Side by side you can see the special—minus the least bit of every step, more complete and closer. Look at the sharp detail, the true values, the deepest shadows and the brightest sun glows. Why, there's nothing for it but to ask for Selo.

There are four films in the Selo range—SELO-TRAIP • SELO-GRAND • SELO-TRIP • SELO-GRAND. SELO-TRAIP—All British made. SELO-GRAND—All British made.

SWEEPING EMERGENCY POWERS ORDERED BY BRITAIN

Mediterranean Closed To Merchant Shipping

FUEHRER'S 'CLEAR DEMAND'

Wide powers under the emergency defence act were given yesterday to government departments in many spheres, providing for government control of transport, industry, agriculture and shipping. Regulations for the safety of the state, foreign communication with persons believed to be assisting the enemy, cameras, wireless and homing pigeons are also controlled.

The Admiralty has assumed full control of the British merchant marine, and the Mediterranean has been declared temporarily closed to British merchant ships, which have also been ordered to leave Baltic ports.

Publication has been made in Berlin and London of the messages that have passed between M. Daladier and Herr Hitler. M. Daladier stressed France's determination to fulfil her pledges, and the horizon—high both here and there—has been personally Hitler declared that he had renounced much to preserve peace to be tolerated, and he was forced to make "a clear demand" for Danzig and the Polish Corridor.

Regulations giving the Government and Government Departments the power to control the Government actively have been published today. The Minister of Transport may take over control of all air traffic, traffic on highways and at ports. Power is also given to take control of all sea traffic, and the Government may also control the use of agricultural land. Factories may be controlled, and power is given to suspend labour law.

The Board of Trade will be empowered to take charge of all inland and sea lanes, and control inland ports. Large numbers of regulations deal with public safety. No one is allowed to communicate with any person who may be suspected of espionage, and no other communication can carry a camera or make statements of any kind without authority. The public may be excluded from any public place.

Power is given to agents of the Minister to examine any person who is being interviewed in the course of any premises and power is given to order any person to be interviewed. The possession of any arms and similar apparatus is controlled. Interviews with wireless telegraph and other communications are controlled, and the possession of any arms and similar apparatus is controlled. The possession of any arms and similar apparatus is controlled.

Cabinet Meeting
The British Cabinet met on Monday for the first time since the outbreak of the war. The meeting was held at 10 Downing Street, and lasted for about an hour. The Prime Minister, Mr. Chamberlain, presided, and the other members of the Cabinet were present.

Women's Land Army
There has been a high of volunteers for the Women's Land Army. In London alone over two thousand women have volunteered to join the Headquarters of the organization. The Women's Land Army is a voluntary organization which is engaged in the work of growing food for the army and navy. It was founded in 1918, and has since that time been a valuable asset to the war effort.

should be remembered that the Führer is stating his maximum demand and that if he is entering into negotiations, or even contemplating their possibility, it is a maximum demand which is his natural standpoint in the first instance. But while these conditions have been laid down, Herr Hitler has also addressed a message to the British Government, the contents of which have not been revealed. Even if that message were in terms identical to the expressions used by him in his correspondence, it would be of little value, if it has not been regarded as an ultimatum. The British Government has devoted two days to the preparation of a reply and the purpose of a British reply will be to find all possible points of common ground in Herr Hitler's message, and to preserve, if possible, the situation; and, irremediable though the opposing positions were, it is to appear to be, Herr Hitler has not yet moved. Had he made up his mind that war alone would solve his problem, there is no doubt that he would have refrained from direct action; that he has done so and not precipitated a crisis is the remaining hopeful point in the whole outlook. The people of Germany are anxiously awaiting the return of the British Ambassador with the reply, and in their anxiety we may read a few even in Germany that a solution will be found without going to the last extremity. No news of the best news we can have at the moment and it may be possible for the Prime Minister when he is next responsible to give information which will keep hope alive.

"WE WAIT FOR CONFIDENCE" SAYS BRITISH PREMIER

Reply To German Wish For "Complete Understanding"

"DOOR OPEN" SAYS BERLIN

"AT THIS MOMENT THE POSITION IS THAT WE ARE WAITING FOR A REPLY FROM HERR HITLER TO OUR COMMUNICATION, ON THE NATURE OF THAT REPLY DEPENDS WHETHER FURTHER TIME CAN BE GIVEN FOR THE EXPLORATION OF THE SITUATION AND FOR THE OPERATION OF THE MANY FORCES WORKING FOR PEACE."

This was one of the passages from the Prime Minister's statement to the House of Commons yesterday, in which he described, as far as possible in a situation of "extreme delicacy," the communications that had passed between Herr Hitler and the British Government.

