CLOSING IN RA.F. blasts Nizwa fort as troops move to attack

WHILE R.A.F. Newton fighters yesterday carried their offensive to the rebel capital of Muscat and Oman were moving up from several points in preparation for an attack on the fort. In the last of 12 sorties, the Newton jets, which are operating from their base at Sharjah, came within 100 feet of the walls of the fort, with rockets and cannon shells. Pilots returning to refuel and rearm at Sharjah, said they were in the air for 45 minutes. There was no sign of any fire from the fort, which the R.A.F. believed to be the headquarters of the rebels. The fort is situated on a hillside overlooking the town of Nizwa. The fort is a large, circular structure with a central tower. It is surrounded by a high wall and has a moat in front of it. ## ALL MODERN COMFORTS—AT THE HOME OF PREHISTORIC MAN

Olorogaisalie—an opportunity to discover the past

FEATURING CHILDREN

IVOR DAVIS writes on a visit to the prehistoric site at Olorogaisalie where amenities have been provided to attract local visitors and tourists to take a look at the past.

TWENTIETH-CENTURY comforts have been provided for Modern Man to visit the home of his prehistoric ancestors at Olorogaisalie—43 miles down the Nairobi-Mogadi Road. Perhaps the most interesting site of its kind in East Africa, it has the added attractions of having friendly Masai and an abundance of big game in the area.

The Warden of the Prehistoric Sites of the Royal National Parks of Kenya, Dr. Merrick Pusemansky, who was appointed nine months ago, hopes that the amenities provided will draw more local visitors as well as tourists to Olorogaisalie. Six people—bringing their own food—can be accommodated in the bandas, which have showers and kitchens.

Set in white lake deposits, the site was noticed first by a geologist called J. W. Gregory in 1893 and re-discovered by Mrs. L. S. B. Leakey, wife of the Coryndon Museum Curator, in 1942.

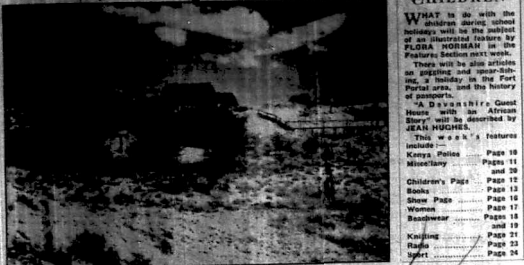

Thousands of handaxes and stone tools were discovered in the site. The bones were then sent to the British Museum. Mrs. Leakey and her husband, with the help of Miss Pusemansky and others, have excavated the site and discovered the remains of a prehistoric man who lived there about 100,000 years ago.

It was at the Akrotiri, near the French city of Athens that the first handaxe was discovered. Later, the first modern man was discovered in the site. Mrs. Leakey and her husband, with the help of Miss Pusemansky and others, have excavated the site and discovered the remains of a prehistoric man who lived there about 100,000 years ago.

AXES AND BONES
These pre-shaped implements were used for cutting and flaking but shagging up roots and rough churning and cutting around 150,000 to 100,000 years B.C.

Besides the axes and bones, the site also produced the remains of a prehistoric man who lived there about 100,000 years ago. The site was discovered by Mrs. Leakey and her husband, with the help of Miss Pusemansky and others, who have excavated the site and discovered the remains of a prehistoric man who lived there about 100,000 years ago.

At a recent conference, he used a handaxe to cut a piece of wood and remove the flesh from a small animal in 15 minutes. But the flaking weapon of the period was essentially the bone—three stone balls, each weighing in a variable and part of a pre-historic air-raid. A hole of this nature is wrapped in plastic to show how the air-raid hole was made. The hole is 22 inches deep and 12 inches wide. The experienced archaeologist who told the habits and ways of the prehistoric man from whom he took the bones.

At Olorogaisalie, for example, it is chiefly oxen, but also sheep, that are used for food. The site was discovered by Mrs. Leakey and her husband, with the help of Miss Pusemansky and others, who have excavated the site and discovered the remains of a prehistoric man who lived there about 100,000 years ago.

And it is this prehistoric progress of man—whether in Britain, France, Italy, India or Kenya—that makes the study of archaeology an exciting and worthwhile study.

