ORDER OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE TO HAVE CHAPEL

St. Paul's Crypt conversion

In the British tradition, it has often been observed, ancient institutions are not discarded but adapted to modern conditions. One example of this is the Order of Chivalry which originated in the medieval period, two of whose orders which still exist come down from the 14th century.

The Order of the Garter holds a special position in the Order of the British Empire. It is the oldest and most distinguished of the Orders of the British Empire. It was founded in 1351 by King Edward III.

During 1935, East Africa used 92,117 tons of petroleum products. This is eleven times the amount used in 1926. It is a reflection not only of East Africa's rapid industrial and agricultural expansion, but also of the important part oil plays in the Territories' growth.

THUDDING DRUMS HEARD FIRST

KEAP SOUSERS TO TOURNAMENT

STORY by Anthony Lavers PICTURES by Edwin Mallis

IN a darkened arena at Earl's Court a rhythmic thumping of African drums introduced the soldiers of the King's African Rifles to Royal Tournament crowds for the first time in the adventurous history of this East African regiment.

Men of the King's African Rifles have watched Britain before, to take part in the Royal Tournament and the Coronation pageantry, but then the crowds had to be glimpsed from the Colonial troops. This time troops from Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika are participating in an extensive tour, and this regiment is making the tour of the country.

After the Royal Tournament performance, which started last week and ends on Monday, the men in white tunics and blue and red tunics will be able to see the band of the 9th Battalion, which is Uganda's contribution to the coronation of 424 men, in which the Kenya and Tanganyika battalions are similarly represented.

The change of the Royal Tournament display, which will be seen again in a modified form at the Edinburgh Tattoo in August, is the transformation of the King's African Rifles into the trained regular soldier.

It shows the British people that the word "African" is as vague a term as "European" and draws a group of people as different as Zulus, Kikuyu, Swahili, and the descendants of Holland and the Netherlands.

STOCKY KAMBA

It would be hard to find a more vibrant character than the stocky Kamba. Although tribesmen of Northern Rhodesia, they are tall, thin, feet and nose are tucked in together, and the dark Kamba soldiers from Central Kenya.

Practically the only thing they have in common is a robust sense of humor which carried them through some of the toughest fighting of the two World Wars, and it is apparent today as ever before.

Both these tribes and mercenaries are represented at the Earl's Court display. They are seen on an aerial dress in the parade, and in the K.A.R. develops into a Corps of Drums from the 1st Battalion, into the band of the 9th Battalion, and a group of 25 men from Tanganyika about the training programme's highest level.

Although small numbers were sent only occasionally by Africa to the soldiers of the King's African Rifles, like some of the Highland regiments, they do keep alive their traditional singing and dancing both of which are far removed from the smart troops which the British people are seeing during the United Kingdom performance.

FOUR GROUPS

Four groups of Kenya's British war veterans are to be seen at Earl's Court. The display opens in the darkened arena with the sound of drums, an exciting rhythm, when played by the Kamba tribe, or the Swahili.

Then the spotlight, from one side of the arena to bring out a whole model of a World War, an outbreak in the desert of Southern Kenya which, for

FORD OF DAGENHAM HAS JUST PRODUCED THE 2,500,001st TRACTOR!

THE FIRST FORDSON TRACTOR WAS PRODUCED IN 1917 AND FORD OF DAGENHAM HAS JUST PRODUCED THE 2,500,001st FORD-PRODUCED TRACTOR

40 years of world-wide experience has gone into the present Fordson Major Diesel which is unsurpassed in value, performance and economy. Agriculture owes a tremendous debt to Fordson which has been backed by the world's finest service organization. Mr. Ford immediately responded and 5,000 tractors were shipped to Great Britain. These tractors laid the foundation of farm mechanization in England, which is now the most highly mechanized in the world. After the war, a factory was set up in Cork to produce these tractors and later, in 1953, production was transferred to Fordson in England. During the war, Ford of Dagenham produced 136,811 tractors—89 per cent of all the tractors produced in England.

In 1945, with the request of the Government, the tractor was re-designed with greater power and fitted with three-point linkage and thus the Fordson Major was born. By 1952, when production of this model ceased, 233,100 Fordson Majors had been produced.

