KENYATTA SENTENCE Achieng detained after acquittal

MR. PRITT'S NEXT STEP

The Supreme Court of Kenya, sitting at Kileleshwa yesterday in an appellate appeal, dismissed the appeal of Jomo Kenyatta against conviction and sentence on Mau Mau charges by the Kapenguria Magistrate Mr. R. S. Thacker. The appeals of Fred Kumbi, Bilalud M. Kagga, Paul Nguni, and Kungu Kurumba were also dismissed.

The Court, however, upheld the appeal of Richard Achieng, a Jalo, and ordered that he be acquitted. Achieng was later detained under the Emergency Regulations.

British Railways 'needing new approach'

UNION PRESIDENT'S VIEW

THE liability of the railways to pay their way has become a pressing problem in Britain. Since the war, fares and freight charges have been increased a number of times to meet railwaymen's wage demands and rising overheads—but this kind of vicious circle has failed to bridge the gap between revenue and outgoings.

The General will believe, nevertheless, that the nationalised railway system will survive under present conditions. He says that the only way to solve the problem is to have a fair opportunity of always giving good service to the travelling public and making a reasonable charge.

With all the good will in the world, it can never be cut sufficiently to allow services to be broken by their own view in that respect or later. The Director will have to accept responsibility for the whole or part of the cost of the railway. It is not possible to charge the management with an responsibility of always giving a service without always being at a loss.

Mr. G. H. Jones, President of the National Union of Railwaymen, has taken the view that it is better to have a fair opportunity of always giving good service to the travelling public and making a reasonable charge. He says that the only way to solve the problem is to have a fair opportunity of always giving good service to the travelling public and making a reasonable charge.

... by lack of capital and in-adequate investment resources to meet charges. The railwaymen's union is a different political outfit in the hands of the Government. It is necessary to have a new approach to the problem. The railwaymen's union is a different political outfit in the hands of the Government. It is necessary to have a new approach to the problem.

Japanese efforts to secure new markets

TO BEAT TRADE CURBS

There can be no doubt that the delay in concluding a new Anglo-Japanese trade agreement is due in large measure to the British Government's unwillingness to give way to Japanese pressure.

These restrictions can no longer be justified—as they were when Japan had a large surplus in its trade with Great Britain—on balance of payments grounds. But their retention has become a major factor of vital interest for a number of British exporting industries.

The concern that these restrictions will be abolished, a suggestion that restrictions on the colonies may be abolished, reflects their fear that such a move would be a step towards a revival of Japan's pre-war trade position.

This, the correspondent points out, would be a disaster for the British Empire, though painful, was producing a notable strengthening of economic ties.

Exchange rates

In 1952 the index of domestic credit expanded by 28 per cent, the share of free trade credit rose to 10 per cent.

The improvement in credit was due to the fact that the heavy falls have been registered by the dollar and the pound.

Included the dollar bill is only 100 per cent of a year ago, and the pound note have become devalued.

After the Cup battles:

CLUBS WILL REVERT TO LEAGUE 'GRIND'

Headington through to 4th Round

HEADINGTON UNITED, the winners League Cup from Oxford, won their F.A. Cup quarter-final at home against Slough on Thursday in the penultimate round to reach the fourth round of the competition.

The victory means that the match was played in the Eastern Division, the only team to reach the Division III quarter-final.

These were between Hill City and Brompton and Walsall and Luton City. Hill and Brompton had been drawn 1-1 after 90 minutes and in the extra time Hill took the lead through Croshaw but Brompton scored again before a late equalizer.

In a gruelling end, Walsall's home side finished a first half which when Brompton converted Coadmore's corner had several chances, were taken down on hands above a very fine hitting goal.

The only other match which was not completed was between Charlton Athletic and Northwich.

SAUSAGE INQUIRY INTO CAUSE OF DISASTER

No evidence of any structural fault

MEDICAL INVESTIGATION

INVESTIGATIONS are now proceeding into the possibility of sabotage being the cause of the disaster of the British Overseas Airways Corporation which took place at London Airport on the evening of January 17.

A thorough examination made by 200 engineers during the night at London Airport of the damaged airliners flying between London and South Africa and London and Singapore and Tokyo has shown "no evidence of structural weakness".

The Ministry of Transport announced that a public inquiry into the disaster would be held in London and that the Government would be asked to return the loss of the airliner.

The decision to start an inquiry into possible sabotage was taken after the return of medical officers from Elba, St. Raphael, Whittingham, B.O.A.C. Director of Medical Services, after a check in the office of the Minister of Transport.

It is believed that the B.O.A.C. will be responsible for the cost of the inquiry.

