Space those parties and you won't need a good pick-me-up

THIS is the time of year when parties are the order of the day - or rather night - and parties can play the very devil with your looks and your health.

Behind the jaded members of the fair sex, haggard from excess, puffed cheeks and heavy eyelids, you will see a woman with a "pick-me-up" which will restore her health and give her a new lease of life. This is the time of year when a woman's health is at stake and she must take care to keep it in good order. The best way to do this is to take a course of treatment which will give her a new lease of life and a new lease of health.

MAINLY FOR WOMEN

Simple Hopes of the Common Man

No crying for Mood

To find out what YOU are thinking about the New Year, ask your friends
 what they think of it.
 JOHN FERRY took his friends to the Malabar Hotel and the women of the group, led by the Women's Council, sang a few songs
 and had a good time.
 They were all very much like you.

Well, what do you have in mind? Nothing very spectacular. No rich
 and wealth beyond dreams.
 No crying for the new year. Simply that you are happy that your country
 has been able to stand through this year of adversity and that you are sure that the future holds promise for a brighter and more prosperous New Year.

On this New Year's Eve, we are reminded that the past year has been one of great challenges and trials.
 But we are confident that the future holds promise for a brighter
 and more prosperous
 New Year.

There was an African who did not want his country to be a victim of the new year. He wanted to see his country
 prosper and grow.

Mr. H. J. R. M. M. M. who has been in the country for some time, has seen the progress
 of the country and is confident that the future holds promise for a
 brighter and more
 prosperous New Year.

EISENHOWER PLAN MEET 'DANGEROUS SITUATION'

SUMMIT PLAN BY RUSSIA VETOED

BRITAIN, France and the U.S. have today rejected the Russian proposal for a summit conference on disarmament and economic cooperation talks at the United Nations in the Soviet Union. The plan was vetoed by the U.S. and Britain. The U.S. State Department said the plan was "too vague" and "too broad" to be considered.

Claim by Mr. Dulles in presenting draft

APPROVAL LIKELY

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S Middle East plan was vital to meet a "highly dangerous situation," this was stated by the U.S. Secretary of State, Mr. Dulles, when he presented a draft for the plan to Congress leaders.

The new Congress began yesterday with overriding interest centered on the Middle East. It would react to the proposal for an economic treaty or treaty next week.

Security important to U.S.

Diplomatic observers say it is probable that the following points: 1—The Middle East with Western Europe and Armenia, is being considered as areas whose security is vital to the United States. 2—A national Congressional resolution would justify the U.S. position and authority as consent for force in the Middle East. 3—The resolution could be expected to justify the U.S. position as active in the area. 4—The area is of great strategic importance in its political and economic position. 5—Congressional observers said that although President Eisenhower was submitting his proposals on an emergency basis, final action would be expected for at least two weeks.

AFRICAN FARMERS MUST PRODUCE MORE

Minister replies to demand for improved services

AFRICAN farmers in Kenya must revise their farming methods and adopt the services of the Government if they are to produce more, the Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Blundell, said today at a discussion with the Makereia Land Husbandry League at Nairobi.

The plans of the Government in the country of Kenya were very small indeed and they pointed out that the Government had to produce 100,000 tons of wheat in 1947, whereas the country's total production was only 12,000 tons.

Minister said that the Government was not going to produce more wheat, but that it was going to produce more of the other crops which the country needed. He said that the Government was going to produce more of the other crops which the country needed.

THE QUEEN CHOOSES MR. MACMILLAN

Sir Winston's advice on new Premier NO GENERAL ELECTION

MR. HAROLD MACMILLAN yesterday became Britain's Prime Minister at the age of 62, succeeding Sir Anthony Eden, who served for 16 months. He was announced to Buckingham Palace after the Queen had considered her other nominees, Sir Winston Churchill and Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

The official announcement from Buckingham Palace was made: "The Queen remained in Her Majesty's study at Windsor Castle in a conference this afternoon and offered Her Majesty's approval to Sir Winston Churchill and Sir Alec Douglas-Home as Prime Lord of the Treasury. Mr. Macmillan accepted Her Majesty's offer and Island heads again his appointment."

Mr. Macmillan, an arriving at 10 Downing Street after his visit to the Queen, was asked if there would be a General Election. He said emphatically: "No. When there is one, we will wait."