In 1952, the New Fordson Major was completely re-designed with a choice of diesel, petrol and paraffin engines and incorporating wet cylinder liners, five bearing crankshaft, overhead valves, re-circulatory ball steering and a six-speed gearbox. The diesel engine at once leapt into favour and today Ford Dagenham is building over 99 per cent of its production in this diesel form. To date over 200,000 New Fordson Major tractors have been produced at Dagenham, the majority going to overseas markets all over the world.

In ploughing matches in every country, more and more competitors are turning to Fordson Major and in England, Fordson Majors are well among the winners at all ploughing matches. In the country year Hugh Barr, on a Fordson Major tractor with a Ransome plough, took the championship in 1954, 1955 and 1956.

E.A.W.L. GOES BACK OVER 40 YEARS OF REMARKABLE ACHIEVEMENT

THE ORIGIN and early history of the East African Women's League go back to the latter days of the First World War. It is a story of self-interest in the early 1920's and in the growing demand in Kenya for some form of democratic representation in the government and in Legislative Council.

Nairobi, always the headquarters of the E.A.W.L., was the scene of its inception. It was formed by a group of women who were at that time represented by the Executive Committee of the Kenya Branch of the British Women's Franchise Association.

VOTE QUESTION

As it appeared that some of those groups were considered that voting should be restricted to men, a meeting was held in Nairobi, Kenya, on June 14, 1917, at which Mrs. Macgregor was the guest of honor.

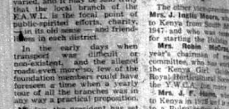

FIRST HOME

Early in the 1910's, a committee was organized to endeavor to send Kenya's first woman to the Legislative Council in Nairobi. In 1918, the League organized an appeal for funds to help the candidature.

LONG-TERM AIM

The second and last term aim agreed at the League in Nairobi in 1917, was to secure an interest in, and action on, any measure, whether affecting the welfare and happiness of women and children of Kenya.

The League was not slow to see the possibilities of expansion. Although its first concern was with the health of the citizens of Nairobi, it was instrumental in getting municipal regulations passed to

All social decisions attend the League and its work right in the heart of the town. The room, which is the property of the League, is open daily from 10 o'clock to 4 o'clock.

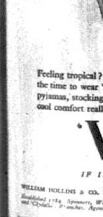

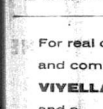

There is the friendly atmosphere of Mrs. F. Mann's Hall, which welcome all members of the League and friends alike at all times. The room is open daily from 10 o'clock to 4 o'clock.

The League is also in possession of a large hall in Nairobi, which is used for the holding of meetings and other social events.

you'll be on the crest of a wave in South Africa!

Know of anything more bracing than a cool sea breeze? And there are plenty of ways of keeping cool and happy in South Africa. Take a surf board out and ride a comber in... with goggles and snorkel explore the undersea waterland... or just play lazily in the friendly sun. For variety, ride and ramble from one of many hosteries up near the snow. And, for a while step into a sophisticated rhythm in one of the Union's big cities. South Africa is so easy to come to, and it has so much, so very much, to offer.

TWO CENTURES OF HISTORY AT ROYAL ASCOT

By E. R. YARHAM

ASCOT race meeting is the greatest outdoor summer gathering of society in Britain. It is famous for its fascinating history of fashion and beauty.

For more than two centuries Ascot has been the favourite meeting with Royalty, partly because it is so close to Windsor, and as a result society is seen there in full magnificence. Ascot fashions are talked about, for weeks before and after the races, and the world of staid and fashion is to be seen in the various enclosures.

There is a tradition in the land that the ladies in the Royal Box at Ascot were the first to wear dress worn by the aristocracy.

These are two beautiful scenes to view the waiting maids in their blue and white uniforms, and the ladies in their gowns and hats, and the men in their frock coats and top hats.

There are many of these beautiful scenes to be seen in the Royal Box, and the ladies in their gowns and hats, and the men in their frock coats and top hats.

PELAGIC HELP NATIONS ACHIEVE SELF-ROLE More responsibility ahead for Africans RACIAL HARMONY

BRITAIN pledged in the United Nations Trusteeship Council to help test territories to go forward to self-government and help people to prepare themselves for the great responsibilities which lie ahead of them.

