WEST AGREES ON COMPROMISE ARMS PLAN Britain to maintain troops in Europe

W. GERMANY AND ITALY JOINING BRUSSELS Pact
THE Nine-Power conference on German rearmament, in London yesterday, accepted, in principle, a compromise plan for arms control submitted by Mr. Paul-Henri Spaak, the Belgian Foreign Minister.

The plan, it is understood, holds the key for solving the problem of what safeguards should be written into the new European defence project and what should impose them. It is a compromise between the severe limitations which France against any revival of German militarism and the lower restrictions favoured by the other nations.

Another major decision made at the conference provides for the broadening of the Brussels Treaty Organisation to include West Germany and Italy. Under the new terms of the Federal Republic's national force for Central European defence will be the same troops supplied by the defeated European Army.

It is expected that the "E.D.C." provision, prohibiting arms in "repacked" areas, would be granted a "grace" period. Higher taxes on the West German Chemicals, called "the bottle" - involving the heavy western on atomic plants - will be applied in the new agreement.

FRENCH APPROVAL 'NOW ASSURED'
The French Government has stated that the French people are now assured of the success of the conference.

THE British would like to see the conference succeed. The British Government has stated that the British people are now assured of the success of the conference.

Plateau golf championship won by Montgomery

EARLY LEAD WAS NEVER LOST

THE Plateau 1954 golf championship, played at Eldoret last Friday, Saturday and Sunday, was one of the most successful events in the history of this championship. The entry was a record one and even after the withdrawal of about 40 local entrants a total of 72 players completed. Entries were received from Uganda, Nyanza, Tharaka, Peki and Nakuru, the last providing the winner.

Mr. Montgomery took the Kenyan championship series. The draw provided a series of exciting matches. There were a surprise over the first round, although Devon, a long-handicap player, took J. J. de Zoete, London and Montgomery was the victor in the second round. The history of East Africa began with the building of the railways and harbours, and the economy developed as the railroad grew. Today, despite difficulties and uncertainties, the Railways and Harbours are undertaking many new and important projects. They are building for the future because they are confident that government and prosperity lie ahead for East Africa.

Speed-up in Owen Falls completion

£6,000,000 LOAN TO BE RAISED

The final stage of development of Uganda's hydro-electric project at Owen Falls is to be undertaken in the near future, which will increase capacity to its maximum of 150,000 kilowatts. A bill is to be introduced by the Uganda Government to raise £6,000,000 to install four additional generating sets. When this is completed, it will bring the total capacity to 220,000 kw and the number of generating sets to ten.

Power for Nairobi

The final stages in the dam's development will be to start construction of the first two generating sets. It is understood that the start of the construction of the dam has been taken in view of the negotiations to supply power to Nairobi. The dam is expected to be completed by 1967 and will supply Nairobi and other towns on the route between Nairobi and Jinja.

Great demand

When the Queen opened the dam, she was the first British monarch to do so in position. Candidates to continue with the work were operating, after which the production of another one would be considered. A Government official said that the dam would be opened by Mr. P. N. Rubia, District Officer at Kisumu.

No racial bar to air company board

CORTISONE OUT OF SISAL

Resent in East Africa

Officially, the East African Airways Corporation is a public corporation, but in fact it is a private company controlled by the British Government. The Board of Directors is appointed by the Government and is composed of British and African members. The Corporation is responsible for the operation of the East African Airways service between East Africa, Europe, and the Middle East.

'MATTER OF EFFICIENCY' REPLY BY MR. VASEY

APPOINTMENTS to the board of directors of the East African Airways Corporation should not be limited by race, Mr. Vasey said yesterday. He should be given a fair and a particular qualification, he said. Mr. Vasey was replying to Mr. C. S. Mbatia (New Muslim Centre) who had asked whether it was past time that appointments should be appointed to the corporation's board, especially in view of the fact that they were in a larger proportion than European.

Mr. Mbatia said he wanted to know if the Government was prepared to provide for African and European members on the board. Mr. Vasey replied that the Government was not prepared to do so. He said that the Government was not prepared to do so because it was not prepared to do so.

Mr. Vasey said the board was "making more of the corporation's business and more appointments are being made to the board. He said that the Government was not prepared to do so because it was not prepared to do so.

