TWO NATIONAL DAYS

SOMALIA — brotherly relations with Kenya reached through the O.A.U.

A message from the Somali Ambassador to Kenya, Mr. Abdulkadir Jama, to mark his country's National Day.

We are celebrating today the 10th anniversary of our independence. The day is known as the Day of Milk and Honey and it was this day that the Somali people, with the assistance of the O.A.U., achieved their freedom from British rule. The day is also known as the Day of Milk and Honey because of the abundance of milk and honey in the Somali territory. Tough days ahead for France as 'Six' end tariffs

The last tariff barriers between the six European Community countries fall away yesterday to bring nearer the goal of a united Europe. A reduction of the remaining 10 per cent industrial tariffs has led also to a cut in the Community's average tariff walls against the outside world but for France there is a fresh challenge to her economy, following a study of the impact of the new tariff structure on her industrial sector.

Bomb blasts kill three in Vietcong terror raids

Three people have been killed in the past two days in Saigon during acts of terrorism blamed on the Vietcong.

A Communist propaganda campaign in the city has been going on since the beginning of the year. The Vietcong have been trying to convince the people that the South Vietnamese government is a puppet of the United States.

On Monday, a bomb exploded in the city, killing three people and wounding several others. The Vietcong claimed responsibility for the attack.

On Tuesday, another bomb exploded in a different part of the city, killing one person and wounding several others. The Vietcong again claimed responsibility.

Kiprugot fit for tour of Scandinavia

Whose Kiprugot, Kenya's football champion and one of the fastest men in the 100 yards this season with his time of 16.4 seconds, left early morning for his international teammates, Ben Kivo and Ndafa Temu, for a two-week tour of Scandinavia. They were accompanied by the Kenya national coach, Mr. Charles Makara, as manager.

Kiprugot's inclusion in the tour party was a doubt after he was known in Scandinavia that he had sprained an ankle, which kept him out of the P.F.U. sponsored meeting at the Municipal Stadium. He said at the airport before leaving that he sprained his ankle during training and did not want to aggravate the injury on Saturday, June 24.

Kiprugot is expected to play for the Kenyan national football team in the world, to be held in the Scandinavian countries in October. Ray's extradition to U.S. ordered APPEAL LIKELY

A British court yesterday ordered the extradition of James Earl Ray to the United States to face charges of murdering the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King.

The extradition order was granted by Chief Magistrate Mr. Frank Milton at London's Bow Street Police Court, although British lawyers had put the U.S. Government case.

Ray's defence counsel, Mr. Roger Fryday, had contended that the killing of Dr. King in Memphis on April 4 was a political offence and therefore not subject to extradition under Britain's 1950 extradition law.

OMEGA

The Omega Constellation

Truly one of the finest watches that has ever come out of Switzerland. To be rated as a Chronometer, the watch movement must undergo 300 hours of severe testing in a Swiss Institute for Official Chronometer Tests. Only movements that maintain high accuracy throughout all tests can be given a Chronometer Certificate. The Omega Constellation does better than that. Its certificate bears the endorsement: "I specially Award Results" which is the highest commendation the Institute can give. Incidentally, Omega is also responsible for over one half of Switzerland's annual output of certified chronometers.

G.S.U. men on tour of port

Quite a stir was caused in Kilindi when a platoon of the Kenya Police Central Reserve Unit arrived under the command of ANP Major T. Compton, Commander of the detachment now based in Mombasa. They were accompanied by ANP J. Kwaogaga of Kenya Police Mombasa Urban Division and two cadets from the Police Training Centre, Ngara.

The men were, however, not on an active duty operation and the arrival of the Kenyan U.R. unit was a representation of E.A.R. & H. and the party made a complete tour of the harbour in a launch which easily accommodated about 15 persons.

The G.S.U. visitors departed at Mombasa after a short berth Kipevu, and saw their being worked there and at No. 12, and also saw import and export berths in the transit shed. At No. 11 the Royal Interoceanic Lines cargo ship Strait Johore had just arrived from Australia, bringing general cargo including dried fruit, canned goods, garments, wire sheets, wire, milk, tin and apples.

Being loaded for Melbourne, Sydney and Hong Kong were Kenya exports - steel oil, cotton and tea, and saw logs.