The British delegate, Sir Andrew Cohen, former Governor of Uganda, said Africans in Tanganyika need have no fears for their future or they would undoubtedly play a part which is the biggest of all the trust territories.

Referring to the introduction of elections, Sir Andrew told the Council that although the composition of a legislative Council was important, it was less important than the working together of people drawn from different racial and different parts of Tanganyika. There was a view, he said, that the introduction of elections was a step by step, neither too quickly nor too slowly.

U.S. Tribute to Britain
 On the basis of present policies and plans, no one could say they were not moving forward and looking ahead to the future. Ships were being taken to expand and improve African education and to promote the economic well-being of Africans.

The United States had only the greatest admiration for the way British officials had promoted self-government not only in Africa but in other parts of the world.

Terms of the Charter and the trust territories were discussed in detail and the United Kingdom was praised for its part in the development of the Territory. The United Kingdom was praised for its part in the development of the Territory.

Russian 'invasion' in field of philately

AMONG the latest stamps to be issued is one which is proving quite a talking-point among collectors devoted to philately—and also among admirers of the fallacy of Robert Burns, Scotland's national poet, the biography of whose birth will be celebrated through the world on January 25, 1935.

It contains the famous limited issue of 24 stamps, more than 100 years ago, in the form of a picture crossword.

A WONDER DOG IN FILM DEBUT

KELLY, a talented German shepherd, makes his debut in the Van Johnson-Piper Laurie comedy-drama, Kelly and Me which comes to the Empire Cinema next week.

The story of a down-and-out vaudeville performer who finds success only when he teams up with a dog, the film gives audiences a nostalgic Technicolor-CinemaScope peek into the last great days of vaudeville in the early 1930s. And when the dog takes his erstwhile master to Hollywood for a fling at screen stardom, audiences are let in on some hilariously funny scenes of film-making in that era.

Setting of Van Johnson in the role of the vaudeville marks his welcome return to singing and dancing roles. Several very able comedians, notably two absolutely hilarious ones, the young and peppy and pleasant Kelly in one of the most versatile and perfectly trained dog stunts on the screen. It benefits while she plays it as the dog in an endless series of show-stopping stunts. That would be difficult, even for a human star.

Directed by Piper Laurie, the film is the story of a daughter of a motion picture studio head, and starts off as a slyly serene young Mrs. Laurie, making in her role, a good change of pace from her usual serious role. The film is especially contained and full of life, with a first-rate performance.

Directed by Michael Anderson and Frank Wisbar are in the supporting cast. Direction by Robert Z. Leonard and production by Robert Aschur. (Help immensely in making Kelly and Me a lively, amusing and sentimental success.

FORMAL VISIT BY WARSHIPS

The British ship of the line, H.M.S. "Dorsetshire" with flagship, the "Calcutta" and three escorts will arrive at Bombay on June 25 on formal visit.

The British fleet of 175 ships will visit the port for two days and will be accompanied by a gunnery school.

The British fleet will be the largest ever to visit the port of Bombay.

MODERNISING AND EXPANDING FORCES ON THE HIGH SEAS

In the long history of the development of India's naval forces, the period after independence is stated to be the most significant. India is modernising her fleet and shore establishments and preparing to be self-sufficient in training.

During the past ten years also, the navy has shown its readiness in the role of a Service carrying India's message of good will and friendship to countries near and far. On such goodwill missions ships of the Indian Fleet have visited more than 25 countries in East Asia, West Asia and Europe.

The history of the Indian Navy, as it is known today, dates back to 1613, when the Indian Marine was constituted as a fighting force of the British East India Company and played its part in the wars against the Portuguese and the Dutch in the 17th century.

In 1685, the headquarters of the Indian Marine were moved from Surat to Bombay and the next year the name of the Service was changed to Bombay Marine, by which name it was known till 1838.

Up to 1723, the ships of the Marine were built at Surat, but in that year the present naval dockyard site in Bombay was acquired and developed as a building yard. By 1772 the Bombay dockyard was comparable with any in the world and it was universally recognised that a Bombay-built ship was superior to many vessels built in Europe.

The only ship-of-the-line built for the Royal Navy outside the United Kingdom ever built in Bombay.

