They had been held to leave late last night after being declared prohibited immigrants on Wednesday and given 24 hours to leave Kenya. But because of the Congo and Middle East crises no airlines could leave Nairobi for Europe until daylight.

Hundreds of Asian relatives were at the airport thinking the deportees were being sent to London. But there were few Europeans. Several Asians interviewed at the airport said they had not been able to see the deportees and would be trying to see them off this morning. They are expected to leave at 7 a.m.

British security precautions were in force at the airport last night as the result of speculation of the flight to London was announced the precautions were relaxed.

Eliminating 'bad weeds'

In the National Assembly yesterday the Vice-President, Mr. Moi, who made the deportation orders as Minister for Home Affairs, emphasized that they were "purely on an individual basis" and there was no intention of taking action against any community.

Mr. Moi paid tribute to the useful contribution to Kenya made by other immigrants. He said the five Europeans deported represented a "hardcore" element not selective of their community who lived peacefully in Kenya. Only by eliminating "bad weeds" could situations leading to racial disaster be prevented.

Recalling the repeated assurances given in East Africa, Mr. Moi said that the Government was determined to maintain law and order in Kenya and that they were determined to take action against any individual who was a danger to the public.

Mr. Moi said that the Government was determined to take action against any individual who was a danger to the public. He said that the Government was determined to take action against any individual who was a danger to the public.

Congo appeals for help as invaders tighten hold

THE armed force opposing the régime of President Mobutu was reported strengthening its hold on Kisangani and Bukavu yesterday while the Government appealed for aid from international organizations.

The Congo (Kinshasa) yesterday requested an emergency meeting of the United Nations Security Council to discuss aggression committed against the Democratic Republic of the Congo on July 5. It was thought that the Council would meet late last night.

At the same time the Mobutu Government ordered mobilization of all men and women aged 18 to 25 and expelled the Congo-Belgian Compagnie ambassade announced that visas would no longer be issued and aircraft flights from Brussels and African cities were suspended.

Reports of heavy combat in Kisangani (formerly Stanleyville) and Bukavu, capital and second largest city, came from Gen. Mobutu in a broadcast transmitted to Kinshasa and from the Congolese Ambassador to Addis Ababa.

Earlier, Congo Radio had said foreign emissaries who sought the release of the 1500 prisoners of war held in Kisangani airport after street fighting between the two sides had been suspended.

It gave no further details of the fighting but said that so-called "bad weeds" were being recruited by the Congo Democratic Republic, but unknown to the Government, which has attracted the aid of the Congolese National Army.

French Commander Gen. M. Debray was on his way to reinforce the identity of the volunteers. The Sixth Commando unit of European voluntary soldiers, including British, French, Belgian, Italian and Spanish, had been stationed in the Kisangani area. It was reported that the unit was being retrained by the Congolese National Army.

Cairo silent on Israeli Gaza claim

CAIRO authorities were silent yesterday on the alleged claim by the Israeli Defence Minister, Gen. Dayan, that the Gaza Strip was now part of Israel. Radio and newspapers made no reference.

In Tel Aviv the Israeli Defence Ministry denied Press reports of Gen. Dayan's remark and claimed he was misunderstood. A spokesman said the General only meant the situation had changed in that Israel now held the Gaza area.

ZAMBIA COPPER STRONG IN CITY

ZAMBIA's copper was strong on the news of mobilisation in the Congo and British funds were heavily leveraged on the London Stock Market yesterday. Initial substantial offerings in short-dated paper spread to the longer end of the section and falls extended to half a point.

The Government's Budget appeared to have been supporting the weak market, as expected, while a little better selling of mobilisation in the Congo and British funds were heavily leveraged on the London Stock Market yesterday.

WE STAND FOR NOW WE SEE SOCIALISM

TUE Arusha Declaration is the action which we took because of the public outcry that we heard concerning that we had built Socialism in this country.

The introduction and the implementation of the Arusha Declaration for the people of Tanzania is a historic moment in the history of our country in that it marks the beginning of a new era in our country and that there is no doubt that we are now on the way to a brighter future.

The Arusha Declaration is a historic document which has set the course for the development of our country. It is a document which has been widely accepted and which has become the basis of our national policy.

Acceptance of this principle is a historic moment in the history of our country. It is a document which has been widely accepted and which has become the basis of our national policy.