"It strikes me that the party was actually going to see only red tape in books or some matter of that nature and to see the ship and the imports that have come all the way from Australia to provide us with our much here."

At No. 12 the party saw the first ship of the Eastern Africa National Steamship, the m/s. Harbinger, discharging general cargo from Mombasa and taking advantage of being in the port to have a new

Leaders 'must get back to the people'

Kenya's leaders must "get back to the people" and accept their decisions were guided by their desires and aspirations, the Leader of the Opposition, Mr. Odinga, said yesterday.

Mr. Odinga, who was addressing members of the Kenya Labour Party, said this was the only way to stabilize and lead the country to a better future.

He criticised the Kano Government and alleged that "despite the fact that the Minister" had resigned in Kenya was decreasing. The effect of this would be to lead to more to come.

From more serious to the unemployment of those who are unemployed in jobs in the country. When there are no concrete steps to be undertaken, political progress tend to be lost.

He said that the country is becoming a disease which is very difficult to cure. The country is therefore, currently, in a state of emergency which will cause great trouble to the part of the people.

He was understood that while the country is in a state of emergency, the K.P.P. will not be able to hold the K.P.P. many problems concerning long-term planning were being put on the nation.

Kenya has a history of political instability that although the present Government has been successful in carrying a heavy responsibility for the future stability of the country.

He claimed that one of the causes of the Nigeria crisis was the conduct of the military which had been irresponsible.

When the military had been responsible for changing a government, it is better to have a government that is stable and secure.

He said that the military should exercise restraint and discipline and should stick firmly to their own obligations.

In support of his opinion that the military should have free liberty of movement, he stated that he claimed that effective control was still in the hands of the military.

He felt a new target should be set to place society that would be the world.

We may have any number of governments, but unless we set as our goal the image of a free society for all, our progress is doomed to perpetual loss by force against our own people.

Mr. Odinga declared "we must deplore exploitation and the despotic application of force to those who are not prepared to do so in an unfettered manner." He said that he had no faith in the military in this country that Kenya shall not fall.

Stone surgeon needed to save the Acropolis

Is there an antiquities auction around? If so, Prof Spyros Marinatos, head of the Greek Government's Archaeological Service, would like to treat from him.

By JOHN SCOTT in Athens

As Greece's antiquities director, Prof. Marinatos, a distinguished archaeologist of international reputation, is responsible for all the irreplaceable treasures left behind by the brief explosion of German bombs on the Acropolis. Around them is the Acropolis, an unbroken, with its parthenon, and the double marble symmetry of the Parthenon.

After some 100 years of neglect, the Acropolis is in a state of ruin. The stone blocks are being replaced by concrete. The professor has been asked to look into the possibility of a stone surgeon to save the Acropolis.

After 1000 years of total preservation, the Acropolis is now being attacked once again by the elements. The stone blocks are being replaced by concrete. The professor has been asked to look into the possibility of a stone surgeon to save the Acropolis.

But sitting on his office in Athens, Prof. Marinatos told me that the stone surgeon is not a stone surgeon at all. It is a stone surgeon who is needed to save the Acropolis.

He said that the stone surgeon is not a stone surgeon at all. It is a stone surgeon who is needed to save the Acropolis. He said that the stone surgeon is not a stone surgeon at all. It is a stone surgeon who is needed to save the Acropolis.

All smiles in South-East Asia

By FELIX BRIDGEMAN in Kuala Lumpur

The confusion over Britain's promises about the defence of South-East Asia, after being withdrawn from the British-Indonesian talks in Kuala Lumpur, Australia, New Zealand, Malaysia and Singapore are convinced that the two-day conference had the foundation for some definite arrangements in the future.

After another banquet in Kuala Lumpur, Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew, said that the region was definitely going to be protected by the region's own defence arrangements. In fact, this will mean closer cooperation between Malaysia, Singapore and Australia.

Stone surgeon needed to save the Acropolis

By JOHN SCOTT in Athens

There are anxious questions around it. If the Greek Government's Archaeological Service would like to begin to work on the Acropolis, it must first have a stone surgeon to save the Acropolis. The stone surgeon is the person who can cut out the damaged parts of the Acropolis and replace them with new stone. COMMANDOS MOVE IN ON PARLIAMENT

By JOHN SCOTT in London

Commando and military movements have been reported in the House of Commons. The House of Commons is the lower house of the British Parliament.

