George Balanchine: American choreographer
'His achievements will live long after him'

By ALLEN CHURCHILL

Nothing else in the life and creative activities of a slightly intense, asceticism, man, named George Balanchine, choreographer, American ballet master, who said that the art of living is like a dream, that dancing is a dream, that the artist is a dreamer, that the artist is a dreamer, that the artist is a dreamer...

George Balanchine, one of America's foremost choreographers.

At least two produced ballets a year and has done so since 1925. Balanchine has had his ballets in New York, London, Paris, Moscow, and other cities. He has been a member of the American Ballet Theatre, the New York City Ballet, and the American Ballet Company.

Balanchine's ballets have not only been seen in New York but also in London, Paris, Moscow, and other cities. He has been a member of the American Ballet Theatre, the New York City Ballet, and the American Ballet Company.

When Balanchine is creating he is not only a choreographer but also a composer. He has written music for his ballets and has been a member of the American Ballet Theatre, the New York City Ballet, and the American Ballet Company.

His achievements will live long after him. He has been a member of the American Ballet Theatre, the New York City Ballet, and the American Ballet Company. He has written music for his ballets and has been a member of the American Ballet Theatre, the New York City Ballet, and the American Ballet Company.

CHESS II A
A Pillsbury-Lasker immortal

A CORRESPONDENT from Tanganyika, sponsor of a recent contest of chess in a recently published game (Through the Walker) Hastings 1925, that "I would figure if any collection of the other nine."

Despite a few automatic selections that very much matter of personal choice and I have continued along my selection directed to my correspondent.

Here, I bring to you one game which I think most worthy of being included in the book. It is a game played at the London International Chess Club, 1925, between Pillsbury and Lasker. The game is a masterpiece of chess, showing a combination of attack and defense.

At this point in the game, Pillsbury has a strong position. Lasker's move is a masterpiece of chess, showing a combination of attack and defense.

The game is a masterpiece of chess, showing a combination of attack and defense. It is a game that is worth studying for any chess player.

It was a game that was played in 1925, between Pillsbury and Lasker. It is a game that is worth studying for any chess player.

BANANA ISLANDS
No fewer than 2,000 islands and lakes go to make up the beautiful islands—among them San Salvador, whose Columbus first made landfall on his voyage of discovery in 1492. The best known of the islands is New Providence whose Nassau, the capital and one of the largest of the most interesting playgrounds, provides wonderful bathing and fishing with a climate which combines all the best of the tropics.

Too many trumpets

Most players find that the playing of a great many trumpets gives them a more complete and more interesting experience. The truth is that they would be far better off if they could play only one trumpet. This is the opinion of many players who have tried to play many trumpets at once.

HOW BEST TO USE ONE'S BOWLERS

Tactics in relation to state of wicket

The first essential when it comes to a great deal of necessary consideration is a raised question: the roller wicket.

There has been decided on how to treat a wicket and how it is to be used. A captain must decide how best to use his bowlers. These problems are dealt with below.

by Norman Yardley

There are two main types of wicket, the good and the bad. The good wicket is one that is true and fair, and the bad wicket is one that is uneven and biased.

Hotting first

The first thing to do is to hot the wicket. This is done by having the bowlers bowl a few overs to get the wicket into a state of play.

One objection

One objection to hotting the wicket is that it may be unfair to the batsmen. However, it is necessary to do this to get the wicket into a state of play.

Obligations

The bowlers have certain obligations to the captain and the batsmen. They must bowl true and fair, and they must not be influenced by the crowd.

Prams and cots—a few suggestions

PROWLING round the shops again this week. I found the best kind of a well-known firm of manufacturers, and they are good and the outside of the body covered in "Molnar," which is so much better, is cooler, and will not crack as leather does. The wheels are quickly cleaned, and the whole pram clean and new type or some other repairer.

These prams are large enough to accommodate a sleeping child up to eight months of age, and are well equipped with a mattress, a cot, and the covers and blankets are black, and are very strong and durable. They are made to be used with a cot, and are very strong and durable.