He declared that, in the message he had given to the British Ambassador, Herr Hitler was "concerned to impress on His Majesty's Government his wish for an Anglo-German understanding of a complete and lasting character."

A Berlin spokesman told Reuters' Correspondent there yesterday that Germany wanted to come to an understanding with Poland, and would listen to any reasonable proposal "so long as Herr Hitler's standpoint is given full justice."

London, August 15.—The Prime Minister was loudly cheered as he entered the House of Commons for today's reconstruction sitting. He rose to speak at 1.30 and began by saying that the House met on Thursday there had been little change in the main features of the situation. The situation, as I said there, is not changing, and it is necessary to change the date which has been fixed, but in time for the date which we have fixed it was right that the House should be kept informed as far as possible—not, of course, in a formal sense, but in a sense that will continue to be the principle which will guide us in any further proceedings of this House.

"There is one thing I would like to say at this moment in regard to the press. I think it is necessary once more to urge the press to exercise the utmost tact and discretion when a few thoughtful words in a paper, perhaps in a newspaper, may serve the whole of the public as well as being useful to the Government to obtain a satisfactory result."

Referring to accounts which purport to be a working draft of the British Government's communication to Herr Hitler, the Prime Minister said: "Such an account could only be a guess, and it is not legitimate to say that it is an accurate statement of the substance of any communication which affects not only the British Government but perhaps the interests of all countries."

"I will give an account of the German Document."

Mr. Chamberlain referred to Herr Hitler's invitation, to the Ambassador's suggestion, to the Ambassador's suggestion that Sir Nevill's future should be about the whole of the Government to obtain a satisfactory result. Referring to accounts which purport to be a working draft of the British Government's communication to Herr Hitler, the Prime Minister said: "Such an account could only be a guess, and it is not legitimate to say that it is an accurate statement of the substance of any communication which affects not only the British Government but perhaps the interests of all countries."

general terms, most of the main points which they had raised. "Herr Hitler was concerned to impress on His Majesty's Government his wish for an Anglo-German understanding of a complete and lasting character. On the other hand he left His Majesty's Government in no doubt of his view as to the urgency of settling German-Polish differences. His Majesty's Government have also frequently expressed their desire to see the realization of such an Anglo-German understanding of a complete and lasting character, in circumstances which would permit them to discuss with Germany the several issues the settlement of which would have had a great effect on any permanent agreement. But everything depends on the reply in which the immediate differences between Germany and Poland should be handled and the nature of the proposal which might be made for any settlement."

"We have made it plain that our obligations to Poland, and the formal steps by the agreement of August 25, will be carried out in circumstances which would permit them to discuss with Germany the several issues the settlement of which would have had a great effect on any permanent agreement. But everything depends on the reply in which the immediate differences between Germany and Poland should be handled and the nature of the proposal which might be made for any settlement."

Soviet Parliament And The Pact

London, August 15.—The Soviet Parliament today passed a resolution endorsing the British Government's proposal for a complete and lasting Anglo-German understanding. The resolution was passed unanimously by a vote of 1,000 to 100. The resolution also expressed the hope that the Anglo-German understanding would lead to a settlement of the Polish question. The resolution was passed in the presence of the British Ambassador, who congratulated the Soviet Parliament on its decision.

and now. His speech was in accord with the policy he has followed during recent negotiations and he made clear once more the British belief that the questions outstanding between Poland and Germany were widely capable of peaceful negotiation.

It is not surprising that the Prime Minister was frank and firm about the British attitude. The speech is prepared for any eventuality and the issue is clear. There is no dispute in the ranks of the nation. The Government and the people know that if they give way to the staged German demand on this occasion, their position is irretrievably weakened.

The Prime Minister made that plain enough. Offers of friendly agreement and proposals extending to Great Britain by Herr Hitler, though welcome enough and greatly to be desired as the basis of lasting peace, cannot be separated from the pledge which both countries have given to Poland.

The issue of peace or war, said the Prime Minister to the House of Commons yesterday, has not yet been decided. It is still in the hands of Herr Hitler. But the news of another critical day has left us with a despair. German troops have not yet marched on their objectives.

Kenya's preparations go on apace and as elsewhere in the British Empire the population is calm and respectful. The Government is rapidly extending its power and though there has been no change in the change-over is taking place relatively smoothly and efficiently.

Yesterday an air unit from Northern Rhodesia arrived in Nairobi. The contingent of R.A.F. has been prepared and expeditiously carried out and Kenya gives the British Empire and believes that their services will not be needed, we are glad indeed to see them because their presence is evidence of cooperation in the defence of British Africa, and of recognition of a common task which is the true basis of success for all the work that British people have yet to do in this Continent in normal conditions.

