Military build-up in U.A.R.

ISRAEL'S Chief of Staff of Defence Forces, Major-General Yitzhak Rabin, has said the flow of military equipment to Egypt was expected to gain pace after the visit to Cairo of a top-ranking Soviet military mission a fortnight ago.

THE General said recent speeches by President Nasser indicated that the military build-up was longed for by a mass of disappointed Egyptians.

A 200,000 strong force of Israeli troops was making good efforts to improve and modernize its Army, Air Force and Navy.

DOES THE PERFECT SECRETARY EXIST?

Yes, she does, but only as the result of many factors. In addition to her purely personal qualifications, the equipment she uses plays a big role—and the most important is the typewriter. It has to live up to high standards of performance, excel in appearance, and be a tactful mistress of quiet, smooth operation. The next, even better, is a combined product of light touch and a low, functional keyboard. Remember that your letters are the calling card of your firm. Give your secretary a FACIT.

The above is a brief description of FACIT. Here is a manual typewriter without equal, the only one on the market with two tabulating systems and a table and ball-bearing mounted carriage with built-in special light meter for quiet, smooth operation. The next, even better, is a combined product of light touch and a low, functional keyboard. Remember that your letters are the calling card of your firm. Give your secretary a FACIT.

Rhodesia 'will have to buy own crop'

Commonwealth Secretary, Mr. Bottemley, commenting on Mr. Ian Smith's statement that the Rhodesian Government that the nation's tobacco crop would be sold and that it would get the best possible price, said it would be bought by the world "at well below the world price".

Mr. Bottemley said the statement ignored the fact that all the major consumers of Rhodesian tobacco—Britain, Germany, Japan, the Benelux countries, the United States, and Australia—had announced they would not be buying any more from Rhodesia while the Smith regime remained in power.

Working on a basis of last year's figures consumers of about 80 per cent of Rhodesia's tobacco had already said they would not buy more from Rhodesia. If, therefore, the 1966 tobacco crop was to be sold, it would have to be bought by the Smith regime itself.

Mr. Bottemley said that almost all of the 1966 crop would have to be stored in Salisbury, and Rhodesia would gain on benefit next year from her largest single source of export earnings.

Sanctions 'will fail'

In a television interview shown in New York, Mr. Smith said he believed trade sanctions against his breakaway regime would be ineffective.

He said that any such sanctions would not lead to the trade restrictions imposed by Britain and other nations, but that they would simply mean that more goods would go on. He said that the more goods that went on, the more money Rhodesia would receive.

Mr. Smith said he believed that the Rhodesian regime could survive on its own. He said that he had announced already that he would not buy any more goods from Rhodesia for six months. He said that he would be getting "tougher" as he went on.

White Rhodesians anxious about New Year PETROL RATIONING FEARED

A HEAVY three-day Christmas holiday season is set to end in Salisbury last night with the start of petrol rationing. The Government has feared that the country will be unable to obtain enough petrol to last through to the end of the year.

For many years, the country's 27,000 White Rhodesians have been able to obtain petrol at a price which is well below the world market. This has been due to the fact that the country has a large surplus of petrol which it exports to other countries.

Art and geometric styles are still popular among the new evening dresses in Nairobi shops.

Simpler styles for most long evening dresses

BY ANN MARSHALL
New year parties in London include a new fashion which the designers are reviving about. They come straight from the covered wagon and are just like the ones that girls wear in the West. They are simple in design and have high waists, high necks trimmed with fur and long light sleeves.

DEATH OF A DRESS SHOP

Why? Has the fashion world changed so much that where you could see a couturier there is a dead-end street? Or is it that the world has changed so much that the couturier has become a dead-end street? Or is it that the world has changed so much that the couturier has become a dead-end street?