DURING THE WARS

During the First World War several of the ironclads of the Royal Indian Marine (as the Service was then known) were converted to auxiliary cruisers, and in this capacity they served with the East Indies Squadron of the Royal Navy in the Persian Gulf and Red Sea.

After the Armistice in 1918, the Royal Indian Marine was reconstituted as a permanent fighting force.

Six years later, the Indian Navy Discipline Act was passed by the Indian Legislature and on September 1934, the Royal Indian Navy came into being.

During the Second World War the navy expanded from a force of some 2,000 officers and men to a total strength of 30,000 and more than 10,000 men are now in the fleet.

CHARTING SEAS

Ships of the Royal Indian Navy undertake survey of the North Atlantic and the Indian Ocean and also assist various oceanic operations.

The Royal Indian Navy acted in support of army operations in Burma and took part in several successful air-sea operations in the Bay of Arakan Coast. After the war, Arakan

Navies of India in golden days

INDIA'S Navy has a long history although its origin is definitely obscure. There is definite evidence that the British East India Company had a small naval force in the Indian Ocean as early as 1613.

As there was a flourishing shipbuilding industry in India and an abundance of timber that grew on the rivers, the main reason for trade, construction of wooden vessels was not uncommon.

Accout on trade

In the midst of the trade boom of India, the British East India Company and its unincorporated trading companies, including the Royal India Company, were engaged in a struggle for supremacy in the Indian Ocean.

In order to secure a monopoly of trade in the Indian Ocean, the British East India Company was granted a charter by the British Government in 1600, which gave it the right to trade with all countries west of the Cape of Good Hope and east of the Cape of Hope.

The British East India Company was also granted the right to trade with all countries west of the Cape of Good Hope and east of the Cape of Hope.

The first reference to the British East India Company is contained in the charter of the British East India Company in 1600.

In Roman times

During the Mauryan period and before the Mauryan period, the British East India Company had a small naval force in the Indian Ocean.

The British East India Company was also engaged in a struggle for supremacy in the Indian Ocean.

A lingerie guide for the bride

BY EILEEN ANDERSON
SOMETHING old and something new... We won't take 'something old' too literally in connection with the bride's trousseau lingerie. For of course, every gownmaker would be as glad to oblige as to furnish you with a 'something new'.

But in inspiration the latest lingerie is not indeed borrowed from Victorian times when a nightie was more than a worn-of-iron-rod contrivance, and took several months to make.

IRONING ENDED
I like this 'old-fashioned' lingerie, because it is a real 'something old' which is a real 'something new'.

WOMEN FROM ALL RACES WORK FOR UNITY

Appeal by Governor

WOMEN of all communities in Kenya have a most important part to play in fostering better race relations, the Governor of Kenya, Sir Evelyn Baring, told members of the East African Women's League yesterday.

European women in particular, he said, should be particularly assisting women of other races in the Colony. A happy family, he said, is a happy country, and unity which was not based firmly on family life could not be maintained.

The Governor, who was speaking at a luncheon in company with the members of the League, said that the "future of this country" depended on the willingness of men and women to work together.

The Governor said that the League is a very important institution in Kenya, and that it should be a body which would be a help to all women in the Colony.

Slump at many Nairobi hotels

ONE CLOSING DOWN

MANY of Nairobi's hotels are experiencing a slump in demand for accommodation and one of the worst has closed. The proprietor said that the cost of repairs, wages and other expenses, together with less demand, was too much for him to bear.

At the 27-room hotel he has been operating for some time. A number of his staff have been laid off and the hotel is now closed.

After it closed, the hotel was to be put up for sale but the proprietor has decided to wait.

Shortage of cash was one of the reasons for the slump. The proprietor said that he had to pay for repairs and other expenses, but that he had no cash to do so.

RAILWAY FREIGHT RATES TO GO UP OCTOBER

FARES INCREASE

RAILWAY freight charges and passenger fares will go up in East Africa from October 1. Live stock rates and several goods traffic rates will be increased by 15 per cent. The higher charges will affect both export goods and commodities for use within the country.

The East African Railways and Harbours Administration announced yesterday that passenger fares had been revised on the following basis:

First class: 5/- a passenger mile. Second class: 4/- a passenger mile. Third class: 3/- a passenger mile. Single first-class ticket from Nairobi to Mombasa will cost an extra 11/6.