THE EMPIRE'S OBSERVANT DUKE

Few people can have so many opportunities to study Britain's Services (and back-room boys) as the Duke of Edinburgh. In his roles of soldier, sailor and aviator he has seen many facets of the nation's defence plans and would make an interesting speaker on the value of each Service in an emergency. And despite his national love of the Royal Navy he no doubt has a more balanced outlook after his wide experiences with the Army and Royal Air Force.

The wings on his Service tunic were earned, his accomplishments in the Navy are well known, his questions on Service life are always searching. He has, in fact, a deep interest in all aspects of the life of the nation and the Empire.

If not merely a question of being pleasant on tours, he wants to know what's what. This knowledge must in turn be the subject of discussion with the Queen—the holder of all the State's secrets—and be weighed whenever it occurs in talks between the Sovereign and her Prime Minister.

These pictures show the Duke watching Operation Herk Course—a territorial exercise being carried out on Salisbury Plain.

During the battle-drills of a Field Marshal, the Duke of Edinburgh arrives by helicopter to watch the exercises.

A troop leader studies his orders over the tank's observation device. He checks the map and makes a mental note of the terrain.

The Duke watches the movements of the tanks and infantry over Salisbury Plain through a telescope. He listens to the "Donkey's Ears."

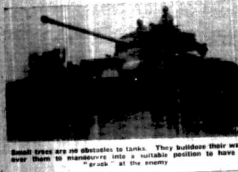

Long to see? The Duke of Edinburgh stopped to talk to many of the infantry engaged in the exercise.

The observers having been reamed, the tank returns to headquarters. Who won? The umpires will decide.

This is what the Duke of Edinburgh looks like when he is not in uniform. He is a very nice man.

Small tanks are no obstacle to tanks. They hide where they want near them to escape into a suitable position to have a "go" at the enemy.

The troop leader passes on the battle order he received from Headquarters in his tank area. He points out the salient features of the ground and the positions with the aid of the map.

Study in egg-collecting

 While visiting former friends recently was roped in an "egg-collector" when I did not take my breakfast "bread" myself or "obtain" from a friend. I wonder whether it came from a pocket, or an "old girl" what colour she had washed in an ink and whether you had anything to do with it brown case.

Four days ago I returned from a trip to the coast where I was engaged in a study of the habits of the "old girl" what colour she had washed in an ink and whether you had anything to do with it brown case.

SURGEONS ARE AIDED BY BONE BANKS

By John Barry

BONE banks, where surplus bone can obtain refrigerated bone of various types for different purposes, are becoming an essential part of institutions for the medical profession in big cities.

One bone bank is used by orthopedic surgeons for transplants. The bone is stored in a special container and is kept in a cold storage tank. It is used for various purposes, such as for the treatment of fractures, for the replacement of missing bone, and for the treatment of bone cancer.

Tree grafting

One of the most important types of grafting is tree grafting. This is done to improve the quality of fruit trees and to protect them from disease. The process involves joining a piece of wood from one tree to another.

In deep freeze

The supply of bone that is used for transplants is obtained from various sources, such as from the bones of animals that are slaughtered for food. The bones are cleaned and stored in a deep freeze until they are needed.

Now curable

Successful operations were a great help to patients who had been advised to have an amputation. The new bone banks have made it possible for many of these patients to avoid surgery.

Reward (A.D.)

A student named John who stopped a runaway car from entering the city limits. He was rewarded with a gold medal and a certificate of appreciation from the city council.

Rail goods traffic to Coast increased

INCOME UP 20 PER CENT

GOODS traffic to the Coast on the Kenya-Uganda section of East African Railways during August was the highest recorded for 26 months — more than 50 per cent greater than in the same month of 1953 and about 3,000 tons more than in July 1954. The earnings for August were £1,291,250 compared with £1,069,300 in July and were higher than any previous month of the year except March.

The total approximate railway revenue for the first eight months of 1954 compared with £8,233,330 for the same period in 1953, represents an increase of 20 1/2 per cent — the greatest increase since 1951 accounted for by the rates increase introduced on January 1, 1954.

Tanga Line

Total freightings to the Coast in the period January-August, 1954, amounted to 10,040 tons compared with 10,010 tons in the same months of 1953. Traffic was raised from the Coast — about 1,500 tons more than in the previous month. This constituted the heaviest tonnage forwarded from the inland this year. The "new" date figure of 10,040 tons, however, was about 12,000 tons less than the total for the same period in August, 1953. Since the August traffic to the port was at a lower level than in the previous month, the total tonnage received at Tanga during the first eight months of 1954 was about 7,700 tons greater than in the same period last year.

