BACK TO NORMAL, PLEASE!

BEFORE diving headfirst into personal summings-up of the films of the week, I would like to refer first of all to the way in which the War will affect the film-going public in Nairobi.

Actually, for the time being, there is no reason why it should affect the public at all.

One of the main things, I imagine, that would tend to keep people in their homes, in the period mentioned, this can be seen from the fact that, although the cinema is still open, it is not getting the cinema goers it used to get. This is due to the fact that many of the cinema goers are now at the front. Another point is for people who are sufficient to get into the cinema to examine the extra trip, to make up parties and all appear into the largest, air-ventilated—aid, I imagine that it will not be long before crowds of a hundred and fifty will take on a Disney character who will appear in a number of pictures in a swollen car in seemingly endless numbers.

It is an outstanding film of adventure that clamors for your attention and holds it throughout the whole length, exciting scenes of incidents in the spectacular days of American history.

Young Doctor Kildare

PLAYHOUSE

YOUNG DOCTOR KILDARE as the leading picture attraction in an all-around film that has gathered the best of a new crop of adventure films that are being shown at the Playhouse. American hospital drama, with a story line that is both gripping and interesting. Dr. Kildare's apparently impossible situation is made all the more dramatic by the fact that he is a young man who has just graduated from medical school and is beginning his career as a doctor in a hospital. He is a young man who has just graduated from medical school and is beginning his career as a doctor in a hospital.

Dr. Kildare, as young, as a girl, with so much more beauty and idealism than the previous film, and the fact that the young man who has just graduated from medical school and is beginning his career as a doctor in a hospital. He is a young man who has just graduated from medical school and is beginning his career as a doctor in a hospital.

WELLS FARGO—CAPTOL. When Paramount made Westerns, they usually made 'em good, and this—which is not about the story of the great Wells Fargo company, and the making of the trail to take the first express mail route, from New York with St. Louis, and then on to a superior article. It has about a breathless, epic quality, that makes it so vivid that you feel you are actually taking part in it. Your life is in your hands with every breath—that regular drop-thee heat of galloping horses on unmanicured, dusty, shadeless plains. The detail is infinitely significant—such as a close-up of the weathered, unshaven face of a Westerner dusting an infant, the cool life interior of a typically Southern house, the soft curved speech of the South, and the West, or the twang of the banjo.

It has a plot as old as the hills: grading it roughly one would call it a glorified Western, with a dash of the Civil War to make weight. Cowboys and Indians—conflicts and misunderstandings, families divided against themselves. The old, old story, but how brilliantly done! It has about it that indefinable something that made THE COVERED

"I WAS BRITAIN'S PRISONER"
To the Editor, "E.A. Standard."
Sir—Five days last week I was in British custody. Although I am used to British courtesy since my arrival in Kenya approximately five years ago, I was very pleasantly surprised by the thoughtful friendliness with which officers and members of the K.D.F. treated the German prisoner.
The so-called internment camp was a place with plenty of comfortable, library and a hardy visitor, certainly had a hardy visitor, certainly had a hardy visitor. I only wish as every Britisher in German hands may have a time as worse than ours as prisoners.
My 14 years' prison experience thanks to those who cleared me up when taken away and to the guards who controlled me once again that I had found in Kenya a home, to serve which is the ambition of.
Yours etc.,

KENYA'S WAR EFFORT

An Uncoordinated Task

The British public have given unqualified approval to the decision of the War Cabinet to leave the whole of the country's war effort on the assumption that the war will last at least three years, and probably longer. The view has been taken by the Press of the country that the decision serves an immediate dual purpose: It answers at once the suggestions already made by German leaders that peace talks should begin as soon as Poland is liquidated, despite any lingering hope that Britain and France might be able to bring about a peace treaty and convey to the whole world the resolute determination of the British Empire to fight Hitlerism to the end. So far as the British people are themselves concerned, it emphasizes the gravity of the situation and encourages every authority everywhere to adjust their minds and their hearts to a long range policy of coordinated national effort.