FIRST HOMES
Dr. Pusemansky—who is 29 and lives in a banda on the site, the only European within a radius of 25 miles—was on a conducted tour of Olorogaisalie's site covered excavation site.

The first was a hollow—shallowly filled with stones and fossils to make a natural shelter. Another "habitation" was a shallow depression in the ground.

THREE MEN IN A BOAT SAIL INTO TROUBLE

ONE of the year's funniest comedy successes, Three Men in a Boat, comes to the Playhouse next week. Filmed in CinemaScope and Eastman Color, it stars Laurence Harvey, Jimmy Edwards and David Tomlinson, who are supported by Shirley Eaton, Jill Ireland and Lisa Garton. The story, based on the famous book by Jerome K. Jerome, relates the adventures of three young men — two single and one married — who, becoming bored with life, decide to take a holiday on the river.

Their names are George, Harris and J. Unfortunately, the weather is unkind and all sorts of other incidents befall them, so that their holiday becomes almost a nightmare.

LIETHE CLOUTIER PRESENT-DAY PARIS SCENE

BY SUSAN VAUGHAN
BY JEAN WISEMAN

There is little question of colour in Paris just now. The choice is between extremes of good white and off-white shades, or fierce Van Dyck yellow, orange and good red. Then there is the matter of your waistline.

If you are naturally slim, have those "vacancies" faithfully or followed one of the current diets, you will be pleased to find that the wardrobe is a pleasant change. A look at four new Paris fashions will show you why.

BRIGHT RANGE

Not the bright range of the past, but the bright range of the present, which is a large lead for the future.

POWER FILIP

The latest fashion from Paris is a light, simple, and elegant design.

ORIENTAL COOKERY

A new book of recipes for the modern home.

GRAVY SALADY (GOSH STYLE)

A new recipe for a delicious and healthy dish.

Beauty—putting you in the picture

BY EILEEN ANDERSON

The efficient secretary assured me that Miss Dorothy Widling would not have a moment, but she was on the telephone. I would have forgiven Miss Widling for many moments if I had only known to look. The wall on my right was hung from ceiling to floor with photographs of the Royal Family.

Informal tone

That is Dorothy Widling, famed in British and American for her avuncular photographs of the great and the good.

Eyes neglected

I suggested putting the face after making up, and after the face and hair.

IT MAY HELP YOU

Do your eyes for winter use. The eyes are the most important part of the face.

It's new creamy PROM

—the enriched flowing-cream home perm

It's your's. It is more than a perm. S' New Prom's enriched flowing-cream actually waves softness into your hair.

It's a quick advance on the old perm, because the hair is not so dry, and the waves are so soft and so long-lasting.

Lightening your luggage load

By EILEEN ANDERSON

A FRIGHTFUL time set for a leisure holiday slouching in a heavy luggage carrier. You had better carry the heaviest necessities, the lightest things I could find. I had a "making ready" for her. The "make ready" is a woman's ally when she is going on a trip. I had you at an angle of 45 degrees. The "make ready" is a woman's ally when she is going on a trip. BUCKET-BAGS
My favourite is a green rather than a blue or a grey in it. They are designed especially for women, though the blue is excellent with approved by many men.

School holidays mean an end to problems for the children but the beginning of many for mother. In this article, FLORA HOEGMAN reviews the situation and has some constructive suggestions to lighten an annual burden.

DURING my own days at school the holidays were heralded weeks in advance by a long dirge which we all chanted repeatedly in anticipation of approaching freedom. The negative aspect was contained in the vehemently stressed lines:—

"No more Latin, no more French, no more sitting on a hard board bench." And the firms closed with a positive picture of the kind of blissful treatment we considered fitting for the adult world for a child on holiday: "What will you have dear, what will you take?—A glass of milk and chocolate cake."

From the numbers of children who were equally glad when term time came round again it was obvious that this indulgent treatment, even if marked out at first, eventually wiled and that the pleasure of having all day with absolutely nothing to do palled, certainly for the child and, indirectly, by as much for the parents.

When tedious offerings of a noisy procession their arrival in the home for six to eight weeks by approaching the mother's part. She knows that since the morning has waned she will be faced with a recurring question: "Can you see 10th or from the other side. Can't you children and yourselves anything to do?"