WINGING OUT

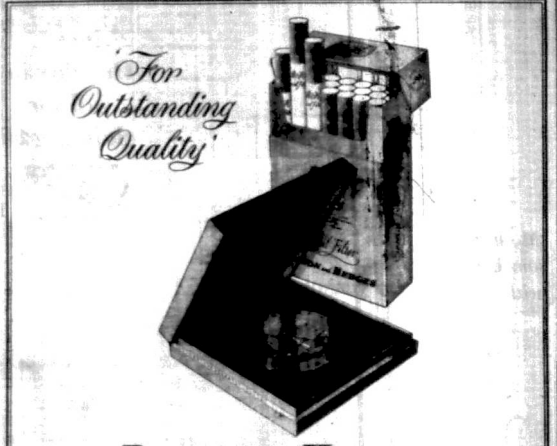

Wings, draped, draped, draped... in the upper half of the dress, wings are the latest trend. They are simple in design and have high waists, high necks trimmed with fur and long light sleeves.

GETTING TOGETHER

Perhaps not quite gala enough for New Year's Eve, it would serve any other evening occasion. At last night, it is a cheap, useful and very chic. The woman in the photo is wearing a headscarf, and the small inset photo shows a man and woman.

If you can afford it, simple black velvet is an 'A' look which is useful at £4. Some of these have a glitzy touch, as with the added advantage of pearls. They are simple in design and have high waists, high necks trimmed with fur and long light sleeves.

"He and Her" hats are going to the heads of fashion — the brothers and sisters. Designed by Victor Hiett, who specializes in hats for the younger generation. They are styled in matching checks for the "together" look. The girl's "dinner" hat is lined in white and is reversible. The boy's "Mr. X" is in matching flit.

Population grows

Every year in Kenya, the population grows by about 100,000 people. This is due to a combination of factors, including a high birth rate and a low death rate. The population growth is a significant challenge for the country, as it puts pressure on resources and infrastructure.

The first change came in 1962 when the population was 4,000,000. It has since grown to over 10,000,000. This rapid increase is a result of the country's high birth rate, which is much higher than the death rate.

Another factor is the migration of people from rural areas to urban centers. This has led to a concentration of the population in a few major cities, such as Nairobi and Mombasa. This has created a demand for more housing and services in these areas.

The population growth is also a result of the country's high literacy rate. This has led to a higher life expectancy, which has also contributed to the growth. The government is working to address the challenges of population growth through various programs and policies.

Bill would end limit on pig production

Pig production will no longer be limited by law and the Secretary of Agriculture will be asked to fill in the blank of the "Pig Control" bill, passed by Parliament's "Budget" Committee.

Leaving of butchers and lesser farmers will continue, but the quota system imposed by law will end.

Under the Bill, the present Pig Industry Board is to be dissolved and reconstituted. It will draw its funds from the levy and from a cess, which may be imposed on the Minister for Agriculture, and other Government departments.

The Board will be appointed by the Minister for Agriculture and will consist of a chairman, the Director of Veterinary Services and two producers representing the general producers of the board.

AUSTRALIAN TRADE

FARM MACHINERY EXPORT TO MORE THAN 90 COUNTRIES

AUSTRALIA is now exporting farm machinery and equipment to more than 90 countries, including Kenya, Fawcett, and using increasing numbers of Australian-made tractors, ploughs, irrigation systems and other equipment.

This mechanisation of farming methods, combined with continual additions to agricultural knowledge, has opened up new frontiers for crop cultivation.

More than 400 Australian companies, employing over 110,000 people, make about 180 different types of agricultural machines and implements. These range from self-propelled harvesters and combine harvesters to tractors and tractors, in addition to ploughs, harrows and other hand tools.

This mechanisation of farming is based on years of experience and practical application in the best agricultural areas of the world.

A message from the Trade Commissioner

The Australian Government Trade Commissioner in East Africa, Mr. D. R. McPHEE, writes—

It is fortunate that I am today replacing Mr. J. M. Kiddle for a few months whilst he is in Australia. Mr. Kiddle will, in due time, return to Nairobi for a further tour of duty.