Kenya was made to take a decision and prepare ourselves properly to play the part which circumstances dictate for us. Our country today lacks adequate machinery for coordination. It is true that the Government of another African Territory has been appointed, with a staff of officials from each Dependency, to provide a link between the military and the civil authorities. But the express purpose of that appointment, which might have been achieved by another and bolder method, is to smooth the transition from the present to the future. It is not a coordinating factor for long-range planning of the approach to the problems which will face Kenya and other Eastern and Central Africa.

The position in this country today is that we have no machinery for co-ordinating all functioning in different directions and though there must of necessity be links between them, their responsibility is not largely confined to their special tasks and there is no common constitutional body which has the express purpose of bringing them together and relating to the various needs either on the military or the civil side. We have, for example, a Supplies Department which deals with a wide range of questions relating to the requirements of the military chief and at the same time exercises considerable powers, for that purpose, over the ordinary commercial life of the community. There is also the Man Power or existing organisation which has important responsibilities to the civil life of the country and has found difficulty to date in co-ordinating its work. There is also the Civil Government (with the Executive and Legislative Councils) which in the main is concerned with the internal administration of the State and to discharge all its manifold responsibilities to every community for peace, order and good government within the Colony. One of its undertakings is to maintain the social services, but just the social policy of the Colony to the new burdens, and preserve, alter and strengthen the economic structure. The Government has a responsibility to play on both sides of the general problem. We have long known that the Government has a responsibility to play on both sides of the general problem. We have long known that the Government has a responsibility to play on both sides of the general problem.

Racing Activities To Be Transferred To Ireland?

[STANDARD] CORRESPONDENT

London, September 4.

Sport in Britain is at a standstill and no one can say when it will be resumed. The sport most affected is horse-racing, and in view of the curtailment of racing in England it is more than likely that many well-known owners and trainers will transfer their activities to Ireland, as was the case during the Great War.

Although we placed the usual football matches on Saturday last, there is to be an entire cessation of sport of any kind in the near future. Football, or what will happen in its stead, is the matter of the future, and the New Zealanders, both of whom have just arrived, are doing everything in the making of the New Zealand cricket team, by 10 points to a sure result, if their case is accepted, to the national service.

The exact position was outlined in a statement made over the radio yesterday, following the Prime Minister's talk to the nation.

"Sport gatherings and all gatherings for purposes of entertainment and amusement whether outdoor or indoor which involve large numbers congregating together are prohibited until further notice."

It is a statement which the thousands most affected in horse racing. Thousands of people depend upon it for their living, and the fact of its being suspended is a matter of some importance. It is a matter which will be discussed in a special issue of the Standard, which will be published in the near future.

Helping French On Western Front

R. A. F. UNITS INCLUDED

A BRITISH EXPEDITIONARY FORCE HAS ARRIVED IN FRANCE AND IS OPERATING WITH FRENCH TROOPS ON THE WESTERN FRONT. IT INCLUDES UNITS OF THE ROYAL AIR FORCE.

Latest reports from Paris indicate that the French are slowly pushing forward in the important Saar region.

London, September 12. British troops are now helping in the fight on the Western Front.

It is revealed today that units of the Royal Air Force are also serving in France.

The Ministry of Information says that no further details can be furnished in the meantime, but the military authorities are to supply further information from time to time.

The Military Correspondent of the British United Press says that most of the Royal Air Force units serving in France are the British Expeditionary Force to aid the French.

They made arrangements for the evacuation of wounded and members to co-operate with the French Air Force.

Warm Welcomes. All sections of the British Expeditionary Force have received a very warm welcome in France.

The British author of French troops in the West, J. H. M. de la Roche, has stated that the British Expeditionary Force is being wonderfully prepared and equipped already for any advance to be made.

The French Commissioner of Information has also stated that Britain will be able to give greater support than in 1914.

However, he pointed out both in London and Paris that the military situation is still very serious and that any precise information about the British troops in France is the latest communication from the French High Command states that the assistance of the British Expeditionary Force has been of the greatest value in the continued progress on the Western Front.