They will not necessarily have a price for the cot, but it is a good idea to have one. It is a good idea to have one. It is a good idea to have one.

Three types

There are three types of prams, and each has its own merits. The first is the standard pram, which is the most common. The second is the cot pram, which is a good idea for a sleeping child. The third is the cotless pram, which is a good idea for a child who is not yet a year old.

Mattresses

First, baby mattresses should be made of a material which is soft and comfortable. They should be made of a material which is soft and comfortable. They should be made of a material which is soft and comfortable.

Remote, picturesque, ancient stands Brava— a town below the sandhills

Of the four ports on the littoral of Somalia, Brava, tucked away at the foot of the sandhills, is by far the most remote and picturesque. It is a town of 10,000 people, the most remote of its kind in the world, and its attractions are many.

Brava, however, still holds a special charm, as though three centuries ago, when the Portuguese had stayed his hand in the power of this little white town below the pointed dunes.

The Brava or Brava to give it its local name, is a town of 10,000 people, the most remote of its kind in the world, and its attractions are many. It is a town of 10,000 people, the most remote of its kind in the world, and its attractions are many.

NEW FILM DEPICTS LIFE OF CHRIST

SHOOTING will begin on the French Riviera in August of a film depicting the life of Christ which, according to the Daily Herald's Paris correspondent, will be the most ambitious undertaking in the cinema history ever embarked upon. The title is "The Divine Drama".

Treatment and dialogue have been passed by theologians in four countries and have already the approval of the Vatican Cinema Bureau, the French Protestant Church and the director of the cinema department of the United Nations.

Artistic and technical directors will be announced in a fortnight and will appear on the screen.

Chairman of the international committee promoting the film, is the Archbishop of Canterbury, who has been invited to launch "Mousson" in the Cathedral of St. Martin de la Ville de Paris.

The main rôle will be played by a professional actor who will portray Christ. He will be selected out of 12 candidates of which three were priests. The film will be made in English, French and Spanish—the languages of the film.

The film opens with the destruction of the temple.

THEATRE ROYAL. GOLD - The cry that started a continent, laid behind the story of Euraka Stockada the spectacular drama of Australia's Gold Rush.

THE STRUGGLE between the diggers and the military at Nevada Hill was one of the turning points in Australia's history. The gold miners were stirred by the advance of democracy in the world. They fought for their rights as citizens, they were defeated, but they won a great victory for freedom. The film depicts an event of historical importance that was little known outside Australia.

MUSIC IN SHAKESPEARE

THIS programme, which Nairobi broadcast at 12.15 p.m. on Wednesday, shows in a fascinating way how the composition of the company of actors influenced Shakespeare's use of the music and song to great effect in the family of the plays. Douglas Cleverdon, who compiled the programme, has shown a most interesting light on Shakespeare as a working dramatist, cutting the songs to the limited resources of the cast, and, where necessary, writing in dialogue to 'carry' a non-sung-qualified line.

Shell lubricants play their part in many important engineering projects. The Churchill Water Scheme in South Africa is one example. Water for Port Elizabeth is now stored at the rate of 30 million gallons a day behind the new Churchill Dam on the Kromme River. It is then piped 77 miles, partly through rock-tunnels and across a 47-foot suspension bridge. Many thousands of tons of soil and rock were excavated and an army of lorries and other mechanical equipment used in carrying out what is one of Africa's greatest engineering feats. Shell lubricants were chosen by all the constructional firms concerned.

SERIOUS SHORTAGE OF DOCTORS

E. African prospect not bright

EAST AFRICA is faced with a serious shortage of doctors in the Colonial Colonies under the conditions, especially salary, that have been suggested by the Indian Government. This is not only an African problem, because of the large number of Colonial doctors who are leaving for India, but also a problem of the Government of Kenya, the quarters of which, directly and indirectly, are the three Governments in communication with the Secretary of State.

