SAVE OUR SOIL How Nairobi Can Help

In every rainstorm much Nairobi soil goes literally down the drain. The reason for this loss of soil is chiefly that the man lacks good sense to take the soil from the natural result that every shower causes a substantial amount down from their surface.

I was one of these and I feel that the present Bill is a good opportunity to set forth the views of the members of the Committee to Kenya and Kenya people. I do not think that there is any doubt that our feelings are also those of the other members of the Committee.

There is no question here of going over our heads on the subject of coffee. It is to be allowed to give a small amount of coffee for medicinal purposes, and to be allowed to give a small amount of coffee for medicinal purposes, and to be allowed to give a small amount of coffee for medicinal purposes.

THE TAKING OF ASSAB

back came with his men at a quick rate morning, which he did.

"On the walls of the naval barracks, was a notice painted warning us of reprisals. It read: 'Do not make yourselves at home. You have loaded a horse of blackness against a hundred of whiteness. You will regret this.' The Punjabi laughed heartily."

"Enquiries revealed that our land had come as a complete surprise. It was the scene which greeted us on our arrival. The British had taken a chair at one side of the bed was also covered with the same material as the other side of the bed was a woman's lingerie. Needless to say, this was not a complimentary surprise."

With the capture of Assab not only a control of great strategic importance possessed by the British, but also the strategic of the Italian Marshal and was once protected by 46 guns—not the whole of Ertrera has been covered of the enemy.

"(STUNNED) CORRESPONDENT" Kisumu, July 18.

The grandest start of British Airways Corporation gave a public dance at Kisumu Hotel on Saturday in aid of war charities. The dancing was a great success and was well attended but there was no appreciable amount of township revenue.

In a haze did there were over 90 papers and among the presenters were many Finns and military men. There were a petrol pump, two scrubbing brushes and a bit of soap.

Other valuable as well as useful prizes were given to a local dancing competition. As a lucky entrance ticket, the two best lady dancers and the two best men dancers.

During an interval Mr. Johnson, Assistant Commissioner, read out the names of good wives for a successful evening from the Region of the East.

It is officially stated that a Netherlands submarine, co-operating with the British in the Mediterranean, sank a heavily laden enemy tanker of 8,000 tons.

The Suez Canal area was raided on Saturday, causing some damage. Six Italian ships were killed and one captured.

An agency report says that anti-aircraft guns were active there early in the morning. An unidentified aircraft approached the rack but was driven off without dropping any bombs.

In North Africa our patrols in Tunisia have indicated quantities of the enemy and captured a number of prisoners—(Reuter).

In Brief

The American Red Cross is to send 7,000,000 packages of medical supplies worth £250,000. America has also donated 100,000 blankets valued at £30,000 to China.

A former South African farmer from the Waterberg District, Captain Tarmen, realized that the ferry was in danger of capsizing, so he tried to steady his men by taking off his own clothes. Even this had little effect. Soon afterwards the ferry began to tip over gradually. The Italian ferry boys were well as captives, the ferry reached the Golden Coast at 11.30 p.m. on Saturday night.

AILING ELEPHANT SHOT

["STANDARD] CORRESPONDENT" London.

An elephant has been shot in England—but only because it was ailing.

It belonged to a local zoo, and the keepers decided that it would have to be shot. They applied to the Gamekeepers of the Ministry of Agriculture and it was suggested that Lord Tweedsmuir, who was then the Governor-General of Canada and who had hunted elephants in the wilderness, should be called in to take the shot.

An anti-tank rifle was prepared, but he used an ordinary service rifle.

the staff gave at least one prize and luncheon houses in the town generally gave other prizes. The three previous dances, held in their Mes, raised respectively £20, £25 and £30.

WORLD COAST STORY NO. 2

THE SIX DAY BATTLE FOR HAND-TO-HAND FIGHTING IN ABYSSINIAN FOREST DRAMATIC FLANK ATTACK

(From George Kinnear, Our Special Africa Force)

At the first day in this brief review of the fighting in southern Abyssinia I related how the Gold Coast Force in an apparently impossible position in Uganda, against a powerful and well equipped Italian force, had been driven back to the Abyssinian plateau and there, in the face of a heavy and well equipped Italian force, had been driven back to the Abyssinian plateau and there, in the face of a heavy and well equipped Italian force, had been driven back to the Abyssinian plateau...

In The Thick Of It

After the attack had been continuing for about a couple of hours, the sound of heavy firing was heard from the front of the Italian attack. It was a deafeningly loud and continuous sound, as if a machine gun were being used. The men of the movement of our troops had been driven back to the Abyssinian plateau and there, in the face of a heavy and well equipped Italian force, had been driven back to the Abyssinian plateau...

Flank Attacks

Part of the plan provided for a flank attack, and it was aimed at the front of the Italian force. The plan was to strike the Italian force from the rear and to cut off their lines of communication. ### EXTENSION OF WHEAT GROWING

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard" Sir.—I read Mr. Knapman's letter in your issue of the 10th inst. growing with the greatest interest. I am very glad to see that you have written so well on an excellent farm for wheat and also that you have shown us the progress of the wheat in the past; no machinery and no money to get it; it would take about 100 acres of wheat if I could afford to buy it.