Fares for carrying timber from London to the Coast will go up by more than 4/-.

Rising costs and wages, however, interest rates on loans, railway services and the need for further expansion of the Administration for the increases. It is estimated that an extra 20 per cent will be needed to maintain the service on a sound financial basis.

The Director of Railways, Sir William Robertson, said that the proposed fare increases will be passed on to the public in the form of a 15 per cent increase in freight rates. ROYAL NORWICH PROUD AND PROGRESSIVE FOR 1,000 YEARS

By KENNETH HOLMES

NORWICH, gem of East Angles and host to the Royal Agricultural and natural centre of one of the leading agricultural areas in the world, its pride rests in long history, great beauty, thriving industry and the wonderful balance of old and new amid of mellow and modern. The countryside around Norwich they hear of the famous inland waters of the Norfolk Broads.

It is gently undulating and to many people unbelieveably lush, fertile countryside. Decadent towns with the fields many of them only an acre or two in area with others up to 100 acres.

From the air it appears as a patchwork of green shades with the golden sands and blue waters of the coast forming a picture in such a rich setting in Norwich—city of a thousand years.

SINCE A.D. 800

Norwich had some sort of town since the year A.D. 800 and a few centuries later was the second city of London in size and volume of trade and commerce extending to the whole of England.

As a city it has prospered ever since the century.

FINE HERITAGE

Perhaps the main factor, however, in that from the Norman days the city of Norwich has been distinguished by its fine heritage and the working of their hands.

They are, too, a real and people capable of great industry. Following the Industrial Revolution, the city of Norwich became for a while what the city of the world is today—a great industrial city.

of buildings dating from Norman times to the present

Today, some of the city's thriving industries, such as light engineering and the production of wire netting, which has a long history in Norwich, are still in operation.

The city is growing fast for the second time in its history, and the number of houses built in the city since the war has been estimated at 10,000.

VARIED STYLES

During the last few years much work has been done in the great cathedrals, churches and other buildings of the city, and the result is a fine variety of styles.

of buildings dating from Norman times to the present

The other city building in Norwich is the Guildhall, built between 1400 and 1510, and claimed to be among the finest examples of its work.

Particularly delightful are the Georgian houses, the houses of the 18th century, and the houses of the 19th century, which were built in the city during the last few years.

Another feature of Norwich is the houses of the 18th century, which were built in the city during the last few years.

NORWICH, Norfolk and East Angles' chief town

BAD BOYS MAKING GOOD AS CRAFTSMEN

TODAY, the Minister for Housing, Mr. W. R. Havlock, opens the Urban District Council centre at Naivasha. Part of that centre—the new brick school—has been built by 30 boys who were in the Kaburu Approved School. These 30 boys were expelled on to the streets on the day that the centre was opened.

THIS year was putting his skill to creating a Kenya Police sign . . . the iveterate car thief was lettering a vehicle door . . . and the murderer was planning a league of timber.

They were aged 15 and 17, and their KAS installed chairs told the world they belonged— it that is the right word—the Kaburu Approved School. These 30 boys—good-craftsmen—their names among the 300 Akilakia, Matuu and Mwangi whom I visited this week.

From the same approved school without bars, 30 boy-artisans—selected by the school's senior technical officer, Mr. Harry Burns—have completed a job of work at Naivasha that would do credit to mature and experienced builders. I was told at the school: "Your picture will not be complete unless you go down to Naivasha." I went down to Naivasha.

Practical lesson
There I saw a 100-year-old trade school for 30 student carpenters, mechanics, ironworkers and a kitchen—the result of ten years' work.

The cost of putting up the trade school—part of a National U.D.C. estate that the Minister for Housing, Mr. W. R. Havlock, is to open today—has been held at £2,000. It might have been nearer £1,500.

The workshop block is an attractive white building with a semi-circular 'style roof' the decorations are descended in the African look incorporated since its inception.

Mostly Africans
Labour costs charged to the account for the three blocks amount to a little less than £100 apart from paying a fee to the architect for the design and his own experience in making construction work.

This is the second project carried out by the Kaburu school at Naivasha for nearly in a completely new building last year. To train delinquents, many of whom arrive either directly or indirectly from the streets of Nairobi, the school has been set up in a building which can be used for many purposes.