Although having been here only a few weeks, I am already enjoying that my day is to be an eventful one. I am going to have even a brief glimpse to your delightful country. During my stay I hope to continue calling on distributors and agents handling Australian products. The only already made have been our equipment and worth while and it is pleasing to see such a wide range of our products available on this market, and to know that agents are so able to handle them. All small scale equipment, such as hand tools, irrigation equipment, rollers, and other agricultural machinery, and industrial machinery, are being distributed to farmers and agribusinesses in the region. I am confident that the range of such machinery will steadily increase as the range of our products is extended to include such items as self-propelled harvesters and combine harvesters, which have been operating in Australia for 20 years without being replaced.

These tractors, ploughs and other equipment are being used in many other areas, such as the East African States, and it is hoped that they can also be used to work with great results in the East African States.

As a result of the approval of the United Nations, it is hoped that the use of Australian-made tractors, ploughs and other equipment will be increased in the East African States, and that the use of such equipment will be increased in the East African States.

Development and research programmes are continuing and the already important role of Australian-made equipment in farm production is being increased in Africa as well as in the many other countries where machinery and implements from Australia are in high demand for their versatility and quality.

It is our intention to continue to bring a complete range of Australian-made machinery and equipment to the East African States, and to ensure that the use of such equipment will be increased in the East African States.

PROOF THAT THIS IS IDEAL FOR AFRICA

Australian-made agricultural machinery is the ideal for the African continent. It is produced in Australia, and is designed for the African market. It is rugged, reliable, and built to last. It is the only machinery that can be used in the most difficult conditions of the African continent.

Both Africa and Australia are "tropical" countries. The conditions are similar. The soil is of the same type. The climate is of the same type. The machinery is of the same type.

Rural output continues to rise

THE most significant development in Australian agriculture in recent years has been the high and rising level of rural production.

By the mid-1950s, the volume was 21 per cent above that of the mid-1930s.

The value of rural production in 1954-55 was $1,000 million, compared with $800 million in 1934-35.

AUSTRALIAN AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY

Farmers throughout the world have found Australian agricultural machinery ideally suited to conditions in their own country.

Australia's wide climatic range, from temperate to tropical areas, demands equipment that is rugged, reliable and built to last.

Australian machinery and equipment will work for you profitably.

The range includes Ploughs, cultivators, tractors, harvesters, planting machines, balers, pumps and parts... irrigation equipment, seeders... and fertilizers.

TRADE ENQUIRES WELCOME. Write or phone the Australian Government Trade Commissioner, Mr. D. R. McPhee, 4th Floor, 510 Park House, Queenway, Nairobi. Tel. 30774.

Dairy farmers find bulk milk handling has many advantages

An estimated one-third of Australia's dairy farmers with a big enough production to do so have now switched from tin gallon cans to bulk milk containers. The changeover has been most marked in the south-eastern coastal states of Victoria.

Victoria, which produces nearly half of Australia's milk, led the changeover from the nation's still widely used system of carrying milk in tin gallon cans.

About 20 per cent of Victorian milk for the liquid trade and roughly 50 per cent of bulk used for manufacturing purposes is now bulk.

Chief reasons for the changeover are the lower transportation charges for bulk milk, the lower cost of handling and the fact that bulk milk is more readily available for processing.

Three methods of handling bulk milk are in use. In the first, the milk is pumped from the farm into a bulk tank at a central processing plant. In the second, the milk is pumped from the farm into a bulk tank at a central processing plant, and then transported to the processing plant in a tanker. In the third, the milk is pumped from the farm into a bulk tank at a central processing plant, and then transported to the processing plant in a tanker.

Agents named for equipment

As a result of the Australian Wool Research Commission's report on the use of the Lomax method of handling wool, the Lomax method is being widely adopted by wool growers in all parts of the country. The Lomax method involves the use of a special type of shearer which allows the wool to be shorn in a more efficient manner than the traditional method. The Lomax method also allows the wool to be shorn in a more efficient manner than the traditional method.

MORE WHEAT FOR WORLD'S MARKETS

PERFECT climatic conditions, science and modern farming are the main reasons for Australia's success as a wheat-growing nation. A fertile soil and dry climate produces wheat with a low moisture content which allows it to keep longer. It also produces a grain with a special flavor and colour appreciated throughout the world.