SELF-AMUSEMENT

Fortunately girls and boys of all ages seem gifted to a happy extent with the ability to amuse themselves. Each other and the child who has been recruited to devote his leisurely time to a pleasing companion that his friend who may have all the latest and most attractive toys.

A little boy of my acquaintance spent days with a paddle and some rough pieces of wood fashioning an object which he earnestly hoped the best discerning grown-up world was the latest type of aircraft.

There was only a slight resemblance to the actual design model would have given him some inspiration. It was a monument to his ingenuity. This was an only child who was accustomed to turn his lack of companionship to advantage. The problem of the mother is to give her the needed satisfaction. By the time she has had a week with a young A had on children spent a day with week with friends, with a return visit arranged.

As yet this providing great model for the mother's break and the opportunity to see to the pure enjoyment of having with the house, job or freedom. Children love to run wild, but it is best to have a device that should be left completely to their own devices.

The long holiday period the berries can be charmed with a device which will give them some enjoyment and lasting value. The parent realize that the child does not stop at the end of the holiday, but should be ready to start the busy books.

READING VALUE

A REVOLUTION — IN THE KITCHEN

NEXT week the Pastora Section will introduce the first of a series of eight articles on the "Revolution in the Kitchen" — a revolution which aims at creating the home around the kitchen.

The series has been stimulated by current domestic staff problems facing the average household — problems which would appear to be increasingly acute.

CHANGING OUTLOOK

In days gone by, the home — a house, hall or farm-house — was the kitchen. More recently the kitchen moved to the living and dining-rooms, the bedroom, the bathroom or the garage — becoming the province of the servant. Today, however, with wages and other financial troubles, the household and member needs help of a different nature — a help rendered by the kitchen.

It is the province of the "Revolution in the Kitchen" articles to deal with that. Starting with a three-page article written by a leading food architect, on the history and design of the kitchen, the series will cover every possible field from education to home-saving operation.

MAJOR INTEREST

There will be advice on colour schemes, equipment, suitable materials and standard equipment on refrigerators, washing machines and stores of goods and on such matters as gas, pipes and ventilation.

Finally, in the Kitchen" is of major interest and concern for every household and it is hoped that in some way the series will benefit from the series. It is a home, round the kitchen would appear to be a sound answer to a great many problems.

PASSPORTS, TRAVEL AND THE CENTURES

By G. F. MURPHY

THERE is no definite record as to when passports were first granted, but it may be assumed that they have existed in one form or another since the beginning of civilization and the first movements of early travelers.

Little information is available in England as to the exact origin of the passport system. However, the second Act of Parliament, during the reign of Henry VIII, there is a passage—in all safe conducts to be granted to any persons, the names of whom shall be expressed.

In the 14th century, the passport system was first mentioned in England.

In 1484 (Henry VIII), the passport system was first mentioned in England. It was a document which was given to a traveler who was to go to a foreign country. The passport was a document which was given to a traveler who was to go to a foreign country. It was a document which was given to a traveler who was to go to a foreign country.

Royal signature
Up to 1820 each safe conduct was signed by the reigning monarch himself, so that it can be inferred that there was extensive use of movement almost up to the time of the reign of Charles II (1660-1685) that the passport system was introduced, and that was issued by the Secretary of State.

From that time 1794 two safe conduct passports were no longer issued. The Royal passport and the passport of the Secretary of State. One of the earliest passports still extant was issued on May 11, 1641, and signed by the Secretary of State.

Varying cost
An interesting order of the House of Commons in April 1714 was granted to any person who had a passport for a year. The passport was granted to any person who had a passport for a year. The passport was granted to any person who had a passport for a year.

Assist journeys
With the increase in travel and the necessity of getting a large number of passports or visas, the passport system was developed to expedite the over-sea-journeys.

First in Latin
Foreign visitors and travelers in England also issued passports in British territory. The passport system was developed to expedite the over-sea-journeys.

Before 1710 British passports were printed in Latin. In 1819 they were in French, but since 1852 they have always been in English with since 1917, a French translation in certain parts.

THOSE who have discovered the joys of spearguns and spearfishing are now being introduced to the sport in a new and exciting way. The book is an introduction to the sport of spearguns and spearfishing, but first, Modern Spearfishing, by Van Dyke, is highly interesting, informative and very pleasant reading.