Serve Man
And the economic institutions of Socialism, such as those we are creating in accordance with the Arusha Declaration, are intended to serve Man in the interests of the majority of the people. It is not the interests of a few individuals or a few groups that we are concerned with, but the interests of the whole people.

Some years ago I made the point that racism and racialism can go together but Socialism and racism are incompatible. The reason is easy to see. Racism is the highest and most ruthless form of the exploitation of man by man. It is a system which is based on the division of man into different groups and on the exploitation of one group by another.

In this connection the message of the Arusha Declaration is clear. It is a message of unity and of service to man. It is a message which has been widely accepted and which has become the basis of our national policy.

It is a message which has been widely accepted and which has become the basis of our national policy. It is a message of unity and of service to man. It is a message which has been widely accepted and which has become the basis of our national policy.

TANZANIA's blueprint for Socialism and self-reliance, known as the Arusha Declaration, was introduced by the nation's President Nyerere earlier this year, and is already having a considerable effect on the everyday lives of all citizens.

The most far-reaching repercussions have been the nationalisation and State control of the production and a revolutionary change in educational policy providing the majority of school-leavers — some 97 per cent — for a life on the land.

In this article President Nyerere sets out the general philosophy which guides his policy in Tanzania.

For supporters of the Nazi régime it is not surprising that the man or woman who called "Jews" or "African" or "Kosovans" or even "West Europeans" or "Americans" is not a Socialist. He is trying to divide mankind into groups and is judging men according to the skin, colour and shape they were given by God. In either case he is denying the equality and brotherhood of mankind and accepting as his ideal an acceptance of the human quality there can be no doubt that because the world has established an oil trade and refining industry in which the State owns a controlling interest. We know that this is not the kind of industry no Socialist could replace; for Showing the way in practice as well as in theory, President Nyerere takes up the spade himself during his visits to self-help projects.

It is simply meant that the Factored State was more highly organised than ever before. It is not that South Africa has established an oil trade and refining industry in which the State owns a controlling interest. We know that this is not the kind of industry no Socialist could replace; for

New leisure centre at Nanyasha

A GROUP of Nairobi businessmen are at present engaged on a new sports and recreation centre at Lake Nanyasha which, four weeks before its opening date, is already heavily booked.

The Nanyasha Club, which is almost completed, is expected to be opened officially on August 5. It is located five miles from Nairobi's South Lake Road on a 100-acre site which has been leased to the firm's directors.

The project is primarily for the benefit of the members of the club, but it will be service to the public as well.

Mr. K. M. Mwangi, who is in charge of the project, says: "We are rather surprised when the Nanyasha Club was first set up, but believe it is not, we had eight new buildings that were, in fact, a great deal to do with and a great deal to live in."

VIEWERS have a better explanation than the one given so far for the dropping of the Black and White television shows. A Ministry of Information statement on Monday scheduled to appear in newspapers stated that it had been decided on June 19, 1967, that it had been decided to discontinue the shows for one year.

The move was to be made, very mysteriously, said the Dr. Zakariasen. It was to be made by the end of the year, and was to be announced in the first week of January by the Minister of the House.

Their suspension was not a permanent one, however, but a temporary measure which was not to be renewed if the Government was not satisfied after the first week of January.

It is not clear why the Government has decided to discontinue the shows for one year. It is possible that the Government is concerned about the effect of the shows on the young people, who are the main audience for the shows.

New stars
It did begin on May 21, with a new group of stars, and had not a single new star in the last few weeks.

As the old stars are tired and overworked, says the chairwoman of the Ministry, it has been decided to discontinue the show until such time as the new stars have been found. The Ministry is confident that it can find new stars which will be of the same high quality as the old stars.

This can hardly be surprising, if we think about the success of the show. It has been one of the most popular shows in the history of the Ministry. It has attracted a large audience, and has been a great success for the Ministry.

Personalities of V.o.k.

It is believed that the V.K. Ministry has a number of personalities who are of the same high quality as the old stars. The Ministry is confident that it can find new stars which will be of the same high quality as the old stars.

