WEDDINGS ... A recent wedding at the Holy Family Church, Nairobi...

ON THE BANKS OF THE JUBA RIVER

ONCE past Galla you were truly in the wilds, for there were no settlements other than Wa-Galla villages on the Barkanda rocks...

MERRELL DALTON gives a glimpse of life on the road to Bardera and the customs of the Somalis.

Big hyenas ... A few miles less prominent was the hill of Bardera which was covered with a dense forest...

Strangely Biblical ... The town was always a weird one, said Strangely Biblical, the looks of the white waddlers and cowherds...

Rocky hills ... One of the statements of this journey was my first night of rocky hills, a few hours before we crossed Bardera...

at the drinking post, they cut ... a party of well-armed Galla, some round some square, talking with their hands which were adorned...

Crocodile's victims ... The bodies of the small animals were heavily dotted in, to protect life, and even as we looked around...

The Juba is pushed with ... crocodiles, and small crocodiles lurked here and there, out of the bush with eyes of green, white...

Keeps her teeth lovely because Kolyson foam cleans IN-BETWEEN.

ANCIENT CRAFTS REVIVED IN NAIROBI

Wrought iron work and period furniture

A B.C. commission, Peter and Barbara Fleming, have recently established in Nairobi two ancient crafts which it would be difficult to find practised in a dozen continents in the whole of Europe.

Their making hand-crafted wrought iron and the light metal quality and are also producing a wide range of decorative furniture, some of which is being marketed in Nairobi. The Fleming pair, who are both well-known in the world of decorative arts, have been in Nairobi for some time. They have been instrumental in the revival of many of the old crafts which were once so common in Europe. Their work is being marketed in Nairobi through a shop which they have opened in the city.

Major Fleming designed and made of the wrought iron lamp which is being marketed in Nairobi. The lamp is made of wrought iron and has a glass shade. It is a very attractive piece of furniture. The Fleming pair have also made a number of other pieces of furniture, including chairs and tables. Their work is being marketed in Nairobi through a shop which they have opened in the city.
