WHY EIRE LEFT THE EMPIRE

ON Easter Monday, Southern Ireland became a Republic. Why has the Irish Government decided on this course at the present time?

The immediate cause of this decision are rooted in the intricacies of Irish Party politics, but also the timing of this declaration of an Irish Republic may be the result of political intrigue. It must be recognized that the decision itself reflects accurately the sentiment of the vast majority of the Southern Irish people, however misguided one may view that sentiment to be.

Psychological

Outsiders—and indeed Irishmen alike—have often wondered at the complexity of the psychological relationship between Great Britain and Ireland, a relationship that is indeed, by simultaneous hatred and affection, strong cultural antipathy, and equally strong affection. This complex relationship between the English ruled Ireland as a conqueror, of native products of the Irish many of the complex aspects of people. The concept listed above, however, that for centuries the relationship between the two peoples was rather that of two brothers—older than the other, and somewhat overbearing at times. The Irish absorbed much of the British way of life, including the English language, but they retained their separate identity, and never forgot their origins against the conqueror.

Language revival

Since the country became independent 22 years ago the Irish people have sought to forget the English of their relations with Great Britain, and as a result of the language to which this policy has brought them is the attempt to revive the Gaelic language (which survives today only among a few people in the Western seaboard) as the spoken tongue of the entire Irish people. The English, on the other hand, conventionally regard their record of oppression in Ireland, and their restriction of the Catholic religion, and they often express surprise at the hostility towards their country so frequently expressed in the speeches of Irish political leaders, but so notably absent in actual relations between the two peoples.

This dual relationship has produced the present situation, where, in certain sections, there is some movement towards the more amicable period of Anglo-Irish relations for many centuries. Although it seemed paradoxical to outsiders, it is true to say that while Ireland is generally established as a Republic, its relations with Great Britain will continue essentially friendly, for it can be denied that the alternative to the Crown involved in its independence was not, as it is often argued, a matter of mere expediency. Ireland and Great Britain are bound together in a way that is not the result of the former for being ungrateful.

Reason is political

The immediate reason for this decision is that the vast majority of the Southern Irish people have decided to become a Republic.

Given sound head and heart anyone can climb Mt. Kenya

By MARY BAUMANN

It is not generally realised just how accessible Mount Kenya is to the complete novice, and the following notes may be found helpful and interesting to others who, like myself, love an open-air holiday but who have no experience of it under alpine conditions and high altitudes.

I, personally, had never ventured higher than 3,000 feet and it was with a certain amount of trepidation and not a little trepidation that I accepted an invitation to join a party of six who were going to ascend five or six days' walking camping and climbing on Mount Kenya with Point Lenana as the goal.

Part of the effect on me of climbing at high altitudes was one of the most curious of my experiences, coupled with the grim stories told by other people of the difficulties of mountaineering on Kenya. Once I had seriously investigated these tales, I came to the conclusion, which subsequently proved correct, that provided I was in good health and good heart, and provided I took it step by step, the overall experience would be one of the most exhilarating, invigorating of my life.

General Crocker pays visit to Moshi troops

GENERAL Sir John Crocker, the C-in-C. Middle East Land Forces, paid a flying visit to Moshi, accompanied by the G.O.C. East Africa Command, Lieut-General Sir Arthur Dowler, and members of his staff. The visit was met at the airfield by Brigadier C. H. Gurney, the Commander of Southern Area, and inspected a guard of honour provided by the 5th (Tanganyika) Battalion of the K.A.R. Major Geoffrey-Salmond was in charge of the guard. The Commander-in-Chief displayed his interest in the welfare of the troops.

Feeling of achievement and quite the most wonderful view... the whole of East Africa laid out like an enormous relief map. For those who feel less energetic there is a climb to Two Tern Col, a delightful ascent on the mountain where one suddenly descends to a small lake. Point John, lying above and the Tindali and Wapiti glaciers gliding in the brilliant sunshine. And for those who wish to see a lake, which could be pleasant than lounging around in the blazing sunshine, the crisp mountain air.

B.L.F. HINTS AT AUSTERITY GIVING WAY TO LUXURY

By HELEN AST

The gratification of individual taste or the indulgence in expensive hobbies which make life more enjoyable to the well-to-do of the majority of people, and a cultivated standard of life, manifesting itself in a love of beautiful things and in an appreciation of special qualities, is something associated with the life of luxury.