It is a boy who must be placed on his feet. He must be given a job to do. He must be given a chance to show that he can be a useful member of society.

A boy will arrive a petty thief. He will be given a job to do. He will be given a chance to show that he can be a useful member of society.

THE DOROBO A LAST AND VANISHING LINK WITH PRE-HISTORY

By ERROL WHITALL

WITH the reception of the last 13 Dorobo families within the Oluengurane Settlement, the wanderings of the Dorobo peoples have ended. Ever since the advent of the first explorers, these people have been known as a hunting race of forest dwellers primitive and elusive.

They lived in small settlements throughout the high forest lands of Kenya and Tanganyika and, although they had been associated with the Nandi, Kipsigis, Masai, Galla and Kikuyu tribes, the available evidence would point to the fact that they were not in any way related to those tribes but that they were the original inhabitants of Eastern Africa.

The Basia negro, who had been recognised by the southern and central tribes, had learned the use of the axe at the time of the Christian era, and with time they were able to defeat vast areas, and with the resultant coming the people moved westwards, and east of Lake Chad in a steady stream which eventually reached the Zambesi and the Indian Ocean.

The eastern tribes of the Basia, the Kikuyu of Kenya, arrived in the Mount Kenya area in the 10th century and their folk legends suggest that they met with a small race—possibly a negrito—who they drove out or partially absorbed, except the one group who remained still in the forest.

The Kikuyu encroached these lands, thus depriving them of the wild game essential to their survival, and on late in the 15th century the Dorobo were driven from the forest. It is believed that the first of the Dorobo entered the forest through the central corridor of the East African Rift, and from there they moved southwards to the coast. It is believed that the Dorobo had been in the forest since the beginning of the world, and that the Dorobo were the last of the primitive races to be discovered that enter Dorobo groups that necessary the Masai and the Nandi from the north on the north migration.

MASTER TRIBE

It is believed that the Dorobo were the master tribe of the Hamitic peoples of East Africa, and that they were the first to enter the forest from the north. It is believed that the Dorobo were the first to enter the forest from the north, and that they were the first to enter the forest from the north. It is believed that the Dorobo were the first to enter the forest from the north, and that they were the first to enter the forest from the north.

GREAT MIGRATIONS

These people lived in the Blue Nile area of North-Western Ethiopia and, at that time, were overrun by the Hamitic invasions from the north. It is believed that the Dorobo were the first to enter the forest from the north, and that they were the first to enter the forest from the north.

A Dorobo tribe

It is believed that the Dorobo were the first to enter the forest from the north, and that they were the first to enter the forest from the north.

SMALL STATURE

This also applies to the Dorobo who are known to have been of small stature, and who were the first to enter the forest from the north. It is believed that the Dorobo were the first to enter the forest from the north, and that they were the first to enter the forest from the north.

AQUASPORTS—LATEST CLUB FOR THRILLS AND SPILLS

Just like ducks to water...

FEATURING SPORT

What Do You Know About Sport?

BETTY ARCHER, a keen competitor in aquasports, contributes this article on the Aquasports Club of Kenya. Further informative and humorous reminiscences will be published later.

One of the most popular sports in Kenya is that run by the aquasports enthusiasts — and yet it was founded only three years ago from very simple beginnings. The name and name were conceived by Tom Richardson, well known in motor racing circles.

He saw a hydroplane at Mombasa, bought it, brought it to Nairobi and, one cold windy afternoon, a few enthusiasts gathered at Nairobi dam for the first trial. This craft, fitted with a powerful 200 h.p. engine and its performance created such great interest that Tom asked Bow Archer to form a club.

It was not long before it was essential to have water and a maximum of a 1000 sq. ft. map of the Nairobi area showed that the only place left to leave the most profitable use of any search for a suitable site.

With this in mind he done, it was essential to have water and a maximum of a 1000 sq. ft. map of the Nairobi area showed that the only place left to leave the most profitable use of any search for a suitable site.

With invaluable help from Bow Archer, permission was obtained from the Nairobi Municipal Council for the club to be situated on the dam. The club was formed in 1951 and its first meeting was held on the 11th of June. The club has since then been growing and its membership has increased to over 100 members.