Mercenaries flee south with White hostages

REFUGEES TELL TRAGIC STORY

A LONG column of Ugandan mercenaries fled towards the Congo's southern border with a group of white hostages — their possible passports to freedom. The mercenaries, who had been hiding out at Kianganai Airport, last outpost of the Eastern Congo province, withdrew during the night in 27 lorries stolen from local farms.

THREAT TO BAR KENYA AT KATHLES

Kenya's athletics team, led by A.M. Charles Mwakura, was threatened with a boycott by the Kenyan Athletic Union (KAU) in Nairobi today. The union's president, Mr. J. M. Mwangi, said that the team's arrival in Kenya would be a disgrace to the country.

They drove through escalating Congolese fire, which they held their fire because of the hostages, and started out towards the Eastern frontier, about 100 miles away through jungle, bush and mountains. They later moved south towards Zambia.

Reports received in Geneva said 50 American women were in the fleeing convoy, but the foreign journalists, students and professors held by the mercenaries in Kianganai had been left behind. The number of hostages is unknown.

The first plane chartered by the International Red Cross Committee flew from Kisumu yesterday to Kitale with 30 injured members of the Congolese National Army and women and children aboard.

The mercenaries were allowed to leave the airfield, but the Congolese Army is understood to be trying to intercept the convoy.

The column appeared to be heading towards Binia, near the frontier with Uganda, but observers thought they were heading to Nairobi, and spoke for the Congo's southern frontier with Zambia.

2,000 die in Nigeria civil war

THAT head of the Nigerian Federal Military Government, Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, said yesterday that Congolese troops had killed 2,000 Biafrans and captured 1,000 others since fighting began last week. He said federal casualties amounted to one officer and 20 soldiers killed. 150 wounded and between 15 and 20 missing.

He said the difference in the number of Biafrans killed and those who were taken into custody was due to the fact that the Biafrans were being taken to the Federal Military Government's military camps.

Why are 90 out of every 100 Land-Rovers in East Africa fitted with AVON tyres?

because of what people ask Land-Rovers to do.

Fully-loaded or empty, fast or slow, cross-country, road or track, Land-Rovers sturdily meet every demand made of them in a rugged country. This sort of driving is the greatest test a tyre can have.

That's why 90 out of every 100 Land-Rovers are fitted with AVON TYRES.

Brisk auction of E.A.

The annual auction of the East African States, which was held in London last week, was a most successful one. The total value of the goods sold was estimated at £1,000,000. The goods included a wide variety of commodities, including coffee, tea, sisal, and hides. Motoring by Torque

RACING PUTS A BETTER CAR IN YOUR GARAGE

The justification for motor racing and speed trials to international motorists like the East African Club is often stated to be the provision of test conditions for new developments which will ultimately result in ordinary road vehicles.

Speed-to-the-wind enthusiasts are somewhat biased in their claims that the motor sport is the best way to test a new motor car. It is true that the motor sport is a most important test, but it is not the only one. The motor sport is a most important test, but it is not the only one. P.s back new controls for non-citizens

Standard Staff Reporter
KENYA'S new Immigration Bill met no opposition yesterday when it was put before the National Assembly for its Second Reading by the President and Minister for Home Affairs, Mr. Moi. Members agreed unanimously in principle to its terms and provisions, and today the Bill passed through the Committee Stage before being finally passed.

The Bill provides, among other things, for the abolition of the resident's certificate and the introduction of 12 completely new types of pass for non-citizens.

Mr. Moi told the House the existing immigration Act was considered outdated. It came into force in 1957 and was revised in 1963, but since then had not been significantly amended.

His changes were made at the time of independence, and it is therefore, true to say that this Act contains a lot of provisions which are not in keeping with the present trend and status of our country, Mr. Moi said.

Equal rights 'an anomaly'

Under the existing Act certain immigrants were entitled to hold residents' certificates. It was anomalous that non-citizens of various nationalities should have equal opportunities in the labour market with citizens of Kenya.

The present Act gave no power of control over the employment of non-citizens once they had qualified for residents' certificates. Mr. Moi went on, and this was mainly responsible for the slow Kenyanisation in the commercial sector of the country.

It was also evident, that certain non-citizens in the commercial sector were employed Kenya citizens. This was an anomaly, and it was necessary to give all citizens equal opportunities in the labour market.

The Minister would have to give full effect to the new Bill to citizens of Kenya, and to ensure that the necessary and, also to control the class and limit of which persons from neighbouring States were admitted to Kenya.