Recent highly scientific methods and modern machinery, using about 40,000,000 bushels of wheat in 1964, have increased the yield of the crop which is best suited to the soil conditions of the best wheat area of the world.

Farming, too, is scientific. Modern machines plough the land, sow the seed, and harvest the grain in the most efficient way possible.

PRODUCTION BOOMING

Improved soil cultivation and better efficiency have also helped to increase Australia's production of wheat from 10,000,000 bushels in 1924 to more than 40,000,000 bushels in 1964. The increase is due to the fact that the grain is now being produced in a more efficient manner than in the past.

Flick of a switch alters seasons

SCIENTISTS carrying out research on Australia's with a flick of a switch at an unusual laboratory in Canberra, Australia's national capital.

The laboratory, called a "switch" by the Australian Scientific and Industrial Research Organisation, has been set up to study the effect of a switch on the growth of plants in greenhouses. The length of day and temperature between the switch and the plants is controlled by a switch which can be turned on or off at will.

BY-PRODUCT SWELLS EXPORTS

AUSTRALIA has the world's largest exporters of mutton tallow. The tallow, a by-product of the sheep industry, is chiefly used in the manufacture of soap and is in great demand in many countries.

In the nine months to June 30, 1964, Australia's total exports of tallow were valued at 4,430,000, with 2,800,000 in value. This is a 15 per cent increase on the 3,800,000 in value of tallow exports in the same period in 1963.

Scientists work in the "switch", the unusual plant research laboratory in Canberra, Australia's national capital.

quality-built farm equipment for world agriculture

Since that was the great reason of the world transport boom equipment made in the largest transport plant in the world is now being produced in Australia.

Because Australia's climate and soil conditions are so different to those of other countries, the Massey-Ferguson equipment is designed to meet the special needs of the Australian farmer.

The Massey-Ferguson equipment is designed to be used in a variety of conditions, from the most difficult to the most ideal. It is built to last, and to give the best performance in any condition.

Shock for England HIGGS ILL ON EVE OF SECOND TEST MATCH

THE sudden illness of the pace bowler Ken Higgs on the eve of the second cricket Test against Australia, which they played in Melbourne today, will be a shock to the English selectors into confusion.

Higgs fell ill and off his wicket yesterday and did not join his teammates at practice. The doctor described his fight with the strange virus infection as a long and hard one.

His 80th cap
Crowley, who sits his 80th Test cap, was bound to take his place in the side when called again and any doubt about his fitness disappeared by night.

A Happy and Prosperous New Year

Children born in freedom

To me it is a joy to think that children born in the coming year will be born in freedom; in their education will be a story of the past, he said.

In this personal message, I want to wish you joy and happiness and a sense of contentment throughout the year. I wish especially to remember that military and police forces, wherever they may be spending the New Year guarding our national security and stability.

But I ask you to reflect on our duties and obligations. In the past year we have laid substantial foundations for a year of inspiration and challenge. The struggle and storms of the past have brought us to a point where we can see the path ahead with confidence and satisfaction.

Year ends on firm note with optimism on prospects

LONDON Stock Markets ended an eventful year on a distinctly firm note. The past week has been extremely quiet with the intervening Christmas holiday causing business to fall to its lowest level for seven years. Buyers have continued to support the market, and the nervous selling of the past few months appears to have come to an end.

Standing beside the professor is the Permanent Secretary to the Ministry of Commerce and Industry, Mr. A. J. Omonya. Beside Gen. Mwachia is the Italian Ambassador to Kenya, Mr. G. Savella.

ABOVE RIGHT: The Sultan of Zanzibar — exiled almost a year ago by rebellion in his native island — works with his family in the cold of England's winter at Courbevoie. A year ago he lived in a palace; now he lives in a semi-detached house. When he arrived in Britain he had a retinue of 61. But most of those have now found other jobs and the Sultan lives on a more modest scale. He has found a grant of £100,000 from the British Government and chose Southsea "because it is one of the warmest places in Britain."

