPELSONY FREE SYSTEM.

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard."
 Sir—As the opening of Legislative Council approached, and as the Annual Estimates for 1953 were being discussed, the Government has announced its intention to make primary education for European children free and compulsory increases in interest.

It is to the credit of the newly elected Members that they accepted the publication of the representatives of the Advisory Council. The Memorandum of the Advisory Council, as published in your issue of 11th May, 1954, contains two important recommendations. "That immediate steps be taken to introduce compulsory education for European children between the ages of seven and sixteen years"; and, 2, that "there is no reason why education should necessarily be free if it is made compulsory."

As regards 1, there is no evidence in the Memorandum that the Advisory Council considered what would be the cost of their recommendation, if adopted, through the Nairobi Association asked Government for this information early in December of last year. The public should have been supplied with this information so that they could make up their minds to face the bill with all its implications before them.

Recommendation 2 is much to be regretted and it is to be hoped that Elected Members will be able to induce Government to make education at the ages proposed not only compulsory but free. In your issue of 15th June, you published a resolution by the Mchakaa District Association in favour of compulsory education. This was followed by an expression of opinion that, whenever possible, it is the duty of parents to pay for the education of their children. If this principle were accepted in full, the tuition fees in all Government schools would have to be raised enormously, for the direct payment of parents through fees amounts to less than one-fifth of the cost of the tuition service supplied. The fees are therefore at present only a token payment and form no real basis for the purposes self-respect of parents who are paid by paying fees they are "paying their way."

The fact collected in Government primary schools in 1952 (later figures are not yet available) amounted to Shs. 50,000. There are over 7,000 European taxpayers in Kenya, so that it would appear that in primary schools could be abolished for an average extra payment by taxpayers of about sixty cents a month. At the same time those who would benefit, namely parents of large families, would be relieved from the anxiety of getting the fees ready at the beginning of each term. Many people at Home pay for their own children to attend "public" or "private" schools, not they do not grudge, or at least they do not, when their contribution to the free schools.

The imposition of compulsion, if possible, but the experience of almost all civilized countries has led to the abolition of fees at the compulsory ages and stages. The reason for this is to be seen in the situation that arises when you compel a man to send his children to school and to pay for them.

"...SOMETHING NEW OUT OF AFRICA."

of recent controversy in official reports of the Game Department and the various degrees of responsibility. Africa. Something. The author has this to say: "The game beloved with considerable dignity and with a sense of purpose might well be found in the plain life of the beasts run from us, but only as we might ourselves from any loving acreage. I mention this because it would be intolerable to have game any more mixed with low-flying aircraft. I most strongly deprecate low-flying over game. And again I can safely say that seeing and photographing game from the looms, or from an aircraft, is infinitely less cruel than the indiscriminate shooting so frequently practised by unskilled sportsmen who pay their fees and are allowed to hold the licence. I mention this at length because it is a matter of knowledge and observation he quotes the continued liveliness of volunteers for the hunt. I mention this in support of his contention that flying makes no difference to game so long as they are not harried. The chapter on the visit to the Congo by the late King Albert of Belgium is endorsed by a story which few Africans know—the story of an indefatigable hunter (Mr. de la Motte) of the Film Company who followed the King over half Central Africa in search of a "chamois" (which he got) and for whose boundless resource H.W. confesses the greatest admiration.

The West Coast.

Every section of the book has its own special interest, whether it is a description of a journey by air from Port Sudan to Baharun on the West Coast or the fascinating story of the Red Sea coast air patrol.

well that the hand woven the savannah is not public. It appears that huge supplies of goods are being sent to the Nairobi markets; it would be interesting to know how and by whom they are brought to Kenya at public expense, and how many perhaps that people using taxis should not be stopped may be that disease may appear among the local tribes, and specimens of which are constantly to be seen on the shore, and Captain Dent has done some research work in connection with the matter. Removal from Nairobi may it seems, result in the stoppage of such investigation, a naive indication of not undoubtful with a bearing on the trend of policy resulting in stoppage of the E.M.B. in the alarming rumours regarding the Italian-made Insto-Ammi all of which surely reflect the membership of the Kenya Rural Agricultural and Horticultural Society.