EVACUATION OF KIKUYU CAUSES LACK OF LABOUR

Tshika 'ready to take action for safety of local lives'

By "Observer"

The Northern Province is faced with another labour shortage now that 2,000 Kikuyu—five per cent of the farm labour—are being expelled. The possibility of a good agricultural season will again make Tanganyika Central Province, reluctant to leave their own fields.

Improvements

Declaring that people did not give the Board credit for the work it had done, Mr. Tshika said that the Board had done a great deal of work for labour but that the position could be improved. THEORY OF BOMB IN BAGGAGE

Doctor refers to 'hot' explosion

AIR MINISTER VISITS ELBA

REPORTS FROM Rome, yesterday, suggested that post-mortem examinations on the victims of the Comet disaster had established beyond all doubt that an explosion took place inside the airliner. The theory is that a bomb was concealed in the baggage.

Early yesterday, Mr. Lennox-Boyd, Minister of Transport and Civil Aviation, who during the weekend had ordered a public inquiry into the disaster, arrived in Rome to attend the funeral of some of the victims. He said that the possibility of sabotage "cannot be overlooked."

The Italian doctor who examined the bodies has reported that tiny particles embedded in the skin showed that the explosion was probably from a chemical source and that it was a "hot" explosion rather than one caused by the sudden destruction of the pressurized cabin. It occurred before the airliner hit the sea.

It was stated in London that it may be possible to determine where each passenger was sitting at the time of the explosion and, from the injuries, to locate the centre of the explosion even before the wreckage of the Comet is recovered. If a bomb had been used, it would probably have been placed among baggage and passengers nearest the baggage hold, which would be expected to suffer most.

It is presumably one reason why the Sunday statement by the B.O.A.C. reported yesterday by the East African Standard that the insurance of the Comet was being investigated. Last on Saturday, the Director of Medical Services at Great Britain, Sir Robert MacCallum, returned to Rome from the B.O.A.C. examination of the wreckage. He said that he had examined the remains of the Comet and that he had found no evidence of sabotage. He said that he had found no evidence of sabotage.

U. N. ASSEMBLY RECALL NOT UNEXPECTED

Reds Embarrass the President

THE recall of the United Nations General Assembly on February 4 was hardly to be expected, in fact, there was so much talk about it meeting in the week before the telegram was received from Mr. Pandit, Indian President of the Assembly, asking for its recall.

A diplomatic source of this newspaper has said that the fact that the Assembly was recalled was not unexpected. He said the situation was similar to the one that occurred in the West. Even before Mr. Pandit's recall, the Assembly had been recalled on January 22, the day after the North Korean Foreign Minister had announced that he would not attend the assembly. At one time it was expected that it might be recalled for "Red" threats to renege on its "No" vote to re-approve UNRRA the first time it is not open for this purpose.

It is not clear for this purpose that the President of the Assembly had asked for its recall, but he has, however, made it clear that the Assembly will deal with the situation, making it clear that the Assembly will deal with the situation.

STORIES 'CAN STAND RAIL COST REVE' Estimates before Central Assembly IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED

MEMBERS of the East Africa Central Legislative Assembly will debate this year estimates for the E.A. Railways and Harbours Administration today. They were expected yesterday by the Acting Commissioner for Transport, Mr. A. F. Kirby, who asked that they be approved.

Dealing with increased rail freight charges, Mr. Kirby declared that some export industries could afford to pay the present rates, but that many could not. He said that the Government had to be realistic in its approach to the railway finances.

The increase had been "very understanding" accepted by the East African public, he said. No likelihood to pay more, but the general commercial community had shown a lively realization that transport, like any other commodity or service, must be paid for at current cost levels.

The circumstances in which traffic developed during the post-war years had altered the administration to keep its rates at a lower level, comparatively higher than those of other commodities and services in East Africa.

The administration has been in the fortunate position of being able to expand its services without any increase in the cost of the railway.

It is his view—and one that should be supported by an examination of the railway's performance—that if the administration is to be able to do this, it must be able to do something between five and ten per cent increase in the cost of the railway.

Mr. Kirby said he hoped it would be possible to increase tonnage coming through Mombasa and to increase the level of working costs was considered not to be in the interests of the country.

of the export port, but in the long run, it is probable that conditions would produce a more profitable trade for the necessary large and modern low-cost port.

WORKING COSTS MUST GO UP

With the expectation of a greater volume of traffic, it is probable that the cost of the provision of services will be increased. Maintenance of the railways is a heavy economic burden on the Government.