The author, who has spearfished with the leading speargun clubs and is available for the beginner and a refresher for the "expert"—but also discusses the art and technique, provides advice on equipment and the choosing of fishing grounds and gives a valuable list of possible victims.

In the preface it is stated that the book is intended for the beginner and is written in a simple and readable style. The author is a well-known and successful spearfisher and his experience is reflected in the book.

The only other book on the subject of spearguns and spearfishing is "The Art of Spearguns and Spearfishing" by Van Dyke, which is a more comprehensive work on the subject.

Once they have got over the initial stage or when more space is given into the month they are coming up again with the idea of a spear.

All you need today is the material to make a spear. You can buy the material from a sports shop or from a specialist in the field.

It would be a pity indeed if your first attempt to spearfish should be marred by the unpleasant memory of a burn.

Having considered the art of spearguns, the next step is to get a spear. The author gives a list of materials and a list of suppliers. It is important to get a good spear.

Thousands of miles...

... in a thick cloud of dust

A Vanguard Estate Car was driven by Lt.-Col. Mundy in the 1956 Geneva-Bombay Rally - 2,500 miles of mostly rough going. Roads were 'very bad'... unimpaired with many potholes... continuously carpeted and maintained extremely bumpy... innumerable crossings of river beds. Thousands of miles in a thick cloud of dust... That was how the driver described it.

It did not affect the Vanguard Estate Car. "The Standard Vanguard Estate Car finished as brilliantly as it had begun throughout... the body almost as new and still perfectly"

AMERICAN DEFENSE SECRETS SENT TO USSR: 'SPY' FORGONE: Four others named as co-conspirators

FEDERAL Grand Jury in Brooklyn, N.Y., has indicted a Russian, Nikolai Ivanovich Abel, on charges of spying for the Soviet Union. He was described by Federal officials as a contact in the Soviet State Security Service, in charge of spying activities in the United States.

The indictment returned by the jury said that from 1948 until this year he obtained and transmitted information relating to the national defense of the United States.

Four other men, Reina Hayhanan, Alexander Korov, Michael Smith and Vitali Pavlov, were named as co-conspirators. Smith was described as a representative, agents and employees of the Government and Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

The indictment said that from 1948 until this year he obtained and transmitted information relating to the national defense of the United States as a spy and his base of operations in a biographic studio across the street from the Brooklyn Federal courthouse. The studio was for making microfilms of information for transmission to Russia.

Abel and the alleged conspirators were said to have followed out coins, pens, pencils, bolts, hand tools, cameras and similar articles so they could be used as conspirators for the transmission of information to Russia.

The indictment also charged Abel with conspiring to activate as agents within the United States certain members of the armed forces who were in a position to acquire information relating to the national defense of the United States.

It was not indicated whether this alleged attempt was successful.

Hotel arrest: Abel was arrested in a New York hotel in connection with immigration agents and a laborer in the alien detention camp at McAllen, Texas. He was arrested by New York Customs and Service men.

GREATEST HOPE YET IF REDS ADOPT PLAN: President on atom inspections

President Eisenhower said in Washington that if Russia accepted the major inspection plans now being proposed in the West, it would be the greatest step toward disarmament since the end of World War II.

He also said that the United States would be willing to accept the major inspection plans now being proposed in the West, if Russia would be willing to accept the major inspection plans now being proposed in the West.

MORE JOIN STRIKE AS FOOD PILES UP AT LONDON DOCKS

COLD storehouses yesterday joined a strike of more than 2,000 London dockers who are refusing to handle food ships, threatening a shortage of supplies. Visit by Israel army chief

Gen. Moshe Dayan, Israel's chief of staff, visited the United States today on a mission to strengthen relations between the two countries.

DOUBTS ON 958 VOTE: Wider view advocated

When the debate on the Uganda Government's motion to introduce direct elections for African Representatives resumed in the House, the leader of the Opposition, Mr. J. T. Mwanuzi, pressed for the motion to be made "more embracing."

He supported the motion but disliked what he termed its "racial implications." He opposed the option of certain districts to vote by outside the proposals and proposed further thought on the position of the Civil Service.

Mr. J. K. Bahaha (Toto) said that the motion was a "fundamental factor, a preparatory step to the future self-government of this country."