Mr. Tyson's recent letter on Honours voices what has long been heard by many of us. Honours are bestowed on the recipients for having fallen to those who introduced them into Kenya. Although by fish into Kenya was for something to be under way and then the fish were introduced. The way, time, and pose and are accepted as originators, you Sir may be also able to describe the start and progress of what quite a lot of people take an interest in.

Out of the number of people who come to our Showroom to make enquiries about Wireless Receivers, eight out of ten enquire as to how many valves has this Receiver? They have thought it out, and decided that the greater the number of valves, the greater will be the efficiency of the Receiver. We here the larger will be the cost of upkeep, and the greater the liability for the Receiver to break down.

Today we have a Receiver that is British throughout, with four valves only, and we are quite prepared to demonstrate this Receiver against any other with six, eight, or ten valves. It is this four valve Receiver we offer you, and we think that the largest Receiver is capable of doing, and it does even better, from the point of view of quality and solidity.

And forty-four of these Receivers—Surely there is a moral in this! And think of the price—This Set, built into a handsome cabinet, complete with valves, costs only Shs. 165/-. If you feel inclined to build it yourself, we can supply it in kit form at Shs. 120/-. Complete with four valves.

What has it to do with shoes?

Shoes, like buildings need good foundations. Otherwise they quickly sag and lose their original shape. The foundation of every K Shoe is the insole, cut in one piece from specially selected tough long-grained leather. It takes all the stress and strain of walking and enables the shoe to keep smart and sturdy after months of hard wear. That is why Maxwell Brady & Co. recommend K Shoes as sturdy. They are wonderful value for money.

K Shoes—English made.

TACTICS IN GOLF.

The Kenya Amateur Championships.

Some Fancied Candidates.

KEENEST CONTEST FOR YEARS.

TWO-MORROW the entries for the Kenya Amateur Golf Club championship will be closed. What the entry for this year will be like remains to be seen. It is more than probable that it will be a very strong one. My own fancy for the year is in the County cricket team. For the past two seasons Sussex have finished up second to the County cricket team. In 1952 they would achieve their greatest annual success in the leadership, but they fell away towards the end, and had to rest content with second place. Right up to the last week or two of that season they were among the top three in Yorkshire. This year, they are the only one of their games that year in which they were the last to be beaten.

County Cricket Championship Table.

SUSSEX AT THE HEAD WITH UNBEATEN RECORD.

Yorkshire's One Reverse.

NORTHANTS' MISERABLE SHOWING - 5 POINTS OUT OF POSSIBLE 135.

Sussex, with the same number of matches played as Yorkshire, was dropped down the table to eighth place. But the poorest showing of the lot is that of Northamptonshire, who for many seasons now have been struggling in the rut. Out of a possible 125 points, they have managed to amass only 5—a miserable record of achievement.

The following table shows the positions of the various counties up to Friday last, the figures in brackets showing the respective positions at the end of 1953 season.

Sussex	112	135
Yorkshire	108	135
Gloucestershire	105	135
Warwickshire	102	135
Worcestershire	100	135
Derbyshire	98	135
Nottinghamshire	95	135
Leicestershire	92	135
Northamptonshire	5	135

Four Times Bettered at Los Angeles.

(TRIMOROCK RACE'S AGENCY.)
Los Angeles, June 24

Post official world's records were bettered here on the occasion of the national college sports meet.

Hardin, the holder of the quarter mile record, accomplished 47 seconds dead, while in the 220 yards hurdle race he bettered his previous best, which stood at 27.10ths.

Boothroyd took the mile event in the excellent time of 4 minutes 7.10ths.

Putting the shot saw J. Torrance, of Louisiana, beat his previous record of 52 ft. 10 ins. by nearly two feet. On this occasion he did 54 ft. 9.10ths inches.

Hardin had previously accomplished the quarter mile record, while the record for a straight track was 47 dead, by M. W. Long, also American.

With regard to the mile, it may be pointed out that E. Lovelock, the New Zealander, has 4 minutes 7.50th seconds to his credit, but this remains to be confirmed by the International Federation.