Cookery corner: three kinds of soup

"SOUP of the evening, beautiful soup" sang Lewis Carroll. Beautiful it can be and more often it is extremely rich. Here are three beautiful recipes

- Consomme Force
- 1 large or 2 small lettuce
 - 1 small onion or 1 potato
 - 1 dessert or tablespoonful potato
 - 1 pint milk or 1 pint milk 1 pt. water
 - 1 pint water
 - 250 vegetable stock. Fry in butter and set brown. Add water and simmer until reduced to a pulp. Strain through a fine sieve and pour into a jug with the essential of milk and the rest of the soup.
- Consomme of Cauliflower Soup
- 1 large or 2 small cauliflowers
 - 1 small onion
 - 1 dessert or tablespoonful consomme of force
 - 1 small butter
 - 1 pint milk
 - 1 pint water
 - 250 vegetable stock. Fry in butter and set brown. Add water and simmer until reduced to a pulp. Strain through a fine sieve and pour into a jug with the essential of milk and the rest of the soup.

Because of the material shortage of goods and the pressures of war, it is not possible to have the same standard of living as in the past. The selection and purchase of goods for the home made in the past, the most part of the world.

Future heirlooms?

This year's Fair will provide a wide variety of interesting products calculated to attract the attention of the public. It is not only the goods that are new, but the methods of display and the atmosphere of the fair itself.

A FIRST NOVEL—AND A NEW AUTHORESS TO WATCH

There is nothing like aiming high when you are writing. Miss Kay Dick, whose first novel—'The Lake'—has just appeared, is a disciple of no less a hard taskmaster than Flaubert, probably the most notoriously painstaking of all literary artists.

Her novel is produced by a quest for the great French author's perfection. She has not only written a book without any subject, but has written a book which is a masterpiece of its kind. It is in fact a work of art, a masterpiece of its kind.

NEWS LETTER FROM THE RHODESIAS

Tobacco industry intends to fight new tax proposals

Tobacco has captured most of the headlines in Southern Rhodesia. Responsible for producing the most valuable agricultural crop for the Colony, the industry is a powerful force in the land and is now being asked to contribute to the Government's proposals to tax the industry. Briefly the Government's case is that the Colony needs more money to meet ever-growing administrative expenses.

The spirit of development, which occurred in the Colony during the war and gathered momentum after it, might shortly be allowed down unless additional sources of revenue can be obtained.

The tobacco industry which last year brought about £2,000,000 into the country, was an obvious source of additional revenue but there is a general feeling in the country that the Government handled the matter badly.

Two announcements which it proposed to impose a 20 per cent. tax. Whether levied on the gross or net value of the tobacco is not clear and according to those in the industry it should be levied on the net value. In a subsequent announcement the Government indicated the tax to be 10 per cent. This left the industry in the same state of confusion.

In a further announcement the Government indicated that the tax would be levied on the purchase price of tobacco and not on the gross value.

to introduce these unpopular measures with every chance of success. It might well be, however, that the industry has more political resources and that the results of the war might well be a factor in the Government's decision.

Salaries postponed Miss M. J. Wilson has taken the step of postponing the action of the Government to fix salaries until the end of the year.

Sir Frank Wilson at Naivasha
(Standard Agricultural Correspondent)
WHEN Sir Frank Wilson spoke at Naivasha on Tuesday at the first public meeting of the series organized jointly by the K.M.F.U. and the Board of Agriculture, he stressed the exploratory nature of the meeting and said that the purpose of the series is to give every farmer ample opportunity to air about the Agricultural Bill and "make up his own mind."
Sir Frank Wilson, the elected chairman of the meeting, stressed that the Bill is not a "take-it-or-leave-it" proposition. WHITE A WORTHY GOLF CHAMPION

Stove had brilliant patch then faded

AS already reported, 28-year-old Ronald White (Royal Liverpool Golf Club) won the English amateur golf championship at Formby, near Southport, last weekend when he beat 40-year-old Mr. Walker Cup international and while White proved a worthy champion, Stove must be regarded as one of the unlikely front-rank amateurs in England today. He has been in good and yet far, so often.

White played with a brilliant patch in the morning and both off the tee and on the green. Stove's play was not so good, and he was unable to produce any more of the brilliant play that he had shown in the morning.