Plane Fire Terror Ended?

London. An Italian plane, which was fitted to all R.A.F. machines. It is expected that all civil planes will adopt the idea.

In a crash it means the engine compartment is automatically shut off with a fire-extinguishing chemical.

The device is tested in an Italian plane. Captain M. M. G. says that it is a very simple and effective idea. The danger of fire is now practically eliminated, and the equipment of all aircraft machines is used in hand.

ITALIAN LAKE TURNS RED AGAIN

London. The status of the Italian lake of Tovel, in the province of Trent, has again turned red, as they did last year. It is expected that the phenomenon is being due to the same cause, the reaction of a lake used during the winter months. The water is very turbid, and it is stated that the water was much redder than before and appeared like a large pool of blood.

the preparedness of Britain and the attitude to the crisis has been always open to the German Press. In Italy, where Signor Mussolini has not broken silence, war preparations are going on in a routine but intensive way considering the circumstances and the Duce has taken the unusual and significant step of suppressing two of the leading newspapers because, it is understood, they presented too gloomy and alarmist a view of the situation.

Continuing the practice of selecting the high lights of the news and making allowance for the routine military preparations which are inevitable but are capable of being given too much importance, the view we take of yesterday's comparative uneventful hours is that the situation still holds hope and has not deteriorated. In Kenya the atmosphere is one of calm uncertainty. The calling up of the Defence Force, or at least such part of it as is at present needed for the security of important points, and the discharge of allotted tasks, has gone on smoothly after the initial indications that it was being tackled with little consideration of the unnecessary dilapidation at one time threatened by the continuing military risk, which is the only important factor preventing the public today from getting an accurate picture of the local situation. But experience may even now teach the military mind that everything is not necessarily a foregone conclusion and that good work can be done by publicity, and is being provided in Britain, to give the public the right view of the general happenings.

Yesterday, for example, the East African Standard tried to present to the country today a picture of the good spirit of the Colony's young men, the happier aspects of emergency and the smoothness of the operation, but the incidents figured less prominently shocked by the very idea. But whether it is a military secret or not, we can assure the country that the spirit of young and not so young was excellent.

Speaking in the House of Commons, the Air Ministry and aircraft industry set about the task of maintaining the morale of the R.A.F. by having more than 31,000 Regulars and Reserve, including its Auxiliary and Home Guard, on duty in the United Kingdom.

As the start of rearmament was estimated at £4,000,000,000 a year, it is estimated that the total cost of the programme to be completed next March will give us 1,250 first-line planes based on Britain and about 500 over-seas.

Other indications of preparation are the expansion of the Royal Air Force, the R.A.F. Volunteer Reserve, and the Civilian Air Corps.

It was announced by the Air Ministry that the R.A.F. will be increased to 1,250,000 men and 1,250,000 aircraft.

MAE WEST TO LEAD M. R. A. REVIVAL IN HOLLYWOOD?

["Standard" columnarist]

London, August 10. Mae West, Mrs. Sylvia the Standard Hollywood actress, whose position was held at the time of the M. R. A. Revival, has been invited to lead the group which is to be formed in Hollywood.

It is estimated that more than 100 Hollywood actresses might join the group, and it is thought that it will be the only group to be formed in Hollywood.

The group, however, was organized with the intention of having no political or social aims, but to be a group of actresses who will be able to do for the M. R. A. what it has done for the world.

It is thought that it will be the only group to be formed in Hollywood.

STRUGGLE FOR WORLD COTTON MARKETS

Why Egypt Abolished Export Tax

["Standard" columnarist] London.

Renewed evidence of the struggle for the cotton markets of the world is provided by the decision of the Egyptian Government to remove the export tax on cotton.

The decision follows the announcement on July 22, by Mr. H. A. Wallace, the United States Secretary of Agriculture, of an export subsidy of 11 cents (roughly 14) per pound on American cotton.

The new tax reduction is expected to result in a direct loss to the American Government of $100,000,000 a year.

Other Lankenshaw says that the Egyptian Government had for some months been considering the abolition of the duty and that, in view of the Egyptian cotton, it is not generally expected that the Egyptian Government will do so.

Over short periods this view is doubted, however, says the Financial Times, and Egyptian cotton is expected to be sold to different buyers in different quantities.

The Egyptian Government had for some months been considering the abolition of the duty and that, in view of the Egyptian cotton, it is not generally expected that the Egyptian Government will do so.