After speaking of the administration's policy of providing facilities for the benefit of the people, Mr. Kirby said that the Government was determined to advance without regard to the cost of the railway.

READY FOR EXPANSION

It is hoped that the administration will be able to expand its services in the near future. The Government is determined to advance without regard to the cost of the railway.

Having, for some years past, been a net contributor to the Government, the railway is now being considered as a net contributor to the Government.

Mr. Kirby said that the Government was determined to advance without regard to the cost of the railway. He said that the Government was determined to advance without regard to the cost of the railway.

ECONOMIC STUDIES

The largest single item of expenditure in the 1954-55 financial year was the provision of services. The Government is determined to advance without regard to the cost of the railway.

SIGNS OF PROGRESS SEEN

IN EMERGENCY

Retiring President's advice to Nairobi Chamber

THOUGH he felt it was unable to forecast what the next 12 months held for the commercial community of Kenya, Mr. Eric Baumann, retiring President, refused at the annual meeting of the Nairobi Chamber of Commerce to take a pessimistic view of the Emergency situation. "I do not think we are any better, but no worse," he said. "On the contrary, I see a number of signs that they are better."

Mr. Baumann's remarks were made in a speech lasting between the Government and their Elected Members; and among the growing body of people among whom the Chamber's activities were being spread.

"We have survived a year without any serious hardships," he said. "We have managed to keep our heads," he said.

"As a strategy to suppress the Emergency, the Government has been unable to carry out its intention to declare the Emergency, and we have started more or less to resist that intention, and the result has been a more active role for the Chamber."

Unity of purpose.

Mr. Baumann has been an impression of disunity between the Government and the Elected Members and even between the Government and the Chamber. There was hardly a Presidential speech in the Chamber since the Emergency was declared. He said that the Chamber was now beginning to recognize the reality of the situation and that the Chamber was now beginning to recognize the reality of the situation and that the Chamber was now beginning to recognize the reality of the situation.

Set-back to continuing.

Mr. Baumann continued that the Chamber was now beginning to recognize the reality of the situation and that the Chamber was now beginning to recognize the reality of the situation.

Support policies.

"Our policy as commercial people is to support the Government's policy," he said. "We are not going to support any policy that is against the interests of the country."

Important events.

Two outstanding events in the Chamber's calendar were the annual meeting and the annual meeting of the Nairobi Chamber of Commerce.

Dumping's temptation.

"North America, because of its abundance of raw materials, is tempted to dump its surplus on the rest of the world," he said.

Encouragement.

Both the Kenya Chamber and the Nairobi Chamber of Commerce were encouraged by the support of the Government and the Chamber.

Help for college.

Mr. Baumann expressed his hope that the Chamber would be able to help the Government in its efforts to provide for the education of the young people of Kenya.

Limiting Factor - RAIL CAPACITY.

The Chamber is now beginning to recognize the reality of the situation and that the Chamber is now beginning to recognize the reality of the situation.

It is particularly desirable that the Chamber should have more members who are not connected with the credit institutions.

Mr. Baumann said the shell of the Royal Technical College, which is now being built, is a very good example of the type of building which is needed in Kenya.

Money to build the college.

The money to build the college has been raised by the Chamber and the Government.

Crup deficiencies.

The retiring President said that the Chamber was now beginning to recognize the reality of the situation and that the Chamber is now beginning to recognize the reality of the situation.

'Final attempt and resign' call to Elected Members

A DEMAND that Elected Members, having failed to persuade the Government to take the necessary steps to resign, should resign themselves, was made by the Union to Mr. L. R. M. Welwood, Member for Galtu.

24-hour lull in terrorist activity

BOTH the Eastern Aberdare and the Rift Valley areas were quiet for the past 24 hours and in the Mau Mau area there had only very slight activity.

Statements 'disastrous'

The copy of the White Paper on the Mau Mau Emergency, which was published last week, was described as "disastrous" by the Nairobi Chamber of Commerce.

Removal of officers.

It is believed that an immediate revision of both plans and the removal of the most drastic measures which have been taken since the Emergency was declared, is essential for the success of the Government's policy.

In the Kingston Test match: FORMIDABLE TASK FACES M.C.C. BATSMEN West Indies 450 runs ahead

THE West Indies entered the fifth day of the first Test match against the M.C.C. at Kingston, Jamaica, yesterday, in a very strong position, with four wickets in hand and a lead of 140 runs. This was mainly a consequence of a disastrous period after tea on Tuesday when England failed to press home their advantage when they had taken 65 West Indian wickets before the interval for 121 runs.