On the Western front, reports show that French troops are slowly but steadily pushing forward.

A German counter attack north east of Ypres resulted in the capture of some 1000 yards of territory on the French front line.

French pressure on Saarbrücken is considered significant because the town is in the heart of a rich industrial district.

The German High Command dealing with the Western front today continued its report to the effect that there was local fighting between the Western front and the Eastern front.

It is now confirmed that a German officer and 200 German soldiers deserted on the Western front and joined the French yesterday.

A German officer stated today that if a position here was placed across the French front line, it would be a serious blow to the French.

A semi-official survey by the Staff College states that during the last night the operations of the French troops consisted in strengthening their positions in the West.

Though the results obtained are reported to be good, the French Army is not yet engaged in any serious tactical operations.

Air Raids Driven Off. It is now revealed that at the time that Paris received an air raid warning, the British Expeditionary Force was in the process of moving forward.

The Government is preparing to issue a statement on the number of military staff.

Smuts On "Cowardly Policy Of Neutrality"

"Nobody who takes the future of South Africa seriously can approve a cowardly policy of neutrality," declared General Smuts in a message to the people of South Africa.

The Union's Prime Minister added that South Africa's best friend was the British Commonwealth and disassociation from it would be a blot on South Africa's name.

Cape Town, September 12. The South African Prime Minister, General Smuts, in a message to the people of South Africa, declared that the British Commonwealth and disassociation from it would be a blot on South Africa's name.

It is clear to me, said General Smuts, "that the time to defend the South West Africa is not when we are being asked to do so, but when we are being asked to do so."

"Nobody who takes the future of South Africa seriously can approve a cowardly policy of neutrality," declared General Smuts in a message to the people of South Africa.

The message adds that preparation for the evacuation of children from the West Coast is being completed.

MUNICIPAL BOARD'S RESOLUTION

The monthly meeting of Naitiri Municipal Board was held last Wednesday evening, in the absence of Mr. G. G. Collins, the Deputy Chairman, Mr. J. J. Conroy, took the Chair. The application for the proposed Green Street was approved.

The Town Council's estimate, which was carried, it was estimated to cost £100,000 for the year of the year.

The following resolution was submitted in the report of the Naitiri Affairs Committee: "That the Municipal Board should consider the result of the application to the Government for the purchase of the land and water resources of the Naitiri District, Mr. J. J. Conroy, who said that the Board had to give effect to the resolution, without the time had been spent when the Naitiri population, from among whom the Board had to select a Public, should pay some part of the cost of the purchase of the land and water resources of the Naitiri District. The further stated that it is hoped that Government, in the 1946 estimate, will contribute towards the cost of the purchase of the land and water resources of the Naitiri District, which cost the salary of £20,000 per annum to increase to £25,000 per annum. The Municipal Board, however, suggested that it would be well to ask the Government to contribute towards the purchase of the land and water resources of the Naitiri District. Jewish Aliens' Message

Internees from the Nakuru Camp left for Nairobi on Monday, with a guard of K.D.F. The original camp was retained on Wednesday after the evacuation. It was also placed at strategic points. In most cases the duty was for two hours on and four hours off, which is fairly strenuous, but it was for the most part cheerfully undertaken and well performed. There were, however, regrettable exceptions, and it is to be hoped that it would be unnecessary to tell them to be patriotic, which was not a right.

Now that Britain is preparing for a three-year campaign, they should surely be intensive training for those who are to be called upon to do so. It is to be hoped that the Government will consider the result of the application to the Government for the purchase of the land and water resources of the Naitiri District, Mr. J. J. Conroy, who said that the Board had to give effect to the resolution, without the time had been spent when the Naitiri population, from among whom the Board had to select a Public, should pay some part of the cost of the purchase of the land and water resources of the Naitiri District.