U.S. PEACE CORPS ARRIVES

Fight RHEUMATIC PAINS This Easy Way

It is not just the rheumatoid arthritis, osteoarthritis, and other forms of rheumatism that cause pain and discomfort. It is the inflammation of the joints which causes the pain. This inflammation is caused by the deposition of uric acid crystals in the joints. These crystals are the result of a metabolic defect in the body which causes the body to produce too much uric acid. This excess uric acid is then deposited in the joints, causing inflammation and pain.

American aid was over £2m.

American technical and economic help to Kenya during 1964 totalled $25,000,000.

The largest single amount of $780,000 to expand the National Youth Service Work on this project is expected to start during 1965.

Another major 1964 commitment is for $1,000,000 to provide Kenya with 100,000 tons of fertilizer.

The first shipment of 20,000 tons of fertilizer arrived in Kenya in September 1964.

The Kenya Government has received funds to spend on the purchase of agricultural machinery and equipment.

The U.S. State Department announced that it will provide immediate assistance to Kenya for the purchase of relief supplies in Somalia.

Education and the Masai...

SAMUEL MANKA, himself a Masai, discusses education among his tribe and how the aid attitude to schooling has changed

It is disturbing and disappointing to hear people say that the Masai are lagging behind other Kenya tribes in the field of education. I want to prove that this is exaggerated.

Among the more than 200,000 Masai tribes who were overlords of vast stretches of Kenya and Tanganyika before the coming of the Whites, there are now 1,000 children undertaking primary, intermediate and secondary education in 10 schools in Masailand.

Masai was accelerated. They have now built a fine school building at Kipkor, which was opened by the Minister of Education, Sir J. Linnell, and is the first modern building in the area.

The missionaries who worked here, co-operating with the Kenya Government so that the Masai may have more modern educational services in all fields will not be satisfied until every child has the opportunity to receive education.

The Masai are now being taught in their own language, and this is a great help to them. The Masai are now being taught in their own language, and this is a great help to them. The Masai are now being taught in their own language, and this is a great help to them.

President to open new hotel next week

THE £280,000 eight-story Panafriic Hotel in Kenyatta Avenue, Nairobi, which is to be officially opened by President Kenyatta on Tuesday, is the brain child of a Nairobi hotelier, Mr. Stelio Stylianides, who represents the opportunity to start the project when the Government advertised the plot for development in 1958.

Traveling more than 120 feet above road level, the imposing structure contains 164 beds in 58 rooms, including a swimming pool, a restaurant, a bar, a gymnasium, a cinema, and a television set. The hotel's opening is a testimony to the hotelier's faith in Kenya's future and his determination to aid in the development of the country's tourist industry. He succeeded in the idea for an ultra-modern building, based at a time when Kenya was a colony by treaty.

He made his application to develop the plot available in 1957. He was successful in obtaining a Government leasehold in Kenyatta Avenue in 1962 and at the start of this year, the construction of the hotel was well advanced.

It is believed that this country has the highest and best quality hotel built in any other country in its history.

'VERANDAH TREATMENT' IS MAIN AIM OF DESIGN

In designing the Panafrik Hotel, the East African firm of architects, "Ingalls, Wilkinson, Hughes and Wilson, were principally concerned in getting the verandah treatment worked out to the architect in charge of the project, Mr. Frederick Wilkinson.

"Every room virtually looks on to a verandah or garden, including the public rooms," he said. "We have tried to make use of what is really a magnificent site with a rather narrow access way over Kinross Avenue."

Mr. Wilkinson added that another feature of the hotel, of the one to make of five restaurants. The Panafrik Hotel had been fully utilized and quickly taken from the East African firm was employed to produce the design for the building.

Horizontal look
The horizontal look of the building is a result of the design of the verandah. The verandah is a continuous strip around the building, and the horizontal lines of the building are emphasized by the design of the verandah.