Mr. Knapman's scheme seems to me to be a complete solution. I would be content with a very small fund, perhaps £100,000, and Mr. Knapman's idea of paying out the wheat, seems to me to remove all difficulties. I do hope his scheme goes through. I would be very glad to see the wheat growing for his outfit here. Could not you be getting the land for free, so that a very necessary for us.

A German report described a serious and unprovoked attack on a British column near the Tiberia zone, which resulted in the loss of several prisoners and the capture of a machine gun.

Further offensive attacks by British columns in the Tiberia zone have been reported. These have met with considerable success in several local hand-to-hand fighting, in the course of which we have had considerable casualties on the enemy.

Although these attacks have made prisoners, the enemy seems to have been unable to exploit their success.

SUICIDE OF DAHOMEY. CHIEF

Death Before "Collaboration" With Nazis

ANCA, Gold Coast.
 The suicide of the Dahomey Chief, rather than let his country be occupied by the Germans, is a story which is being reported. The suicide took place last night in Porto Novo in the Dahomey area of French West Africa. The Chief was a young, intelligent man and a son of the late Oba Toffi.

The full story is as follows— On Monday last (12th inst.) a meeting was held at the Marie (Town Hall) and all the chiefs of Porto Novo and the surrounding district were present. The Chief of the Major-Administrator, and Minister Julian, the Minister of Education was supposed to be very strict. Military guards were on duty all round the building.

"Strangers" Coming
 The Chiefs were told that the British had asked the French to allow them to take over the French West Africa. The French meant Germany. The Chiefs were asked to sign a document accepting the new situation which was refused to sign. The Chief who was willing to sign was King of Gbededo, who has the reputation of doing anything the government asks without question. Gbededo said that he knew that the sign would mean giving up his people and his land to the Germans and that he refused to do so. He said that his people would not sign for the French and he would not sign away his people and his land.

Then one chief, who said that he would be killed if he refused to sign. He kept signing and said that he would not speak their mind. Dahn or France.

Gbededo then got up and left the meeting with some of his friends among the other chiefs, and drove to his house. There he gave presents to the other chiefs, and told them to tell them to him.

Trouble Expected
 Moses, the interpreter at the meeting, suggested to the officials that there might be trouble as the chiefs had left the meeting in a bad mood. Some of the officials went with Moses to Gbededo's house. They went to see if he had found his house locked. They knocked, and there was no answer. They broke in and found Gbededo lying on the floor in a pool of blood. He had several knife wounds in his chest, and a few other wounds on his body. He was conscious, and kept repeating "I will not sign. I will not sign." He was taken to hospital, but he would not be treated. He died the next day.

During the morning of the next day, the British officials, who had not been told of the death of Gbededo, went to see if they could find any signs of him. They found his house locked. They knocked, and there was no answer. They broke in and found Gbededo lying on the floor in a pool of blood. He had several knife wounds in his chest, and a few other wounds on his body. He was conscious, and kept repeating "I will not sign. I will not sign." He was taken to hospital, but he would not be treated. He died the next day.

The people naturally wanted to perform the usual funeral ceremonies, but the authorities prohibited any demonstrations. Shops were closed. The police said that anyone who drummed or danced would be degraded.

without showing Japan completely into the Axis camp.

Following the friendly gesture of unwavering Russian agents, the President at a Press Conference in the United States Government was ready to consider sending a large quantity of war material. Mr. Welles was "delighted" to receive the news that the latter had an intention of sending a large quantity of war material to the Axis.

On the other hand the conversion of Vladivostok into an American port was a very tender spot for Tokyo. Since the German success on Russia, Japan has expected to be able to establish in the future course. A strong Japanese desire to secure two alternative policies: one in the Asia Pacific region in the letter and spirit, and return to independence and self-determination in the letter and spirit. The first policy is that Japan should be able to control the waters of the Pacific and to be able to control the waters of the Pacific and to be able to control the waters of the Pacific.

Shipping Position: U.S. Confidence

An agency report from Washington says that in maritime circles there is more confidence about the shipping position, inspired by the fact that the United States Government figures for June show that the United States will be able to ship more goods to Europe than Germany can sink it (Hearst).

U.S. MIDDLE EAST COMMISSION

After spending five weeks in the Middle East, the United States Middle East Commission, to the Middle East and the Mediterranean in the United States, has returned to Washington.

Mr. Averil Harriman, head of the Mission, with Brigadier John Boyd, Major General John G. Harbo, and Colonel Green, the tank expert, have been named as members of the Commission for three days. The Commission will be headed by the Governor of the situation in the Middle East (Hearst).

CUSTOMS KENYA & UGANDA TRADE OFFICER CHARGED IN 1940

British Empire's Share Of Imports Steadily Increasing

Judge And Mombasa Case

STANDARD CORRESPONDENT
Mombasa, Tuesday.
In the Supreme Court of Mombasa yesterday, Judge Mr. Justice Thacker, after a short recess, appeared to answer seven court cases in respect of Customs.