EDUCATION IN KENYA

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard": Sir—The Government is probably hardly the time to help in the education of the Naitiri District. It is to be hoped that the Government will consider the result of the application to the Government for the purchase of the land and water resources of the Naitiri District, Mr. J. J. Conroy, who said that the Board had to give effect to the resolution, without the time had been spent when the Naitiri population, from among whom the Board had to select a Public, should pay some part of the cost of the purchase of the land and water resources of the Naitiri District.

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard."
 Sir—Although the M.R.A. is the cause of international affairs, the more quiet the M.R.A. the more likely the background, it is a very important question and it is still a very important question.

There is a short article in today's paper about the "M.R.A. Standard." This article mentions that the cause of international affairs, the more quiet the M.R.A. the more likely the background, it is a very important question and it is still a very important question.

BRITAIN'S REACTION TO DECLARATION OF WAR

"On The Whole Profoundly Thankful"

[STANDARD] CORRESPONDENT
The British public knew of the declaration of war at 11 o'clock on Sunday morning September 3. Parliament officially heard at 12 o'clock.
This was the first time Parliament has sat on a Sunday for nearly 100 years—I do not remember it having so an event in the Great War. There was a very large attendance to hear the famous announcement by Mr. Chamberlain which came as a very great relief to the feeling of painful uncertainty which attended his statements in the House on the previous Saturday evening. On that occasion he had nothing to say because he was awaiting the decision of the French Government and people throughout the world thought that he would be carefully read, was indicative of some slight wavering.

"Profundly Thankful"
It is not too much to say that the nation as a whole was and is profoundly thankful for the declaration of war. All of us who have been through it do know what a heavy cross the country in general was confronted that nothing but drastic steps will restore to Europe the peace of mind, the possibilities of sane economic development and the stability of the role of our own Commonwealth which we all seek to see in the living breathing form of a free world.
Public opinion is entirely unanimous in this regard. In 1934, there was then a split between the Chamberlain and the Chamberlain-Hoover group in leading persons of the day—Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Hoover. However, people go to the war in this year in far greater unity than they did in 1914. They are united in their faith in the highest interests of the Empire and the world.

WOMEN'S CYCLING RECORD

870 Miles In Less Than Three Days

[STANDARD] CORRESPONDENT
Miss Margaret Wilson, of Torrington, 15, Gloucestershire, of the Liverpool cycle record-breaking team, scored her greatest triumph when she reached John Greet's having accomplished the remarkable feat of riding 870 miles from Liverpool to London in 2 days 22 hours and 12 minutes with only 100 miles to go.
Miss Wilson beat the record set by Mrs. Lillian Dewley, of Liverpool, by 22 hours, 2 minutes. Her average speed was 36.5 miles an hour. After resting for an hour or two she returned to complete the 100 miles necessary to beat Mrs. Wilson's 1,000 mile record of 4 days 11 hours 33 minutes.

Aggression in History

[STANDARD] CORRESPONDENT
London, August 31.
The letter appears in The Times today:—
Sir—The following extracts from Parliamentary debates of 1893 are rather interesting at the present time. In November of 1892, Lord Greyville said:—
Parliament has been assembled at a period pregnant with events of the greatest importance to Europe. It is manifest in all levels. At no convocation of Parliament was the curiosity of public more strongly excited. All are doubtful of the strategic and policy of the present Ministry, were anxious to learn whether we were ready to have peace or war, anxious to know whether we were ready to declare to France, or about to defend ourselves against the daring encroachments of that Government. The interests and happiness of the world were at stake. It was the inordinate ambition of the French Government, which was extending to power and authority to the total subversion of all that we had built up. We will therefore, to view with calm indifference this deplorable subjugation of Europe, on the one hand, or most with manly fortitude.

The interests and happiness of the world were at stake. It was the inordinate ambition of the French Government, which was extending to power and authority to the total subversion of all that we had built up. We will therefore, to view with calm indifference this deplorable subjugation of Europe, on the one hand, or most with manly fortitude.