Parking provided on spot

The building has a parking area of 100 cars, and the design of the verandah is such that it can be used for parking cars. The parking area is located on the spot, and the design of the verandah is such that it can be used for parking cars.

Sound-proofing
Partly to avoid traffic noise, the hotel has been constructed on a raised platform. The building is sound-proofed, and the design of the verandah is such that it can be used for parking cars.

The building entrance to the hotel is 20 feet above road level and is reached by a ramping lift. This enables visitors to drive up to the parking area and avoid a parking area in the building.

BRIT IN WARNS INDONESIA 'Appropriate' answer to aggression

BRITAIN would "bring into the Indonesian conflict," Mr. Frederick Soley, Army Minister, said in Kuala Lumpur yesterday.

But he said Britain hoped President Sukarno "will have more sense than to increase the pressure of confrontation." Mr. Soley was speaking to reporters on arriving by air from Alder to confer with Tunku Abdul Rahman, Malaysian Prime Minister.

He is to leave today to inspect British Army bases in the Malayan Peninsula, and later will have talks with senior British officers in Singapore. He is to visit Malacca in Malayan Borneo before going on to Hongkong on January 14.

Mr. Soley had reporters his trip was planned well before the recent intensification of Indonesian confrontation policy, and said the two were not connected. He described the current reinforcement of British strength in Malacca as precautionary.

BRITAIN TO STEP UP OVERSEAS AID

Some union leaders 'dishonest'

'New concept needed'

BRITAIN'S Minister of Overseas Development, Mr. James Griffiths, has announced plans for stepping up the supply of overseas aid to help the developing countries.

In an article in the Observer of February 10, Mr. Griffiths said that the British Government will be responsible for Britain's aid programme as a whole — both regular and voluntary. He also takes over responsibility for the British and Commonwealth aid programme, such as F.A.O., I.C.E.D.C. and the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, as well as the Commonwealth Development Corporation.

Mr. Griffiths says his Ministry will be able to co-ordinate the aid programme in a more effective way than the various departments.

"I shall have a new concept of aid to the developing countries," he said. "I shall be able to co-ordinate the aid programme in a more effective way than the various departments."

Mr. Griffiths said that the aid programme will be stepped up to £1,000 million a year by 1965. He also said that the aid programme will be stepped up to £1,000 million a year by 1965.

Some union leaders have criticized the Government's plan to step up overseas aid. They say that the aid programme is a "dishonest" way of dealing with the world's economic problems.

Mr. Griffiths said that the aid programme is a "new concept" which will be able to co-ordinate the aid programme in a more effective way than the various departments.

Mr. Griffiths said that the aid programme will be stepped up to £1,000 million a year by 1965. He also said that the aid programme will be stepped up to £1,000 million a year by 1965.

Filming family that cannot be parted

YAKS and the view of an actor or actress taking about three small children, the film, which would have been about 15 minutes long.

Today, with modern travel comforts and improved standards of health and hygiene, it is quite surprising that the film was made.

Bill Travers and Virginia McKenna's private life in Kenya was captured by Carl Foreman in the making of the film. The director of the film was not only a filmmaker but also a writer, and he was able to capture the family's life in a way that was both touching and realistic.

The Traverses, in addition to being one of Britain's most popular actors, was also a writer. He had written the script for the film, and he was able to capture the family's life in a way that was both touching and realistic.

The film was made in Kenya, and it was a real-life story. The Traverses and their children were living in Kenya at the time, and the film captures their life as it was. It is a beautiful and touching story that is well worth watching.

From a special correspondent at the film site at Nairo Mori

Kenya are up for the film site at Nairo Mori.

The scene is an 18-acre plot of Nairo Mori, with Mount Kenya towering behind the site of the production.

Daily adventure

Each day in Kenya has been an adventure for the Traverses. The family has been living in a tent, and they have had to deal with the heat and the dust of the African sun.