Had the M.C.C. batsmen had any more of the kind of luck which they had in the first two days, they would have been in a desperate position today. But they were not so fortunate and their batsmen were able to score runs at a steady pace.

Wicket planned down
The first wicket fell to the West Indian batsman, Clive Lloyd, who was out for 10 runs. He was bowled by a fast ball from England's bowler, Fred Trueman.

Key by handspun bowler
The West Indian bowler, Clive Lloyd, was the key to the success of the West Indian batting line-up. He bowled a very good innings of 100 runs.

Defensive batting
The M.C.C. batsmen were in a defensive mood today. They were unable to score runs at a steady pace and were out for a total of 100 runs.

MR. LYTTLETON'S VISIT PROVED POPULAR

THE departure of Mr. Oliver Lyttelton from Northern Rhodesia on January 15, brought to an end an interesting and illuminating visit.

Mr. Lyttelton was in the country for that time he gave the people of Northern Rhodesia an opportunity to see him in person which it is felt that he will not repeat in the future.

NORTH COMMENTARY RHODESIAN

He had done a great effective and others of which the least said is soonest mended.

There was Mr. James Griffiths who, while in Northern Rhodesia, tended rather to live up to the description of a "man of straw" who is only a "man of straw" in the eyes of the Government's Colonial Office.

It was Mr. Griffiths who, in the past, has been the mainstay of the Government's policy in Northern Rhodesia.

LAWRENCE OF ARABIA DENOUNCED BY AUTHOR

THE book published in London last week by Mr. Richard Aldington says his careful research indicates that Britain has been duped into accepting Lawrence of Arabia as a great figure in the First World War.

The author, William C. C. Binns, writes that the reputation of Lawrence of Arabia has been built up by their own independent checks and balances.

The author's investigation and research into the life of Lawrence of Arabia has led him to believe that Lawrence of Arabia was a "man of straw" who was only a "man of straw" in the eyes of the Government's Colonial Office.

Small part

Mr. Aldington now says Lawrence of Arabia was a "man of straw" who was only a "man of straw" in the eyes of the Government's Colonial Office.

He says that the Government's policy in Northern Rhodesia was based on the "man of straw" who was only a "man of straw" in the eyes of the Government's Colonial Office.

ENGLAND NEED 230 FOR TEST VICTORY

A dramatic change of fortune in the first Test match at Kingston, Jamaica, on Wednesday put victory over the West Indies within England's grasp. Yesterday they needed 230 to win with eight second innings wickets left. And they had the first day in which to accomplish it at an average rate of 45 runs an hour.

Wales declared their second innings closed at 209 for the loss of seven wickets. The remarkable figure of 209 was the result of a deteriorating match. By the close of play on Wednesday the West Indies were on the verge of making 100 runs for the loss of eight wickets and Watson.

Body blows

Wales was followed by Australia for 130 just before the close. The captain said he believed to Graham when they were in laboratory. Batting at the close were P. H. H. Gray (50) and J. Gray (71).

But victory will not come until the first two days has been completed to show the tourists have suffered and the homeboys are enjoying the fruits of their strong opening batsmen.

50 for Wickets

From time to time on Wednesday the ball roared horizontally. The batsmen were pleased to see that they were not being hit but they were quick-witted and they were quick-witted.

Score rate checked

Given the pace of the match the score rate was checked. The score rate was checked at the end of the first day. The score rate was checked at the end of the first day.

—SAY MONTE CARLO DRIVERS

MOST drivers in this year's 2,000-mile Monte Carlo rally agreed when they arrived in Paris on Thursday that it was "just like a Sunday afternoon drive" of long and easy roads.

After police motorcyclists had screened the cars to the centre of Paris on Thursday night, the drivers, all of them French, all of them experienced, all of them with a "weekend spirit," were told to get on their way.

Views to be sought on Tanga's future

CIRCULAR FOR PUBLIC BODIES

Resolution 1: That the Government be requested to consider the possibility of Tanga becoming a provincial town, subject to the approval of the Governor and the Council of Ministers.

Resolution 2: That the Government be requested to consider the possibility of Tanga becoming a municipal town, subject to the approval of the Governor and the Council of Ministers.

Implications explained

This would mean that Tanga would be governed by a Provincial Council, which would be responsible for the administration of the town. The Member also mentioned that the Government is also considering the possibility of Tanga becoming a municipal town. This would mean that Tanga would be governed by a Municipal Council, which would be responsible for the administration of the town.

THE HAGGIS HOLDS NO SECRETS

By Alastair Matheson

"Fol' fa' your honest sorse face
Great chieftain of the packin' race"

BURNS' NIGHT is only three days away and to Scots, at home and the world over, that means but one thing—the haggis.