Poand's Economic Resources

EXTENSIVE OIL RESERVES

But Vital Raw Materials Needed From Abroad

A review of Poland's economic resources disclosed that while she is dependent on others for certain vital raw materials, in relation to her size she has a diversified range of materials, and it is estimated that the oil reserves of the Republic amount to 100,000,000 tons.

London. Poland is Britain's ally. Poland with her unbroken frontiers, her powerful position between two powerful dictatorships, who have such a great fear of her.
The Republic of Poland forms one of the great north European plain, has an area of 159,000 square miles and a population of approximately 35,000,000. Her economic resources are very diversified. (From the Polish Currency Yearbook for the United States, 1938.) In relation to her area and population her natural resources need be reckoned satisfactory.

Poland's production of food grains, fodder, animal products and timber more than satisfies her domestic needs. Indeed, she exports a number of surplus products. Foreign exchange surplus has been in excess of £100 million for the last three years. She is not only self-sufficient in her own supplies of raw materials, but also produces surplus quantities of many of the principal products of the mining and metal industries. She is also self-sufficient in her raw materials and in the various branches of the chemical industry. She produces a wide range of single materials, such as iron, steel, copper, zinc, lead, silver, phosphates and a few others.

Oil Reserves
Poland's production of crude petroleum is based on the Gdansk field which satisfies her needs for home consumption. Her oil reserves are estimated to be 100,000,000 tons. The annual output of oil is 500,000 tons. The capacity of the refineries is 1,000,000 tons. She produces a wide range of petroleum products. She exports a number of surplus products. She is also self-sufficient in her own supplies of raw materials, but she has to import a number of vital raw materials from abroad.

Rare Metals
Poland has metal production in iron, steel, copper, zinc, lead, silver, phosphates and a few others. She has an exportable surplus of iron, steel, copper, zinc, lead, silver, phosphates and a few others. She is also self-sufficient in her own supplies of raw materials, but she has to import a number of vital raw materials from abroad.

Other Resources
Poland has a wide range of other resources. She produces a wide range of single materials, such as iron, steel, copper, zinc, lead, silver, phosphates and a few others. She is also self-sufficient in her own supplies of raw materials, but she has to import a number of vital raw materials from abroad.

Hitler's Prophecy: Will It Come True?

Russian Alliance Means "End Of Germany"

In a special article headed, "Does Germany Really Gain Her Pact with Russia?" a British M.P. examines German expectations which may well prove illusory not only in the military but in the political and economic spheres.

He reveals significantly Herr Hitler's prophecy in "Mein Kampf" — "A Russo-German alliance will mean a second world war and the end of Germany."

"Germany's" (Continued)
Germany, they will retain on many points. Politically, therefore, I should consider that the pact is of considerable momentary advantage but will prove an ultimate source of weakness and distrust. But should it be "only" a "Mein Kampf" pact? The Russian alliance would mean a European war and "the end of Germany." We do not desire the end of Germany; but we certainly desire the end of German aggression as a danger to the world.

Storage of Tanks
What will be its strategic or military effect? Obviously the detaching of the U.S.S.R. means Poland's position more difficult. But it will not make the war too long. The German people must be aware that the pact is not a guarantee of peace. It is a declaration of war on the part of Great Britain and France, and will thus have to mean a large number of troops upon her Western Wall and that fighting war which she has already started in Poland. The German General Staff, however, are gravely aware that from the moment the Western Democracies had had time to mobilise, they were starting the war. The German General Staff, however, are gravely aware that from the moment the Western Democracies had had time to mobilise, they were starting the war.

Department Expanded
Yet against this advantage he must act of the diary which his action will have caused to those of his countrymen who still believed in the sincerity of his doctrine. And to those important sections of the German public, whether capitalist or Catholic, who regarded him as a saviour.

The effect of his action upon Japan certainly, Portugal and other countries can easily be exaggerated, but certainly not favourable. And to the world he has proved at last that his policy is based not on principle (however mistaken) but by opportunism. The German have admitted that and admit to be crowned that they are expert in violence but amateurs in peace. This knowledge tempers them to bluff and bluster in the hope of assuaging the pangs of self-distrust. This, even while they are still Herr von Ribbentrop's diplomat.