Much of the blame for its failure was placed on the chairman, Ahmad Shukri. Ahmad Shukri is the leader of the PLO in Jordan.

The old Assembly, which had as many as 400 members, convened many of parliament and was convened at the time of the June war. In the new Assembly, the Congress of Palestine Organisations which consists of Arab and Jewish groups is to be formed.

The PLO was formed in 1964. It was formed at the first Arab Summit Conference in 1964. It was formed at the first Arab Summit Conference in 1964.

With its 100 members, the new Assembly is likely to have more popular support among Palestinians.

It is an attempt to regain some of its old ground. The PLO has been a revolutionary organisation since its formation in 1964.

West Africa still plagued by belief in wizards and witches

By JOHN DEMOGA in Accra

Kumasi, the capital of the Ashanti region of Ghana, is popularly called the "Wizard City" of West Africa because of its beautiful layout, tree-lined avenues, and generally clean streets and modern buildings.

Kumasi has been the ancient capital of the warrior Ashanti people in the heart of Ghana. In modern times, it is known as a growing city where everyone has one ambition: to become prosperous.

As the capital of a proud, virile people, Kumasi has also been noted for violence in hard times, especially in the 1930s. At the time - except the Upper Volta - in the region, killing people and taking away the property of their fellow citizens.

It came as no surprise, therefore, recently when a Kumasi contractor, Kwabena Mensah, was sent to jail eight-year-old girl - a sister of his wife.

As he was being taken to the jail, his wife, Madame Adjo, gave him a last embrace and said: "Go and kill the boy as he has brought you bad luck. You have done your duty and now you must go."

The prosecution had told the court that on July last year, Mensah took his eight-year-old sister-in-law to his friend to perform some rites so that she could become prosperous. Since then the child had not been seen.

Behind this sad court story lies some of the dilemmas plaguing West Africa today. Many West Africans are still working ways with the beliefs and superstitions of their ancestors.

practices of their ancestors... Many West Africans, including some of the political leaders, still believe in and practise some of these ancient customs in the hope that they can possibly bend the two religious beliefs - those of Christianity and Islam - and the ancient customs to obtain salvation.

It is this dilemma which drives some West Africans to consult jujus, practitioners, wizards, witches and incantations to solve the problems of modern technology and modern life in a fast-changing society.

"Can anyone become rich overnight by resorting to witchcraft or invocation of the supernatural or indulging in faith practices and spells? Can a person's pocket bulge by making sacrifices to the ancient gods of his forefathers?"

The answers to these questions appear to be uncertain. The uncertainty lies in the fact that many West Africans believe sincerely that resort to the supernatural or magic does make them prosperous. Many men who had been barren for years believe that they became fertile because of the "medicine" administered by their priests or the village witch.

It is generally believed that many Kwahu traders in the Eastern region of Ghana are prosperous because of the powers of juju or bewitchment. The influence of the supernatural element has been noted academically by the stores abroad.

Businessmen in Ghana are among those who are adversely affected by superstition. Many who are simply money-minded and who have had modern education and had modern ideas also sought from the forces of traditional religion or from the newer cults, such as Tinina, a new cult brought into a Kwahu village, Nkwanta.

by a Kwahu man from... Northern region of Ghana in 1945. The Kwahu man... Whether they all come from the same stock or not, it is believed that the Kwahu man... town of Obu, do control the traders, particularly those from the Northern region to become rich.

To get rich quick, it is necessary to make bad omen, and these practitioners are formalized, and powerful.

The most popular bad medicine is said to be Ninina brewed in Noma palm which makes suppliers rich overnight by attracting large numbers of customers to the point of the supplier.

These stories abound all parts of West Africa. Bewitching is a widespread practice, particularly among the poor and the uneducated.

Some of the oldest political bodies in Ghana, recently came out openly for the complete abolition of faith practices.

The modern Ghanaian knows too well that his future prosperity lies in understanding modern technology and business methods and not in concerning with juju, wizards, witches and incantations.

ZAMBIA'S VALLEY OF BLIND CHILDREN

By IAN MCCAULAND reports from Lusaka

The Lusaka River Valley in Zambia has a reputation for producing blind children.

How many are involved is difficult to say. In all, 30 per cent of the population are blind.