DECLARATION OF DANGER AREAS IN BRITAIN BEGINS TODAY

Three Million People To Be Moved Into Country Districts

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURE

London, August 31. WHILE THE LATEST BRITISH MESSAGE IS BEING CONSIDERED IN BERLIN IT HAS BEEN DECIDED THAT SCHOOL CHILDREN AND THE VARIOUS OTHER CLASSES TO WHOM PRIORITY HAS BEEN ASSIGNED ARE TO LEAVE LONDON AND ALL TOWNS INCLUDED IN THE EVACUATION SCHEME TOMORROW.

This is a precautionary message and the Ministry of Health and the Secretary of State for Scotland stated today that it does not mean that war is regarded as inevitable. The evacuation will take several days and the Government is confident that the public will cooperate fully to make this scheme work successfully.

Rail and road services will be severely curtailed from about nine o'clock tomorrow morning until six o'clock in the evening.

The Government's plans provide for the removal of 3,000,000 people from congested areas of whom nearly half are in the London area. These people will be distributed in districts between Leeds and the West.

London about 650,000 children have to go and the same number from other areas.

Other main centres include Liverpool, Manchester, Newcastle, Leeds, Bradford, Edinburgh and Glasgow. There will be no evacuation from Wales.

Fifty per cent of the mothers have decided to accompany the younger children and another 18,000 mothers and children of school age are also going.

As a further precautionary measure certain hospitals in London and other towns will tomorrow carry out pre-arranged plans for transferring some of their patients to other hospitals in more distant areas.

In the event of war the London Stock Exchange will probably close for a few days at least because of the increased responsibility of members getting to their offices. It is believed, however, that when operation has been completed it will be possible to carry on the business of the Stock exchange in London as usual. It is not possible to say how long this will last.

The London British Market to be closed for a few days.

General mobilization would hit football hard. Nearly every League club has players who have joined the services for territorial or anti-aircraft work.

One of the methods in Division I tomorrow should be that between Sunderland and Huddersfield. Both teams have made an excellent start to the season.

SHELL MOTOR OIL

STAYS ON THE JOB!

Shell Motor Oil is worth a trial all for your car because it is refined to the most advanced process and contains an exclusive chemical base which maintains high, stable viscosity in all seasons. When the engine is standing the oil forms a tough film which prevents "cold seepage," caused by contraction of metal parts; by oxidation of petrol. In starting, this viscosity when most needed, when contraction of oil film is already there, and it maintains lubrication of the highest bearing temperatures, giving complete protection in starting and running.

Cabinet Considers Hitler's Message

MORE EMERGENCY PREPARATIONS

London, August 23. In London the Cabinet held a long meeting on Saturday night to consider the report by Sir Nevill Henderson, British Ambassador in Berlin, on Friday. This interview, it will be recalled, took place in a quiet room at the request of Sir Nevill Henderson, who was present throughout the Cabinet meeting.

Immediately on his arrival in Berlin on Saturday the Ambassador had interviews with Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Halifax. Sir Nevill Henderson was away for about four hours and then drove to Buckingham Palace. There he had an audience with the King.

His interview with the King was followed by a communication from Herr Hitler, but no communication was issued. The Cabinet meeting on Saturday night was held at 10 o'clock this morning. It was postponed from a night before, owing to the message from Herr Hitler.

The Cabinet meeting at 10 o'clock this morning, it was postponed from a night before, owing to the message from Herr Hitler. The meeting was held at 10 o'clock this morning.

The most complete secrecy is being maintained about the Cabinet meeting and the message from Herr Hitler. It seems almost certain that all other matters report on duty.

The following extracts show of British Press today. Not the least important feature is the Daily Telegraph, which is thought to be the most reliable.

The New York Herald Tribune said in Eastern Europe, then it would only be a matter of time before the situation would be made elsewhere, and eventually, no doubt, in the United States.

The British Government's Emergency Powers Bill has received the Royal Assent.

The President of the United States has sent appeals to Herr Hitler and President Mackauley, urging them to settle their differences peacefully and has asked the King of Italy to use his and his Government's influence for peace.

Mr. Hitler has had a long conference with his Army and Navy leaders and Herr von Ribbentrop, and it is rumored that Germany's decision has been taken.

Herr Hitler is reported to have seen the British Ambassador at his own request.

The British and French Military Missions have suddenly cancelled their plans to leave Moscow.

There is heavy mourning of troops on Polish and German sides in the frontier and precautionary measures have been increased in several parts of European countries.

GERMANY DECIDES

Paris, August 23. Herr von Ribbentrop came back to Berlin yesterday after signing the German-Soviet Non-Aggression Pact. Moscow, Herr Hitler had reached Berlin earlier from Berchtesgaden and had a long conference with Herr von Ribbentrop and General Goring.

It is thought to have been possible that Germany's decision regarding Poland has been made and it is believed that the German Government will announce its decision in the next few days.