A number of Acts relating to British subjects and aliens, and their removal from Kenya would be repealed.

All statistics

Transitional provisions were designed to allow the adoption of native holders of existing permits and licences to be spread out to suit the country's needs.

It was also stated that the Act could be used for Kenyanisation in any particular field of employment as soon as the Government saw the necessary facts.

Under the Act, transitional provisions would require employers to provide all the necessary statistics to the Government.

The Minister could by notice stop any group of existing immigrants to apply within three months for a new entry permit in place of their existing certificates.

An entry permit may only be issued to a person who is a citizen of Kenya, or a person who is a citizen of another country and who has been granted a permit to enter Kenya.

The transitional provisions would require employers to provide all the necessary statistics to the Government.

... to start thinking about making your will and appointing an executor. It is surprising how quickly assets (and responsibilities) build up in a child's life.

But why set Barclays to be your executor? Simple, really. The staff of Barclays Bank Trustee Department are fully qualified in this field. They are impartial and available for consultation at all times - a friend or relative acting as your executor might have a vested interest, or could be too busy when appointing urgent steps up.

Barclays Bank can also offer a world-wide service.

WELCOME TO ZANZIBAR

The new revolution in island's approach to tourists

By DAVID DEWITT
a Massachusetts Black
writer who has just returned from a flying visit.

With a staff of only three full-time guides to report on clients' activities, no interpreters to probe political leanings) the bureau is getting down to the job of putting Zanzibar back on the tourist map.

Package tours are coming in from the United States, two days and a night in Zanzibar as part of a wider East African tour. Here, the bureau makes also services had a been done not to give the impression of trying to keep an eye on what is going on in the street.

"The secret is to be a guide, not a tourist," you get into the boat, but no false stars and no time being taken in the airport.

In many contrast to the other areas of entry to Zanzibar today, Zanzibar is a very busy place. The bureau's staff has just finished their first tour by boat, leaving in about a minute of the necessary instructions.

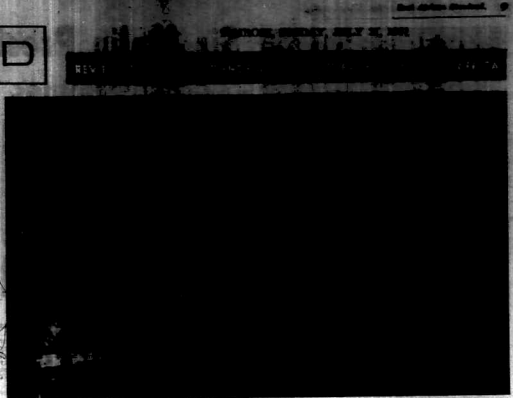

All the time of handling the tourists, the bureau staff has a support and help from the police. The police are lined in for him in the boat and on arrival the police is called ahead in the boat and on arrival the police is called ahead in the boat and on arrival the police is called ahead in the boat.

"I've been told that the police is called ahead in the boat and on arrival the police is called ahead in the boat and on arrival the police is called ahead in the boat."

No politics

In the matter of politics, although some would like to see a new government, the bureau is getting down to the job of putting Zanzibar back on the tourist map.

In a chat with two taxi drivers outside the Old Palace, principal offices of the Government for years, one declared that he had never lived there. Pointing to the building, he said that "Zanzibar" had been there since the century did he agree that the Sultan had lived there. But that was "Zanzibar" had been there since the century did he agree that the Sultan had lived there. But that was "Zanzibar" had been there since the century did he agree that the Sultan had lived there.

Life goes on in the narrow streets as it has done for years. The only visible difference is a number of shops, shuttered and apparently empty. Above is the main street of Zanzibar town leading up from the waterfront.

Richibara: Kanga has been banned but cycles, the traditional form of transport on the island, are as common as ever.

Sir Malin President Homes

The 10th anniversary of the formation of the D. P. Homes Association was celebrated in a most fitting manner at the annual dinner given at the Hotel Hamilton last night. The occasion was presided over by Sir Malin, who was elected president of the association in 1924. He was warmly welcomed by the guests, who were all members of the association. The dinner was a most successful one, and the evening was spent in a most enjoyable manner. The association has since that time flourished and has become one of the most prominent organizations in the city.