Central Line

On the Central line, freightings to the Coast amounted to 1,000 tons more than in July — and only the highest figure since the start of the year though slightly less than that for August 1953. Over the eight months, January-August 1954, however, the total railings to the East African coast were 22,000 tons less than in the same months of 1953. The deficit is the result of the very low level of the export traffic in the first quarter of this year. The deficit, however, reverses for the month of July when £1,421,000 compared with £2,111,000 for July, 1953, and £2,070,000 for July, 1954. In July was £1,683,317 compared with £1,203,857 in 1953.

ABOUT 75,000 Kikuyu, Meru and other tribes live in villages, according to the latest official figures. The three affected tribes number more than 1,000,000, or 20 per cent of Kenya's population, and the building of villages is a voluntary movement encouraged by the Government and also measures designed to establish closer contact between people in Mau Mau areas.

In Kenya, all centres have been established, housing 45,000 people. Mr. Michael Blundell, Minister without Portfolio, saw two new villages being founded in the Mau Mau areas. His visit to the Mau Mau areas was the subject of the Ceylon Dispatch of Kenya last week.

Close control

Under the tribal system, the problem usually lies on the one hand, but on the other, the tribes have arms with increasing numbers of them. The Government is now taking steps to control the arms. It has been decided to issue licences to all those who possess arms. The licences will be issued to those who are engaged in agriculture, stock raising, or other peaceful activities. The licences will also be issued to those who are engaged in the transport of arms. This is an important factor in the control of arms.

C. AFRICA ATTACKED BY INDIA 'Door slammed against Asians'

INDIA has charged the Central African Federation with racial discrimination and "alarming the world against Asian immigration". Mr. Nehru's warning came after the Federation ramped up its big-scale treatment of racial minorities and its refusal to accept racial minorities who were admitted to the Federation.

'Due contribution'
But the Federal Government has rejected a move to give racial treatment to racial minorities and has insisted that racial minorities should contribute to the Federation as they would in any other country.

Mr. Nehru's warning
Mr. Nehru, the Indian Prime Minister, said in Bombay yesterday that unless the color problem was solved, the door would be shut against the entry of new Asians into the Federation.

KENYA'S ELUSIVE GOLDEN EGG

It is not surprising that the K.P.P.C. is now heading for 100,000 down eggs a month, about 80,000 down of which are being sold. The rest are accumulating into a new surplus which may, however, disappear when the rains fall in the next few months.

This situation has led to considerable discussion within the industry and the Government. The K.P.P.C. will not put forward a proposal until the end of the season, but it is being considered in the meantime. It is being considered in the meantime. It is being considered in the meantime.

W. DAVID looks into some of the problems of Kenya's poultry industry and seeks to form which is described to him as "more of a factory than a farm". He considers that better organization in the poultry world would be advantageous to farmer and housewife.

Meantime, a search is being made for new markets, such as the Persian Gulf, and plans are being considered for establishing a poultry export, but as has happened with most other agricultural products over the past year or two, a world surplus of poultry appears to have developed.

The K.P.P.C. now proposes to set up a poultry marketing board, which will be responsible for the marketing of eggs and poultry. It is a move which is being considered in the meantime.

One suggestion is that Government should be organized into regional co-operatives, all being linked to a central body and under the control of the Government. This would mean that the Government would be responsible for the marketing of eggs and poultry.

It is also suggested that the Government should be responsible for the marketing of eggs and poultry. This would mean that the Government would be responsible for the marketing of eggs and poultry.

From Kenya—The Girls: From Paris—The Gowns

At the Kenya Club, Nairobi, last night, the young girls of the Kenya Club, Nairobi, were the centre of attraction. They were dressed in the latest fashion from Paris, and their gowns were a real treat to the eyes. The girls were accompanied by their mothers and other ladies, and the evening was a most successful one. The girls were dressed in a variety of styles, from simple and elegant to more elaborate and dramatic. The gowns were made of a variety of materials, including silk, satin, and tulle. The girls were all very beautiful, and their gowns were a real treat to the eyes. The evening was a most successful one, and the girls were all very happy.

Michael Leitch, who accompanied the measurements and advised about the 'Traveler' Club, Nairobi.