The British Medical Association in Britain, which practically all students of the Colonial Colonies are members of, has recently suggested a salary scale which would mean an approximate increase of 30 per cent in the salaries of the medical officers in the Colonies.

The present Kenya prospect for a medical officer who is not an Indian is £1,200 a year, which is not a very high salary, especially in view of the fact that the B.M.A. feels that this maximum should be raised to at least £1,600 a year, with much higher salaries for special grade posts.

There are other reasons why doctors' present salaries in the Colonies are not as high as those in India, which is the only other British Dominion where a salary scale is being set by the Government. The position was explained by the Secretary of State in a statement to the House of Commons on July 17, 1942.

The doctor's salary in the Colonies is not as high as in India because of the fact that the Government of India has a larger number of doctors than any other Dominion, and the Government of India has a larger number of doctors than any other Dominion.

Television—Surgery's ally

THE world's first permanent television equipment for the transmission of surgical operations has been installed at Guy's Hospital, London. This important development in the teaching of surgical surgery will enable medical students to see advanced surgical operations in the smallest details and from a subject's point of view. New methods of interpretation and presentation bring scientific knowledge directly to the public

NATURAL HISTORY INDOORS

By JANE JACOBS
To the uninitiated visitor, the preparation workrooms of a large modern natural history museum presents a spectacle that is both strange and gay. Here a man in a white coat is busy moulding and colouring exquisite pieces of plaster, carrying a large, gilded green trunk. He is actually busy filling with moss; and over in a corner two other workers are making earthworm burrows in a box full of leaf mould and soil. Most striking is the faithfulness to nature of these man-made pieces of the out-of-doors.

Understanding

Museum today are attempting to convey to the public not only the scientific details of nature but a genuine understanding of the life in the scene. The most common method of doing this is to use the theme of integration in the display. A scheme, only recently put to use, involves whole exhibitions to the theme of integration. The most complete is the exhibition of the life of the American Museum of Natural History in New York City. Called 'Ecology', it is a complete study in itself.

Next is a demonstration of the relation of the visitor's own life to the history of the world. This is done by showing the evolution of the human body, from the primitive ape-like creature to the modern man. This is done by showing the evolution of the human body, from the primitive ape-like creature to the modern man.

The museum came about how long ago, after the war, the Museum of Natural History in New York City was founded. It was founded in 1857, and since that time it has been a leading center for the study of natural history.

It is a complete study in itself. It is a complete study in itself. It is a complete study in itself. It is a complete study in itself.

HOW TO RECOGNISE THE MALARIA CARRYING MOSQUITO

THERE are in few parts of the world in which so many gradations in malarial intensity occur, and occur not infrequently within such narrow limits. These gradations depend first on temperature variations, which in turn modify the intensity of the mosquito, and second the rainfall distribution, for it is the sticky dew that crosses the dangerous puddles and water collections that carry the mosquito.

In the more humid parts of East Africa, people are likely to be attacked by malarial mosquitoes in almost every month of the year, and even during the driest season in the worst time of year. In the more temperate areas, children become infected within the first few months of their lives, and the disease usually runs its course as an acute, febrile illness, but in some areas it is a chronic disease, and in some it is a malarial fever which is recurrent and relapsing.

In cooler areas Africans who do not have an adequate knowledge of malaria prevention remain ignorant of the disease, and those who come from areas of malarial intensity are ignorant of the disease. It is of the greatest importance that those who are ignorant should be educated, and those who are ignorant should be educated. It is of the greatest importance that those who are ignorant should be educated, and those who are ignorant should be educated.

In permanent water, with a variable amount of oxygen, the surface of the water is covered with a film of organic matter, and it is this film that carries the mosquito. The mosquito is attracted to the water by the light, and it is the light that carries the mosquito.

Man preferred On the whole, the mosquito is a pest, and it is a pest that carries the mosquito. The mosquito is attracted to the water by the light, and it is the light that carries the mosquito. The mosquito is attracted to the water by the light, and it is the light that carries the mosquito.