Boating round the lake... consulting hydroplane, Freddie Williams and Max Hately of the Aquasports Club.

Enthusiastic divers overcome every hurdle and hippo

Notable swimmers later on the lower course of the Nile... the secretary hit a rock and sent out of the boat on to his head — thereby earning the nickname of "Rocky" Kelly.

Mr. Browning, in the ladies race, hit a corker drum and tipped a large hole in the side of the boat but carried on for a day apparently oblivious of anything being wrong.

Meanwhile, husband was leaving his hair on the shore. There was the wonderful sight of some jetties on the shore built a submersible's stack.

They covered this construction to a point of anchorage in the centre of the lake. One day they were half-way across when it started to disintegrate in a very dramatic fashion.

At one occasion a healthy bull leaping stage sea was seen.

The highlight of one meeting was when our present Commodore Potts was in collision with Pargame in his beautifully built boat, both divers also into the water and Mr. Potts' boat sank.

On the 11th of June, the club held its first meeting on the dam. The club has since then been growing and its membership has increased to over 100 members.

FAITH WITHIN THE ELECTORATE

Comment on Highlands

Mr. H. W. NEILL, Minister for Agriculture and Fisheries for Ruff Valley, last night denied that he had been guilty of a breach of faith with his constituents or of a breach of pledges.

Mr. Neill commenting on his speech in Kenya Legislative Council, which was referred to the development of Government of which I am a member, in the Highlands, said that he had not broken faith with his constituents.

LIMURU TO ACT OVER SECURITY

Not satisfied

DISSENTIATION with Government security measures and movements control in the Highlands has been expressed by the chairman of the Limuru Agricultural Association, Mr. G. W. O'Connell.

He reported that although the association was still satisfied with the Government's policy, it was not a coequal partner in the security measures. He had met the District Commissioner and the Government representative and it would be effected in security and increasing production.

NEW TAXI AND TRAVEL CENTRE

OPENED IN CITY Private garage facilities

Three years ago the Overland Co. Ltd. of Nairobi, commenced a series of three taxi and small premises in Whitehouse Road.

Today the company opens a large new building called Travel House, in Stewart Street and they have a fleet of nearly 100 vehicles. The new building provides accommodation not only for the company's fleet of taxis and safari cars but also for 350 privately owned cars and a subsidiary company known as the Nairobi Travel Service.

Lack of space has prompted the company to build the new premises. Messrs Hughes and Hutchinson. There were ten buildings comprising each floor and the space of entry and exit based on a traditional circular structure.

The cost of the building, which is constructed of steel and concrete, took exactly 100 working days.

Working space fully booked

Mr. Fred Salter, managing director of the company, said this week that the new premises of providing car parking facilities was "basically welcomed".

The demand for parking space was so heavy that we were fully booked up weeks ago. He said. "Most of the parking space is rented on a long term contract as well as on a short term basis for car-owners".

The demand for parking space varies from £3 to £5 for overnight parking to £2.00 and £3 for road parking. But Mr. Salter said that it was not a serious proposition on its own.

"To make it pay we have had to make it pay by providing a service here. We intend to provide a service which will include washing, oiling and greasing, servicing and more. All of that can be done while the car is parked."

Liquidation of old company

But the main business of the firm is arranging, safety, transport and accommodation work. Mr. Salter said that the company had changed drastically in the last few years. The firm had some 400 employees but now only 100 remain. He added that he had been given a mandate to liquidate the old company.

The old company was liquidated in this type of service. "But we have more safety booked than we have space for," he said. "I have more safety booked than we have space for," he said. "I have more safety booked than we have space for," he said.

A good deal of space has been rented on a long term basis on all air lines and shipping lines.

It is a curious story, driving school, the provision of the Kenya Wild Life Department, a showroom for the company.

THE OVERLAND COMPANY (1956) LTD. ANNOUNCES WITH PRIDE THE OPENING OF ITS MULTI-STOURED PARKING BUILDING IN NAIROBI

OVERLAND

All operators at this Service Station have received a course of instruction at the Shell Retail training centre.

the complete service

This £140,000 building, bordered by York Street, Stewart Street and Queenway, is the answer to the parking problem for almost 400 motorists.