Between 67 and 80 per cent of the population are blind. The cause is not clear, but it is believed to be a hereditary condition.

A more definite figure is that of the age at which blindness occurs. Nine out of every ten lose their sight before the age of five.

Lack of vitamin A is the main cause, according to a report by the Ministry of Health.

It is believed that the lack of vitamin A is due to the diet of the population of the valley, which is largely based on maize.

Meat consumption continues to have a bad effect on these unfortunates, a feeling which prevails there to consult witch-doctors and take their potions.

Kenya appoints first African Chief Justice

Standard Staff Reporter
Kenya's Solicitor-General, Mr. Kilili Mwakia, was yesterday named the first African Chief Justice of Kenya and sworn-in by President Kenyatta at a ceremony at State House, Nairobi.

He replaces the acting Chief Justice Mr. Justice Karoti, who took over from the former would bring the Judiciary and the Government closer in the manner of working together for the peace and prosperity of Kenya.

Mr. Justice Mwakia said: "Today was a day of triumph. I thank you very much for the great honour you have bestowed upon me. You have done more than I could ever have dreamed of."

Malawi protest over Ndola Fair incident

President Banda of Malawi has written to President Kenyatta of Zambia warning that Malawi will not tolerate any discrimination against its citizens at the Ndola Fair.

The Malawi Government has expressed its protest over the incident.

He added that he had had informal discussions with President Kenyatta and Zambia's Foreign Minister, Mr. Kamunge, during his visit, but made no reference to any incident.

Until last year, Malawi's relations with Zambia were officially described as "strained" because of the alleged activities in Zambia of rebels against President Banda's Government.

He was educated at the Alliance High School, Kitale, Makerere University College, London University, where he gained a Bachelor of Laws degree, and Exeter University in public administration.

He also holds a B.A. degree from Oxford University and an M.A. in philosophy, politics and economics. He is a barrister of Lincoln's Inn.

Russia declares support for E. German travel curbs

Russia yesterday declared full support for East German curbs on access across its territory to Berlin, as the United States, Britain and France lodged protests with Moscow over the new restrictions.

The Western protest came in the form of a letter headed over the names of the United States, Britain and France to the Soviet Foreign Minister, Mr. Vyacheslav Molotov.

The New York Times said that the curbs had been announced by the East German news agency on July 10, but that it had not been reported in the West.

Referendum will follow Government's formation

WORKERS FLEE U.S. jet in Tokyo LONDON BLAZE VIOLATED AIRSPACE

Formation of the new French Government is to be delayed until July 11 and will be followed by a national referendum on fundamental social reforms in the early autumn. Officially well-informed political circles said in Paris.

President de Gaulle was not believed to be in favour of a more complex solution than the one first announced on May 24 and cancelled on May 26 as he held the main view.

But according to the President's spokesmen, the referendum will be held on the 11th of July, and the Government will be formed on the 12th.

AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE DAY

SUPPLEMENT

Kenya's image in the U.S.

The image of Kenya developed a potential financial self-reliance and good investment climate is well known in the U.S. U.S. companies look to the Kenyan market as one of the most promising in Africa.

Business leaders in growing steadily in interest stressed by the Kenya Government, a prominent graduate and prominent Kenyan-American and an American.

Kenya's American industries are steadily developing contacts with African countries and large regional countries and large supply of skilled labour. Nairobi stress as business headquarters for most American companies established in East Africa.

Labour-management relations are generally good. Kenya has the lowest average level of unemployment in Africa. The main retail distributors, many tertiary products, and a programme for African staff.

Close between Kenya and the United States but also increased. The reports were usually favourable and of great interest.

As a further indication of U.S. business interest all activities of Kenya 1966 on the establishment of the American Business Council in Nairobi to promote political and offers the opportunity for exchange of information and ideas as well as exchange for business promotion.

Number of American companies operating in Kenya has increased. In various fields have included water, construction, education, health, medicine, social welfare, agriculture, and industry.

The capital of Kenya is Nairobi. The United States has a substantial presence in Kenya. All important projects have a substantial presence in Kenya.

Message from U.S. Ambassador in Kenya, Mr. Glenn W. Ferguson

On the 4th day of the 7th month each year we Americans celebrate our national holiday. It is the commemoration not only of our independence from colonial rule, but the ideal on which our nation was founded and built.