Robert Burns, in his "Ode to the Haggis," immortalized this Scottish delicacy but it is certainly no danger of extinction so long as the export trade in haggis is booming, as it is at present.

A Glasgow firm, one of the leading manufacturers in Scotland, finds that it is an all-the-year-round job preparing sufficient haggis to meet the demand on the two nights of the year when it is consumed as part of the ritual—St. Andrew's Night and Burns' Night.

Probably more haggis is exported these days to milder climes than in Scotland homes as a regular dish, for the whole lot, naturally, whether it is eaten or not—and some into regions over—his haggis, washed down of course with liberal draughts of the companion Scottish export—whisky.

For the uninitiated the haggis, wrapped in the sheep's stomach, looks nothing but mystery, but a tour of any haggis manufacturer is sufficient to show that the ingredients are wholesome enough and not so mysterious as might be supposed.

The firm of H. D. Waddell, for instance, one of the oldest and largest making haggis, stick to the old Scots recipe which calls for calves' liver, lungs and hearts, oatmeal, barley, onions, dripping, oat, salt and spices. Wrapped round this is usually sheep's stomach, the sheep's stomach, by tradition, hand-selected although the export haggis must be de-glycerated to meet the requirements of the postal authorities and is packed inside a case.

The wrapped in labels of various tartans and featuring the seals of white heather, the famed haggis find their way mostly to go in these days of great demand to Central America, from Cuba to Venezuela, to the French Gulf, Korea and "Japan" around this "christian of potatoes" rock.

It only the world at large developed for haggis the taste it has for whisky, what a source of foreign currency!

How America Tackles Problems Of Drought

LIKE many other countries, the United States has certain areas that are extremely arid, particularly in the Southwest. In some parts of the State of Arizona, for example, the annual rainfall is as little as 2.2 inches, with an average for the whole State of 7.75 inches.

Albuquerque in the State of New Mexico, for example, has an average of only 14.4 inches a year, usually averaging only 8.5 inches.

Other sections of the country, such as Texas, may suffer less periods of drought, as in the case of 1933, when the great summer drought hit Texas and Arizona.

Financial help

DURING the 14 years from 1917 to 1931, the Department co-operated in the building of numerous irrigation and power stations financial help toward the construction of the number was $24,500. During that period there were also built numerous irrigation projects which interest had been established through interest supplied by the Government.

It is estimated that there were as many as 100,000 small farm ponds received through the United States, with new ones being constructed at the rate of about 30,000 a year.

Like a desert

DURING the 1933's, devastating drought reduced much of the range and pasture land in parts of the United States to a state of desolation. As vegetation died, thousands of farmers had to dispose of their livestock and abandon their non-productive lands.

To help prevent such a situation in the future the United States Government has set up a soil and water conservation program, including storage of water, development of better irrigation, and better use of the land in relation to the crops available. Storage of water in arroyos, canals, and the construction of small ponds.

Like a desert

DURING the 1933's, devastating drought reduced much of the range and pasture land in parts of the United States to a state of desolation. As vegetation died, thousands of farmers had to dispose of their livestock and abandon their non-productive lands.

To help prevent such a situation in the future the United States Government has set up a soil and water conservation program, including storage of water, development of better irrigation, and better use of the land in relation to the crops available. Storage of water in arroyos, canals, and the construction of small ponds.

"CATERPILLAR" D2, D4 or D6 tractor owners—

Here is the new CATERPILLAR

It is mounted on the tractor frame and can be transported in the parked, with the tractor. Tools can be easily hauled on the bar at required spacing and desired angle of position. It is built close to the site and close to the tractor. Up to seven mounted tools can be used at one time, with the operator. Positioning is secured because the tools are raised, lowered or held at desired position by hydraulic means.

Charco

ONE of the most important water conservation devices now being used in the United States is a new type of deep charco, which is being used in the United States by the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs in the Department of the Interior.

The charco has proved particularly valuable in the arid South-Western part of the United States where there are many American Indian reservations. It is a simple device which is available in all sizes. A charco is a shallow, circular basin, few charcos have a capacity of more than 100 gallons.

Small inlet

WATER enters the charco pipe from the basin through a small inlet pipe which leads into the large main (12 inches in diameter) to fill the charco during a rainy three-day period of water flow. The pipe has openings or concrete walls at intervals to prevent water surging along the outside of the pipe and to catch the sand and silt that enters the pond so that the water runs by gravity, but in no case, where the soil is abundant, for instance, this is not satisfactory, and the water is conducted to the bottom of the charco by a masonry chute on pipe.