That is the number of cars which can be accommodated in the Company's new five-storey building, which is now in operation.

Much of the parking space in the remarkable building of reinforced concrete has already been booked by some of Nairobi's leading commercial organisations to provide parking facilities for their staff, while other space has been reserved by members of the professions.

The building operates on a double-line traffic system with upward and downward ramps. Business men hesitating to work will be able to drive in and park their cars themselves, or to hand over their vehicles to Overland's experienced drivers who will park the cars for them.

There is a fast passenger lift service linking all the floors, and an extensive communications system. Overland drivers will be stationed on all floors and, when motorists arrive to collect their cars, the central office, on the ground floor, will phone for the cars to be brought down.

On the ground floor also is a large Shell petrol station which will offer motorists a 24-hour service. This will include oiling and greasing — for which the Shell Company is installing its most modern equipment — as well as car-washing, polishing and a comprehensive tyre service.

Parking fees range from Shs. 20 to Shs. 50 a month for roof parking, and Shs. 60 to Shs. 100 for covered parking, according to the size of the car and its position in the building.

The original Overland Company Ltd. was incorporated in 1948 and at that time ran a taxi, self-drive and car hire service. From a fleet of 11 cars the Company now owns some 50 vehicles, including 29 large modern American cars. Overland chauffeur-driven cars take tourists as far afield as the Belgian Congo and South Africa.

In recent years the Company has supplied chauffeur-driven cars under contract to the majority of film companies operating in East Africa, the East Africa High Commission, the East Africa Royal Commission, various airline services and many overseas travel agents.

During 1951 the Company built a repair workshop in the light industrial area, and this has been fully equipped to undertake all repairs to their fleet.

It was in 1956 that the Company was formed into a Public Limited Company, and Convertible Debentures and Preference Shares were issued to the public. The Board of Directors of the Company consists of Mr. A. D. Adams (Chairman), Mr. F. Salter (Managing Director), Mrs. E. Campbell-Gillies, Mr. C. L. M. Campbell-Gillies, Mr. M. W. Dunford, and Mr. S. G. Ghersi.

These enterprising people have converted an idea into reality, and are proud to add a contribution to the solution of the constant problem of parking within the city.

Fully aware, too, that comfortable living conditions are necessary to create a cheerful and loyal staff, the Company constructed staff quarters in Donmush Road in 1954, and can now offer accommodation to all of its African employees who wish to take advantage of it.

DOES YOUR SON WANT TO BE A DOCTOR?

Whether your son or your daughter wants to be, one thing is certain. It is going to cost you money. Some parents rely on casual savings to provide a sufficient sum, while others hope that a larger income will be available to meet the expense. But that is an uncertain way to do it. The sure and safe way is to take out an EDUCATIONAL ENDOWMENT ASSURANCE POLICY.

ASHLEY COOPER CRUSHES FORMER WIMBLEDON ACE

Power tennis made Drobny look like a second-rater

In a devastating exhibition of controlled power tennis, Ashley Cooper on Wednesday crushed Jaroslav Drobny, hero of many past centre-court matches, in his second-round match at Wimbledon by 6-1, 8-3, 6-3 in only 65 minutes. No player in the post-war era has caught the imagination of the Wimbledon audience quite like Drobny.

In three sets of a knock-out match, the former champion's court game was made to look second-rate by Cooper's attack. The only loss of time, other than that taken by the crowd, was when Drobny's second set was suspended for 15 minutes because of rain.

Double against India

The United States have had their first Wimbledon doubles triumph in 104 years when the team of Ashley Cooper and Drobny, who were defeated in the first round of the men's singles, won the doubles title by 3-6, 7-5, 7-6, 6-2.

Men's singles

The first round of the men's singles was completed on Wednesday. The only upset of the day was when Ashley Cooper, who was defeated in the first round of the men's singles, won the doubles title by 3-6, 7-5, 7-6, 6-2.

Women's singles

The first round of the women's singles was completed on Wednesday. The only upset of the day was when Ashley Cooper, who was defeated in the first round of the men's singles, won the doubles title by 3-6, 7-5, 7-6, 6-2.

COMBINED SCHOOLS did not repeat their good win of last year when they met a Rugby Union XI in their annual fixture at Ngong Road on Wednesday.