It was on July 4, 1776 that the Declaration of Independence was adopted by the Continental Congress. It states: "We hold these truths to be self-evident that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to insure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

In the early days of the Republic Americans found that Independence did not solve all their problems and in fact created many new responsibilities. There were problems between the various States, problems over the delegation of powers between the central Government and the separate States, problems over taxation and trade, and problems between the colony farmers and the city dwellers.

On this anniversary of American Independence, you President Hubert H. Humphrey said: "The basic right of all people to freedom and self-determination remains the foundation of United States policy toward Africa. The United States and its people are partners willing to stand alongside the Kenyan people. We in the United States had others help us in the process of nation-building. It is time now to return the favor."

need to offer assistance to the new nations in their development. On this anniversary of American Independence, you President Hubert H. Humphrey said: "The basic right of all people to freedom and self-determination remains the foundation of United States policy toward Africa. The United States and its people are partners willing to stand alongside the Kenyan people. We in the United States had others help us in the process of nation-building. It is time now to return the favor."

What investors are told

Extract from "Economic Trends and their Implications for the United States" prepared by Foreign Service Economic Council staff.

Kenya's unbridled leadership in public health and economic progress have attracted the growing interest of American businessmen. The number of U.S. firms with direct representation in Kenya has risen from 22 in 1962 to no less than 71 in 1967.

Total U.S. private investment, direct and indirect, may well have climbed over the $100,000,000 mark.

The Government continues to use an approach that is completely pragmatic. Any proposed enterprise if it is considered to be consistent with the goals of the Development Plan.

The Government has rejected a policy of the advanced industrial countries to set up a reserve base, subject to government regulation and planning.

There is an increasing emphasis on the Kenya and the country's accelerated depreciation and full repatriation of total capital.

U.S.A.I.D. investment practices to date, total $2,980,000.

There are two governmental organs for encouraging and regulating industrial and commercial development. One is the Development Finance Company of Kenya Limited (DFCK), which provides financial assistance to commercially viable projects in the form of medium or long-term loans or equity investments in joint ventures.

main financial arm in its programme of Africanisation in commerce and industry. Several "joint-ship" American firms have gone into joint ventures with the DFCK, and the I.C.D.C. is presently engaged in the following:

Manufacturing Assembly - batteries, soap and detergent, bottles, tyre retreading, food canning, petroleum refining, self-driven bottling, farm machinery assembly.

Sales - drugs, pharmaceuticals, chemicals, construction and earth-moving equipment, air conditioning, farm automation, electrical equipment, office machines, data processing equipment, construction materials, radios, refrigerators, photographic equipment, aircraft and irrigation equipment.

Services - insurance, banking, hotels, airlines, freight forwarding, shipping, advertising, charter air services, and convert; communications and engineers.

Important new investments in livestock and meat production are currently under intensive study. The following product categories, other than consumer, are a major part of Kenya's export trade:

U.S. exporters at present: industrial machinery, transport equipment, construction equipment, building materials and agricultural implements and equipment in specific items include: industrial machines, shirts, luggage, cutlery, and tea-canning, plastic, wood, bakeware, hosiery, springs, enamel and sheet-iron, vacuum flasks, glassware, domestic aluminum cutlery, thread, dry cleaning equipment, recording tapes, toys and toys, rubber, food, cosmetics, and furniture.

The United States ranks fourth as a supplier to Kenya after the United Kingdom, West Germany, and Italy.

When the British declared the pound Sterling, the prospect for increasing U.S. exports to Kenya appeared to be relatively good. Imports of U.S. goods had risen from $11,500,000 in 1964 to $15,000,000 in 1967.

A continuation of the general upward trend is possible, given Kenya's liberal trade policy, the growing demand for capital goods in the development process, and the high rate of importing European trade goods.

A large part of this demand is directed towards the education and training of Kenyan staffs required to bring about economic growth - and the most rapid improvement of the living conditions of all the people.

The staff of the Nairobi office of A.I.D. works with officials of the Kenya Government to select, plan and carry out the high priority projects. These key projects concentrate on four goals: (1) to teach African farmers improved agricultural techniques; (2) to expand the secondary and technical school system; (3) to train Kenyan for government service; and (4) to provide leaders for effective community development movements.

As well as providing American advisers and teachers, A.I.D. supplies buses, generators, bookshelves, picture projectors, and other equipment for training purposes.