East Africa's rapidly expanding and efficient tea industry is a prime example of a successful attempt to broaden the base of the economy. The patience, far-sightedness and faith in the future that the pioneer tea-planters have displayed could well be taken as a model for all who have East Africa's future at heart. Barclays is proud of its association with many of these planters. Barclays shares their faith in the future.

SOME COMPLAINTS ARE JUSTIFIED

SEVERAL readers have been growing about the quality of V.K.K. programming, recently and it must say that many of their complaints are justified. Inward letters, and it was obvious that most of the letters have not been bothering. This, I think, does not necessarily reflect unfavorably on the V.K.K. program, but it does show that some people are not getting the most out of the program. Perhaps, V.K.K. could make some small adjustments — it is not a constructive criticism and it does not harm the program. One of the most interesting items of the last week was the letter from a reader who mentioned that the Commission should be authorized to investigate the quality of the program. This is a very good suggestion and it is one that the Commission should consider.

Lack of support may close club

with Peter Macdonald

AFTER only two months of life the Nairobi Students Theatre Club is finding itself in difficulties, apparently through the apathy of many of its members, and its organizers are re-considering going up the project. Recently the idea of the club was to provide a new outlet for the students to express their views and to provide a forum for discussion and debate. However, the club has not been able to attract the necessary support to carry out its plans.

Break the vicious circle of SORE THROATS

Nice out of the sore throat are caused by germs - and you can't beat the germs until you beat the germs themselves. But that's not all - the more you are concerned about germs, the more the inflamed tissues are laid open to more germs, more infections, more sore throats. Break this vicious circle with DEQUADIN LOZENGES. Scientific tests prove that Dequadin attacks all the germs that cause sore throats - and that's even more. This product can do it better still. Dequadin is not washed away, as many remedies are, but stays up to 24 hours in the tissues of the throat and mouth, fighting a constant safeguard action against invading germs.

Harambee key to success in Kenya business

THE spirit of Harambee was the key to Kenya's success in the sphere of politics and business, the Minister for Commerce and Industry, Mr. K. M. Njiru, said yesterday when he warned that "rest-thrust competition" would be created by the Government.

Addressing the annual dinner of the Nairobi Society of Exported Secretaries, Mr. Njiru said that the Government's policy of competition will mean that our country will have to face the competition of the public and industry organisations and even racial conflicts.

For the information of farmers MALTING BARLEY

Kenya Breweries Limited have pleasure in announcing the terms which they will offer for barley, planted in 1965, which attains matting quality:-

1. To approved growers who enter into an agreement with the company to plant 100 or more acres and who require no financial assistance by way of planting advances the company will offer Shs. 14/- per acre of barley which comes up to matting standard. An additional Shs. 2/- per bag of 180lb. net will be paid for accepted barley which achieves bonus standard.
2. To approved growers who enter into an agreement with the company to plant 50 or more acres and who require financial assistance up to Shs. 75/- per acre to be advanced by the company five to seven weeks after planting (irrevocable out of the planting cost) the company will offer Shs. 12/- per acre of barley which comes up to matting standard. An additional Shs. 2/- per bag of 180lb. net will be paid for accepted barley which achieves bonus standard.
3. To growers who do not wish to enter into any agreement, the company will offer Shs. 10/- per acre of barley which comes up to matting standard. An additional Shs. 2/- per bag of 180lb. net will be paid for accepted barley which achieves bonus standard.

The company is prepared to purchase all 1965 plantings, which come up to matting standard, from growers who enter into agreements as in para. 1 and 2 above, provided that such agreements have been agreed before planting. Where no agreement has been entered into, offers to purchase will be regulated by the supply anticipated from growers who have entered into agreements in accordance with the minimum acceptable quantity of matting barley from one planting is 200 bags.

The company regrets it is unable to offer any element of guarantee for crop failures arising from conditions beyond the control of the grower.

Growers who intend to plant barley in 1965 are invited to contact the company's matting manager or barley purchasing adviser, Kenya Breweries Limited, P.O. Box 30161, Nairobi, who will be pleased to supply information concerning the requirements for matting and bonus quality matting barley.