Until Mr. Macmillan left the Palace the country was kept wondering whether there would be a general election. Sir Winston's advice was that there should be no election until the Queen had decided on a Premier.

Maize control in Kenya may be copied

Kenya's system of maize control, which has been successful in increasing the production of this important crop, may be copied by other countries. The system involves the government purchasing maize from the farmers at a fixed price, and then distributing it to the consumers at a lower price. This has helped to stabilize the price of maize and to ensure that there is enough for everyone.

The Premier

When Sir Anthony Eden became Premier after waiting 12 years for the post, it was for a shorter tenure of office in this century than any British Prime Minister who had the reputation of being a leader who had held office for seven months in 1922-23.

WHEN THE DUKE PAYS A CALL...

By Donald McCORMACK

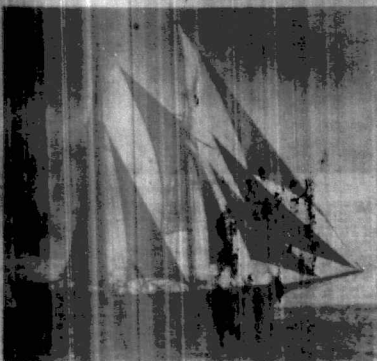

NEVER in the history of the British Empire and Commonwealth has Royalty paid such ardent attention to the forgotten corners of the Empire as during the New Elizabethan Age. True, the development of air travel with the improvement in communications generally has made it possible. But at the same time much of the credit must go to the Duke, questioning and seemingly tireless Duke of Edinburgh.

It is the Duke who has always insisted that in planning his visits he should know the needs of those to whom he is going. Wherever a Royal tour is planned he invariably goes to see the people who are to be benefited.

Then, when he appears in a country, he is always in the habit of visiting the "back streets" of the cities, and he is always in the habit of visiting the "back streets" of the cities, and he is always in the habit of visiting the "back streets" of the cities.

Scientists in race to build atomic plane

By GEORGE HOGAN

A TEAM of British scientists working for the Royal Aircraft Establishment at Duxford are experimenting in an effort to build the British first atom-powered aircraft in the world.

In America, the U.S. Navy has given scientists five years for the development of atomic plane engines and it has been officially reported there that no atomic plane will fly within the next five years.

Scientists in the race to build atomic plane are working on at least one type of atom-powered plane. These have been discussed in the new 1938-39 edition of the book "Atomic Power" published recently at £4.45 by the Institute of Aeronautics, and which believes that in the near future, atomic power will be fitted to motorize planes for thousands of miles without refueling.

The work will be proved by small light-weight motor rockets, possibly provided to protect the crew and prevent the plane from being shot down.

Ballistic missile... In the United States, the Army has been working on a ballistic missile which would be launched from a ship or a submarine, and would be able to travel a distance of 1,000 miles before being launched. The British have also been working on a ballistic missile, and it is believed that they will be able to launch one in the near future.

A Dangerous Error

Many married people believe that, if they do not make a will, all their property will automatically pass to their children or next of kin. This is often true, but not always, and it is a dangerous error to believe so. It is better to make a will, even if it is only a simple one, to ensure that your wishes are carried out.

BRITISH M.P.'S ASK TO SEE LEADER MEET LARI SURVIVOR

DISPLAY OF TEA TASTING

Expert praises Kenya product's quality

W welcomed by dancing and singing villagers

FOUR members of the British Parliamentary Delegation are spending a fortnight when they visited a factory at Kericho yesterday. They set out for something which has not been included in their programme — an exhibition of the art of tea tasting.

The M.P.s were met by a group of about 200 villagers who welcomed them with dancing and singing. The M.P.s were then taken to the factory where they were shown the tea-making process.

Arrangements were quickly made for the delegation to visit Mr. D. T. Harvey, a farmer with eight years' experience, assessing the merits of several different teas. He gave them a simple formula for buying tea. "The secret for appreciating of the dry leaf is the taste of the tea."

The M.P.s were then taken to the factory where they were shown the tea-making process. The M.P.s were then taken to the factory where they were shown the tea-making process.

Large factory

The four M.P.s visited Mr. Harvey to see how the tea is made. He explained the various stages of the process, from picking the leaves to the final packaging. The M.P.s were particularly impressed by the quality of the tea and the skill of the workers.