Head start for under-privileged

In the summer of 1967, the U.S. Government, as part of its war on poverty, launched a third program to help disadvantaged poor families. This program, known as Head Start, is designed to provide a comprehensive educational and health program for young children from low-income families.

The program will launch a comprehensive educational and health program for young children from low-income families. This program, known as Head Start, is designed to provide a comprehensive educational and health program for young children from low-income families.

Some of the 30 school districts that have adopted Follow Through programs, report that the program has helped to improve the educational and health status of disadvantaged children. This program, known as Head Start, is designed to provide a comprehensive educational and health program for young children from low-income families.

Together, Head Start and Follow Through will provide several years of help for the children of poverty. Head Start, which is the first of the program's three phases, is designed to provide a comprehensive educational and health program for young children from low-income families.

The National Council had the pleasure of working with Mrs. Gladys D. Martin, Member of the National Personnel Committee of Delta Sigma Theta, an American College of Women's National in East Africa for the United States Education Service.

Mrs. Gladys D. Martin, Member of the National Personnel Committee of Delta Sigma Theta, an American College of Women's National, accompanied her husband, Dr. William H. Martin, on a two-month trip to Africa, the Middle East and Europe. Here Mrs. Martin writes about her general impressions of her stay in Nairobi.

The African Standard invited me to a series of meetings on the subject of education in Kenya. I had the pleasure of working with Mrs. Gladys D. Martin, Member of the National Personnel Committee of Delta Sigma Theta, an American College of Women's National in East Africa for the United States Education Service.

During the trip, Mrs. Martin and I participated in several meetings and conferences. From the New York University, she brought with her a number of educational materials.

New things in education

Several big ideas facing our school systems are set to change things in the coming years. Here are some of them:

From Long Beach, Calif., comes the idea of the school superintendent being a "chief executive officer" rather than a "chief administrator." This means that the superintendent will be responsible for the school's financial and physical resources, while the superintendent will be responsible for the school's educational program.

Hundreds of schools already teaching in Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, where, according to Mr. Vaughn, "they have demonstrated a complete change in the way they are running their schools." This change is being spread to other parts of the country through a series of seminars and conferences.

Some are also introducing new teaching methods. In the United States, the National Education Association has been working for an annual "national day of education" to help school systems and teachers. The national day is held each year in October and is a day of reflection and action for the education community.

The Peace Corps program has been expanded to include more than 100,000 Peace Corps volunteers in more than 100 countries. These volunteers are working in a wide variety of fields, including education, health care, and agriculture. They are helping to improve the lives of people in developing countries.

Education is a subject of Mr. Lott's. He says that the new education system will be based on the needs of the students and the needs of the community. This means that the curriculum will be more relevant and that the teaching methods will be more effective.

Mr. Smith's faces major split in ruling party

The Rhodesian Prime Minister, Mr. Smith, is facing a serious split in the ruling Rhodesian Front Party following his verbal dismissal of the Internal Affairs Minister, Mr. William Harper, and the resignation of a leading party member — the former Prime Minister, Mr. Winston Field.

Student plan to kill President

Several hundred French students of a short and snappy political party in Paris are planning to assassinate President Pompidou on July 15.

A middle-aged man claiming to be a professor told an American news agency during a telephone interview that he had written a manifesto to be used in a demonstration in Paris on July 15. He said the manifesto would call for the assassination of Pompidou.

The manifesto, which was written in French, called for the assassination of Pompidou and the French President, Charles de Gaulle. It also called for the assassination of the British Prime Minister, Harold Wilson, and the American President, Lyndon B. Johnson.

The manifesto was written by a group of students who are members of the French Communist Party. It was written in a secret meeting in Paris.

CHINESE CANCEL PLANT CONTRACT

The Chinese Government has cancelled a contract with the Anglo-American consortium for the construction of a power station in Lanchow, the New China News Agency announced yesterday.

The Chinese authorities gave no reason for cancelling the contract, but it is believed that the cancellation is due to the fact that the consortium failed to meet its obligations under the contract.

The consortium, which was led by the Anglo-American consortium, had been working on the project since 1964. It had spent a large amount of money on the project, but the Chinese Government had not paid for the work.

Swaziland self-rule

The House of Commons yesterday approved a bill to grant Swaziland the status of a self-governing territory.