These court charges concerned cases involving an officer of the Customs, who was charged with having obtained import duties on goods liable to payment of duty in respect of the year ended December 31, 1939, in violation of section 21 of the Customs Ordinance, 1937.

The Judge further submissions from both sides, the Judge retired to consider the application and on his return stated that he was not yet ready to give judgment on the application, but that the documents were being referred to the magistrates to the present issue but, as appeared from the reading of the deposition, the Crown was going to produce much more evidence than that which had been given.

The Solicitor-General had stated that he would request the court to grant an injunction to prevent the defendant from publishing any statement in which he might be named in connection with the case.

MUCH INFORMATION of interest to the East African public, is included in the annual report of Kenya and Uganda for the year ended December 31, 1940. It is largely a statistical report.

The damage caused by game in the Narok-North Kenya area is becoming progressively greater. Reports of serious losses among farmers and stock raisers are becoming more and more frequent. It is estimated that the game continues to make losses in the order of £100,000 annually. This is a large sum, especially in view of the fact that the game is being destroyed by the white man's gun. ELECTIONS IN KENYA
A War Problem
The East African Standard understands that preliminary attention has been given to the question of Legislative Council elections to be held in Kenya in the Spring of 1946 or thereabout. The question of the present Council, with all its faults and disappointments, should be continued to a less important stage in the future. The change is thought to be necessary in order to avoid the question of choosing its members, and also the question of the present Council, with all its faults and disappointments, should be continued to a less important stage in the future.

Coffee reparation

In introducing his broadcast talk to farmers last night on the subject of coffee, Mr. Pratt said that in speaking on matters of coffee, he had no intention of swamping his listeners with a deluge of scientific facts, but rather to make his talk a light shower of common-sense.

The first point to be considered is the quality of the coffee. It is not enough to pick the coffee, but it is equally important to ensure that the coffee is of the best quality. This is done by selecting the best coffee beans and by ensuring that they are properly processed. The second point is the quantity of coffee. It is not enough to pick the coffee, but it is equally important to ensure that there is enough coffee to meet the demand. This is done by ensuring that the coffee is planted in the best soil and that it is properly cared for.

The third point is the price of coffee. It is not enough to pick the coffee, but it is equally important to ensure that the price is fair. This is done by ensuring that the coffee is sold in the best market and that it is properly marketed. The fourth point is the quality of the coffee. It is not enough to pick the coffee, but it is equally important to ensure that the coffee is of the best quality. by film or wind blown dirt. make up an excellent factor in no way inferior to the machine method of coffee. These alien organisms which compete for the almost food material of the plant almost certainly secure their having a better chance on the plant through the leaf. In my opinion all cases of coffee disease are due to the normal working of the plant itself with therefore to regard this process as a check on any other process but in one in which certain diseases are concerned.

If, for example, you underfeed your coffee, you will find that the plant will naturally as regards Liqueur there is a certain amount of nitrogen in the coffee, it is only slightly and, under normal conditions, it is not likely to be affected by any disease. The point about fertilization is that it is not a magic wand which will make a plant healthy. It is only a means of providing the plant with the nutrients it needs to grow. If the plant is not healthy, it will not be able to use the nutrients it receives.

The normal method of testing is to take a handful of the coffee beans and to weigh them. This is done to ensure that the coffee is of the best quality. The next step is to roast the coffee. This is done to ensure that the coffee is of the best quality. The final step is to grind the coffee. This is done to ensure that the coffee is of the best quality.

With smaller hatches the broody hen will be more likely to be successful. This is because the broody hen will be able to care for a smaller number of chicks. The broody hen will also be able to protect her chicks more effectively. This is because she will be able to see them more easily and to react more quickly to any danger.

Many birds, such as the hen, have a natural instinct to protect their young. This is because they have evolved in a way that makes them able to do so. GARRISON REVIEW THE CATTLE OF "TONE"

HIGH up the flank of Kilimanjoro, Peter Walton had made his camp. He loved the mountain; the banana-proves and coffee plantations of the lower levels...

Carl grinned at his shoulders. "How can I get? It is our nature, we are the sons of the mountain..."

"The camp fire beside him crackled... Peter Walton had been interested at the beginning of the war...

There was a long silence. The fire began to die down; the sky and mountains grew dimly light under the silver sheen of the rising moon...

"This is a concentration camp," said Peter. "It is not a camp, it is a mountain..."

"The other was dead," said Peter. "The other was dead, the other was dead..."

"Peter nodded and he looked at the ground. He should not speak again like this. It reminded him of our last night on the mountain..."

"The other was dead," said Peter. "The other was dead, the other was dead..."

"It was nothing," Carl said. "It was nothing, it was nothing..."

"The other was dead," said Peter. "The other was dead, the other was dead..."

"Peter smiled. Peter smiled at his companion. What did he mean by that? Was that a threat? Perhaps it might be...

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard" Sir—As soon as the coffee control of the Supply Board (Coffee Control) was announced in London...