Foot-and-mouth disease research grant

£20,000 FOR INSTITUTE

A GRANT of up to £20,000 has been made by the Wellcome Trust towards the cost of building and equipping a Institute for research on foot-and-mouth disease which has caused more economic damage to the Colony's livestock industry than any other disease.

The trust was established after the war by the Hon. Henry Wellesley for the support of research in medicine and related sciences.

In 1955 a committee of the Board of Agriculture, the Kenya Government and the Hon. J. G. Stewart, Minister of Agriculture, advised the Hon. J. G. Stewart, Minister of Agriculture, to set up a research institute for the study of foot-and-mouth disease which has caused more economic damage to the Colony's livestock industry than any other disease.

The main purpose of the Institute is to carry out research on foot-and-mouth disease and to disseminate the results of this research to the public.

The Institute will be established on the site of the old Government Veterinary Hospital in Nairobi.

MEMORABLES from "Kenya Diary, 1902-1906" by Col. R. Meinhart (Olive and Sons, 28/1)

BOOKS on East Africa in its many aspects continue to appear with such frequency that the reader, already well supplied, may have come to pay little heed to them. However, occasionally there is a new one which commands attention. One has been written by Colonel R. Meinhart, the C.B.E. D.S.O., in what may be said to be the best of this genre. It is a diary which may be said to be the best of its kind.

As the author came to be not now widely known in this country, it may be well to say a few words about the man who wrote it. He was born in 1856 and was a soldier, and in his early years he was a soldier.

Books across the Abyssinian mountains. It is a book that is not only a history of the country, but also a history of the people. It is a book that is not only a history of the country, but also a history of the people. It is a book that is not only a history of the country, but also a history of the people.

Strange faces... Taken as a whole, these 100 pages of diary are almost without parallel, and give a picture of life in Kenya at a time when it was still a frontier. The author begins his diary in 1902, and ends it in 1906. It is a diary that is not only a history of the country, but also a history of the people.

Animals observed... Earth hunters were reported to be numerous in the country. The author observed many animals, and he was not alone in his observations. He was not alone in his observations. He was not alone in his observations.

Rhino at the races... "None of the horns had been cut," says the author. It is a rhino that is not only a rhino, but also a rhino. It is a rhino that is not only a rhino, but also a rhino. It is a rhino that is not only a rhino, but also a rhino.

Elephant hunter shows patience and skill... The elephant hunter shows patience and skill. It is a hunter that is not only a hunter, but also a hunter. It is a hunter that is not only a hunter, but also a hunter. It is a hunter that is not only a hunter, but also a hunter.

Three illustrations from "Kenya Diary, 1902-1906". Above, the author with 'mule' and 'mules of the East Coast' at Nairobi in March, 1902. Top left, the Lieutenant or captain of Col. Meinhart's Hussar Cavalry.

Imperial Duty in Action... brother officers declining a second ride. It is a duty that is not only a duty, but also a duty. It is a duty that is not only a duty, but also a duty. It is a duty that is not only a duty, but also a duty.

Summing up Kikuyu... And so to a more delicate point. At the camp, Col. Meinhart writes in the diary that he was going to see that East Africa was a white man's country.

Imperial duty and ruthlessness... The kind of duty was done with great thoroughness and with the most scrupulous regard for the rights of the natives. It is a duty that is not only a duty, but also a duty. It is a duty that is not only a duty, but also a duty.

'Life never sacred'... "In the end it was not a great success," says the author. It is a life that is not only a life, but also a life. It is a life that is not only a life, but also a life. It is a life that is not only a life, but also a life.

'Fly Safari!'... "This view is better set forth by his review of the collection of people which he has been able to make in the course of duty." It is a view that is not only a view, but also a view. It is a view that is not only a view, but also a view.

electricity 'saves time, cuts costs'

Just think: today what electricity can do. At the click of a switch, in your kitchen—work the meals, clean the house, prevent the flood, wash the clothes (and they don't ask, and of course supply instant hot water any time of the day or night. These are just a very few of the latest saving and economical uses electricity can help you to find a more efficient and cleaner kitchen—and you can't be easily proved.

The question of a kitchen, home or commercial does not arise. It is simple to install electricity in any kitchen; additional items of equipment can be added as desired—and an important point to remember—the more electricity you use, the greater the cost per unit. Qualified representatives of The African Power & Lighting Company are available by appointment to visit your home and advise you on any aspect of modernizing your kitchen in line with electricity. This is a service with no financial obligations attached.