IS YOUR CHILD STURDY OR OUTGROWING HIS STRENGTH?

Many children grow fat without growing in strength. They are weak, listless and irritable, they learn with difficulty at school and are bad playmates. The cause in most cases is simply a lack of vital minerals in the body.

Give your children Kalzana, the mineral food for better health. Kalzana is just the food children need during growth, as it strengthens the bones and teeth, overcomes irritability, and gives new health and strength. Kalzana will make your children sturdy again. You will be surprised how soon they enjoy playing with their friends again and how much more readily they learn at school.

RECRUITS WANTED FOR KENYA REGIMENT

Below Strength After Drafts To K. A. R.

Recruiting for Kenya and Uganda's own Regiment has recommenced, and applications for enrolment are invited from men between the ages of 18 and 35. In special cases men up to the age of 37 will be accepted.

On the outbreak of war, the Battalion has fulfilled the purpose for which it was formed, by drafting a considerable number of men to units of the King's African Rifles as Officers and senior N.C.O.'s.

The Regiment was formed on 1st April 1917 as a training unit for the recruits of the King's African Rifles. It was disbanded in 1920 and reformed in 1921 as a permanent unit.

The Regiment was reformed on 1st March, 1937, there was an increase of 274 men in Camp, and the Regiment has since that time been successful in twelve days of recruiting over 420 recruits.

The Battalion is probably the largest in the Empire outside the United Kingdom, and it is proud of its history, which has been a source of inspiration to its members.

The Regiment is composed of young men who are the best of the Empire, and who will be equipped with the best of modern arms and equipment.

The Regiment is now recruiting in Kenya, Uganda, and the Sudan, and is open to all British subjects and to all other subjects of the British Empire.

An old proverb runs "The travels much, knows much." It originated in the days when travel was an adventure upon which one did not lightly embark and knowledge of the world was largely based on hearsay. Today how greatly is the situation changed. The motor car is everywhere, the motor and the motor car are everywhere, and the motor car is everywhere. The world is in the hands of the motorist, and the motorist is everywhere.

Land Tenure in The Native Reserves by Dr. L. S. LEAKE

PART II

ONCE a family or an individual enters a new piece of land for the first time, the Wanderer was accustomed to invite a member of the Kikuyu family...

The custom of inviting tenants to come and settle on a newly acquired piece of forest land was advantageous to both parties. The land owner or land owning family, if meant that they could direct a large and well-organized village; it meant an accession of man power to assist in felling the forest and in the expansion of the village for normal social life and for religious activities right from the start.

As to the other side of the picture, it was a means of making the Wanderer a member of a land owning family. The Wanderer was usually a young man of about 20 years of age, who had been driven from his home by some calamity, such as a famine or a pestilence...

Turning now to problems of the present day, the first and most important is connected with the fragmentation of estates. It is well known that the Kikuyu can carry their old policy of inheritance to the limit...

again the new custom of obtaining small holdings either by purchase or by lease. The Wanderer was accustomed to invite a member of the Kikuyu family...

On the other side of the picture in the very real advantage that could be derived from the fact of receiving the land itself. When a man represents a piece of grazing land as being for the exclusive use of his own family, he is usually not prepared to let it to others...

Another serious problem for the Wanderer is to be found in the general attitude of the Kikuyu towards the land. It is to be welcomed in every respect, but the fact must be kept in mind that it will create, and is creating, a serious problem for the Wanderer...

Which writing my last article in which I mentioned an admirable addition to a dog's collar, I met Mr. Fildon Green who has written me regarding the same. He says that he has had a long talk with both sides about this matter. I was disappointed to learn that Mr. Fildon Green has not been brought into Kenya for it will need special packing in his boxes, but Mr. MacDougal has never been to Kenya and I am sure that our boys will be able to get it for him.