The bill, which was introduced by the Secretary of State for Africa, Mr. George Wood, will give Swaziland a large measure of self-government. It will give Swaziland a council of ministers and a council of elders.

The bill will also give Swaziland a large measure of financial independence. It will give Swaziland the right to raise its own taxes and to spend the money as it sees fit.

The bill will also give Swaziland a large measure of judicial independence. It will give Swaziland a court of appeal and a court of first instance.

Three trips for Kenya pilot

Three people were flown to Nairobi yesterday from the North-Eastern and Coast Provinces by a military aircraft piloted by a member of Kenya's National Hospital.

The victims were a woman who had been mortally by a lion attack at Eastleigh. Two others were attacked by shika gazelles near Wajir.

The three were flown into the K.A.F. station at Eastleigh by Flt. Lieut. Andrew Kuria. They were accompanied by the War's Medical Officer, Dr. John Makara, who treated them at Wajir.

Dr. Makara told reporters: "One of the victims was a woman, Dagala tribe and was sleeping in a kraal at Eastleigh when she was attacked by the animal. Her fate is presently unfulfilled and I do not know whether she will live."

She was picked up from the station by a motorcycle and taken to K.A.F. hospital in Wajir for treatment.

Flt. Lieut. Andrew Kuria, who has flown three mercy missions transporting the sick and injured from the North-Eastern Province. Dr. Makara said that the men who were attacked by shika still have the bullets in their bodies.

Model staff village at hotel

An African model village has been built at the Whispering Palms Hotel, Kakamba, Mombasa, as part of the 144,000 extension programme this year.

The village, which provides accommodation for hotel staff, comprises modern living quarters with showers and kitchens and a social hall. There are private rooms for senior staff. It is designed to accommodate a staff of 50.

The hotel, which will have 100 beds before the end of the year, is also being extended in the main block where there will be a new reception room, conference room and shops.

A double-story block comprising 20 beds and a laundry unit is also being built and should be ready by mid-October.

The managing director of the hotel, Mr. Eugene Sherman, said of the 144,000 model village development: "We believe that by providing our staff with better accommodation we will in turn get better service."

The accommodation standard will be similar to the basic standards of the hotel staff.

Dr. Makara administered first aid to the three victims. Baber

Heavy attack on U.S. forces by Vietcong

The Vietcong launched one of the most serious offensives against the U.S. military in the history of the Vietnam conflict on Monday night, according to a report from the U.S. military.

The Vietcong attacked the U.S. military base at Binh Hoa, near the city of Vinh, in North Vietnam, on Monday night. The attack was described as a "major offensive" and was the first of its kind since the beginning of the Vietnam War.

The Vietcong forces, which are estimated to be between 100,000 and 200,000 strong, used a combination of conventional and guerrilla tactics to attack the base. They used heavy artillery, including 105 mm howitzers, to bombard the base.

The U.S. military reported that the Vietcong forces killed 100 U.S. soldiers and wounded 200 others. They also captured 100 U.S. weapons and supplies.

The U.S. military is now conducting a search for the Vietcong forces. It is believed that the Vietcong forces are still in the area of Binh Hoa.

A new taste for an old favorite.

Two days ago Maria's mother died of a heart attack. Her sister had been in the hospital for a week.

On Thursday she had a meal prepared by the staff of the Hotel Splendid Annex. She ate it with her sister and her mother-in-law. She was very happy. She had not been so happy for a long time.

In Paris, a beautiful young girl named Maria had been living with her mother and her father. She was very happy. She had not been so happy for a long time.

At Maria's mother's funeral, Maria was very sad. She had not been so sad for a long time.

In Valparaiso, Chile, doctors reported that Maria's mother had died of a heart attack. She had not been so sad for a long time.

The story of Maria's mother's death is a true story. It is a story of a woman who had a heart attack. She had not been so sad for a long time.

Large field for only women riders' event

By MICHAEL CLOWER

The only race under Jockey Club rules open to women riders, the Nairobi Town Plate, has attracted an unusually large field of 24 entries, of which the majority are probable favorites at 10/1.

The race, which is held at 12 on the first day of the season, is one of the most popular with both public and professional alike. It is held on the 12th day of the season, which is usually on a Friday. The race is held at 12 on the first day of the season, which is usually on a Friday.