A study of the illustrated illustration will show some indication of the nature variety of uses to which electricity can be applied in your kitchen.

Dish-washing machines save hands; crockery, glassware units have equipped the user with automatic washing machines for dishes, place mats, and boards and bakery; rubber driers have brought independence from the weather; and rotary toasters can speedily get the finishing touches to the wash-

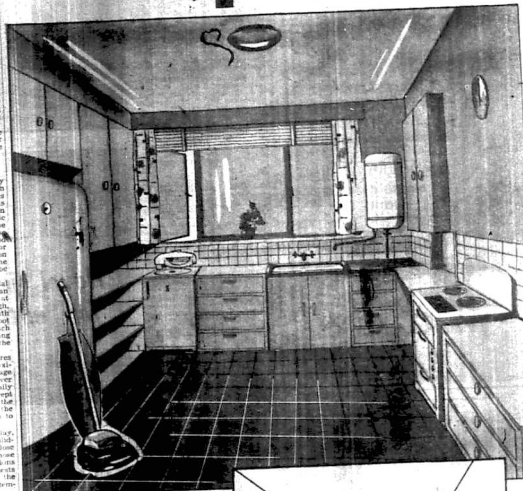

Yuck! Cleaners and polishers have emancipated the housewife from more repulsive activities. To all this equipment—as well as to the countless gas, electric, cooking utensils, serving-ware—artists, designers and manufacturers have brought a beauty of line and color, and easy-to-clean utility that one finds in the kitchen but the hallmark of a designer's taste—even in the slipperiest classic space in particular.

As the work-top requires head-room above it to support many six feet and storage space for the height over the work-top are not really a problem for working over a long-term storage. The work-top can be left open or closed during use.

For an extra capital outlay, one can purchase a sliding panel which can be raised or lowered to the height of the work-top, thus providing a very special work-top for those who may be tall that guests would not be able to reach. The availability of broken-down working components has opened new horizons.

CAPITAL OUTLAY

To build a unit employing these ideas and finishes, of course, is going to involve the expense of more money. But it is usually devoted to getting things in a standard domestic kitchen.

It is a capital investment, however. In efficiency, hygiene and labour-saving time for the housewife.

If you were to capitalise their average wage of our times, you'd be looking for a return over a period of 10 years. It would be worth it.

It is not so simple to see that this money in a market that is underdeveloped and where government is weak would be more directly to the total economic development of the Colony?

Clean and pleasant

YOUR kitchen is the heart of your home. Yet often you hear the complaint that the "heart" is hot and the "body" of the sink cold.

The three suggestions given in this page incorporate "hot" and "cold" ideas which tend to become one in the same. They form a kitchen-remodelling plan that is easy to carry out and easy-to-see equipment.

A useful feature of the modern kitchen is the built-in oven. When it is installed as a separate working unit, it can be removed by the sliding type of boiler.

AMATEURISM LIKELY TO BECOME 'LOST CAUSE' OF SPORT

By ROGER BANISTER

AMATEURISM is in danger of becoming the great lost cause of sport. The fact is as long ago as 1888 when the predecessor of the Amateur Athletic Union misinterpreted the Greek idea of amateurism by excluding "mechanic, artisan and labourer".

The Greeks believed that king could compete with commoner for the honour of victory (they actually did) and it was several centuries before Greek sport was discarded—largely as a result of professionalisation.

It is surprising that the only distinction between amateur and professional was one of professional status. The great stigma was not that of amateurism but that of professional status.

It is many years since King Henry was left in the lurch by the fact that he had no son to succeed him. He was left with a daughter married to a man from whom he was to inherit the throne.

Paul Galien, the professional manager of what was once known as the British Empire, commented when he considered sports writing as a career.

In contrast the Olympic committee has continued to be the millionaires' chairman. Avery Brundage, first American president of the organization, was a true and not a false friend.

'Fat purse' outlook detracts from the glory of victory

It is surprising that the only distinction between amateur and professional was one of professional status. The great stigma was not that of amateurism but that of professional status.

It is the leaves of amateurism that give it its professional sport an interest in that it is making in many other countries. There are many who would believe that the distinction between amateur and professional is a false one and that sport is a true and not a false friend.
